That may be merely a conceit, but, if so, it is not without some basis. When the 1900 addition was put on, the two parts of the house were offset, so that the new wing stuck out about eight feet from the original house, instead of the exterior walls being built flush.

So when I had the 1992 addition put on, I had the builder tuck the addition into that offset. The effect is as if I had only followed an original blueprint which my predecessors had never gotten around to implementing.

As children, most of us, maybe all of us, played house of one kind or another. Boys built houses of Lincoln logs. Girls had doll houses. One of my favorite autumn activities was to rake leaves into the outline of a house. My brothers and I would play out the routine of life which we witnessed among grown-ups. Such games are good practice for when we are grown-ups.

One of my nephews said that he could imagine a day when this house would be a museum. The guides would tell the visitors, the names of all the rooms, and explain how those names came to be. For my part, I hope that this house will be a family home for generations to come, and that my children and nieces and nephews will give the tours to their grandchildren.

Though I delight in my home, and especially in seeing many months and years of labor coming to fruition, I also do not forget the words of the Psalmist: "Their inward thought is, that their houses shall continue forever, and their dwelling places to all generations; they call their lands after their own names.... This their way is their folly." (Psalm 49:11, 13) I dream, but I do not kid myself. I understand the limitation of it all.

My one hope which may endure is that the work done on my home here may in some way translate to that house in which are many mansions. If that proves not to be the case, it will still be all right with me. For "the house not built with hands" shall be so grand and glorious and yet homely too that there will be no room for regret.

the driver will spend nights and maybe weekends in jail for 30 days. After being released from jail she will be on home detention for seven months, but undoubtedly will be permitted to work. She will be on probation for a period of three years, which was already being negotiated in court to be a lesser amount of time.

This is what the life of a child is worth in the Garrett County courts.

Mary Skipper

To the Editor:

I am the mother of a 15-year-old girl who was killed in a car accident in July of this year. My daughter will never get to go to high school, I will never see her graduate, help her get ready for prom, her wedding, or her adult life.

My daughter was a teenager with teenage problems. But she did not deserve to leave this life so early. There has been no public outcry for justice for my daughter's death. The driver who killed my daughter was sentenced to 30 days in the local jail.

I wonder if the sentence would have been different had my family been a well-known family or a family of status in the community. I am discouraged that the state's attorney agreed to the plea agreement with the driver who took my daughter's life. I trusted that they would do their best to insure that justice was served. In fact, the driver who took my daughter's life was given a slap on the wrist and still is driving.

An article in the Times News Wednesday reported that the driver could get a $5,000 fine and five years in jail. In fact there is no "could"; the case was settled Monday and the driver got an unbelievably lenient punishment.

My daughter paid with her life for another person's negligence. I simply want the community to be aware that, should your child or a loved one be killed in Garrett County because of another's negligence, don't expect justice to be served.

Gloria Miller

To the Editor:

As a concerned Garrett County resident, I am writing to call attention to a current procedure of the Reliant Energy Hydroelectric Plant at Deep Creek, which I believe poses a threat to the safety of local citizens. As you may know, Reliant Energy releases water from Deep Creek Lake to generate electric power episodically. Some of these releases are scheduled and announced in advance, but most are not announced. These unannounced water releases threaten downstream residents and river users.

During a typical release, the flow in the Youghiogheny River increases more than 600 cubic feet per second downstream from the plant, a 10-fold increase in water volume. Water levels rise dramatically and quickly when the hydro plant is in operation. This surge of water remains intact as it moves downstream, reaching the community of Friendsville five to six hours later. With these releases the Youghiogheny rises swiftly and without warning, even 10 miles downstream.

These unannounced releases pose a danger to many citizens. The Youghiogheny has become increasingly popular with fishermen, who often venture into the middle of the river in hip waders. Some of these sportsmen are frail. When the river rises abruptly and without warning, they are placed at risk.

The Youghiogheny is also very popular with local children and teens. They swim, fish, and wade in the river, often without supervision. When flows are low the river is shallow and they are relatively safe, but during unanticipated releases from the hydro plant the river can become swift and deep in a matter of minutes. This places these youngsters in jeopardy.

Whitewater enthusiasts are also endangered by unannounced releases. During the fall, winter, and spring, when there has been rain, boaters often launch at what is considered a "safe river level." Somewhere downstream they too may be caught by an unexpected surge of water from an unannounced release from Reliant's plant, which raises the level of the river to a dangerous level. If they manage to make it safely to shore, they may be stranded in a remote area.

Those involved in the management of the hydro plant have been aware of these concerns for some time. Several years ago they installed a phone system to announce the releases. When there was going to be water released from Deep Creek, they updated a tape on an answering machine. Concerned citizens could call that number and receive updated information. This allowed river users and residents downstream to anticipate the impending rise in the river.

It seemed then that Reliant Energy was making a genuine effort to minimize the danger that unanticipated releases pose. Unfortunately, during the past two years, the power company dispatchers have stopped updating this tape during most unscheduled releases, thereby creating a potentially deadly situation. In spite of numerous requests, including one from the town council in Friendsville, they continue to refuse to do so.

Making these announcements would not cost Reliant Energy much in terms of manpower or money. After all, the system is already in place. Updating the tape would take less than a minute. Releases could still occur as they do now for emergency power generation. I am not suggesting that Reliant should alter its release schedule. I am just suggesting that Reliant make an effort to notify the public whenever a release occurs. It might save a life.

Sincerely,
Charles W. Stump

A CHRISTMAS MIRACLE

Bereft and shorn of upbeat weathering I sought tenderer times yoked with unfeathered memories of time-worn turnings when Indian summer soothed October's chill and fireside chatter could melt the frost of winter blight. For clean unruffled Christmas cheer hordes of work were boxed and tied, all stress wrapped and out of sight. What else to do but await the stillness
when Bethlehem's Babe would come again?

Then with the washer gone berserk baby-sitter calling in sick hospital visiting hours posted by the phone, and grandmother's tea pot in shards on a formerly waxed floor,
I began to see the
ludicrousness of my ways.
Christmas awry perfection snapped my flawless
plans in disarray out of step with no small miracle large miracle in sight a season without miracles until a miracle in the small space of my heart occurs and I remember

"Come Good Shepherd," the young voice not yet deepened heralded stage fright in check friends at lunch
regaled with laughter
the shrinking light of a pre-night sky scribbled words of a long lost love and the awkward steps of a year-old baby girl.
Christmas comes again in the joy of a single moment remembered unplanned.

Allegheny Regional Transit Services

Taxi cab service is again available in Garrett County.
It is offered 24 hours each day, seven days a week in all areas of the county. A new business, Allegheny Region Transit Services
(A.R.T.S.), is owned and managed by Curtis Pritts.

In operation since July,
A.R.T.S. will transport riders locally as well as long distances. With radio-dispatched vehicles, A.R.T.S. offers delivery service and will also take time orders.
"We currently have two cabs in service and have two more waiting to go online as the need arises," Curtis said.

VISITORS INVITED TO TOUR HOMES - The Christmas house tour in nearby Addison, Pa., slated for Saturday, Dec. 9, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., will feature homes both new and old. The Kelley residence, pictured above, will be among those welcoming visitors. This house was built in the late 1880s. The Augustine residence, also to be featured on the tour, is a restored barn. Organist Gladie Augustine will perform for touring visitors. In addition to a number of residences, the Lutheran and Methodist churches will also be open. Lunch will be available and the museum, antique, and craft shops will also be open. Tickets for the tour, at $10 for adults and $2 for children, will be available at the Methodist Church in the center of the village, or by calling 814-395-5584, 814-395-3489, or 814-395-3743.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

A former Garrett County resident, Pritts was living and working in Washington County, when he established his first taxi cab venture. "In October 1999, with four other partners I

THE REPUBLICAN, OAKLAND, MARYLAND - THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 2000 A-5 started a cab service in Hagerstown, which now has grown to a fleet of one dozen cabs and half a dozen sedans," he said.

Having been away from Garrett County for 10 years, Pritts said he decided to return. "I relocated to Oakland to provide my hometown with a much needed service," he noted.

A.R.T.S. Cab is located along East Oak Street,

Oakland, and may be

Nationally Known Speaker On Date-Rape To Present Program

Katie Koestner, a date-rape survivor and sexual assault prevention advocate, will speak at three locations in Garrett County on December 14 and 15. Sponsored by the Dove Center, Koestner's presentation about her experience with date-rape, titled "He Said—She Said" will be given on December 14 at Southern High School at 1:30 p.m. and at Garrett Community College at 7 p.m. at on December 15 at Northern High School at 9 a.m.

Koestner, who graduated magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa from the College of William and Mary in Virginia, appeared on the June 3, 1991, cover of Time magazine, and has earned national attention for speaking out against "a crime of silence." In 1993 she completed a project with HBO, the Lifestories Docudrama No Visible Bruises: The Katie Koestner Story.

The He Said—She Said program will be co-facilitated by Brett A. Sokolow, I.D., a specialist on sexual assault policy and law. Koestner will tell her story, and then Sokolow will provide interactive scenarios on sexual assault, in which the audience will be asked to act as a jury.

Koestner and Sokolow have presented programs to hundreds of thousands of students at over 800 colleges, high schools, and military institutions in 47 states. Koestner is a Virginia state trained peer educator and sexual assault counselor who publicly told her story of date-rape in 1990.

Saying that she was "outraged at the inadequate response from William and Mary to her victimization," she took her case to the media, appearing on the "Oprah Winfrey Show," "Gerald," "NBC Nightly News," "NBC Talk Live," the "Jane Whitney Show," "Morton Downey Jr.," "Larry King Live," "Entertainment Tonight," and 35 other programs.

Koestner's activities as an advocate extend to working for passage of federal sexual assault legislation. Her appearance and press conference with Congressman Jim Ramstad helped to encourage Congress, and later President Bush, to pass the Victim's Bill of Rights into law in 1992.

Koestner was the keynote speaker for both the East and West Coast Student Conferences on Campus Sexual Violence in 1995, and she has addressed 15 other national conferences.

Koestner authored a chapter for a book on the backlash to the women's anti-violence movement, and co-authored the guidebooks Sexual Assault on Campus: What Every College Needs to Know About Protecting Victims, Providing for Just Adjudication, and Compiling with Federal Laws and Total Sexual Assault Risk Management Strategies for Colleges.

Due for release in 2001, Koestner's next book — tentatively titled Without Consent — is an autobiographical travelogue of five years of her presentations to colleges and high schools, and a serious look at the reality of sexual assault for American students today.

Sokolow, a specialist in sexual assault policy and law, is the president and director of risk management programs at the National Center for Higher Education Risk Management, based near Philadelphia, Pa. NCHERM provides sexual assault risk management consulting programs for campus administrators, awareness and education programs for students, publications on campus sexual assault, expert witness services, and lobbying efforts for sexual assault legislation.

Sokolow's activism on this issue includes founding Men Acting for Change at the College of William and Mary, and advising men's peer education groups throughout the country. He has served as an intern to the Victim's Advocacy Legal Organization (VALOR), and has helped to establish college peer counselor organizations to assist campus sexual assault survivors. For more information, persons may contact the Dove Center at 301-334-6255 or 301-895-4300.

Consumer-Provider Holiday Party To Foster Harmony

Right Step — a drop-in center for mental health consumers — in cooperation with various providers of mental health services in Garrett County, will hold its first consumer-provider Christmas party. This holiday event will take place at the Oakland offices of the Department of Social Services on Thursday, Dec. 14, 5:30-8:30 p.m. A ham and turkey dinner is planned, with guests asked to bring a covered dish or a dessert.

"One reason we are having this party is to bring together service providers from the different agencies and the consumers of those services. Hopefully, getting together in a relaxed situation will encourage better understanding among these groups," said Right Step president Doug Davis.

A committee representing the Department of Social Services, Mountain Top Mental Health Associates Inc., the National Alliance for Mental Illness, the Garrett County Health Department, and Right Step planned this event to also appeal to the families of consumers and providers. "An e-mail was sent to Santa at the North Pole requesting that he make time in his busy schedule to stop by the party with a treat for the children," Davis said.

In addition to the dinner and treats, there will be music provided by Jim Kisser of Big Jim's DJ. and Karaoke Service.

This party will provide an opportunity for greater understanding through education and information sharing, and for establishing a better network among those in the mental health community of Garrett County, Davis noted. "Christmas is the time of year for sharing, caring, and making amends. Consumers and providers need to work more closely in the mental health system to make it work," he said.

Laughter May Be "Best Medicine" For Heart Health

Laughing often and exuberantly, even in situations that many may find "unfunny" or irritating, may provide the best protection against heart attacks, according to a study presented recently at the American Heart Association's Scientific Sessions 2000 meeting.

This study, the first to document that laughter and an active sense of humor may help influence heart and artery disease, showed that heart patients were 40 percent less likely than their healthy counterparts to laugh in a variety of common situations. Compared to the control group, individuals with heart disease were found to be less likely to recognize humor or to laugh, even in positive situations.

"We don't know why laughing protects the heart, but we do know that mental stress is associated with impairment of the endothelium, the protective barrier lining our blood vessels. This can cause a series of inflammatory reactions that lead to fat and cholesterol buildup in the coronary arteries, and ultimately to a heart attack," said Dr. Michael Miller, director of the Center for Preventive Cardiology at the University of Maryland Medical Center, Baltimore.

The theory that laughter may release some as-yet-unidentified endothelial protectants is an "attractive hypothesis" that will require further study, Miller added.

"Because we know of many more factors that contribute to heart disease than factors that protect against it, the ability to laugh — either naturally or as learned behavior — may help certain societies such as the United States, where heart disease remains the number one killer," Miller said.

Happy Holidays!

SGCRS AUXILIARY MAKES DONATION — The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad Auxiliary made a donation to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad recently. The funds were raised during the Auxiliary's recent bake sale and 50/50 drawing, which was won by Friendsville resident Betty Guard, who was not available for the photo session.

Medicare Urges Beneficiaries To Get Immunized

Maryland Medicare beneficiaries recently received a reminder from the Delmarva Foundation that immunizations for influenza and pneumococcal disease are 100 percent covered under Medicare Part B services, with no co-pay and no deductible. "Unfortunately, having coverage doesn't always mean that eligible beneficiaries will seek these preventive services," the letter states.

Three physicians from Delmarva, the health advocates for Medicare recipients in this area, stated in the letter that all health care providers have a responsibility to encourage beneficiaries to seek these preventive services. "The potential effects of not being immunized may be life-threatening," the letter stated.

Spassil Attends Forum On Behalf Of Gov.'s Office

Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center, attended a national conference recently to represent the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention. Held last month in Duluth, Minn., the Rural Networking Conference on Stopping Violence Against Women drew family violence prevention professionals to address common issues together.

"Representatives came from rural areas all over the country. There was so much information to share because there are so many problems that we all have in common," Spassil said.

A similar cultural frame of reference links rural populations, Spassil pointed out. "Victims of abuse tend to be kept isolated from others by their abusers. In rural areas, this isolation is increased by geography," she said, adding that the lack of adequate transportation is also a major issue common among rural communities.

Spassil said she took advantage of attending several of the many seminars offered during the three-day conference. Sessions that she attended were on advocacy and child protection; starting and maintaining a visitation center; pros and cons of questioning children at the scene of a domestic violence incident; guidelines for performing a safety and accountability audit; marital rape; and child custody battles.

"We have some very good systems in place here which are working very well. But we all have areas in which we can improve," said Spassil.

ACCIDENT

The town meeting was held Monday, Dec. 4.
 •Christmas in Flowery Vale is scheduled for this weekend.

•The judging of the Christmas decoration contest will be on December 18, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

•Christmas banners have been ordered and will be delivered very soon. Volunteers who would like to help put up these banners in town may call Town Hall at 301-746-6346.

•The mayor and council reviewed the engineering agreement proposal submitted by Thrasher Engineering of Clarksburg, W.Va., for Accident's I&I (inflow and infiltration) problem.

•The mayor and council discussed the installation of speed limit and "Watch for Children" signs along Fratz Street.

The next town meeting will be Tuesday, Jan. 2.

FRIENDSVILLE

The town meeting was held Monday, Dec. 4.

•Municipal real estate and personal property taxes are due and payable prior to January 1, 2001. After that date, all local taxes are considered to be delinquent and will be included in the Certification of Taxes Due Report which is submitted annually to the Garrett County treasurer for inclusion in the delinquent tax sale. These taxes can either be paid at the Friendsville office of the First United Bank and Trust or mailed to the Clerk-Treasurer, P.O. Box 9, Friendsville.

•Any resident of the town of Friendsville who wishes to file to run for the position of town council member in the February 2001 municipal election must submit a Petition for Office form to the clerk-treasurer prior to noon on Monday, January 1, 2001. Members of the current town council who are eligible to seek re-election are Frances King, Terry Spear, and James Lininger, as well as Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle.

•Representatives of Adelphia Cable attended the council meeting to discuss the terms of the tentative franchise agreement between the town and Adelphia Cable.

•Arnold Phillips was unanimously approved as the town's legal council.

•Correspondence was sent to the local youth who had previously presented a petition to the mayor and town council requesting the development of a skate park in town. They were informed that, because of liability concerns, monetary considerations, etc., the town is unable at this time to provide such a facility.

•Voter registration will be conducted on December 12, 4-6 p.m., at Town Hall.

•The townwide holiday decorating contest, sponsored annually by the mayor and town council, will be judged on Thursday, Dec. 21, starting at 5:30 p.m. The following cash prizes will be awarded at 7:30 p.m. that same evening at the council's annual Christmas dinner at the community center: Residential First Place, $50; Residential Second Place, $30; Residential Third Place, $40; Business First Place, $25.

•Council president Jess Whittemore will attend a meeting in Columbia later this month with representatives of the Maryland Department of the Environment regarding the town's request that the Deep Creek dam-release recorded-announcement telephone message be updated daily because of safety concerns as well as economic impact concerns for the town.

Because of the proximity to Christmas, the December 19 meeting of the mayor and town council has been canceled. The next council meeting is scheduled for Monday, Jan. 8, 2001.

LOCH LYNN

The town meeting was held Monday, Dec. 4.

•Residents Theresa Ringer and Susan Brennenman presented to the mayor a petition to protest the town's recent elections. Mayor Charles Tressler accepted the petition and said he needed to submit it to the town attorney and/or the elections board. The mayor made no further comment on the petition during the meeting.

•The run-off election for treasurer was held on Friday, Dec. 1. Susan Parsons won the office with 117 votes. Incumbent Robin Beckman received 77 votes. There were 12 absentee ballots.

•Council member Stanley Thomas presented a list of objections to the election process during the recent Loch Lynn general election.

•During a public hearing a zoning exception was granted to Doug Fitzwater to add a storage building to his current business facility. The petition to create on-street parking near the old school was withdrawn in the face of a number of obstacles posed by regulations.

•The Loch Lynn residents' Christmas party will be held at the Loch Lynn Restaurant on December 15 at 7 p.m. The next town meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 2.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Wednesday, Nov. 29.

•The public hearing on Ordinance 2000-2 was held and the ordinance was adopted. This regulation stipulates that property owners are responsible for maintenance of sidewalks and driveway aprons that abut sidewalks. This ordinance, which become effective immediately, will apply to the as-yet-to-be-constructed sidewalk along Oakland Drive.

•The mayor and town council will not give a Christmas treat this year. All residents are encouraged to participate in the caroling party and refreshments at the old ticket house on December 20 at 6:30 p.m. The Girls Scouts will coordinate the event, and the town council will provide the refreshments.

•Judging for the Christmas decoration contest will take place on December 12 at 6 p.m. Those wishing to be included in the contest are asked to turn on their Christmas lights.

•The town was notified by letter of the site selected for the new Mtn. Lake Park Post Office facility. The site is outside the town limits. The mayor and council have sent a letter of objection on the choice of this site, which would increase the distance town residents would need to travel to retrieve mail.

•A motion passed to designate Hazel Glade Drive as a one-way street.

•The town is accepting bids on making repairs to the town garage.

Because of the holidays, there will be only one town meeting in December. That will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 6 p.m.

Norton, who was not injured, faces charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI) and negligent driving. He was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting a $1,000 bond.

A collision last Thursday afternoon along Route 219 in the Deep Creek Lake area resulted in an injury to an Oakland woman and a charge for an Oakland man.

The accident occurred at 4 p.m. when Thomas Dean Sharpless, 23, pulled his 1994 Hyundai out of the Arrowhead parking lot and into the path of an oncoming 1988 Ford operated by Loretta Lynn DeWitt, 34. DeWitt was transported by SGRS to Garrett Memorial, where she was treated and released.

Sheriff's deputies charged Sharpless, who was not injured, with failure to yield right of way.

DWI Arrest

In addition to Norton, William Samuel Caslow, 37, Oakland, was arrested for DWI this week by sheriff's deputies. No accident was involved in that incident.

The store development is projected to cost a total of $1.4 million to complete, and the new store will be staffed by over 50 employees, including those employees currently working at the existing CVS stores in Oakland.

Headquartered in Woonsocket, R.I., CVS Corporation has over 4,000 stores nationwide and a total workforce of more than 80,000 employees. Its annual revenues exceed $15 billion, and its pharmacies dispense approximately 72 percent of all retail prescriptions in the United States.

Mtn. Lake Park Children Invited To Free Movie

A free Christmas movie will be shown for children of Mtn. Lake Park this Saturday, Dec. 9, from 10 a.m. to noon at Sanders Hall on the corner of G and Spruce streets.

Parents are required to sign children in and out of the hall. All children under age 5 must be accompanied by a parent.

There will be drawings for two Christmas videos, and the children will make and serve punch and cookies to their parents when they return to pick them up.

Stewart Honored With Employee Award At GCMH

Garrett County Memorial Hospital has named Bobbie Stewart as the recipient of the Employee's Choice Award for November. Stewart is a patient accounts representative and has been employed by the hospital for 3½ years. "Being awarded Employee's Choice for November with Thanksgiving at hand is especially nice, and surprising," Stewart said.

Stewart resides with her husband Donald and three children, Travis, Dallas, and Shantelle Brennenman. She enjoys music, the arts, and "special moments with old friends."

"Working at GCMH is rewarding and challenging. I look forward to working with our patients in resolving problems and assisting their needs in the coming years ahead," she said.

Marple is an environmental coordination officer with the Headquarters, 99th Regional Support Command, located in Oakdale, Pa. Major General Rodney D. Rudick Jr., commander of the 99th, promoted Marple during a recent ceremony.

Marple is a 1985 graduate of Frostburg State University. A 16-year military veteran, he received his commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers from the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Frostburg. He is the former commander of Company B, 121st Engineer Battalion of the Maryland Army National Guard, co-located in Oakland and Cumberland.

Marple is a 1981 graduate of Southern High School. He resides in Oakland with his wife Aurelia and two children.

by Dan Whittelsey
The town meeting held on Nov. 29, was an important meeting and of great interest to all.

The mayor introduced a reading on a sidewalk ordinance. The mayor explained that this was being done because in one section of the town an ordinance was called for. Also there may be other occasions when such an ordinance is required.

There will be another reading of this ordinance, which will provide an opportunity to discuss and change any of the conditions of the ordinance.

There were questions as to who was responsible to maintain the cleanliness and good repair of the sidewalk — the homeowner whose property the sidewalk is in front of. The ordinance does not seem to address responsibility for personal injury. This is very important because personal injury claims due to sidewalks can become very expensive and a disaster to any homeowner with a sidewalk.

The town council has been discussing insulating the garage. As usual, the members have it backwards. They are trying to decide on the best material to use. None of them are knowledgeable in this field (insulation). The best way to resolve this question of cost and suitability is to get three contractors to bid on the job. The contractor can offer several insulation panel alternatives and the cost of labor to install, along with suitable warranties. The council can then decide on the panel to be used based on its merits and labor cost.

The event of the evening involved Paul Shockey and Lou DiCarlo. It started with a reading of the minutes of a previous meeting held on October 25. Mr. DiCarlo was upset by the manner in which the mayor addressed the issue of Crime Watch. The mayor responded in such a manner as to further upset Mr. DiCarlo, which ended in an unfriendly exchange between the two. The mischief here is the way the minutes are kept.

Town council minutes are a conglomeration of thoughts and remarks made by the mayor and other council members. A good deal of this material should never be written down. In essence, good minutes are brief and to the point. The most important items in the minutes should be motions made, seconded, discussed, and voted down or voted approved, or tabled. I recognize that the mayor wishes to keep the council advised of his actions and concerns. Lengthy discussions are not needed to do this. A brief statement to the fact that he brought the matter before the council should be sufficient, unless he wishes to have a motion of support.

So there you have the reason for a controversy between the mayor and Lou DiCarlo — messy minutes. Both the mayor and Mr. DiCarlo have extended hours of work for Mountain Lake Park. They are both very important to us, and should be congratulated.

As for Crime Watch, I think the community is very fortunate to have Lou DiCarlo head up the operation and, so, all the work. Crime Watch benefits the whole community and should be supported by the town of Mountain Lake Park. To quibble over a sign I thought was rather immature. Funds for such minor expenses should be in the budget.

The council wishes to honor Bob Damon, deceased, for his years of service to Mountain Lake Park. Suggestions were a sign in Veterans Park, a road named after Bob Damon, or the naming of the garage.

Ken Witte gave a very nice talk on the youth activities, and a plea for $800 for their budget. This is certainly a modest amount. The council should have no problem with this support.

More on youth activities next week.

On December 20 at 6:30 p.m. the Girl Scouts will hold a sing-a-long at the ticket office. Cookies and drinks will be served along with the songs. You're invited.

On December 12 at 6 p.m., the annual judging of houses with the Christmas displays will start.

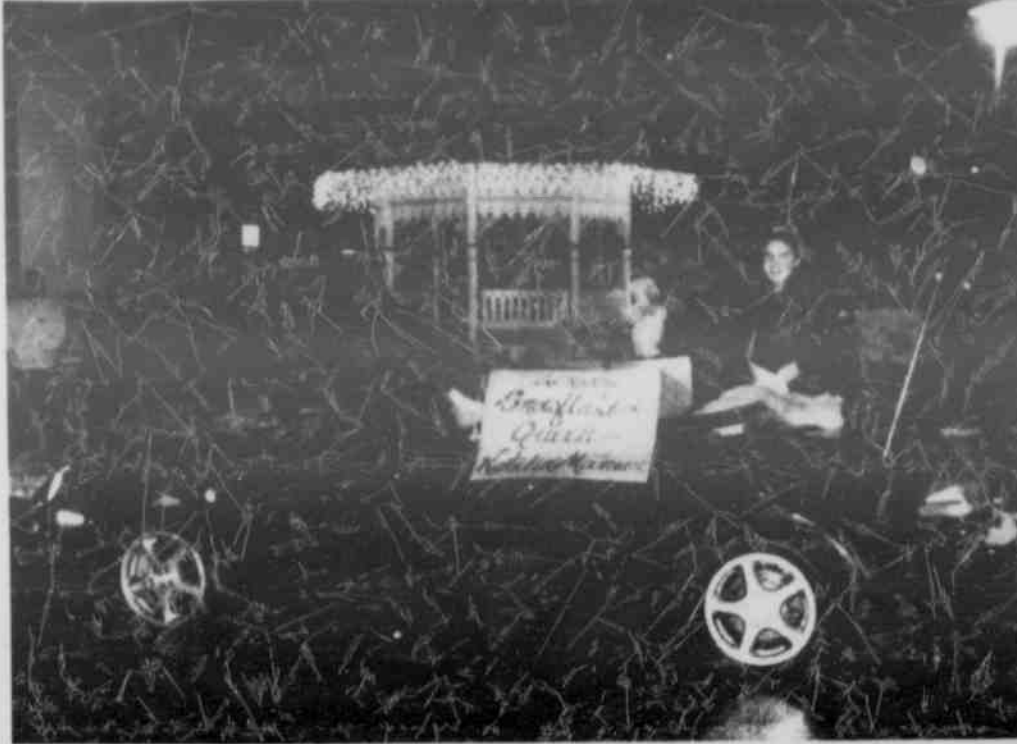

The next meeting of the town council will be at 6 p.m. December 13. This should be a fun meeting. Come and wish everyone a Merry Christmas.

Tourism Plan

Another concern was voiced in regard to the established Canal Place Preservation and Development Authority, as it has the power of condemnation. In other words, if the authority wishes to own a certain piece of property for the promotion of heritage or tourism, it can first bargain with the owner, but can eventually condemn the property to gain ownership. The legislation states in part: "If it is not able to acquire property through negotiation and purchase, the Authority may exercise the powers of condemnation for private property, as provided in subsection (c) of this section." (Subsection c states the Board of Public Works must approve the action.)

When Taylor presented the idea to the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, some controversy erupted because of these and other concerns. In response, the group decided to form the 10-member study group with five members from each county. The committee met last week, Geisler reported, as well as on Nov. 16.

SNOW COMPLEMENTS OAKLAND FEST — The weather could hardly have been more picture perfect for "Christmas on Main Street" in Oakland Friday night. Snow fluttered down on the hundreds of spectators, who listened to special music, watched the Santa parade, and tasted different foods from the many vendors set up along Second Street. The evening was hosted by Main Street and the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA), and opened a monthlong celebration of Christmas that will highlight a variety of activities at the local businesses. (See schedule in today's Home for the Holidays supplement.) A feature of the evening was the procession of GOBA's Snowflake Queen, Katelin Moosau, pictured above as she was driven past the decorated gazebo at the historical society museum. Pictured below, left to right, are the queen and her court: Princess Jacqueline McKenzie, the Snowflake Queen, Princess Maylei Skeweria, Princess Carlie Canter, and Princess Molly Thayer. The guy in the red suit made an appearance, too, sitting atop a fire truck and waving to the children below. Santa then sat down for a number of visits with the young folks, and came back on Saturday for more. A petting zoo was in operation on Saturday, too, complete with a real live reindeer, courtesy of Rob Michael. (The Republican photographer did get its picture; however, the camera died inexplicably and the photos disappeared into digital heaven. Perhaps the reindeer didn't want to be exposed.)

After the November session, Geisler reported that Allegany County officials have worked for several months on an amendment to the current Canal Place legislation that would provide for a new entity, to be called "Destination Allegany." This entity is to include the Western Maryland Scenic Railway, Thrasher Carriage Museum, and the Convention and Visitors Bureau.

"Since the Allegany County officials have been working for many months, even before the bi-county authority proposal was made, it is poised to move forward this legislative session," Geisler reported. "The Garrett County committee supports this effort." At both the first and second get-together, Geisler said it was evident that Garrett County is not required to join the legislation now. "This window will not be closed if Garrett County were to spend the needed time to become thoroughly familiar with all aspects of the new organization," Geisler said.

He said that the local members will continue to meet and work with Allegany County persons in order to learn more about the legislation, and therefore help Garrett Countians make a more informed decision in the future on how to best take advantage of the new organization.

"We can join the legislation at almost any time, if we find that it would be advantageous to do so," Geisler said. "But now is not the time."

In addition to Geisler, the local individuals working in the study group are Rol Palmer, Nancy Bailey, Ruth Seib, and Bob Brown.

Frostburg State Student Theater Staging Endgame

Samuel Beckett's Endgame, the second of the "Season Too!" student-directed productions at Frostburg State University, will be presented Friday and Saturday, Dec. 8 and 9, in the F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre at 8 p.m. The play is being directed by FSU student Billy Carter.

Much like its famous predecessor, Waiting for Godot, this 1957 play uses setting, characters, dialogue, and minimal plot to explore the general meaninglessness of life. The four characters — Hamm, Clov, Nagg and Nell — are trapped in a shelter and await death.

The plot consists mainly of the characters' discussions on the general pointlessness of life, along with their absurd actions underscoring the theme. As in life, the characters run the gamut of emotions ranging from scorn and despair to sardonic humor, from hopelessness to hatred.

Hamm, the play's tyrant, is played by David Lowe.

John Bennett plays the slave Clov. The remaining two characters, Nell (Brynne Kessler) and Nagg (Scott Deans), are an elderly couple who live in two ashcans.

Tickets are $2 each and are available by reservation only. Seating is limited, and no tickets will be sold at the door. For information and reservations interested persons may call 301-687-4145.

Skidmore's Works On Display At GCC Art Gallery

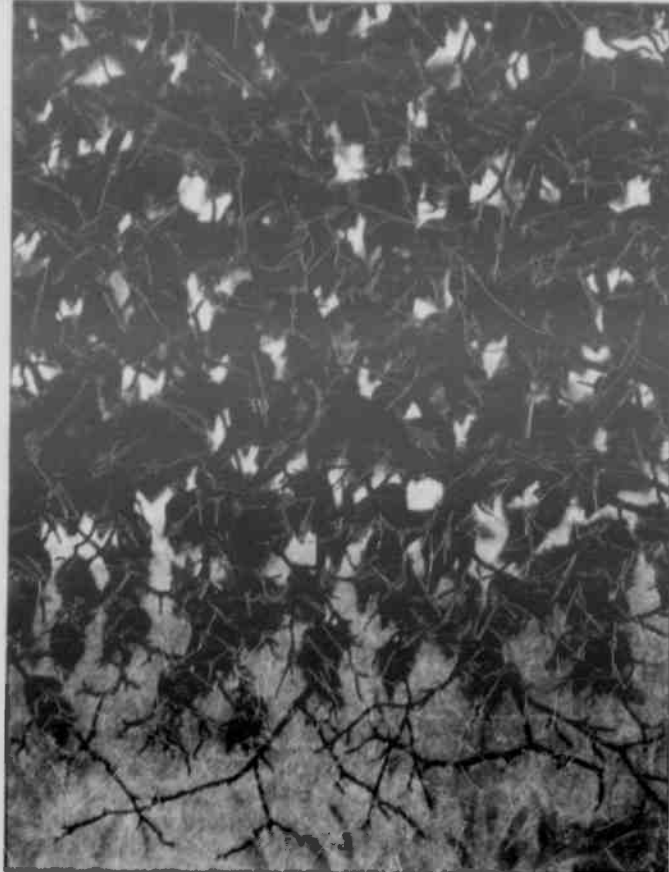

The Art Gallery of Garrett Community College is currently presenting "A Christmas Show," featuring an exhibition and sale of artworks by Ron and Lorie Skidmore. The display will remain through Dec. 14. A Christmas celebration and artists' reception is set for Saturday evening, Dec. 9, 7-10 p.m. The public is welcome.

Ron and Lorie Skidmore are residents of McHenry, where they maintain a ceramics studio and home business: Laurel Ridge Pottery. Lorie is currently a full-time potter and homemaker, and Ron is a professor of art at GCC. Both artists have been participants in the Garrett County Arts Council Heritage Craft Festival during the Autumn Glory Festival, and The Gallery in Oakland.

The exhibition includes original prints and oil paintings, along with an array of pottery pieces. The ceramic pieces were produced through a variety of firing processes, such as wood-fired stoneware, raku, and earthenware. The prints displayed are primarily small etchings, color relief prints, and one woodcut done through a color reduction process. All of the artworks are for sale and would make unique holiday gifts, a GCC spokesperson noted.

This exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events. For more information, persons may contact the GCC art department at 301-387-3024.

FSU Percussion Ensemble Concert Set For Tonight

The Frostburg State University Department of Music presents the FSU Percussion Ensemble in concert this evening, Dec. 7, at 8 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center. The concert is free and open to the public.

Musical selections will include the "William Tell Overture" by Gioacchino Rossini; "One O'clock Samba" by Lynn Glasscock; the Largo movement from Symphony no. 9, New World by Antonin Dvorak; Music for Pieces of Wood by Steve Reich; "The 'O' Zone" by Jack Stamp; and "Sleigh Ride" by Leroy Anderson.

Ronald Horner directs the FSU Percussion Ensemble. Members include Southern High School graduate Tim Beckman, John Dahlgren, Diana Ezerins, Matt Growden, Rob Jennings, Tony Molina, Brent Paris, Andy Reckeweg, David Schoenfeld, and Alison

Welborne. Channel Williams will join the ensemble on marimba for the "One O'clock Samba."

Festival Of Music Set For Christmas At Flowery Vale

For generations the families of Accident have celebrated the holiday season by gathering for caroling, concerts, lighting of Christmas trees, visiting each others' homes, and sharing refreshments. This tradition of Christmas in Flowery Vale will continue with community celebrations Friday and Saturday, Dec. 8-9.

Friday evening the festivities will begin at St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 7 p.m. with the lighting of the town tree, a community Christmas program featuring a live Nativity scene, caroling, and refreshments.

On Saturday, the historic Drane House, home of the first settlers in the area, will be decorated in the traditional style of the early 19th century and open to visitors from 4 to 6 p.m.

JOYFUL SOUNDS OF THE SEASON WILL RING during the Christmas Festival of Music to be held at Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident on Saturday, Dec. 9, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to hear the Accident Concert Band and the Community in Harmony Chorus as they present a concert of traditional Christmas carols and songs. A free will offering will benefit local veterans. In the photo above are the members of the Accident Concert Band. Below are the men and women whose voices blend in song as the Community in Harmony Chorus.

The Christmas Festival of Music will be held at the Flowery Vale Senior Center, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The evening's musical agenda includes "holiday favorites," performed by the Accident Concert Band and the Community in Harmony Chorus. During the intermission and following the concert, refreshments will be available.

A free-will offering will be accepted, to benefit veterans in the community. Christmas in Flowery Vale is co-sponsored by the Accident Cultural and Historical Society and the Aid Association for Lutherans, Branch 5821.

Grantsville Choir Holiday Cantata To Be Presented

The Grantsville Community Choir, under the direction of Gloria Martin, will present the Christmas Cantata The Winter Rose by Joseph M. Martin for two performances on Sunday, Dec. 10, at Salisbury Brethren Church at 2 p.m. and at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Grantsville, at 7:30 p.m.

In addition to the cantata, the choir will sing "We Would Worship Thee" and "Mary, Did You Know?" by Mark Lowery.

The Christmas program will feature soloists Carol Humberson, Gloria Bender, B.J. Miller, Sharon Kamp, Carol Newman, and David Rawe, who will perform to the musical accompaniment of pianist Gale Keller. Pastor Brenda Shreve will narrate the Christmas story.

Other members of the Grantsville Choir, whose voices will blend in holiday song, are Sharon Kamp, Camilla Rawe, Linda Wengert, Barbara Deal, Pauline Shumaker, Ruth Hetz, Sherrill Meyers, Candy Fetter, Eileen Gnagey, Joe McRobie, Leroy Maust, Wayne Durst, Gerald Beachy, Todd Schneider, Cliff Bender, and Lynn Newman.

The St. John's United Church of Christ Handbell Choir will also present a program as part of the presentation at St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

The Grantsville Community Choir, which has been singing for 24 years, will celebrate its 25th anniversary at Easter 2001. Director Gloria Martin explained why the group offers community performances. "The choir performs for two reasons. First and foremost, to bring honor and glory to God, and secondly, to raise money for people in serious need in the area," she said.

Through performances at Christmas and Easter, the choir has raised over $9,600 in the last 24 years. "We have helped persons who had financial difficulties resulting from medical problems, people who have lost their property because of fire, and elderly people with a variety of problems," Martin said.

The choir has also absorbed some of the expenses for parents to accompany their child to Children's Hospital in Philadelphia. "There are many, many people in the area with needs, and if we can help just one, the choir members feel their efforts were worthwhile," said Martin.

During the nearly quarter of a century that the Grantsville Community Choir has been performing, many members have come and gone. "God has seen fit to continue with the Community Choir, and I sincerely hope this will continue after I am unable to be the director. I have enjoyed working with everyone.

Garrett Student Directing OTT's Christmas Carol

by Joan Crawford

The opportunity to work in live stage productions first attracted Mike Virts to the theatre program at Garrett Community College. Through a cooperative arrangement between the college and Our Town Theatre in Oakland, Virts and other GCC students in the program can acquire stage experience in the theatre.

Virts, who had been a student of Jane Avery's at Southern High School and who has acted and worked in school productions since he was in eighth grade, has received a GCC scholarship to continue his studies in theatre at the college. Now for the first time he will be directing a major production, The Fardale Avenue Housing Estate Townswomen's Guild Dramatic Society's Production of A Christmas Carol, scheduled to open at Our Town Theatre on Wednesday, Dec. 13.

His acting roles at the Oakland theatre have included performances in The Devil and Daniel Webster, The Uninvited, and Our Town. He served as stage manager for Our Town, did the lighting and design for Seascape, and helped build the set for Sylvia.

"It will be an adrenalin rush," Virts said of his new role as director, "watching for the first time [will be] somewhat like coaching a baseball team; but it's fun." He believes that everyone should try participating in theatre at least once and agrees that the first performance can make or break a show.

"There are lots of opportunities to participate here," he said, "and it is always fun to have new people acting for the first time. At Our Town Theatre all the actors know one another." To encourage new people to try acting, he said, "Don't take yourself too seriously. Be open minded. In the theatre you learn that no two performances are ever the same. It's fascinating."

Virts credits GCC's theatre program and Ben Sincell, professor of speech and theatre, for enabling him to pursue his career goal of becoming a teacher of theatre. "Ben is a great teacher, and the GCC program gives students many varied theatre experiences," he said.

From Sincell's perspective, Virts has been an asset to the GCC program, as have the newly established theatre scholarships. "It's great to be able to attract students who have had some experience," Sincell said. "In our program they will have many opportunities to develop their talents in every aspect of theatre."

Performances of Fardale Avenue Housing Estate Townswomen's Guild Dramatic Society's Production of A Christmas Carol at Our Town Theatre are scheduled for Dec. 13-17 at 8 p.m. each evening.

DRIVING TOWARD THE LANE against Baltimore City Community College in the above photo is Garrett Community College's Kortaa Hall, who is currently leading the team in scoring with a 22.1 point-per-game average. The Lakers hosted Baltimore City at Southern High School Saturday night and defeated the high-powered team, which was averaging 118 points per contest, by a 94-81 margin. It was the seventh straight win without a loss this season for the Lakers, who then recorded win number eight Tuesday night at Harford CC. Also in the photo above is Dustin Long, left, a former standout at Northern High School. In the photo at right, Garrett's Ladon Garrett goes up for two on a lay-up against Baltimore. Also in the photo is Laker Antonio Lappagard (#40), who led the Lakers in scoring with 21 points. See story for details. Photos by John McEwen.

Lakers Now 8-0 With Wins Over Baltimore And Harford

For only the second time in the history of the college, the Garrett Community College men's basketball team has opened its season with eight consecutive victories without a defeat. The latest two victims of Coach Dennis Gibson and his squad were Baltimore City Community College, a team that came to Oakland Saturday averaging 118 points per game, and Harford Community College, which hosted the Lakers Tuesday night.

Garrett defeated Baltimore City, 94-81, in a game played at Southern High School, and whipped host Harford, 91-74, to give the Lakers an overall mark of 8-0 and a Maryland JUCO conference record of 3-0.

The Lakers played a somewhat sluggish first half against Baltimore City, and trailed by three points with less than three minutes to play before halftime. But a late surge gave them a three-point lead, 42-39, at intermission. They maintained the lead throughout the second half and outscored the visitors by a 52-42 margin to win by 13.

Antonio Lappagard paced the Lakers offensively and finished with a game-high 21 points, while Jontae Harrington recorded 13 points, blocked two shots, and grabbed 11 rebounds. The Lakers finished with a 54-47 advantage in rebounds.

Also reaching double figures for Garrett were Robert Hall with 12 points and Lee Parris with 11 points. Hall also had eight assists.

Jimmy Moore led Baltimore's scoring with 20 points, while Brian Hall netted 18 points and pulled down nine rebounds. Christopher Edwards also hit 18 points, and Kevin Vethea had 10. Lappagard also led the Lakers against Harford, as he hit 18 points and pulled down 11 rebounds. Parris added 13 points, Kortaa Hall scored 12, and Harrington finished with 11. Rob Hall, who is currently leading the JUCO conference in assists, dished out 14 against Harford and is averaging 10 per game. He also had four steals.

Dustin Long and Parris each blocked two shots. The Lakers held a 37-28 lead at intermission and never trailed in the second half.

Rylan Gatling had a strong double-double effort for Harford, as he recorded a game-high 22 points and 15 rebounds. David Hawkins and Ron Regester each added 14 points, and Booker netted 13.

LADY LAKERS ARE LOOKING TO REBOUND after a pair of defeats this week at the hands of Montgomery-Takoma Park and Potomac State College dropped their record to 1-2. Some of the action from Saturday's contest with Takoma, which was played in Oakland at Southern High School, is shown here. Above, sophomore guard Shawntice McLaughlin (#12), who scored 10 points during the contest, looks for an open teammate as fellow Laker Gretchen Baker prepares to cross behind the ballhandler. Some Garrett hustle is exemplified below as Sha-Ray Washington (#45) goes to the floor to take possession of a loose ball, with help from Tamaka Graves (#42) as guard Heather Nugent (#22) awaits the outcome and the possibility of a fast break run. Washington's extra efforts paid off with game-high tallies of 15 points and 11 rebounds.

Garrett Drops To 1-2 After Losses To Montgomery, PSC

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team dropped a pair this week, as Montgomery College-Takoma Park rallied to catch the Lakers Saturday 73-61, and Potomac State College downed Garrett 73-64 Monday. The action leaves the Lakers with a 1-2 record, and without starter Danielle Gaines for the rest of the season. The sophomore guard, who led all scorers in GCC's season-opening 38-point rout of Allegany on Nov. 29, sustained a knee injury just 15 seconds into the Montgomery contest.

Playing on their "home away from home" floor at Southern High School Saturday, the Lakers rebounded from the loss of Gaines by running up a 37-31 lead by halftime. Montgomery battled back to tie the score at the 4:27 mark of the second half. Only eight more seconds passed before the visitors scored a pair to go up by two. GCC would later knot the score at 61-all, but the Lakers went ice-cold late in the contest and were outscored by a 12-0 margin over the final 2:58.

Garrett center Sha-Ray

Washington poured in 15 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, both game highs, while teammates Shawntice McLaughlin and JoEllen Kitt added 10 points apiece from the backcourt. Fellow guard Heather Nugent dished out a team-high six assists and had four steals, while Kitt pocketed three.

steals and post player Erica Henderson snagged 10 rebounds. Takoma was led by Morgan Allen's 14 points and three assists. Angel McNatt scored 13 points and Mame Seck contributed 11.

The Lakers outrebounded their opponents 57-42, but were whistled for 28 fouls to Montgomery's 21. Takoma capitalized on the Garrett miscues by hitting for 23 points from the free throw line, as compared to GCC's 12 points from the charity stripe.

"We played well considering Danielle was injured early and two other starters were benched for disciplinary reasons," GCC head coach Ann Wellham remarked. "We didn't have any depth, and we got into foul trouble."

Monday's short road trip to Keyser, W.Va., bore a striking resemblance to the weekend defeat, as Garrett let a halftime lead slip through its fingers once again. Up by a pair of baskets, 33-29, at the intermission, GCC fell prey to a second-half Catamount attack that ended with the hosts up by a nine-point margin at the final buzzer. The win gave Potomac State a 2-3 record.

NHS Nipped In Opener As Westmar Takes 55-54 Win

Despite fine performances from Rob Dozier and Greg Speicher, the Northern High School boys' basketball team stumbled in the second half against Westmar Tuesday night, and fell by a 55-54 margin when Westmar scored five points in a span of four seconds just prior to the final buzzer. Dozier had dominated the paint throughout the contest by scoring 23 points, nabbing 19 rebounds, and blocking six shots, all game-highs, and Speicher scored 18 points, dished out seven assists, and snagged five steals.

The Cove contest was the season opener for both squads, which battled to a three-point difference after one quarter, when Westmar held a slim 14-11 lead. The Huskies roared back to dominate the second quarter and carry a 25-17 lead into the halftime locker room, but the Wildcats clawed back into a 42-40 lead by the end of the third quarter by outscoring NHS 25-15 over that stanza's eight minutes.

Northern held sway for most of the fourth quarter, and found itself up by a 54-50 margin as the end of the contest drew near. The slim comfort zone evaporated as Westmar's Josh Glass, the Wildcats' leading scorer with 21 points, sank a

Rams Down Keyser 47-34; Lakers 8-0 Tough Schedule Lies Ahead

The Southern High School girls' basketball program began its season in fine fashion last night with a 47-34 victory over visiting Keyser, avenging last season's six-point season opening loss on the home floor of the Golden Tornado.

Southern ran up an early 16-4 lead after one quarter of play, and the score stood at 27-11 in the Rams' favor at the half. SHS was up by 13, 37-24, as the final stanza opened, and the final score also reflected a 13-point difference in favor of the hosts.

Freshman forward Becca Flanagan got her SHS hoop career off to a fine start by leading all scorers with 16 points and sharing the rebounding lead with teammate Charlena Reeves by taking down seven rebounds. Reeves, a senior, scored 13 points of her own from the other forward slot and dished out four assists as well. Junior forward Jennifer Bosley scored 12 points, and freshman guard Robbin Gregg nabbed a game-high four steals.

The Rams played the majority of the contest without guard Ashley Liller, who was injured early after scoring four points.

Coach Bosley "Optimistic" About Rams' 2000-01 Season

"Optimistic" is how Southern High School boys' varsity basketball coach Tom Bosley describes his feelings about the impending 2000-01 season for his team, as the Rams will be anchored by six seniors from last year's 20-win club and joined by six members of last season's record-breaking junior varsity squad. The Rams have won 20 games the past two seasons and were crowned the Area Champions last year.

Southern will open its campaign next Tuesday, Dec. 12, with a game at Bishop Walsh.

The Rams will be led by senior Bryan Panther, who is the only returning part-time starter from last year. "We will count on Bryan to carry much of the scoring load, especially early on," Bosley said.

Mike Saturday, Ryan Iwing, Josh Sharon, and Keith Steyer are all seniors competing for wing positions, while senior Jamie Bosley will join Panther on the front line.

Juniors Bryson Meyers and Joel Helbig will add front-line depth, and J.B. Murphy and D.R. Parsons, also both juniors, will compete for wing spots. The point guard position will be shared by juniors Chad Panther and Ricky Reams. "This team should be strong defensively, which we like to think of as a trademark for our program," Bosley said. "We have a nice balance of seniors and

RAMS HIT THE GROUND RUNNING — Southern's girls' basketball team got off to a promising start last night with a 47-34 homecourt victory over Keyser. One of the many Ram highlights was the outstanding play of freshman forward Becca Flanagan (#65), shown sinking two of the game-high 16 points she scored in her high school debut, as teammate Jennifer Bosley (#13) and Ashley Liller (#21) position themselves in case rebounding work is necessary. Flanagan's performance was all the more valuable to the Rams as Liller, one of the top players in the area, was sidelined with an injury in the early going. Also stepping to play host to visiting Chesapeake Community College at 2 p.m. Following the holiday hiatus, the Lakers will return to action on Jan. 6 when they travel north to take on Cambria County (Pa.) Community College.

Ram Grapplers Embarrass Alco, Win Opener 70-0

Southern High wrestling coach Kurt Lear believes his 2000-01 team could possibly be the best ever in the history of the school, and if the result of the Rams' opening match against visiting Allegany is any indication, he just might be right. The Rams recorded nine pins, one decision, and two forfeits to blank the Campers, 70-0. The match took less than one hour because most of the Ram pins were earned in the first period of each match.

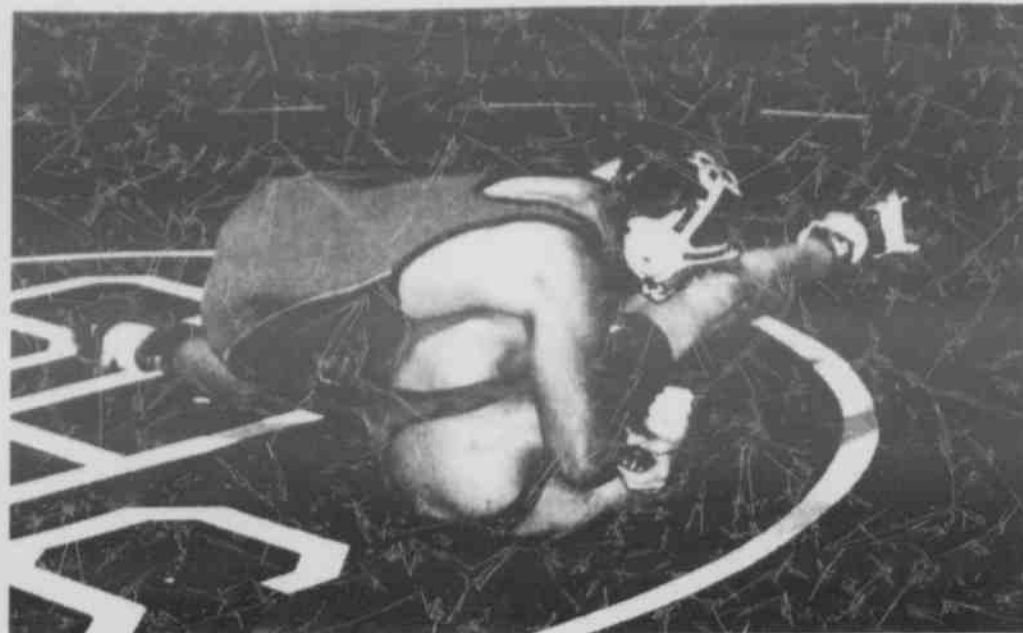

Earning those pins for the Rams were Justin Gregory in the 112-pound division; Chris Hayhurst, 119; Joe Ashby, 125; Nick Sines, 135; Shawn Shiflett, 145; Keith Bennett, 152; Jeremy Lear, 160; John Hayhurst, 189; and Brad Palmer, heavyweight. Andrew Grant won via decision in the 171-pound bout, while Mike Steyer and Jeremy Lear were awarded forfeits in the 103- and 140-pound divisions, respectively. The Rams will return to the mats this evening at Preston High School in Kingwood.

"The fact that we are returning six state qualifiers, including a state runner-up (Jeremy Hayhurst) and a state champion (John Hayhurst), indicates that we should have a very good team," Coach Lear said. "We finished 10-4 in dual meets, fourth in the region, and eighth in the state last year."

Other state qualifiers back from last year include senior Nick Sines (135), who was third in the West Region last year; senior Jeremy Lear (140), also third in the region; sophomore Shawn Shiflett (145), third in the region last season; and senior Keith Bennett (152). Lear is blessed with having a number of wrestlers in several of the weight classes, but he says that such a situation also creates difficulty. "Many of our top athletes are falling on top of one another in their weight categories," Lear said. "Some of our best matches

PINS, PINS, AND MORE PINS were recorded by the Southern High School wrestling team Tuesday night, as the Rams literally flattened the visiting Campers of Allegany High School, 70-0, in their season opener. Nine of the 12 matches were won via pins, most of which were recorded in the first period. Coach Kurt Lear describes his 2000-01 team as "possibly the best in the school's history." In the photo above left, Justin Gregory pins Allegany's Billy Orendorf in the first period of the 112-pound clash. Above right, Jeremy Hayhurst, the defending state runner-up in the 160-pound division, prepares to pin Jimmy Main in the first period. Below, Southern's Brad Palmer pins Dave Dayhoff, also in the first period of the unlimited division. The Rams will wrestle again this evening at Preston High School in Kingwood.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE for area youngsters to join the Southern Mat Club for the 2000-01 season. The club coaches, pictured here, teach the fundamentals of wrestling, and work to instill good sportsmanship, dedication and discipline, and a strong work ethic. The SMC has been in existence for over 15 years and has helped produce some of the best wrestlers from southern Garrett County, including John Hayhurst, Southern High School's first-ever state champion, and Nathan Rickman, who is currently a nationally ranked wrestler as a member of the NCAA Division I James Madison University squad. Pictured above, kneeling, from left, are: Chuck Fitzwater, George Scheffle, Rodney Black, and Dion Eckenrode. Standing are: Darryl Ozles, Rob Browning, Dave Taylor, and Dan Clark. Pictured below is Chris Todd. The staff has a variety of coaching and wrestling experience at all levels, from youth to high school to college. Parents interested in registering a child and/or obtaining more information may telephone club president Ed Wildesen at 301-334-8785 or coach Dave Taylor at 301-334-3855.

Former Laker Taking Off At College Of WV

Dexter Levi, a former standout for Garrett Community College men's basketball team, is proving to be a star at the College of West Virginia (Beckley, W.Va.) already this young season. "Dexter is one of the most talented athletes we've ever recruited," CWV's Coach Bolen has stated.

Levi garnered Most Valuable Player honors over the weekend at the Nyack College Holiday Invitational Tournament in New York, after CWV took the tourney crown with a 107-96 win over the hosts in the championship contest. The junior recorded a double-double with 23 points and 11 rebounds, and sank 11 of 12 field goals in the tourney final.

"Dexter was all over the boards during the tournament, and our bench erupted when he slam-dunked on Nyack's big man," Bolen said. "Numerous overseas professional scouts are expressing serious interest in him [already]."

The College of West Virginia was ranked at Number 14 in the NAIA pre-season polls, and had a 10-1 record after the conclusion of the tournament. The CWV skipper attributed his program's success in part to the talent he's been able to glean from GCC coach Dennis Gibson's squads, which are also noted for their academic strength. "We've had much success in recruiting talent from Garrett," concluded Bolen.

| 40  | G    | Molly Wolf         | 5'6"  | 10   |

The Northern girls' basketball team will skip the frying pan and jump right into the fire tonight, as the Huskies take on defending state champ Allegany in their season opener tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Cove. Both squads feature a number of new faces this season after a number of key starters graduated last spring, and NIS will field an especially young team tonight as its only senior member, Kristen Lander, is out for another two weeks with a sprained ankle.

"Bridget Frazee and Amanda Frantz will have to step up to fill in for Kristen," Northern head coach Alisa Rugg commented. "Her loss is especially damaging because she's a starting guard, and ball handling seems to be our weakest area. We're very strong under the basket, because our size and strength should enable us to have a fine inside game. We're going to be winning some games by hitting the boards hard for rebounds."

A new face herself on the Huskies' bench, Rugg comes to Northern by way of Southern High where she played four years for Don Stemple before graduating in 1994. She started at the guard slot for Frostburg State University for three of her four years with the Bobcats, and is wrapping up a student teaching assignment this week at Accident Elementary School.

After losing senior mainstays Heidi Frazee, Mimi Harvey, and Heather Nugent from last year's squad, Rugg and assistant coach Jamie Sterner will rely on senior guard Lander, junior forwards Bridget Frazee, Jolene Brenneman, and Nicole Sialer, and junior center Christie Flockhart. The sophomore class rounds out the backcourt, as Heather Lander, Amanda Frantz, and Molly Wolf will be bringing the ball up the floor with Kristen Lander.

Allegany's unit lost two major players from last year, Player of the Year Cassie Murray and fellow All-Area first-team member Tracey Little. The Campers ran up a 25-2 record last year on their way to taking the state crown.

A team photo of the 2000-2001 Northern girls' squad is expected to be available for next week's issue of The Republican.

two exchange students, and will probably be one of the top teams in the area," he said. "Plus, they will have already played four games by then. But I think it will be a great game."

The Rams' home opener will be the following Friday, Dec. 15, against Beall, a team that received new talent in the consolidation of schools this year. The junior varsity game will tip off at 6 p.m., and the varsity contest will follow at 7:30.

Bosley believes another highlight of the season could be the Rams' annual Snowball Classic, slated for Dec. 29-30. "The Classic will feature the strongest field in recent years, and will remain the area's premier tournament," he said. Bosley is being assisted again this season by Dave Bender and Matt Redinger.

Mountain Top League Results Are Announced

Condoerr again had to produce a strong second-half effort to earn its third straight victory in Mountain Top Basketball League action on Sunday. Mike Saturday and Dennis Gibson scored 18 and 17 points, respectively, to lead Condoerr to a 67-55 win over Beckman's. John Orendorf paced Beckman's scoring with 17 points, including 12 from three-point range, while Jared Beckman netted 13.

Winning the second game was 219 Motors, which held off a late charge from Deep Creek Ready-Mix to record a 64-57 win. Jon Hegeman hit four three-pointers, including three in the second half, to pace the winners with 16 points. Joey DiSimone netted a game-high 18 for DC Ready-Mix.

Long Branch remained undefeated in game three by topping 84 Lumber, 64-43, as four players finished in double figures for the winners. Kris Upole scored 17 points, Jason Shank and Jason Shreve each netted 12, and Doug Copeland finished with 10. Toby Stoner and Greg Mortimer scored 12 and 11, respectively, for 84 Lumber.

In games this Sunday at Southern High School, Condoerr will meet Deep Creek Ready-Mix at 1 p.m., 219 Motors will play Beckman's at 2 p.m., and Smiley's will face Welding Rod at 3 p.m. Respective scorers are Beckman's, DC Ready-Mix, and 219 Motors.

Venturing Crew To Meet Sunday For XX Skiing

The St. Mark's Lutheran Church/Department of Natural Resources Venturing Crew will meet at Herrington Manor State Park on Sunday, Dec. 17, at 1:30 p.m. to go cross-country skiing. Park personnel will provide lessons and equipment.

All youth between the ages of 14 and 20 are invited to participate. In order to make sure that enough equipment is available, persons planning to attend are asked to telephone the church office at 301-334-2668.

Future outings being planned by the group are tubing at Seven Springs Resort in Pennsylvania and a wildlife monitoring demonstration by a professor at Garrett Community College.

shot, and was sent to the foul line with what could have been a game-tying free throw.

The Cove fans breathed a quick sigh of relief when Glass's free throw attempt missed its target, but in the scramble for the rebound the ball bounced off a Husky player and out of bounds, giving Westmar a possession inbound pass under its own basket. The Wildcats' Curtis Broadwater snagged the pass as he cut down the lane, and was able to sink a layup to put Westmar up by one with six seconds remaining. Northern got the ball to the other end of the court quickly, but a Husky shot attempt was blocked at the buzzer to seal the Wildcat victory.

Other than Dozier and Speicher, Northern's offensive output was rather low, as the squad's third highest scorers were Jensen Long and A.J. Thomas, each of whom tallied four points. Two of Speicher's buckets came from three-point range, and Westmar's Glass sank four of his baskets from beyond the perimeter. Bubba Wills and Bobby Alkire each added nine points for the Wildcats.

Westmar took the junior varsity contest as well by a 43-39 margin. Jason Rice led NHS with 12 points, while Shockey paced Westmar with 21.

Second-year NHS varsity head coach Paul Edwards and his Husky unit are coming off a 14-win season and a regional semifinal appearance last year. "We had a very successful season last year," the coach said. "Losing six players is always tough, but it's made easier when you have guys like Rob, Greg, A.J., Jeremy Frazee, and Denny Thorp coming back."

"Rob is a returning captain who did a great job as a leader last year for us, and will be counted on to provide even more leadership last year. Greg is a three-year varsity player who started last year and has been around the game all his life, so the experience is there. I'd challenge anyone to find me three guys who work harder than Jeremy, A.J., and Denny, each of whom has been with the program for three years now."

"We may have lost six players, but four of our five returnees each started at least four games last year. This year may be quality over quantity. I'm especially counting on our inside game to dominate most opponents, as Rob, Long, and Josh Swadlow [currently out with a neck injury] are three big guys who aren't afraid to get physical." The coach added that his major areas of concern before the season began were ball handling and outside shooting, but Speicher helped to allay those fears with his fine performance against Westmar.

"I think we have good quickness and we should be able to pressure the ball some this year," Edwards said. "To win, we have to play hard all the time, get consistent scoring from our guards, and consistently knock down the outside jumper. We should be able to dominate the paint, but we can't let down there either. We're going to rely on our size advantage."

The Huskies hit the road this week to take on Allegany tomorrow night in Cumberland and Beall on Tuesday in Frostburg, and the following night they travel to Hyndman (Pa.).

Rams Down

"We were pleased with our performance," SHS head coach Don Stemple stated. "We had a guard hurt (Liller) and lost some punch, but we held it together."

Keyser was led by nine points apiece scored by Sommer Alt and Megan Boehmes.

The Rams' junior varsity unit also took a big win, downing its Keyser counterpart in a 43-15 rout. Justine Pagenhardt hit for 14 points to lead all scorers, while Keyser's output was paced by Rachel Miller's and Katie Leatherman's four points apiece.

Looking ahead to the season as a whole the Rams are hoping to improve on last year's 17-7 record, but will be challenged because of this year's tougher schedule, according to Stemple, who is entering his 19th season at the SHS helm. Southern's schedule has been stiffened with the addition of Lingonore, last year's 2A state runner-up; Wheaton, a Montgomery County 3A school; St. Vincent Pallotti, a private school in Prince George's County; and Petersburg and Moorefield, both well-established West Virginia programs.

Last year's Rams finished in the runner-up slot in the WMIL, and fourth in the area as well as fourth in the final Maryland 1A poll. Southern came up just shy of taking the West Region Tournament when the squad sustained a heart-breaking one-point loss to Williamsport in the regional final. Three of last year's players have moved on after graduating last spring — Becca Gangler, a forward, and guards Jennifer Teagarden and Joy Jackson.

This season's SHS unit will draw on the experience of three returning starters: junior guard Ashley Liller, who earned First Team All WMIL, and Second Team All Area honors last season as a sophomore; senior forward Charlena Reeves, a Second Team All WMIL selection last year; and junior Jennifer Bosley at forward.

Liller led the program in scoring last year with 363 points and a 15.1 per-game average. She has already moved into the top 10 of several career categories in Southern's history, and is ranked 10th in scoring, sixth in assists, and fourth in steals. She tallied a 46 percent field goal percentage last season, a 66 percent success rate from the free throw line, and connected on 17 of 43 three-point attempts for a 40 percent mark. She also averaged 4.9 assists and 3.75 steals per outing.

Reeves was the Rams' top rebounder last year, pulling down 132 rebounds for a 6.6 average. She hit 46 percent of her field goals to score 184 points for a 9.2 average. Bosley scored 202 points, averaged 8.4 points per contest, and connected on 45 percent of her field goal attempts.

Other returning players for Southern are forwards Kate Dugan, Ashlee Spady, and Holly Shaffer, all seniors, and junior guards Gina Reeves and Amber Stewart.

"We have three returning starters, but we're having a hard time filling the other two spots," said Stemple. "It will be a challenge for us to develop team rhythm and cohesiveness. We hope to find ourselves as soon as possible and peak in late February at tourney time."

This season Southern will be featured in six road contests slated for radio broadcast, with play-by-play being provided by John Hill, "the voice of the Rams." Fans can tune in to see how the Rams fare against Tucker County this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., and at the same time for dates against Keyser, Allegany, Northern, Fort Hill, and Westmar. (See schedule for all game dates.) Between now and the Tucker contest, Southern will play host to Westmar's Wildcats tomorrow night in Oakland. The junior varsity contest tips off at 6 p.m., and the varsity squads will take to the floor at 7:30 p.m.

PAY IT FORWARD

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:02 - Released 10/20/00

As 2000 draws to a close, it becomes ever more clear how disappointing a year it has been for movies. Films like Men of Honor, The Legend of Bagger Vance, and Bounce, all crammed full of past Oscar winners, have all been plagued with serious flaws, and despite the presence of last year's best actor, Kevin Spacey (American Beauty), 1997's best actress, Helen Hunt (As Good As It Gets), and 12-year-old 1999 supporting actor nominee Haley Joel Osment (The Sixth Sense), Mimi Leder's Pay It Forward does little to arrest the trend.

It takes a good script to make a good movie, and Pay It Forward illustrates the importance of remembering this. Director Leder obviously saw promise in the concept—a young boy's attempt to change the world in order to complete a challenging social studies assignment—but didn't notice, or care, that its screenplay is full of trite, melodramatic movie clichés and logical discrepancies. Leder may think that award-winning actors are all that is needed for an award-winning film. But the problems inherent in Leslie Dixon's screenplay (based on the book by Catherine Ryan Hyde) will not go away simply because she was able to net three highly marketable actors for the leading roles.

Osment is Trevor McKinney, a smart, precocious 7th grader from Las Vegas who is fully aware of his mother's alcoholism and his absent father's tendency toward violence on the few occasions when he does show up. But his problems at home don't stop him from taking his schoolwork seriously, and when his social studies teacher, Mr. Eugene Simonet (Spacey), gives the class an extra credit assignment to "change the world," Trevor comes up with the Pay It Forward system. One person does a favor for three others, and each of those people must "pay it forward"—that is, they must do similar favors for three others. The favors must be something big, something the person can't do for him- or herself. This system, if properly followed, would increase exponentially, like a pyramid scheme, resulting in happy fulfillment for everybody and a kinder, gentler society.

As Trevor's mom, Hunt is playing virtually the same role she played in As Good As It Gets, with different hair. Arlene is a blonde bombshell with two jobs and too much makeup, but she's also a thoughtful, intelligent, caring mother, except when she's on a bender. Her introduction to Trevor's plan is finding a homeless heroin addict (James Caviezel) sleeping in her garage. When she confronts Mr. Simonet about his assignment, there is instant friction, and I don't mean the good kind. Simonet is an Obsessive/Compulsive burn victim who has trouble communicating with people over 12 years old, but he soon finds himself on the boy's short list of possible new dads. Meanwhile, we see glimpses of a sub-plot involving an L.A. reporter (Jay Mohr) who is touched by Trevor's Pay It Forward system, apparently in a parallel universe on some other space-time continuum.

This is not a bad movie, considering the lowered standards we have come to expect this year. But it could and should be better. Spacey, Osment, and to a lesser extent, Hunt, all do well with what they have, but the story is too close to As Good As It Gets to be considered really original. Perhaps Hunt's participation emphasizes this. Again we have three people who must help each other to help themselves. Again we have an OCD sufferer brought out of his shell by Hunt's feminine wiles. Moreover, the timeline between the two story paths is a confusing collection of flashbacks and -forwards that leaves one doing complicated algebraic equations to figure how it can all work out. And lastly, there's the ending: I won't reveal the details, but let's just say that it's manipulative to the point of criminal offense. Pay It Forward is yet another example in this disappointing year of a film whose text is unworthy of its talent. ★★½

West Virginia

News from Preston, Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties.

W.Va. Residents May Enroll In GCC Program For Lower Tuition

Residents of all West Virginia counties will be eligible to enroll in Garrett Community College's Juvenile Justice program at the lower West Virginia rate, according to a decision made recently by the Maryland State Department of Education. The agreement will become effective in fall 2001, according to a GCC spokesperson.

The reciprocity tuition agreement allows a West Virginia resident to enroll at GCC by paying the same tuition as a Garrett County resident. That tuition is currently $74 per credit hour, a saving of $101, compared to the tuition charged to residents of other states, which is $175 per credit hour.

To be eligible for the reciprocity tuition at GCC, West Virginia residents must enroll in one of the associate of applied science degree programs or in a certificate program. These include: Adventure Sports, Agricultural Management, Business Management, Sports Concentration, Natural Resources Wildlife Technology, Juvenile Justice, and Human Services; and certificates in Law Enrollment, Early Childhood Assistant, Social Services Assistant, and Special Education Assistant.

For further information, interested persons may call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044.

Free Computer Training Offered

The West Virginia High Technology Consortium Foundation will provide free computer training at its Technology Opportunity Centers (TOC) at Preston High School. Persons may register now for February classes.

Classes will focus on Microsoft Office Word, Excel, Power Point, and Internet. Participants will learn basic and intermediate computer skills.

For more information, persons may call 888-862-0505 or e-mail toc@wvhtf.org.

Winters Earns Scouting Award

Ryan Keith Winters, son of Richard and Tina Winters of Horse Shoe Run, recently earned Boy Scouting's highest award when he was promoted to Eagle Scout with Boy Scout Troop 96, Davis.

The residents of Cortland Acres Nursing Home and their visitors will have a chance to plant flowers and vegetables in their new planters, built as an Eagle Scout project by Winters. The bench planters were built to help the residents enjoy the courtyard located in the back of the home.

"Most of the residents have grown up all their lives keeping and maintaining a garden of some sort, and were pleased to be able to grow their own food once again without all the hard work," said a spokesperson from the nursing home. Supplies were donated by several local companies, including Beachy Lumber Co., Piper Building Supplies, 84 Lumber, Naylor's Hardware, Julie's Greenhouse, RPM Construction Co., and Green Acres Garden Center.

Winters is a 2000 graduate of Tucker County High School and is currently serving in the United States Air Force.

Men's basketball is on Thursday evenings, Dec. 7, 14, and 21, from 7 until 9 p.m. Special events include the school staff dinner on Dec. 8, and Faculty Senate on Dec. 20, 8-10 a.m. The school chorus and band will present a concert at 2 p.m. on Dec. 21, and school Christmas parties will be held at 2:15 on Dec. 22, when school dismisses for the holidays.

PERSONAL MENTION

Darrell Fint recently returned to the home of his parents, John and Connie Fint, Aurora, to continue his recuperation from his burns.

Kathy Hardesty of Aurora celebrated her birthday on Dec. 1. She was taken out for lunch by Rita Sue Harsh, and was presented with two cakes. One was baked and decorated by her neighbor, Iris Myers Simons, and the other given her by the Aurora VFD and Auxiliary. Among her visitors that day were Ruby Feather and her mother, Grace Giordana, both of whom Mrs. Giordana is Kathy's aunt.

David and Wilma Mae Teets of Horse Shoe Run were in Pittsburgh last Thursday and Friday where they visited Wilma Mae's sister, Eileen Rembold.

Darrell Douglas, his sons, and Lisa Douglas, all Ohio, were Thanksgiving week guests of Keith and Delores Douglas, Aurora. Teresa Downs accompanied her sister Lisa on a return trip last week.

The annual Christmas dinner of the Stemple Ridge Ladies Aid was prepared by women of the Aurora United Methodist Church and served at its memorial building on Saturday evening, Dec. 2. Those in attendance were Herb and Jean Starr, Linda Liston, Eldean Poling, Erwin and Mary Stemple, Arlene Moore, Danny Moore, Billy and Tishia Moore, Frank and Wilda Blamble, Charlie Blamble, Sue and Steve Hauser, Shirley Parsons and Steve, Bill and Sandra Hauser, Wade, Joe, and Beth Bishop, Stephanie Childers, Roger and Paula Cummings and children, Betty and Clyde Cummings, Pat and Adrain Stemple, Dean Sisler, Jack and Debbie Kimble, T.C. and Kelly, Alan and Mia Rupp, Alyson and Audria, Lorain and Mary Jane Hanline, Keith and Delores Douglas, and Pastor Joe and Penny Robbette and family.

Denise and Zack Eslinger of Sterling, Va., spent Thanksgiving with her grandparents, Homer and Marguerite Myers.

Thanksgiving guests of Jessie Fedorow in Aurora were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Brockel of Neptune, N.J., and their daughter Ellen of New Hampshire.

Steve Stemple of Elkins underwent surgery for removal of a kidney last Friday at Ruby Memorial Hospital. He is the son of Paul Stemple, Aurora.

John Slawter of Aurora was a recent patient in Monongalia General Hospital, where he underwent back surgery.

Lonnie Shaffer of Brookside was admitted this weekend to Preston Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Hospice Nursing Assistant Honored At State Dinner

Mary "Vicky" Giotfelty, certified nursing assistant for Hospice of Garrett County, has received a "You Make a Difference Award" from the Hospice Network of Maryland. The award was presented by tennis star Pam Shriver and Dr. Thomas Reardon, past president of the American Medical Association, during the recent annual dinner of the Hospice Network of Maryland at the Sheraton Inner Harbor Hotel in Baltimore.

"You Make a Difference Awards" are presented to individuals selected by their hospice for extraordinary commitment to their hospice patients and their families.

"Mary Giotfelty has been employed by Hospice of Garrett County for five years," commented Brenda Butscher, executive director for Hospice of Garrett County. "She is a quiet, dedicated employee. Patients and their families show a great deal of love and respect for Mary. She works closely with the nurses and helps to keep them informed of any changes in the patients' condition. She is an excellent team player and connects well with all members of the interdisciplinary team. Mary is a single mom, raising a teenage son in a good home with Christian values."

Other Hospice Network of Maryland awards were presented to Dr. Carla Alexander, assistant professor at the medical schools of the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins University, and Jack Schwartz, assistant attorney general and director of Health Policy Development in the Maryland Office of the Attorney General.

GLOTFELTY EARNS HOSPICE AWARD — Mary "Vicky" Giotfelty, a certified nursing assistant for Hospice of Garrett County, was honored at the annual dinner of the Hospice Network of Maryland recently with a "You Make a Difference Award." The award recognizes extraordinary commitment to hospice patients and families. "Mary truly demonstrates the 'spirit of Hospice,'" remarked F. Michael Gloth, M.D., president of the Hospice Network of Maryland. "She is the committed, caring, and giving individual who makes a difference every day in serving the needs of hospice patients and their families. We are honored to know her." Giotfelty is shown above at the award ceremony flanked by presenters Pam Shriver, left, and Dr. Thomas Reardon. Giotfelty resides in Deer Park with her son David.

Alexander was honored for her efforts in spearheading the development of the Maryland End-of-Life Training (MET Project). The MET Project, supported by the Hospice Network of Maryland, offers programs to hospitals throughout the state to train physicians in the most effective treatments for patients and families facing life limiting illnesses. Schwartz was saluted for his continual support of allowing patients to make choices about their end-of-life care and, in particular, his support and willingness to participate in the Maryland End-of-Life Training Project.

Certificates of appreciation also were presented to physicians who have volunteered to present programs in hospitals throughout the state as part of the MET Project.

The Hospice Network of Maryland is a nonprofit organization that promotes quality hospice care in Maryland. The Network is an advocate for the terminally ill and promotes the hospice concept of providing compassionate, multi-disciplinary care to patients and their families.

Adopt-A-Resident For Christmas At Cuppett & Weeks

To spread the joy of Christmas to someone who may be alone on that special holiday, one may consider the "Adopt-a-Resident" program at Cuppett & Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland. By placing a call to the activities department at the residence, one may learn about a man or woman living there who has no family to remember him or her on Christmas morning.

Gift ideas will be suggested by activities director Bette Joe Hudnall, and the "adoptive" family member may choose to purchase one of these items to be gift-wrapped and given to the resident on Christmas morning. "We have set the date of December 18 for all gifts to be in to the facility," said Hudnall. This allows the staff to be certain that no one is overlooked and that everyone will receive a gift.

Cuppett & Weeks also invites family and friends to celebrate Christmas morning with their loved ones. Santa Claus will be on hand to present gifts, and there will be caroling and refreshments.

For more information on the Adopt-a-Resident program, persons may call Hudnall at 301-334-2319.

Sang Run Christian Center,

"What do you want to be when you grow up?" Dad asked Tim. "I want to be rich", said Tim, without hesitation.

What would your answer be if you were Tim's Dad? Would you encourage him to attend the right schools and wear the finest clothes? There is nothing wrong with that advice....as long as you remember the most important advice.

Advise your youngster to always strive to be rich in the love of our Heavenly Father, for on the road to riches there are always many potholes that the best clothes and the finest education will not get him through. Yet, God's love gives us the peace and the courage it takes to keep moving on toward our goal. "But thou shalt remember the Lord thy God: for it is He that giveth thee power to get wealth." Deut. 8:18

Worship as a family each week. Prepare your son or daughter for adulthood by your example. You will all be richer for it.

Miss Freeland, Mr. Belanger United In Double-Ring Event

Brandy Lynne Freeland and Jeffrey Lynn Belanger were married in a double-ring ceremony on July 22, 2000, at Crellin Assembly of God Church, Crellin, by Reverend David Snodgrass. The bride is the daughter of Russel (Larry) and Janet Freeland, Oakland. The groom is the son of Anna Mae and Jeffrey Sr. Belanger, Bruceton Mills, W.Va.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a full-length designer gown of white satin. The sleeveless bodice accented with a shoelace back was adorned with sequins and pearls. The apron-back skirt and detachable cathedral-length train were decorated with the look of European lace. The bride carried a cascade of pink roses, white carnations, and variegated Calla lilies intermingled with baby's breath and fern. The fingertip veil was decorated with silk flowers at the crown and trimmed with silk piping. She wore a set of pearl earrings and a matching necklace borrowed from her mother.

Serving as maid of honor was Kristie Tasker, attired in a low back, pink chiffon dress with a flowing detachable train. Bridesmaids were Katie Freeland, sister of the bride, and Erika Belanger, sister of the groom. Each carried a single rose complimented with baby's breath, fern, and white streamers. Serving as flower girl was Miranda Belanger, cousin of the groom. All were attired in matching lavender chiffon dresses with detachable flowing trains. Vickie Wilt, friend of the family, designed and arranged the bouquet for the flower girl's basket.

Attendants for the groom were best man Isaac (Ike) McClary, and groomsmen Nick Belanger, brother of the groom, and Joe Belanger, cousin of the groom. James Freeland, cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer. Serving as ushers were Robbie, Matt, Bradley, and Andy Zimmerman, all cousins of the bride. The wedding party was outfitted in black tuxedos accented with silver herringbone vests. The ushers wore matching attire with black cummerbunds.

The ceremony was complimented with renditions of "Because You Love Me" and "Just to Hear You Say You Love Me," sung by the bride's aunts, Ann Nine and Debbie Zimmerman. Cousins of the bride, Rachel Zimmerman, attended the guest book. Kayla Nine and Mallorie Freeland, also cousins of the bride, distributed wedding bubbles and personalized candy favors to the guests.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the American Legion in Oakland. The two-tiered wedding cake sat atop a fountain of lavender water surrounded by silk lilacs, and baby's breath and fern. The pillars supporting the cake were adorned with pink bows trailing down to the table. The cake's top featured a white gazebo, decorated with lilacs and baby's breath, that held a ceramic figurine of a dancing couple. Members of the Legion Auxiliary served a full course meal, and entertainment was provided by deejay Carson Yoder.

Miss McKenzie Becomes Bride Of Mr. Kamp In November Event

Connie McKenzie, daughter of Dolores and Harold McKenzie of Frostburg, was wed to Darren Kamp, son of Susie and Gale Kamp of Lonaconing, on November 11. The ceremony was held at Trinity Assembly of God Church and was performed by Pastor Jimmie Blair. The bride, escorted by her father, wore a pink gown accented with ivory lace and ivory pearls, and carried pink, purple, and ivory roses along with mini-carnations and ivory ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Carol Allman, sister of the bride, and Angie Harris, a friend of the bride. Kelby Kamp, brother of the groom, served as best man, and the usher was Danny McKenzie, brother of the bride.

Photos were taken by Ken Nolan of Phase One Photo Lab, and the flowers were from the Flowerloft in Grantsville. Verla Williams, pianist for the wedding, played "It's Your Love," by Tim McGraw and Faith Hill, and "Amazed," by Lonestar, which were the songs chosen by the newlyweds.

Afterwards, the reception was held at the couple's house in Lonaconing.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School and Frostburg State. She is a third grade teacher at Accident Elementary School.

The groom is also a graduate of Northern High and is employed by the Local 37 Operators Union as an operator.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Dec. 15, 1791, following ratification by the state of Virginia, the first 10 amendments to the U.S. Constitution, known as the Bill of Rights, become law.

• On Dec. 14, 1799, George Washington, the American revolutionary leader and first president of the United States, died of acute laryngitis at his estate in Mount Vernon, Va. He was 67 years old.

• On Dec. 16, 1811, at the Mississippi River Valley near New Madrid, Mo., the greatest series of earthquakes in U.S. history begins when a quake of an estimated 8.6 magnitude on the Richter scale rocks the region. Although the earthquake greatly changed the topography of the region, the area was only sparsely inhabited at the time, and there were no known fatalities.

• On Dec. 12, 1870, Joseph Hayne Rainey, a Republican from South Carolina, is sworn in to the House of Representatives to fill the seat made vacant by the expulsion of Rep. Benjamin F. Whittemore. Rainey, who serves as a representative for 10 years, is the first African-American to sit in the House.

• On Dec. 12, 1913, two years after it was stolen from the Louvre Museum in Paris, Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece, The Mona Lisa, is recovered inside a hotel in Florence, Italy. Da Vinci completed the painting, a portrait of the wife of wealthy Florentine citizen Francesco del Giocondo, in 1504.

• On Dec. 11, 1946, in the aftermath of World War II, the General Assembly of the United Nations votes to establish the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), an organization providing relief and support to children living in countries devastated by the war.

• On Dec. 17, 1975, a federal jury in Sacramento, Calif., sentences Lynette Alice Fromme, also known as "Squeaky" Fromme, to life in prison for shooting President Gerald R. Ford.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• When Benjamin Franklin was the postmaster, he founded the "Pennsylvania Gazette." He wanted it to be successful so badly that he forbade any competing paper to use the mails.

• Proctor and Gamble's Ivory soap is known worldwide for its whiteness and purity, and for the fact that it floats. The floating, however, came about by accident, as the result of an employee's negligence. In the 1870s, a careless worker took a long lunch, leaving a batch of the soap stirring in a vat. Not telling anyone, he shipped the batch out anyway. Suddenly, people across the country sent in orders for more of the "soap that floats." Evidently, the prolonged stirring had beaten air into the soap, and the formula was subsequently revised to include this step.

• These days, graffiti is not just limited to public bathrooms. Seen on an Egyptian pyramid: "I've got pharaohs at the bottom of my garden, too"; and, in the Vatican: "Celibacy is not an inherited characteristic."

• Ostriches have been known to live up to 80 years in the wild. That's longer than the lifespan of the average American man.

• The shortest poem I've come across yet is by an unknown poet and is titled "On the Condition of the United States After Several Years of Prohibition." The text of the poem is: "Wet. Yet."

• It's been reported that if a store plays muzak in French, customers are more likely to buy French wine; if the muzak is in German, the wine they buy is more likely to be German.

• Another memorable quote from that noted wit, Oscar Wilde: "Moderation is a fatal thing, nothing succeeds like excess."

Q. I cleaned out my mother's house and found a box filled with plastic doll furniture. Some of the pieces are too big to be used in a dollhouse. There's a large dining-room suite, a living-room sectional sofa and a set of nursery furniture, including a crib, playpen and bathinette. All the pieces are marked "Ideal." Did Ideal make a huge dollhouse to hold this furniture? Is plastic dollhouse furniture from the '50s collectible?

A. The Ideal Toy Co. started making small, plastic doll furniture in 1947. Early room sets came with kits to make a floor and walls for a room. The pieces could also be used in the inexpensive metal dollhouses produced by several toy companies after the war. Your larger furniture is from Ideal's Young Decorator series, made from 1950 to 1952. It was sized for a 6-inch doll, not for a dollhouse. Each room set came with a floor plan on which a child could arrange the furniture. Ideal's plastic doll furniture, both small and large, is popular with collectors. The nursery bathinette alone sells for $55.

Q. My father was a ham-radio operator from 1920 to 1953. He routinely exchanged "calling" postcards with the other amateur radio operators he reached. The cards list the date, time and frequency of the radio contact. I have inherited 200 of these postcards, but I can no longer store them. Can you think of anyone who would be interested in them?

A. First, check with other family members. One of your father's other children or grandchildren might be happy to take the postcards off your hands. Some of the most interesting could make a good wall display. If that is not an option, call a local historical society or an amateur radio club. If there aren't any or they're not interested, you could contact one of the other hundreds of amateur radio clubs in the country. You might even try Internet chat rooms and online auctions. Or you could place an ad in one of the publications geared to ham-radio operators. Someone would love to own the postcards.

A shopping list for your pet's Christmas

I caught Dodge making out his wish list today.

All morning I watched him making his way slowly around the house, staring with wide, longing eyes at things like the half-empty bag of cat treats on the counter, the frayed ball-and-string toy on the living room floor, and the ragged catnip sock just under the bed.

OK, maybe he was just bored and hungry, but Christmas is coming, and I'm still wondering what his big present will be.

I won't be getting him one of those hundred-dollar automatic litter-scooping boxes. Not that it isn't a brilliant invention, but until they invent a litter-scooping robot that also disposes of the "results" for me, I'm not buying.

No, this year it will be the traditional Christmas. A new string toy, lots of cat treats, and a real catnip ball to replace that funky sock. Dodge will also get a few bites of turkey dinner — he doesn't go for the canned stuff.

What he doesn't know is that he'll also be getting a gift certificate for his annual veterinary exam, and I've already scheduled him for his yearly shots. Catnip and turkey are fine gifts, but caring for your pet's health — though he or she probably won't appreciate it — will ensure many happy Christmases to come.

A CHRISTMAS TIME WORKOUT FOR HOPE — Students from Brenda's Body Shop, along with corporate sponsor Mettiki Coal, will sponsor a special event for the House of Hope. A Christmas Festival is the theme of the fourth annual Workout for Hope event, which will feature various dance and gymnastics performers entertaining with routines to some classic holiday tunes, according to Brenda Broenhan, coordinator. The festival will be held at Southern High School on Sunday, Dec. 17, from 2 until 5 p.m. Pledges raised by the participants will be donated to the House of Hope. The athletes hope to break last year's record of $7,000, according to Broenhan. She said the young people have been working on the project since Autumn Glory, during which they marched in both parades using their Christmas theme to promote the event. Performances will include highlights of various musicals and dance routines. Pictured are some of the athletes slated to perform. They are Rachel Margroff as Clara, Leigh Ann Scheff as the Nutcracker, Morgan Broenhan as the ballerina doll, Mike Fratz as Uncle Crocsmeyer, Kellie Shotwell as the Mouse, Jessica Crocco as the Sugar Plum Fairy, Holly Shaffer as the Arabian dancer, Chelsea Crocco as the Chinese dancer, and Mariana Beltzel as the Snowflake. Some of the elves will be played by Sara King, Samantha Taylor, Anna Keefer, Jessica Warnick, and Tara Marple. There will be no admission fee to the event, but spectators are encouraged to make an open donation at the door. Non-perishable food items will also be accepted and used to stock the House of Hope's food pantry. Refreshments and free photos with Santa Claus will be available. For more information, persons may contact Brenda's Body Shop at 301-334-1275.

Woman Pleads Guilty In Fatal July Accident

An Oakland woman who was driving when a single-vehicle accident killed her juvenile passenger in Oakland this past July pleaded guilty in Garrett County District Court Monday to homicide by motor vehicle while intoxicated, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for the county.

Amanda Lynn Mayle, 20, awaits the result of a presentencing investigation ordered by visiting judge Thomas Lohm. The maximum penalty for homicide by motor vehicle while intoxicated is five years in jail and/or a fine of $5,000.

Oakland City Police officers charged Mayle after an investigation of the 3:15 a.m. July 28 single-vehicle accident that claimed the life of 15-year-old Brandy April Talbot. The mishap occurred near the intersection of Liberty and First streets, Oakland, when the 1991 Buick Mayle was operating swerved to the right and struck a utility pole. The car bounced away from the pole and drifted another block before coming to a stop.

Talbot, who was not wearing a seat belt, was taken by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, and was immediately transferred on to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, where she died the following day.

Field sobriety tests and subsequent blood alcohol tests revealed that Mayle was intoxicated at the time of the crash. A related driving while intoxicated (DWI) charge was merged into Monday's conviction. An accident reconstruction specialist with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office assisted in the investigation.

In other recent district court hearings, a Friendsville woman pleaded guilty to criminal and traffic charges, both stemming from the same April incident.

Arlinda Sue King, 22, was handed a total fine of $355, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 60 hours of community service by Garrett County District Court judge Ralph Burnett. King pleaded guilty to making a false statement to a police officer and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI), while an additional charge of obstructing and hindering a police investigation was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Maryland State Police troopers arrested King in July following an investigation of an incident that took place three months beforehand when King had been apprehended by troopers at a disabled van in the Friendsville area. A reportedly intoxicated King told the officers that another individual had been driving but had fled prior to their arrival. After a thorough search of the area failed to locate the alleged driver, information was received that King had actually been operating the van and had fabricated the story.

Two separate charges of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (specified only as "not marijuana") faced by King were not prosecuted. Those charges stemmed from her July arrest by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, who took her into custody in the wake of a July traffic stop in the Friendsville area. A vehicle search reportedly turned up some material originally suspected to be marijuana, but the original charges of marijuana possession were later amended to reflect a substance other than cannabis.

Robert Andrew Boogher, 51, Friendsville, entered a "not guilty" plea to a malicious destruction of property charge, but was nonetheless convicted by Judge Burnett. Boogher was handed a six-month suspended sentence, fined $555, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to make a $715 restitution payment.

Boogher's May arrest came after state troopers investigated a domestic-related incident during which he scratched the paint of a truck parked in Friendsville.

Michael James Martin, 30, Winchester, Va., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and received a probation before judgment (PBJ) ruling. He was handed a 30-day sentence, all but 2 days of which were suspended, fined $255, placed on six months' unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Martin's June arrest by state troopers came when a traffic stop along Interstate 68 resulted in a vehicle search that uncovered a bag of the drug and a smoking pipe.

ROTARY TREE SIGHTED AT BOE — Rotary Christmas Project trees are standing sentinel throughout Garrett County, including this one at the Oakland headquarters of the Board of Education. School superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets, left, and assistant superintendent Brenda McCartney are among the elves supporting the annual Oakland Rotary Christmas Project, which provides numerous opportunities for interested individuals to volunteer to shop for gifts, wrap gifts, prepare food baskets, and/or deliver items to local children and their families. Volunteer shoppers are asked to return their gift(s) to a Rotary tree no later than this Tuesday, Dec. 12. Preparation of gifts and food baskets is slated for next Friday, Dec. 15, at the project's new location, the Simon Pearce glass manufacturing plant, and delivery will take place the following day. Volunteers are needed for all aspects of the project, and persons may call coordinators Doug Riley at 301-334-8798 or Kathy Zimmerman at 301-334-2820 for information. Tax deductible contributions may be mailed to the Oakland Rotary Club, P.O. Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550.

CRIME WATCH NEWS

Members of the Friendsville Crime Watch set up a table to serve free cups of hot chocolate at the town hall during the Holiday Light Up Night last Friday. The hot chocolate was funded by the Friendsville RAD Group. Members who helped were: Brenda Frazee, Carol Wakefield, Pam Otto, Rachel Diezart, Helen Holiday, and Genne Serio. Also volunteering their time were Heidi Frazee, Ashley Ross, and Cody Wilt. Free pictures of the children with Santa were also offered by the Crime Watch. Brenda Frazee, Pam Otto, and JoAnn Ross were in charge of the photography. This was the first year for the Crime Watch doing this and it was a "huge success." They thank all of those who helped to make it a success and the Mayor and Town Council for letting them participate.

There will be no meeting in December because of the holidays.

The next meeting of the Friendsville Crime Watch is scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 9, at 7 p.m. Anyone who wants to learn more about the crime watch is urged to attend. For more information, contact Jo Ann Ross at 301-746-4210.

FRIENDSVILLE- SPRUCES UP - Before the snowy, blustery weather of winter took hold in Garrett County, residents of Friendsville took the final opportunity of the pleasant autumn weather to spruce up the town and plant bulbs that will blossom in spring. "The fall clean-up was a huge success," said Mayor Spencer R. Schlosnagle, explaining that town employee Dred Lowdermilk pictured above with several inmates worked with Bates Auto Salvage to remove old metal household appliances. Friendsville residents of all ages helped to plant over 1,000 flowering bulbs throughout the town. In the photo below, Rob Kildow, Dave Smith, Shirley Metheny, Fran King, and Jess Whittemore do their part in the planting process.

Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 will be held Thursday, Dec. 14, at the Selbyspour Methodist Church with a covered dish dinner at 6:30 p.m. The ham and drink will be furnished, and there will be no exchange of gifts.

St. Paul's Youth To Present Play Next Tuesday

The youth of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, will present the play Comic Country Christmas by Jack Burchette at the church's Hour Of Praise for Everyone (HOPE) service next Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 7 p.m. in the fellowship hall. In addition, the Youth Choir will be singing, and Claire Wilkenson will also play the piano as part of the evening's program.

Comic Country Christmas features Buster and Martha Smith, an elderly couple, who are awaiting the arrival of their children and grandchildren for a traditional Christmas homecoming. They reminisce about the Christmas in 1955 when their youngest son Ernest, who still believed, hid Santa in their attic. In reality, Santa was a man who had just robbed a bank.

The youth are led by Richard and Anna Buckingham.

The 45-minute, informal HOPE services have been planned and led by the laity of the church and are open to the public. The next service will be on Tuesday, Feb. 13.

St. Paul's United Methodist Church is located on the corner of Fourth and East Oak streets in Oakland. Pastors are the Reverends Roger W. Harrison Jr. and Ann W. Harrison.

NFU Welcomes Announcement Of Livestock Price Reporting Rule

The National Farmers Union (NFU) board of directors welcomed a Nov. 28 announcement by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman of a rule that requires livestock price reporting by meat packers. Farmers Union has been at the forefront of the development of this policy, which will provide an important tool to cattle producers trying to receive fair prices in the livestock marketplace.

"Farmers Union has worked for years with Congress and the administration, as well as farmers and ranchers, to implement this tool that is vital to farmers and ranchers who need reliable market information as they seek a fair price for their cattle," said Leland Swenson, president of NFU and chairman of the board of directors. "Price reporting is one step that will help put power back in the hands of producers."

This rule will make it possible to determine the impact of captive supply on prices. It requires the reporting of market information by packers who annually slaughter an average of 125,000 cattle, 100,000 swine, or 75,000 lambs. Importers who annually import an average of 5,000 metric tons of lamb meat products are also required to report. The rule addresses the problem created with captive supplies by requiring packers to accurately report the prices paid for livestock.

"We will continue our efforts to create markets that are transparent and establish openness and fairness in contract arrangements," said Swenson. "With mergers running rampant in the cattle processing industry, captive supplies making it difficult for livestock producers to sell at a fair price, and contract production squeezing what little profit is left for the rancher, price reporting will provide needed information to producers as well as policymakers whose decisions will spell success for the family-sized operation."

October Egg Production Down Slightly

U.S. egg production totaled 7.11 billion during October 2000, down slightly from the 7.13 billion produced in 1999, according to the National Ag Statistics Service (NASS). Production included 6.04 billion table eggs and 1.07 billion hatching eggs, of which 1.01 billion were broiler-type and 60.0 million were egg-type.

The total number of layers during October 2000 averaged 327 million, up 1% from the total average number of layers during October 1999. October egg production per 100 layers was 2,172 eggs, down 1% from 2,192 eggs in October 1999.

All layers in the U.S. on November 1 totaled 328 million, up slightly from a year ago. The 328 million layers consisted of 272 million layers producing table or commercial type eggs, 53.7 million layers producing broiler-type hatching eggs, and 2.51 million layers producing egg-type hatching eggs. Rate of lay per day on November 1 averaged 70.3 eggs per 100 layers, down 1% from the 70.7 eggs a year ago.

Laying flocks in the 30 major egg producing states produced 6.66 billion eggs during October, down 1% from October 1999.

Md. Ag Prices For October Listed By MASS

Prices Maryland farmers received in October were mixed, with some advancing and some declining, according to the Maryland Ag Statistics Service (MASS).

Wheat increased as expectations for the 2001 crop in the Midwest declined due to dry weather at seeding time. Soybeans were lower as the harvest of a record U.S. crop and the prospect of a larger South American crop are expected.

Corn price should be watched, as expected U.S. yields are not being realized. Cattle and hog prices improved as marketings declined.

Maryland milk price improved as U.S. price declined; both are below October 1999 price.

Broiler prices moved lower in October, but in November 1999 they improved sharply over October.

National Dairy Product Prices Are Highlighted

The National Agricultural Statistics Service has listed the following national prices for dairy products.

Cheddar cheese prices received for US 40-pound blocks averaged $1.04 per pound for the week ending November 25. The price per pound increased 2.8 cents from the previous week. The price for US 500-pound barrels adjusted to 39% moisture averaged $1.00 per pound, up 1.7 cents from the previous week.

Butter prices received for 25-kilogram and 68-pound boxes meeting USDA Grade AA standards averaged $1.72 per pound for the week ending November 25. The U.S. price per pound increased 17.2 cents from the previous week.

Nonfat dry milk prices received for bag, tote and tanker sales meeting USDA

Extra Grade or USPII Grade A standards averaged $1.02 per pound for the week ending November 25. The U.S. price per pound increased slightly from the previous week.

Dry whey prices received for bag, tote and tanker sales meeting USDA Extra Grade standards averaged 19.9 cents per pound for the week ending November 25. The U.S. price per pound increased 0.5 cents from the previous week.

American type cheese production totaled 297 million pounds, 0.7% above October 1999 and 3.4% above September 2000.

Total cheese output (excluding cottage cheese) was 684 million pounds, 1.8% above October 1999 and 4.4% above September 2000.

Cream cottage cheese production was 30.9 million pounds, 3.2% above October 1999 but 2.2% below September 2000.

Lowfat cottage cheese production was 29.5 million pounds, 0.6% above October 1999 but 5.5% below September 2000.

Butter production was 105 million pounds in October, 1.8% above October 1999 and 14.6% above September 2000.

Frozen dessert (comparisons with October 1999): ice cream, regular (hard)—69.7 million gallons, up 11.9%; ice cream, lowfat (total)—29.5 million gallons, up 3.0%; ice cream, nonfat (hard)—2.49 million gallons, down 2.3%; sherbet (hard)—3.56 million gallons, up 0.8%; frozen yogurt (total)—7.00 million gallons, up 12.4%.

Dry milk products (comparisons with October 1999): nonfat dry milk for human food—104 million pounds, down 1.1%; dry whole milk—7.44 million pounds, down 25.4%; dry buttermilk—3.72 million pounds, down 18.3%.

RAM Notes

•The second series of SAT prep classes will begin December 12. The SAT prep classes will be free and open to all students. The classes will meet for six weeks on Tuesdays and Wednesdays after school from 3:30 to 4:30. Math classes will be held in Room 2119, and verbal classes will be held in Room 1229. The verbal class will run from December 13 to January 24, and the math class will run from December 12 to January 23. The classes will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis. Students must sign up in the guidance office.

•The media center at Southern High School is now open to students and community members from 4:30 to 7:30 on Monday, and from 3:30 to 6:30 Tuesday through Friday. Remember, students who wish to stay after school to work in the media center may also benefit from the activity bus.

•Peer counselors will be traveling to Ocean City to attend a workshop to be held from December 6 to 8. •ACT testing will be held at GCC and Allegany College this Saturday, Dec. 9. Students registered to take that test are reminded to leave a little early because of possible inclement weather.

•There will be a S.T.E.A.M. meeting in Room 1145 at 3:15 on Monday, Dec. 11.

•Lisa Bender's marketing class will be going on a field trip to Citicorp Headquarters in Hagerstown on Thursday, Dec. 14.

•Frostburg State University financial aid booklets are now available in the guidance office. These booklets list all the grants, loan programs, and other types of aid offered by FSU, along with many scholarships available to our students, including the Hope scholarships. Parents, if your child has not yet picked one up, encourage him or her to do so ASAP.

•The Oakland Elks Lodge is currently sponsoring two scholarship pro-

ROTARY PROJECT CONTINUES - It is not too late to be part of the countywide Rotary Christmas project. The Grantville Rotary has placed trees with gift requests on them in various businesses in the area. One need only buy the gift listed on the card, and return the wrapped gift to the tree. Rotary members and other volunteers will see that the gift is delivered to a needy child. ## SWANTON NEWS

Those attending Thanksgiving dinner at the home of Irvin and Louise Beckman were Keith, Patty, and Ryan Beckman of Keyser, Shirley, Rick, Chuckie, and Elizabeth Lipscomb of Eggleston, W.Va., Timothy Beckman, Frostburg, Amanda Geisler, McHenry, and Lynn and Mary Beckman, Swanton.

Lissa and Anna Bush of Orlando, Fla., visited her grandparents, Orval and Mareva Teets, on Monday. They had been visiting family and friends in the area during the Thanksgiving holiday. On Friday they traveled to Augusta, W.Va., and spent the night with her sister, Lucinda Davis, and her family. On Saturday, Lissa met her husband David at Dulles Airport, and they returned to Orlando by car. David had been on a mission trip to Peru. David and Jeannie Barth, Canton, Ohio, and Alan Winters, New Market, visited Helen and Bob Winters on Saturday.

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS PAST will be recreated for the holiday season in the historic Drane House in Accident. The plantation home of James and Priscilla Drane is the county's oldest. The log house will be decked out for Christmas in the traditions of the 19th century. In the photo above, René Massengale and Edna Bander don apparel reminiscent of the days of Priscilla Drane as they prepare to welcome guests for a tour of the old homestead. Drane House will be open on Saturday, Dec. 9, from 4 to 6 p.m. as part of the annual celebration of Christmas in Flowery Vale.

Sunday, Dec. 10, following the morning worship service. Everyone is welcome to bring a covered dish and join in the fellowship. Persons are also asked to bring a small gift suitable for a nursing home patient. Members will be visiting Dennett Road Manor at 4 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 11.

The annual Christmas program will be at 6 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 17.

COMMUNITY CENTER
Christmas candy may be picked up at 9 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 9.

The Pot Luck Christmas Dinner will be at 6 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 14. Everyone in the community is invited to bring a dish of food. Santa Claus will arrive at 7:30 p.m. with treats for children of the community.

SENIOR HOT MEAL SITE

Bingo will be played next Tuesday at 10:30 a.m., before the noon meal.

FarmSide Village

FarmSide Village in Accident has opened just in time for the holidays. Located along Rt. 219 south of Accident (29940 Garrett Highway), owner Richard DeWitt offers customers cozy country shopping. At an open house this Saturday, Dec. 9, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., shoppers can purchase gift items for the holidays from a wide variety of candles, pottery, and home accents. They can also pick up a fresh-cut Christmas tree.

DeWitt says that his is "a quaint little shop with a unique country setting, filled with quality home furnishings and gifts, including candles, pottery, linens, and much more."

An enlargement of the store before next season, actually doubling in size and adding an outdoor sales area, is in the planning stage, the owner said.

FarmSide Village can be reached by calling 301-746-8515.

Notes from Bittering

by Joan Sussman

The first sewing lesson was a huge hit. Thelma Emory helped Claire and Caitlin make a couple Christmas stockings for Mery and Maddy Whittemore's birthday present. Maddy turned 6 years old on the 5th. She will have a nice birthday party with a sleep-over on Friday evening.

Caitlin and Claire also made a bunch of car warmers. They used one of them for one of their jingle presents for the Bittering 4-11

Club Christmas party, held at the fire hall on Sunday evening. 4-11 members and their families, plus a few special guests, enjoyed a turkey dinner with all the trimmings. I can't believe I ate so much. The dinner was cooked by Don and Jane Sealing and Jenny Marple. They also had an initiation ceremony for all the new members, including Gretchen and Hannah Avis, daughters of Steve and Patty Dielham of Peat Boz Road, and April and

Installation of new officers of the year 2001 was conducted. Some are repeat officers from last year, including: president, Robbie Glotfelty; vice-president, Claire Sussman; secretary, Blakely Glotfelty; and treasurer, Andrew Hady. Darry and Elliot Glotfelty, who were reporters last year, were replaced by Matthew Bass for the new year. Robbie and Claire did a short program for the new members, explaining the 4-11 motto — "Make the Best Better" — and also what the 4-11 pledge means. The pledge is as follows: "I pledge my head for clearer thinking, my heart for greater loyalty, my hands for greater service, and my health for better living for my club, my community, my country, and our world." The current members, officers of the club, and the new members always have shiny faces filled with promise, and look so serious when they say the pledge. They will try to live up to their pledge.

Sometimes appearances can be deceiving. For example, on the way home after the 4-11 dinner, nothing could look more lovely as the road through the Brennenman Grove with the snow covering the split-rail fence, but the road was sheer ice under the pretty surface of snow, as several drivers over the weekend could tell you. A couple sections of fence were moved down by a couple of skidding cars, plus just down the road above Kathleen Bowser's house, a car skidded off the road and down the bank until it was stopped by some good-size trees. I recall one Sunday morning during the winter when I pulled out on Rock Lodge Road just after Ida Reckner and Martha Glotfelty passed. Just before the end of the grove, a huge tree was lying across the road, and just past the downed tree there sat the ladies unscratched. It must have just missed them by a minute or less. But that is enough about what danger sometimes lurks in that beautiful place.

A few unfamiliar faces were at the dinner, and since I am always watching out for some news for this column, I introduced myself.

Name Added To SHS Honor Roll

The list of Southern High School honor roll students submitted for publication in last week's edition of The Republican omitted the name of Maygel Skeweris from the Grade 12 list of the Distinguished Honor Roll.

DCL LIONS DONATE TO ROTARY PROJECT — Civic service knows no boundaries in Garrett County, as the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club made a $1,000 donation to the Oakland Rotary Christmas Project recently to help purchase gifts for needy children. The two civic groups are among many local organizations and individuals that are pooling financial and volunteer resources to make this year's project one of the biggest ever. Shown from the left are Goldie Shugars, DCL Lions chairperson for the Christmas Project; Kathy Zimmerman, the project's co-chair; and Robin Weaver of the DCL Lions Christmas Committee. Over 400 families will be served by this year's Rotary Christmas Project, and persons interested in adding their donation or volunteering to serve may contact Zimmerman at 301-334-2820.

to them and asked who they were. Becky Bowser, the main chef for the 4-11 club buckwheat cake dinner, and her husband told me who they were, along with Lewis and Pat Lohr of Swanton. I told Becky she knows what she is doing with the buckwheat because even with the large volume of the dinner her cakes are perfect. She also had the prayer before dinner. I found out that she is the mother of Roger Bowser, who was one of my NIS classmates. They now live in Deer Park. Roger and his wife live upstairs from his mother. Pat told me she grew up just up the road from my family farm on the old farm where Rock Lodge is now standing. I probably should know them. They did look familiar and, I suppose, probably attended many events with them before, such as the buckwheat dinners or the Bittering Picnic.

They probably are some kind of distant cousins of mine. Just about everyone in this "neck of the woods" is related.

This coming Sunday will be a busy day for some of the youth of Emmanuel Lutheran Church. Pastor Pat has moved up the time for the confirmation class to 4:30, following a rehearsal for a special song to be performed by the Youth Group for the joint 10 a.m. Advent service at Emmanuel on December 24. At 6:30 all will move to the Bittering fire hall for their annual Christmas party, featuring our one and only Bill Emory as Santa Claus. Parents with children attending should bring a wrapped gift for their child to be given to them by Santa. I believe each family is also to bring with them a finger food for the covered dish meal.

Sheila Southerly and Pastor Pat are planning a service of lessons and Christmas carols scheduled for our regular 10 a.m. service on December 31.

Basketball is in full swing in the area, with various age groups beginning their regular season. Playing on Northern Middle School's 8th grade team from the Bittering area are Tyler Brennenman, Max Beitzel, and Matthew Bass. Playing on the 7th grade team are Mitch Fost and Justin Orndorff. Northern JV team members from our area are Landon Southerly and Brent Housley.

Lea Stanton and her roommate, Amy Schomberg, spent the Thanksgiving holiday with Sam and Cindy Stanton.

Ruth DiPaolo and Jane and Don Sealing attended the annual Hospice Christmas luncheon at Will O' the Wisp on Saturday to recognize the volunteers involved in Hospice. Ferné Beachy was one of the winners of a lamb donated to Hospice at the Garrett County Fair. Approximately $5,000 was raised by the drawing. Twelve winners were picked from the many tickets sold.

A daughter, Annie Charlene, was born to Jay and Charlene Moon last Thursday, Nov. 29, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Jay Moon is the son of Beulah Moon.

Jol-Ilen Graham, St. Albans, is visiting with her sister, Beulah Moon, for several days.

The Christmas Eve traditional evening service will afternoon. She is recovering from recent heart surgery and a slight stroke.

Patty Dielham visited her mother in Towson last week. Her mother is recovering from gall bladder surgery.

Northern GOP Women To Hold Holiday Lunch

The annual Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Christmas luncheon will be held Saturday, Dec. 9, at 12:30 p.m. at the Hilltop Restaurant in Grantsville. A Christmas fruit basket and a cookie basket will be prepared by Mildred Hesselbaugh, Carol Frazee, Zeola Roberson, and Nancy Hafer DeVore.

Club president Carolyn Ganoce will report on the No Child Left Behind program, through which library books and school supplies were donated to Route 40, Accident, and Friendsville elementary schools. Sen. John Hafer and Del. George Edwards participated in the Grantsville School donation, and Camilla Rowe of the Garrett County Board of Education was present for in the Route 40 event.

Members also took part in the Mamie Eisenhower/Barbara Bush Library project by donating books to the Ruth Enlow Library. Copies of the book selected, To The Best Of My Ability, were presented to the Accident branch of the library in memory of club founder and charter member Cora Bowser and to the Grantsville branch in memory of Bonnie Bowman — daughter of club member Cleda Baker — and other deceased club members.

Ganoce will also report to the club on the efforts of many members who volunteered as shoppers for the Warm the Children campaign. The program for the December meeting, A Christmas Gift, will be presented by Carol Frazee. Membership dues for 2001 will be accepted during the meeting.

The club's Christmas Love Gift will be divided this year between the Dove Center and the Mtn. Top Crisis Pregnancy Center.

All members and friends are invited to attend this holiday luncheon meeting.

COVE

St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will be going carolling on December 17, beginning at 4 p.m. Everyone is invited. Chili and refreshments will follow in the fellowship hall.

St. John's Lutheran Church Ladies Aid will meet Thursday, Dec. 14, at 7 p.m.

The Cove Kids 4-H Club will hold its Christmas dinner on December 12, beginning at 6 p.m. in the St. John's fellowship hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bender and family attended the wedding of Brian Bender and Kelly Friend on Saturday at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church.

Brian is the son of Orin and Fanny Bender, and Kelly is the daughter of Jim and Esther Friend. A reception followed at the Dry Run gym. The couple will reside in Accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bender and family were among the guests who attended the wedding of Brian Bender and Kelly Friend on Saturday, and also attended the reception at the Dry Run gym.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schmidt were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Schmidt and daughter Danyel, Springs.

Friday overnight visitors of Mrs. Myrtle Hanft were Charles Needer and sons, Timonium. Other visitors of Mrs. Hanft throughout the week were Ted and Fred Higson, Cumberland, and Robert McMillan, Midland. Mrs. Myrtle Hanft and Carroll Hanft and daughters were among the members of the Garrett County Horseman's Association

OVER 11,000 PENNIES and hundreds of other coins added up at Broad Ford Elementary School for a total Warm the Children donation of $536.93 this year. The children pictured, mainly kindergartners, came to school with their pockets nearly dragging the ground, full of change to donate to the fund, according to Bonnie Swyter, school counselor. "They really got excited about it, and enjoyed the fact that they were helping other children," Ms. Swyter said. The Warm the Children project, coordinated at The Republican newspaper, provides new warm clothing for local children in need. All money donated goes toward the purchase of the clothing and footwear. Several older children helped with the fund drive, Swyter said, and many parents sent in checks to add to the money. Fourth graders who helped or-

Mr. and Mrs. Markel Maust had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maust and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Maust on Sunday afternoon and saw the Hoppers in Oakland. The group visited with Mr. and Mrs. Alva Maust on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Krause were Sunday and Monday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Deniker.

Mrs. Alfreda Friend and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charly

Ahern and son Nicholas.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Funk and sons viewed the Christmas lights with the St. John's Lutheran Church on Sunday evening in Pittsburgh.

Visitors for a few days last week of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Joslin and son Andrew were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Joslin, Brookville, Ohio.

Sunday afternoon dinner guests of Mrs. Joyce Paugh and daughter Melissa were Mr. and Mrs. Don Uphole and Matthew Jones, Oakland. A Saturday overnight guest of Mrs. Paugh and daughter was Rebecca Thomas. Monday evening visitors were Linda Thomas and son Keaton.

J.R. Thomas was a Satur-

"The Best Christmas Gift I Ever Received"

As part of this special publication, The Republican sponsored an essay contest for local youth, with two divisions of competition: ages 7-9 and ages 10-12. The participants were asked to write on the topic "The Best Christmas Gift I Ever Received." Numerous essays were received, and the judging of them was extremely difficult. The winners of the contest, who will receive gift certificates as prizes, were as follows:

AGES 10-12 •

FIRST PLACE
Krista Ridder
Oakland

Before I was born my grandfather thought of a very special gift for me. It was coins — pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters, and some silver dollars. He collected them ever since he heard I was going to be born. They each had the year of my birth on them. They were placed in a plastic frame that you could see through.

My grandfather was very sick, and so he gave this gift to my mom to give to me on Christmas Day. It was sad, because he died before Christmas and wasn't there to give it to me himself.

Even though I was too young then, it was later shown to me and explained when I was 2 or 3 years old. My mom does not want me to lose it, so she keeps it in her security box. I will always love this special gift.

SECOND PLACE
Megan Kamp
Grantsville

The best Christmas gift I ever received is being able to be with my family. We have a lot of get-togethers and I get to see all of my relatives. On Christmas Eve we always go to church for the candlelight service. That is so beautiful; I really enjoy that. Sometimes after church we go around and look at all the different Christmas lights. We also listen to Christmas music in the car on the way over to my aunt's house for a birthday party for my cousin Mandy. After the party we go home and get ready for bed.

Christmas morning we get up and get into our stockings to find our candy and a little present. We fix breakfast and wait 'til Dad comes in so that we can all be together to open our presents. Then we get ready to go to Grandma's house for lunch and to open more presents. We have turkey, ham, potatoes, corn, green beans, sweet potato casserole, rolls, pies, cookies, and stuffing. When we are finished there we go back to our grandfather's house to see the rest of my relatives and get more presents.

I always have a great time at Christmas. That is the best time of the year for me. To me the greatest gift I could ever receive is family.

THIRD PLACE
Kasie Fratz
Accident

Five years ago I received my best Christmas gift ever. My present was a very little puppy which looked like a fur ball. I was five years old when I asked for a puppy, but I never thought I would get one. Two days before Christmas my friend got two puppies, and that just made me want a puppy even more. My mom and dad said we weren't getting any more dogs and that made me feel sad. When we went to our Christmas program at church on Christmas Eve I had a big surprise when I got home — there he was, my puppy. We named him Bobby, he was a big part of my life for five years. Then we were on vacation this summer and a friend was watching him for us. She let Bobby out to play, and someone picked him up. I was very sad and I thought I should come home and look for him. Five months have passed and Bobby has not returned.

Even though someone took my dog I hope that Bobby's sixth Christmas will be as good as the ones we spent together. I still think of Bobby and what a wonderful Christmas gift he was.

bunk was mine. (I chose the bottom bunk because it folded into a couch if I wanted it to.) Of course my little sister Jaime, on the top bunk, would still try to sleep with me when she got scared of the dark or had a bad dream, but she finally began to stay in her own bunk. I still use my bunk bed, and it's still the best Christmas gift I ever received.

Tasha Stempie
Oakland

The first thing I would like to let you know is how much I love my little sister; however, I have always wished for my own bed. You see, my sister Jaime and I have had to share a bed. Having blankets pulled off me and getting kicked out of bed was really getting annoying!

One Christmas morning (two years ago), after reading from my Bible, I went to see my Christmas gifts. There by the tree was a huge enormous, gigantic gift with my name on it! I was shocked when I opened it. It was just what I always wanted — a bunk bed just for me.

Well, at least the bottom

My parents always try to make Christmas not only a time of getting gifts but giving gifts. My mom tells me "you reap what you sow." In giving to others, God will give to me.

I can remember lots of my Christmas gifts, from dolls to clothes. If I had to pick just one I would pick my china tea set. I got it when I was 5. What makes it so special to me is not the tea set itself.

It's all the fun my sister Brianna and I had playing with it.

Brianna and I would get our dad to make tea and give us cookies to serve our mom. My sister and I have had a lot of fun since then playing with my tea set. Each time we fight my mom tells me of all the fun times we had playing together, having tea parties. I thank God for Christmas.

SECOND PLACE
Whitney Glotfelty
Grantsville

Christmas Eve of 1995 my family was riding home to our house when I spotted a blue light in the sky and asked my mom, "Is that one of Santa's sleigh lights?"

The next day my Grandma Glotfelty and other relatives came to our house for Christmas and we opened presents. About 10 a.m., my dad saw two envelopes under the tree and handed one to me and the other to my brother. Part of the note read: "Dear Whitney. The next and last gift I left for you is something you will have to give to also. It will need a lot of care and attention. It will probably be just like a friend in time to come. I didn't have a box that fit, so I put it where your Daddy could find it."

At the end of the note it read, "It is taking me a long time to get through Grantsville. You had a snowstorm, and one of my headlights on my sleigh has turned blue."

Then my dad carried in two furballs — two black Lab puppies.

THIRD PLACE
Ryan Sweltzer
Oakland

I needed some money to buy a Playstation game. So Christmas came and I did not get the game. But two of my cards had money in them. My grandma gave me $50 and my nana gave me $50. Now I had enough to go to the mall and buy the game.

My parents and I went to the mall. We walked to the electronics store and looked around the store. We could not find the game. I thought they were all sold out. I went to the toy store, and there it was, the game I wanted. It made me feel really good to use my Christmas money.

There was change left over, so I put it in the big bucket the lady was standing beside of. She was ringing a bell for donations.

When I left the mall, I felt happy to be able to help others. It was a better feeling than getting a new game.

HONORABLE MENTION
Josh Daniels
Oakland

The best Christmas gift I ever received was my tool chest. I had put it on a Christmas wish list. On Christmas morning there was a gigantic package wrapped with my name on it, sitting beside our tree. My brother, my mom, and my dad were with me while I opened my gift.

I was so excited as I tore off the wrapping paper and saw the picture on the box. I was tickled pink and cried in a happy way.

I wanted to put it together at that very moment. When I finally got it together, I was able to fill it with all my tools. My tool chest is red and has three drawers and a large door, and moves on wheels, just like my dad's. I received some crafts also, so I was able to put my tool chest to use right away.

Local Rotary Clubs Continue To Collect Food, Gifts For Holiday

ROTARY PROJECT CONTINUES - It is not too late to be part of the countywide Rotary Christmas project. Grantsville mayor Gerry Beachy, owner of Beachy's Pharmacy, is pictured here standing by the Rotary tree in his store with Grantsville Rotary Club president Joe Bender.

The Rotary clubs of Garrett County (Oakland and Grantsville) continue to work on their annual project of collecting items to be distributed to the needy for Christmas. Last year, through this effort more than 40,000 lbs. of food as well as gifts of clothing and toys were distributed to over 400 families countywide.

Gifts and toys are to be for children age 12 and below. Doug Riley of the Oakland club, which is the primary sponsor, explained that these 400 families were divided equally throughout the county, with one-third in the southern part of the county, one-third in the central part of the county, and one-third in the northern section.

The primary method of obtaining gifts and food for these families is through donations. Displays or trees are placed in businesses, churches, and other locations throughout the community, which have a number of tags included indicating what is needed. A person may remove a tag, purchase the item, attach the tag to the gift, and then place it under the tree from which the tag was removed.

Tags are also provided on

All Invited To MLP Christmas Caroling Night

The first annual Christmas Caroling Night in Mtn. Lake Park is set for Wednesday, Dec. 20, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. inside the MLP ticket booth, located at the intersection of G and Spruce streets. Sponsored by Junior Girl Scout Troop 5020, the community event will feature singing, holiday refreshments, and the announcement of winners of the town's Christmas home decorating contest (see separate story).

"We encourage all to attend, bring their best voice, meet the contest winners, and enjoy holiday refreshments," said a town spokesperson.

Clubs Continue

all Rotary trees in Grantsville as a reminder that dollars are also needed to buy food. Food costs last year ran about $17,000 with only $7,000 received in donations. The remaining amount was provided from the clubs' general funds.

The Rotary clubs will pick up the item and arrange delivery.

Joe Bender of the Grantsville club said that gift tag trees for that area will be in the Grantsville library, First United Bank & Trust, M&T Bank, and the Holiday Inn of Grantsville. A food tag tree is located at Foodland in the Grantsville Plaza.

Bender noted that all tags in the Grantsville area are for families in Northern Garrett County. Persons unable to get to one of the above northern Garrett county locations to obtain a tag may call Bender at 814-662-4366 and he will see that a tag is provided.

Bender also said that monetary donations would be greatly appreciated and accepted. Checks payable to the Grantsville Rotary Christmas Project may be mailed to Grantsville Rotary, P.O. Box 358, Grantsville, MD 21536 or dropped off at any Rotary tree location.

"The collection period runs only through December 12, therefore, those interested should act now," Bender said. Collections throughout the county are then assembled and sorted into family units on December 15, with delivery to the homes scheduled for December 16.

Christmas On Main Street Schedule Of Events Noted

In celebration of the holiday season, a number of events and activities are being held in downtown Oakland throughout the month of December. The season opened with the official tree lighting and a visit from Santa Claus on Friday, Dec. 1, followed on Saturday by more visiting with Santa. A small petting zoo was featured on Saturday, too, allowing children to see a real reindeer and to hold baby goats.

The following is a schedule of the remaining "Christmas on Main Street" events:

Today, December 7:

Be educated at Rudy's on Second Street. Check out the Monet Counter at 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. to find demonstrations on selecting the most flattering necklace length. No purchase necessary.

Enjoy the holiday bazaar, bake sale, and turkey dinner at the Mary Browning Senior Center, 104 E. Center Street, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Crafts made by local seniors. Turkey dinner with all the trimmings from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Cost is $5.50. Take-outs will be available.

Christmas Fest Will Be Theme Of Brenda's Body Shop Hope Workout

Students from Brenda's Body Shop, along with corporate sponsor Mettiki Coal, will sponsor a special event for the House of Hope. A Christmas Festival is the theme of the fourth annual Workout for Hope event, which will feature various dance and gymnastics performers entertaining with routines to some classic holiday tunes, according to Brenda Brosnihan, coordinator. The festival will be held at Southern High School on Sunday, Dec. 17, from 2 until 5 p.m. Participants have been seeking pledges from family and friends, which will all be donated to the House of Hope.

Brosnihan said the young people have been working on the project since Autumn Glory, during which they marched in both parades using their Christmas theme to promote the upcoming event.

"The past three years our Workout for Hope has been very successful, with the combined total earnings over $20,000. This year we are hopeful to break last year's record and exceed $7,000," said Brosnihan.

"We are so thankful to these youth for all their talents and hard work," said

Consumer-Provider Party Slated To Provide Harmony Among Participants

Right Step — a drop-in center for mental health consumers — in cooperation with various providers of mental health services in Garrett County, will hold its first consumer-provider Christmas party. This holiday event will take place at the Oakland offices of the Department of Social Services on Thursday, Dec. 14, 5:30-8:30 p.m. A ham and turkey dinner is planned, with guests asked to bring a covered dish or a dessert.

"One reason we are having this party is to bring together service providers from the different agencies and the Hope Workout

Carol Smith of the House of Hope. "We are especially excited this year to have Mettiki Coal Company as our corporate sponsor. Their generosity allows the Christmas Festival to be a really special event for these kids who have worked so hard."

There will be a performance depicting highlights of the "Nutcracker, All Jazzed Up." Michael Fratz will portray Uncle Drosselmeyer, and Leigh Ann Schefft, playing the Nutcracker, will engage in the classic duel with the Mouse Queen, played by Marlana Beitzel.

"The Waltz of the Snowflakes" will be a grand ensemble including several adult dancers, according to Brosnihan. "We have been having lots of fun putting a new twist on the Nutcracker by jazzing it up. The soundtrack was re-orchestrated with a techno, funk, and disco beat, while the choreography features jazz instead of ballet," she said. "Many of our students are looking forward to attending other performances of the Nutcracker in the tri-state area with new insight and appreciation."

Brosnihan said the Christmas Festival will provide entertainment for the whole family. There will be no admission fee, but spectators are encouraged to make an open donation at the door. Non-perishable food items will also be accepted and used to stock the House of Hope's food pantry. Refreshments and free photos with Santa Claus will be available. For more information, persons may contact Brenda's Body Shop at 301-334-1275.

consumers of those services. Hopefully, getting together in a relaxed situation will encourage better understanding among these groups," said Right Step president Doug Davis.

A committee representing the Department of Social Services, Mountain Top Mental Health Associates Inc., the National Alliance for Mental Illness, the Garrett County Health Department, and Right Step planned this event to also appeal to the families of consumers and providers. "An e-mail was sent to Santa at the North Pole requesting that he make time in his busy schedule to stop by the party with a treat for the children," Davis said.

In addition to the dinner and treats, there will be music provided by Jim Kisner of Big Jim's D.J. and Karaoke Service.

This party will provide an opportunity for greater understanding through education and information sharing, and for establishing a better network among those in the mental health community of Garrett County, Davis noted. "Christmas is the time of year for sharing, caring, and making amends. Consumers and providers need to work more closely in the mental health system to make it work," he said.

The Gift That Keeps On Giving...

While puppies and toys may provide instant delight, opening an interest-earning savings account or CD for your young child or grandchild, can lead to even greater rewards in the future. Like help with a college education, a first apartment or a secondhand set of wheels.

And while we don't want to see them grow up any faster than you do, the truth is that the sooner you start putting a little away, the more time you gain to make that money pay.

This year, come in and open a gift that will keep on giving...for years to come.

Garrett Choral Society To Perform Handel's Messiah

The Garrett Choral Society will present G.F. Handel's Messiah this weekend, Dec. 9 and 10, with four featured singers performing as soloists. The concerts will be given at the Faith Evangelical Free Church on Saturday, Dec. 9, at 7:30 p.m., and on Sunday, Dec. 10, at 2 p.m. Tickets are $8 for adults (youth under 12 will be admitted free). They are available for purchase at Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland.

California native Kristin Peterson will sing the lyric soprano solos, and Garrett Countian David Callis will be the bass soloist. Michael Horton of California and Mtn. Lake Park will serve as the tenor soloist, and Myrna Paris of Pittsburgh will sing the mezzo soprano solos.

Ms. Peterson has performed with opera companies such as the Los Angeles

Opera, Opera Pacific, and the Long Beach Opera, as well as various regional theatre companies. California venues have granted her leading performances in The Magic Flute, La Bohème, Riders to the Sea, Dido and Aeneas, Die Fledermaus, The Mikado, The Pirates of Penzance, The Most Happy Fella, and West Side Story, among others.

Audiences in Wichita, Kan., and Birmingham, Ala., have seen her in Kismet, West Side Story, Into the Woods, Show Boat, and The Most Happy Fella. Her solo concert repertoire includes performances of Respighi's "Laud to the Nativity," Brahms's Ein Deutsches Requiem, Mahler's Symphony No. 4, Michael Haydn's Mass, F.J. Haydn's Lord Nelson Mass, and Vivaldi's Gloria.

Ms. Peterson contributed to a CD recording of Welsh songs for composer Michael J. Lewis. Her television credits include "The Jersey" and "Life and Times" with Luciano Pavarotti, as well as commercials for Ford Explorer and the Rug Doctor. Her career has included performances throughout Asia and Europe. Ms. Peterson said she is pleased to be making her Maryland debut.

David Callis is a lifelong resident of Garrett County. He has sung with the Garrett Choral Society since its inception, and has performed as a soloist in the society's productions of Amahl and the Night Visitors, Oliver, Fiddler on the Roof, South Pacific, and H.M.S. Pinafore.

In addition to extensive work as a soloist, Callis has sung with gospel quartets and barbershop choruses and quartets, including the 1991 Johnny Appleseed District Quartet champion, Mason Dixon Line. He resides in Loch Lynn with his wife Mary and their three children.

Myrna Paris has an extensive career background, having sung the Messiah with the symphonies of Denver, Virginia, Johnstown (Pa.), and Pittsburgh. Most recently she appeared with the Sante Fe Opera in The Beggar's Opera, receiving rave reviews for her talents. This past summer, Ms. Paris performed in Central City (Colo.) Opera's production of Candide.

In the spring of 2001, she will make her New York City Opera debut as Mama McCourt in Douglas Moore's Ballad of Baby Doe, a work in which she can also be heard in a Newport Classics recording. She said she is pleased to be making her Maryland debut.

Since moving from Europe to the United States in 1993, Michael Horton has debuted at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion as soloist with the Los Angeles Master Chorale in a presentation of Messiah, in Benjamin Britten's Rejoice in the Lamb with conductor Paul Salamunovich, with the San Diego Symphony as Camille in The Merry Widow, and in the Pacific Symphony Orchestra's From Vienna to Broadway.

Horton starred in the Hamburg (Germany) production of Andrew Lloyd Webber's Phantom of the Opera as Andre and Ryer, under the direction of Hal Prince. He also starred in Cats and Jesus every Monday and Thursday until Christmas.

December 12:

Treat yourself to a special holiday sandwich, Noël Christmas Chicken Salad, made and priced especially for you at Lydia's French Connection on Alder Street. While you are there, enjoy free samples of baked goodies available for holiday festivities.

Be assisted at Rudy's on Second Street. Ladies' "Try-On" Night from 4 until 8 p.m. Get fitted with the assistance of Santa's helpers and fill out a wish list. Rudy's will do their best to try to make your wishes come true.

Be tied up at Marvin's Men's Wear. Learn to tie the perfect knot: Windsor, Half-Windsor, Four-in-Hand. Marvin's staff will demonstrate the art of tying ties. Which knot is best for you? Come in and find out. Even learn to tie a bow tie! Buy any J. Garcia, Grateful Dead, or Nature Conservancy tie during the demonstration and receive a complimentary J. Garcia (a $35 retail value). 4-8 p.m.

December 13:

Be inspired at Bach's Lunch. Organ Noels of Southern France. Free music commemorating the 250th anniversary of the death of Johann Sebastian Bach. St. Matthew's Episcopal Church (corner of Second and Liberty streets) at noon.

Be entertained at the Book Mark'et on Second Street at 6:30 p.m. Miss Rebecca will read a Christmas story to entertain the young ones while busy shoppers make in-store book and gift selections. As usual, the staff will be there to help make selections and provide complimentary gift wrapping.

Be glamorous for the holidays with the help of the Charmette Beauty Salon. Receive a complimentary eyebrow shaping with any regular appointment. Call Charmette Salon on Water Street to make your appointment and get your free shaping.

December 14:

Be less stressed at Rudy's on Second Street where Men's Shopping Night will take place from 4 until 8 p.m.

'Twas the month of Christmas and all through the house: Decorate your home for the holidays with timely suggestions from the professional staff at the Decorator's Nook on Water Street. If you have an object that you want to build a holiday theme around, bring it with you and get some innovative suggestions while enjoying coffee, tea, and sweets — all complimentary at the Decorator's Nook every Monday and Thursday until Christmas.

December 15:

Be jovial at Joe Boxer Good Nite at Marvin's. This is not your grandpa's underwear. Joe Boxer is the leader in novelty underwear and lounge wear. Pick out one to fit the personality of someone you love — tiger stripes, candy canes, or even surprise glow-in-the-dark prints. Great selection plus 25% savings on Joe Boxer Good Nite at Marvin's, 4-8 p.m.

Stimulate your tastebuds with Complimentary Tasty Tastings of Stone Wall Kitchen Sun-Dried Tomato Mustard at Water Street Market Place, Alder Street, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Consumers Should "Play It Safe" With Toys This Holiday Season

For most adults, the holidays symbolize festive parties, delicious food, and spending time with loved ones. For children, the entire season has another meaning: toys. Whether it's the latest high-tech video game or something as simple and timeless as a stuffed animal, nothing puts a smile on a child's face faster than a freshly unwrapped plaything.

In addition to stressing the importance of holiday decorating and fire safety through its Operation Decoration campaign, Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL), in cooperation with the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), is working for a safer world by reminding children and adults that toys can pose certain safety risks.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), over 143,000 children were treated in hospital emergency rooms for toy-related injuries in 1999 alone. To play it safe this holiday season, and all year long, the safety professionals at UL and the NFPA offer the following tips and precautions for toy safety:

- When shopping for toys, especially electrical toys, look for markings that indicate the product has been tested for safety by an independent, third-party product safety and certification organization, such as UL. If you spot a UL mark on a toy, it means that samples of that toy have been tested (dropped, pulled, tugged at, and generally torn apart) by UL engineering staff and found to comply with appropriate safety requirements.

- Pay close attention to the recommended age designation marked on the toy or its packaging. Always make sure the child's age matches or exceeds the manufacturer's recommended age specification.

- Before children play with a new toy, read the manufacturer's warning markings, and, if applicable, the use and care booklet. Make sure you and your children understand the proper way to play with the toy.

- Immediately discard plastic packaging and gift-wrapping — these materials can pose a suffocation hazard.

- Initially and periodically inspect toys for cracks, breaks, ripped seams, etc. Parts from damaged toys can break off and become a choke hazard. Sharp edges can cause dangerous cuts or other abrasions.

Cuppett, Weeks Residents "Up For Adoption"

To spread the joy of Christmas to someone who may be alone on that special holiday, one may consider the "Adopt-a-Resident" program at Cuppett & Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland. By placing a call to the activities department at the residence, one may learn about a man or woman living there who has no family to remember him or her on Christmas morning.

Gift ideas will be suggested by activities director Bette Joe Hudnall, and the "adoptive" family member may choose to purchase one of these items to be gift-wrapped and given to the resident on Christmas morning. "We have set the date of December 18 for all gifts to be in to the facility," said Hudnall. This allows the staff to be certain that no one is overlooked and that everyone will receive a gift.

Cuppett & Weeks also invites family and friends to celebrate Christmas morning with their loved ones. Santa Claus will be on hand to present gifts, and there will be caroling and refreshments.

For more information on the Adopt-a-Resident program, persons may call Hudnall at 301-334-2319.

Accident Planning Group Will Hold Christmas Ball

All residents of the Accident community are invited to attend the Christmas Ball Dance on Saturday, Dec. 9, at the fire hall. The free family-oriented event will feature music by a DJ, dancing, games (including Say "No" Bingo), door prizes, and refreshments.

"For those who are interested, there will be opportunities to have memento photos taken. There is a $1 charge for this, but in past years we have found that people really seem to like to get together with their friends for a photo," said event coordinator Virginia Fike.

The Christmas Ball Dance is sponsored by the Accident

Community Planning Group. People of all ages are welcome, but children under 11 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian, Fike explained. For more information, persons may call 301-746-8944

Second Joy Of Christ Event Slated For Week Of Dec. 11-15

JOY OF CHRIST PERFORMERS — The Joy of Christ Celebration, slated for Dec. 11-15 at the National Guard Armory in Oakland, will feature a number of local and nationally known musicians performing in a variety of genres free of charge. Scott Monroe, shown above, is a noted saxophonist and recording artist from Chattanooga, Tenn., who blends the musical styles of rhythm and blues, pop, jazz, blues, and gospel to present "a dynamic praise and worship experience." Frostburg's Greg Latta, below left, is an award-winning multi-instrumentalist and singer/songwriter who will be performing a selection of Christmas music on the hammered dulcimer, guitar, Irish bouzouki, and concertina. See Joy of Christ Celebration schedule for specific date/time information. The five-night series will also include a CD giveaway each evening, as 1,500 CDs of Christmas music will be distributed free of charge. One of the featured performers on the 12-track recording is Cynthia Jordan, lower right, of Hendersonville, Tenn. Jordan is a pianist who wrote the hit song "Jose Cuervo," which was recorded by country music star Shelly West and was named the top country song of 1993 by both Billboard and R&R magazines. For further information on the Joy of Christ Celebration interested persons may call 301-334-3122 or consult the event's web site at www.joyofchrist.com.

A variety of bands, church organizations, schools, and other performers will mark the season with song, mime, poetry, and praise during the five-night event, and food, refreshments, coloring/activity books, and Christmas music CDs will be available free of charge.

"The Joy of Christ Celebration is an inspirational, family-oriented, and energy-filled event designed to provide a non-denominational celebration of the birth of Jesus," event coordinator Paul Browning said. "It offers a refreshing change from the ever-present commercialism of the season."

Hundreds of free CDs of Christmas music featuring top-quality recordings from a wide variety of musical genres will be given away each night. Each CD will be ac-

"Breakfast with Santa" is set for Saturday, Dec. 16, from 8:30 to 11 a.m. at the Kitzmiller fire hall. The family-oriented meal will feature a menu of pancakes, bacon, scrambled eggs, toast, juice, and coffee, at a cost of $5 for adults and $2.50 for children age 3-12. Children under 3 eat free of charge.

A pair of annual Christmas programs will be presented at two Assembly of God churches the following evening, Sunday, Dec. 17. The Highway Assembly of God will present "Beyond the Manger to the Cross," and the Sunday school class of the Kitzmiller Assembly of God will present a program of its own as well. Both events get under way at 7 p.m.

A community Christmas caroling event will take place the evening of Wednesday, Dec. 20. Carolers are asked to meet at the Kitzmiller Assembly of God Church, located along Main Street, at 6 p.m. Hot chocolate and cookies will be served after the group makes its rounds.

A Christmas Eve candle-light service is slated for 6 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 24, at the Kitzmiller Assembly of God.

A New Year's Eve "Watch Night" service will take place at the Kitzmiller Assembly of God on Monday, Dec. 31, beginning at 9 p.m. Food will be available at the fellowship-oriented event.

accompanied by a booklet of song lyrics and a devotional for each. In addition to the free CD distributions, area restaurants and volunteers will be on hand each evening to supply free food and drink, allowing all interested families and individuals to arrive early and stay late.

An added feature of the annual Joy of Christ Celebration are the lighted Christmas displays that decorate downtown Oakland. The two bridges that cross the Little Youghiogheny River, the riverbank, and the Rotary Park located next to the Oakland municipal parking lot are currently decorated with lighted displays that add beauty to the natural nighttime landscape. The decorations will be on display through the end of the month.

For further information of the Joy of Christ Celebration, interested persons may consult the event's web site at www.joyofchrist.com or call 301-334-3122.

CARDS OF HOPE, a collection of 12 full-color Christmas greeting cards designed by young cancer patients and family members, includes the two original works (reproduced in smaller size) shown here created by Becky and Steven Diller of Dry Run Road. Sales proceeds benefit the annual U.S. Children's Cancer Care and Research Fund, a joint project of the Mary Babb Randolph Center and West Virginia University Children's Hospital in Morgantown. "Santa's Helper," above, 6-year-old Becky's drawing of a horse with a Santa's hat and a bell, bears the inscription "Ring in the holiday season with joy and love." Steven, 11, designed "Three Kings," shown below, which carries the message "Wishing you all the true gifts of the Christmas season." A Cards of Hope spokesperson commented that "the optimism expressed in their artwork can be inspirational, giving us a glimpse of the childlike hope in each of us." Available in boxed sets at $12.50 per box of 20, the full selection may be viewed on-line at www.hcc.wvu.edu/mbrc/coh. See story for complete purchasing details.

Children's Cancer Center To Benefit From Card Sales

A pair of original Christmas greeting cards designed by two Garrett County children were selected for a collection of a dozen cards being sold through the annual U.S. Cellular Cards of Hope project, which raises money for comprehensive children's cancer therapies. The Cards of Hope project benefits the Children's Cancer Care and Research Fund, a joint project of the Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center and West Virginia University Children's Hospital in Morgantown.

Becky and Steven Diller, who along with their brother Ben are the children of Marilyn and John Diller of Dry Run Road, submitted "Santa's Helper" and "Three Kings," respectively. (See adjacent card reproductions.) Six-year-old Becky's recovery from leukemia has been made possible by a bone marrow donation from Steven, 11. The two siblings were among nearly 100 pediatric cancer patients and their family members who designed Christmas cards for the project. Each participating family resides in western Maryland and the north-central portion of West Virginia.

A Real Christmas Tree — Renewable, Recyclable Resource

It is hard to remember environmental concerns in our rush to coordinate work, family, friends, holiday preparations, and celebrations. An easy way to add the environment to your gift list this holiday season is to use a real Christmas tree as part of your celebrations. This renewable, recyclable resource gives a gift to the earth that keeps on giving for years to come.

Mel Koelling, professor of forestry at Michigan State University, says, "As a truly renewable resource, the life cycle of a natural Christmas tree really begins when families or individuals purchase and use a real tree during the holidays." Unlike artificial trees, real trees can be recycled after the holidays into mulch for gardens, parks, and hiking trails. Real trees also provide habitat for fish in lakes and streams and are used to prevent beach and shoreline erosion. In addition, while on the farm, real Christmas trees serve as shelter for small animals and provide enough oxygen for 18 million people. Most artificial trees, on the other hand, are made overseas from petroleum and plastics, cannot be recycled, and provide no benefit to the environment.

Nearly all Christmas trees, 98 percent, are grown on farms as a crop just like corn, wheat, or sunflowers. However, Christmas trees can take between 4 and 15 years to grow large enough to harvest. Smaller trees are left in the field for a future harvest. And for every Christmas tree harvested, up to three more are planted following the harvest, according to the National Christmas Tree Association (NCTA). Unlike other crops, there are always large numbers of Christmas trees in the field all year. Earlier this year, Christmas tree farmers across North America planted over 70 million seedlings.

"Since trees are a crop, they are managed on a sustainable basis," explains Mike Walterscheidt, forestry professor emeritus, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas. Walterscheidt explains that the harvest and consumption of a real Christmas tree triggers a complete environmentally friendly cycle that begins with spring planting and continues through harvest and recycling. In planting new trees for holiday seasons seven to ten years in the future, farmers are establishing an environment that helps counteract possible greenhouse effects, produce oxygen and clean water, and provide a habitat for wildlife.

"We have found that raising trees on farms fosters diversity in the types and number of animals present in the environment," says Walterscheidt. "We don't see any reduction in wildlife with Christmas tree farms, we just see a change in the types of wildlife present on farms versus non-planted forests."

Once a tree has been harvested and used for the holidays, there are several different ways a Christmas tree can be recycled back into the earth. Many communities chip the trees into mulch for use on hiking trails, playground areas, animal stalls, and landscaping. Even the trees that are not used in a specific program are all ultimately recycled back into nature. Continued on Page 36

Holiday Recipes

AUNT ELEANOR'S CHRISTMAS CAKE

- 3 eggs
- 2 cups sugar
- 1-1/2 cups oil, not margarine
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 2 tsp. vanilla
- 3 cups flour
- 3 cups chopped apples
- 1 8-oz. package chopped dates
- 1 cup coconut
- 1-1/2 cups chopped walnuts
- 1 cup chopped maraschino cherries

Beat eggs until thick. Add sugar and oil. Add vanilla. Add dry ingredients. Fold in apples, dates, coconut, walnuts, and cherries. Bake at 300° for 1-1 1/2 hours (depending on oven) in a greased and floured tube pan with wax paper on bottom. Cool. Wrap in wax paper or Saran wrap. Keep in refrigerator.

Submitted by Carolyn Hill, Oakland.

CAULIFLOWER SALAD

- 1 head broken cauliflower
  - 1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen peas cooked and cooled — do not season.
  - 1 small onion — chopped
  - 1 cup Hellmann's (no substitute) mayonnaise
  - 1/4 cup milk — start with 3 Tbsps. and add up to the 1/4 cup.
- Mix together in bowl and salt and pepper to taste. Chill.

Submitted by Eleanor K. Solomon, LaVale.

ANGEL-PINEAPPLE CAKE

- 1 fat-free angel food cake mix
  - 1 can (15 ozs.) crushed pineapple in its own juice, drained (reserve juice)
  - non-fat cooking spray
- Preheat oven to 350° F. Add water to the reserved pineapple juice to make 1 cup. In a large bowl, beat the cake mix with the pineapple juice until well blended. Fold in the pineapple.

Pour batter into a large 11"x13" baking pan that you have sprayed with non-fat cooking spray. (A lasagna pan works nicely for this recipe.)

Bake for 30 minutes or until cake pulls away from the edges. Cool and cut into 12 pieces. Serves 12.

Submitted by Betty Coddington, Mtn. Lake Park.

CONNIE'S CHRISTMAS RICE PUDDING

3 cups milk, divided into 1 cup & 2 cups
1 cup uncooked Minute Rice
1/3 cup cinnamon candies
2 pkgs. (4-serving size) pistachio pudding (instant)
Boil 1 cup milk. Stir in rice and candies. Cover. Let stand 5 minutes. Prepare pudding as directed on box, using remaining 2 cups milk. Add rice mixture to pudding. Cover with plastic wrap. Cool 5 minutes. Stir. Serve. Makes 6 servings.

Submitted by Connie Mohr, Mtn. Lake Park.

PINEAPPLE DREAM PIE

1 pkg. (8 ozs.) cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup sugar
1-1/2 cups frozen whipped topping, thawed
1 can (15.5 or 20 ozs.) Del Monte crushed pineapple, well drained
1 9-inch graham cracker pie crust
1 can (15.5 or 20 ozs.) Del Monte pineapple chunks, drained
Mix together cream cheese and sugar in a bowl.
Fold in whipped topping and well-drained pineapple.
Spoon into pie crust.
Top with pineapple chunks. Chill 2 hours or overnight. Garnish with additional whipped topping if desired.

Submitted by Marguerite Deems, Oakland.

GERMAN APPLE CAKE

Grease and flour 13"x9"x2" pan.
4 cups thinly sliced apples: Rinse in mild salt water.
Beat with electric mixer until frothy: 3 eggs and 3/4 cup of salad oil.
Add and beat in: 2 cups sugar and 1 tsp. vanilla.
Sift together: 2 cups flour, 1/2 tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. baking soda, 2 tsp. cinnamon, and 1/2 tsp. salt. Add to the first mixture and mix with a spoon.
Fold in the apples (1/2 cup of walnuts optional).
Pour into pan and sprinkle with mixture of 2 tsp. margarine, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1 Tbsp. flour, and 1/4 tsp. cinnamon.

Bake at 350° for one hour or less.

Submitted by Mary Mosser, Oakland.

PORTOFINO MOLD

Ingredients:

1 pkg. (6 ozs.) raspberry jello
1-1/4 cups of boiling water
1 can (1 lb. 4 ozs.) crushed pineapple, undrained
1 can (1 lb.) whole cranberry sauce
3/4 cup port wine
1 cup chopped nuts
1 (8 oz.) pkg. of cream cheese, softened
1 cup of sour cream

Directions:

Dissolve jello in boiling water; stir in pineapple, cranberry sauce and wine. Chill until mixture thickens slightly. Fold in nuts and turn into 2-quart serving dish or 9x9x2 inch square dish. Chill until firm. When jello is set, beat sour cream into softened cream cheese and spread the mixture over the jello salad. Chill until ready to serve. Serve from dish.

Annual Cantata

Brenda Shreve will narrate the Christmas story.

Other members of the Grantsville Choir, whose voices will blend in holiday song, are Sharon Kamp, Camilla Rawe, Linda Wengerd, Barbara Deal, Pauline Shumaker, Ruth Hetz, Sherrill Meyers, Candy Fetterly, Eileen Gnagey, Joe McRobie, Leroy Maust, Wayne Durst, Gerald Beachy, Todd Schneider, Cliff Bender, and Lynn Newman.

The St. John's United Church of Christ Handbell Choir will also present a program as part of the presentation at St. Paul's United Methodist Church. Patty Zimmerman will direct handbell choir members Sherry Carey, Jackie Folk, Patty Rice, Sandy Murray, Megan Zimmerman, Linda Upole, Darren Wilburn, Ronald Gillum, Mike Zimmerman, Mark Zimmerman, and Jeff Carey.

The Grantsville Community Choir, which has been singing for 24 years, will celebrate its 25th anniversary at Easter 2001. Director Gloria Martin explained the goals of the group. "The choir performs for two reasons. First and foremost, to bring honor and glory to God, and, secondly, to raise money for people in serious need in the area," she said.

Through performances at Christmas and Easter, the choir has raised over $9,600 in the last 24 years. "We have helped persons who had financial difficulties resulting from medical problems, people who have lost their property because of fire, and elderly people with a variety of problems," Martin said.

The choir has also absorbed some of the expenses for parents to accompany their child to Children's Hospital in Philadelphia. "There are many, many people in the area with needs, and if we can help just one, the choir members feel their efforts were worthwhile," said Martin.

During the nearly quarter of a century that the Grantsville Community Choir has been performing, many members have come and gone. "God has seen fit to continue with the Community Choir, and I sincerely hope this will continue after I am unable to be the director. I have enjoyed working with everyone. They have been a spiritual family to me and to each other. We have become a very close-knit family and we can depend on each other for support and prayers when needed," Martin concluded.

FRIENDSVILLE CHOIR PREPARES TO PERFORM - Under the direction of Lindy Moebs, the Friendsville Community Choir will present a Christmas cantata on Sunday, Dec. 17, at 6 p.m. at the Methodist Church, located along Water Street.

Friendsville Community Choir To Present Cantata King Of Kings

The Friendsville Community Choir will perform a Christmas cantata, King of Kings, for one night only on Sunday, Dec. 17, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Friendsville United Methodist Church.

This recent musical version of the Christmas story, written by Mosie Lister, will be performed under the direction of Lindy Moebs. Mary Friend will narrate the production and Matt Eary will provide the piano accompaniment.

Solos will be performed by adults and children, whose voices will also blend in chorus. Featured soloists will be Moebs, Roger Sines, Dan Manges, Sherry Fike, Dave Thomas, and Carol Frazee. The children who will perform are Raina Sines, Hannah Fike, Emily Manges, and Megan Sines.

Other members of the Friendsville Community Choir who will contribute to the cantata are Jane Fox, Geni Sines, Sarah Pletcher, Robin Sines, Nancy Thomas, Fred Fox, Tom Sines, Jim Fox, Bill Emory, and Buddy Umbel.

TWO-TONE POUND CAKE

No need to teeter between chocolate and vanilla when choosing a cake. This duo tempter binds both into one marbled creation.

Ingredients:

1-1/4 cups butter or margarine, softened
2-1/2 cups sugar
5 large eggs
2-2/3 cups all-purpose flour
1-1/4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup milk
2 tsp. vanilla extract
1/4 cup cocoa

sifted powdered sugar
Directions:

1. Beat butter in a large mixing bowl at medium speed with an electric mixer about 2 minutes or until soft and creamy. Gradually add 2-1/2 cups sugar, beating at medium speed 5 to 7 minutes. Add eggs, one at a time, beating just until yellow disappears.

2. Combine flour, baking powder, and salt; add to butter mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Mix at low speed after each addition just until blended. Stir in vanilla.

3. Remove 2 cups batter, and stir in cocoa. Spoon one-third of remaining batter into a greased and floured 13-cup bundt pan; top with half of chocolate batter. Repeat layers, ending with plain batter. Gently swirl batter with a knife

Home Decorating Contest Slated In Mtn. Lake Park

The annual Christmas decorating contest sponsored by the town of Mtn. Lake Park is set for the evening hours of Tuesday, Dec. 12. Residents interested in participating are asked to turn on their outdoor Christmas lights by 6 p.m. that evening, after which contest judges will begin driving by the decorated homes.

Cash prizes of $100 for first place, $50 for second place, and $25 for third place will be awarded. Three honorable mention recognitions will also be awarded. First prize may be claimed by the same home only once every three years.

Contest winners will be announced the night of the Girl Scout caroling event, Wednesday, Dec. 20, at the MLP ticket office. Winners' names will also be published in The Republican the following day.

"Play It Safe"

•If a toy requires assembly, make sure a responsible adult assembles the product by completely following the manufacturer's instructions.

•Keep deflated and broken balloons away from small children. Infants and toddlers can easily get them caught in their throats and suffocate.

•Electric toys can become a shock hazard if they're misused. Remember, water and electricity never mix. Never allow your children to use electric toys near water.

•Be alert. Watch television newscasts and scan newspapers and consumer magazines for information on toy or other household product recalls. Whenever possible, complete and return product warranty and registration forms to the manufacturer. If a product is recalled, the manufacturer can use these forms to contact you directly.

•In the event of an emergency, make sure you have telephone numbers for the appropriate law enforcement agency, fire department, and poison control center posted near every phone in your home.

Remember that the holiday season is a time for sharing. By sharing Operation Decoration's safety messages with your family, you and your family can enjoy a safer and happier holiday season.

Spice Up The Holidays With Personal Touches On Your Gifts

Tired of the same boring gift-wrapped boxes every holiday? Make this holiday season different and special. Even fumble-fingered gift givers can create unique and creative gift-wrap that personalizes presents and adds a special touch to any package.

Try these simple and easy tips to make your gifts stand out even before they're opened:

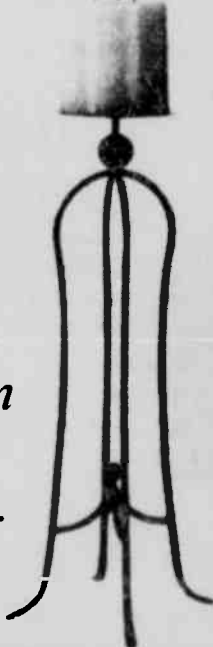

•Wrap a package in fabric. Use iridescent colors to add sparkle. Textures such as velvets and fleece create a warm inviting gift. Patterned fabrics like plaids, paisleys, and prints liven up any package.

•Give a basket filled with homemade gifts. Take a large basket and add cookies, handmade ornaments, stationary, beaded jewelry, and picture frames. Wrap the basket with a blanket or throw, which becomes another

WYOMING WHOPPERS

- 2/3 cup butter
- 3 eggs, beaten
- 1-1/4 cups brown sugar
- 3/4 cup white sugar
- 6 cups old-fashioned oatmeal
- 1-1/2 cups peanut butter (may use chunky)
- 2 tsp. baking soda
- 1-1/2 cups raisins
- 1 pkg. chocolate chips

Melt butter over low heat. Blend in sugars. Add beaten eggs and peanut butter. Mix well. Add all other ingredients. Drop on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 350° for 10-12 minutes. Yields 2 dozen cookies.

Submitted by Mary E. Kamp, Grantsville.

PUNCH

- 1 cup sugar
- 6 cups water
- 1 small can frozen orange juice
- 1 pack strawberry unsweetened Kool Aid
- 1 2-liter bottle ginger ale

Mix together and serve.

Submitted by Dorothy Upole, Oakland.

CURRY DIP

- 1 cup salad dressing
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1 tsp. crushed herbs
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/8 tsp. curry powder
- 1 Tbsp. chopped parsley
- 1 Tbsp. dried onion
- 1-1/2 tsp. lemon juice
- 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Blend all ingredients well. Serve with assorted cleaned vegetables (broccoli, cauliflower, carrots, celery, cherry tomatoes, pepper strips, radishes, and cucumbers).

THREE WISE MEN AND A BABY is the name of the Christmas program that will be performed seven times this weekend by the puppeteers, and puppets, of Pleasant View Baptist Church. The one-hour production features over 30 puppets on a 50-foot, multi-tier stage, complete with special effects and lighting. Some 1,800 persons attended the holiday performances by the same group last year. The church is located along U.S. Rt. 219 about two miles south of Oakland. See story on page C-3 for performance times and ticket information.

Wind, Ice Storms Cause Power Outages, School Interruptions

Unusual weather patterns involving high winds and an ice storm have caused mostly inconveniences this week throughout Garrett County and the surrounding area, with power outages occurring in a five-state area, and school days delayed and/or canceled. The forecast for the next several days calls for either rain or possibly more snow, with temperatures to remain in the 30s.

Winds in excess of 60 miles per hour howled around the mountaintop Monday night and early Tuesday morning, bringing down a number of large trees across the county. In the wake of the several-hour wind storm, residents reported the loss of shingles, window frames, garbage cans, Christmas decorations, and other household items.

Emergency crews were dispatched at about 3:15 a.m. Tuesday to extinguish a transformer fire in Crellin, according to reports. Allegheny Power reported a loss of power to 155,000 of its customers in a five-state area. Crews continue to work this morning to restore power to all customers, and as of yesterday, only about 3,000 homes were still without electricity.

Board Of Education Reviews State Report On Test Results

The achievements of Garrett County students as reflected in the recently released Maryland School Performance Report 2000 were noted and praised by members of the Garrett County Board of Education and school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets during the board's meeting Tuesday evening.

The report represents the performance data from the 1999-2000 school year. "Garrett County MSPAP (Maryland School Performance Assessment Program) scores are currently the highest since the inception of the test in 1993 and exceed the state and national averages," Teets noted.

Dr. Patricia Mullinix coordinator of research, evaluation, and information, presented to the board an overview and highlights of Garrett County results. The county's composite score of 48.2 is 3 points above that of 1999 and exceeds the state composite score, which is 45.3.

With a composite score of 50 set as the goal, Garrett County was recognized for having six schools exceed the score. Accident, Bloomington, Crellin, Northern Middle, Route 40, and Southern Middle all reflected composite scores above 50 percent.

Mullinix also pointed out to the board members that Crellin Elementary, with

Road Conditions Play Factor In Vehicle Mishaps

A pair of single-vehicle accidents this week resulted in part from icy road conditions, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

A 2000 Ford Escort operated by Kimberly Margaret Poling, 20, Aurora, W.Va., ran off Underwood Road at approximately 9:30 p.m. Tuesday evening. The car skidded on ice just south of Crellin Underwood Road, crossed over the oncoming lane and off the road, and struck a telephone utility box and a tree. Poling was transported by the Union District Ambulance Service to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Sheriff's deputies did not press charges.

Two persons were injured Saturday morning when their vehicle hit a patch of ice along New Germany Road two miles north of Bittering Road, according to a DNR park ranger who investigated the mishap. Shortly after 9 a.m. a 1997 Mercury Sable operated by Lisabeth Tressler, 43, Oakland, ran off the road and over an embankment. The Northern Garrett Rescue Squad transported Tressler and her 10-year-old daughter to Garrett Memorial, where both were treated and released. The Bittering Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene. No charges were filed.

Mtn. Lake Park Objects To Site For Post Office

Mountain Lake Park mayor Paul Shockey has recently sent letters to senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski, as well as Representative Roscoe Bartlett, expressing the objections voiced by many residents to the site selected for construction of the post office facility to serve the town.

One of the major problems noted is that the new site is located outside the town limits, creating a further travel distance from any point in Mountain Lake Park. "In effect, this location choice eliminates the Mtn. Lake Park office, and creates a regional postal facility outside of town that will have a significant negative impact on the citizens of Mtn. Lake Park, which represents the county's largest municipality in both area and population," said Shockey.

Originally, there were plans to expand the already existing postal facility. This fell through, however, because it was decided that the current site and the nearby vacant property could not accommodate the expansion of the building to the required size with the required number of parking spaces and vehicular circulation.

When looking over the possible sites for the new post office, the site review committee for the U.S. Postal Service was said to be "impressed" with a number of contending sites that met the needs of local residents.

Many factors were considered in the selection process, including accessibility to the facility by those to be served and cost of acquisition and development.

However, after reviewing several sites, the Postal Service selected the proper-

Frederick Man Pleads Guilty In Fatal Accident

For the second time in as many weeks, a defendant has pleaded guilty to homicide by motor vehicle while intoxicated as a part of a plea-bargain agreement in Garrett County District Court, according to state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

Justin Ray Warfield, 24, Frederick, was the driver in a Jan. 8 single-vehicle accident on Mayhew Inn Road that killed one of his three passengers, Brandon Teague Chesnik, 27, another Frederick resident. When tests indicated that Warfield's blood alcohol count was 0.16 (above the level of 0.10, which is considered driving while intoxicated), Maryland State Police troopers investigating the crash filed an initial DWI charge, in addition to charges of passing in a no-passing zone, failure to drive right of center, and reckless driving.

Warfield was operating a 1992 Jeep Wrangler along Mayhew Inn Road just east of Red Run Road when the accident occurred at 8:54 p.m. as he was attempting to pass another vehicle occupied by friends of the group. He lost control of his Jeep on the snow- and ice-covered roadway, and the vehicle slid across the road and overturned in a ditch. Chesnik and his fiancée, Stacey Showbridge, 23, Frederick, who was riding in the back seat,

Flu, Pneumonia Vaccinations Now Available To All County Residents

The Garrett County Health Department will offer influenza and pneumococcal immunizations during December at senior meal sites throughout the county, Bloomington fire hall, and G.W. Plaza (across from Fitzwater Furniture Store in Mtn. Lake Park). The vaccine will be available to everyone, because the health department now has an adequate supply of vaccine available to immunize all individuals wishing protection against this virus.

LITTLE DRUMMER BOY NEEDS DRUM - Friendsville Elementary School's "little drummer boy" is without a drum. Students and staff at the school are asking members of the community to help remedy this situation by saving "Pepal Points" from specially marked packages. Pepal and Band123.com have teamed up to provide free instruments and materials in exchange for Pepal Points. "Our goal is to collect 1,000 points for a snare drum. Please help us in achieving this goal by sending your points to us," a spokesman for the little drummer has asked. Pepal Points may be sent to Friendsville Elementary School, c/o Kendra Sweltzer, P.O. Box 59, Friendsville, MD 21531. The deadline is February 17, 2001. ## Electrical Fire Damages Shed In Mtn. Lake Park

A fire believed to have been caused by an electrical malfunction in a lawn tractor caused an estimated $7,500 loss to a wood-frame shed in Mtn. Lake Park Saturday night.

Oakland and Deer Park firefighters were summoned at 11:08 p.m. to the Scott Bittering residence at 513 N Street. Upon their arrival they found a working fire in the 12-by-14-foot shed. The blaze was quickly brought under control.

Ryan Chapman, deputy fire marshal, ruled the fire accidental. Also responding to the scene was the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Fire units remained on the scene for about one hour.

State's Sunny Day Fund Providing $3 Million Grant For ClosetMaid

The General Assembly's Legislative Policy Committee (LPC) has approved a $3 million conditional grant from the state of Maryland's Sunny Day Fund to ClosetMaid Corporation. The grant will help the company build the new manufacturing and distribution facility in the Northern Garrett Industrial Park.

Governor Parris Glendening and Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend made the grant announcement this week. "We are extremely pleased that ClosetMaid recognizes the vitality of western Maryland, both for business and quality of life," said the governor. "The 800 jobs that will be created as a result of this project will add to the stability of the region and the local economy. We are committed to ensuring that ClosetMaid and other manufacturing companies continue to grow and thrive in Maryland."

Townsend, who is also the chairperson of the Governor's Cabinet Council for Business, Economic Development, and Transportation, said the company's decision to build in the state "is a testament to Maryland's highly competitive, pro-business climate and top-notch workforce." She said it also demonstrates that strong public-private partnerships "continue to make Maryland the place to live, work, and grow a business."

ClosetMaid, a subsidiary of Emerson Electric Co.,

manufactures wire shelving, hardware, and storage products. The new facility, a $60 million investment, will be built in three stages over a four-year period, with the first 200,000 square-foot building constructed by December 2001, according to officials. The remaining

Grant Awarded To Oakland For Downtown Work

Main Street Maryland, operated by the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development's Division of Neighborhood Revitalization, announced this week that a grant of $4,500 has been awarded to Oakland to help the mayor and town council continue various improvement projects in the shopping district. A total of three grants were awarded in the state, with Cumberland and Easton receiving the other two, $4,000 and $4,200, respectively.

Oakland's application for the grant indicated the money would be used to pay for new sidewalks, street furniture, and lighting as part of the rehabilitation of the Oakland train station.

The Maryland DHCD works with partners to revitalize communities, encourage home ownership, expand affordable housing opportunities, and enhance Maryland's historic sites and traditions.

NATURE TOOK ITS COURSE early Tuesday morning, as winds ripped across Garrett County in excess of 60 miles per hour, pushing over old trees and tearing down large branches. This photo was taken along Sand Flat Road on Tuesday following the storm. While the situation in the middle of the night was certainly dangerous, the county's residents were spared personal injuries, according to reports. But firewood is far more abundant in the county today following the wind storm that also stole Christmas wreaths and garbage cans for miles around. Last evening's ice storm added to the inconveniences, and caused the cancellation of school today. www has arrived in Garrett County.

Grantsville Man Faces Charges Of DWI, Assault

A Grantsville man was arrested Saturday night after reportedly driving to a Dorsey Hotel Road residence while intoxicated and causing a domestic dispute that included an alleged assault, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies. Kenneth Thomas Wiley, 54, was apprehended at the home after he had gone to the basement and passed out. Allegedly intoxicated throughout the incident, Wiley had entered the residence without invitation at approximately 7:30 p.m. that evening and had gotten into an argument with the residents. At one point he is reported to have made threats to kill one of the occupants, grabbing her by the arms, and also allegedly made threats against a law enforcement officer who was not on the scene.

Shortly before deputies arrived, Wiley went to the basement and fell asleep, while the residents barred the basement door with a chair. In checking Wiley's truck, which was parked in the rear of the residence, deputies found numerous bottles of liquor and cans of beer, many of which were empty.

Wiley was arrested and charged with second degree assault, driving while intoxicated, negligent driving, and violating a license restriction. He was subsequently released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance, as required by a district court commissioner.

In other sheriff's news, a Monday, Dec. 4, incident also attributed to alcohol misuse resulted in a breaking and entering charge for a Swanton woman.

Charlene Renee Brun, 31, was arrested shortly before 6 p.m. after she had allegedly entered a home in the 3700 block of Bittering Road and threatened a resident there. (Brun and the resident reportedly did not know each other prior to the incident.) Brun left that residence and walked in the direction of a neighbor's house, where she was confronted by that homeowner in the backyard. She reportedly threatened him and slapped him in the face as well before walking away from the scene.

Deputies investigating the incident were able to ascertain leads on the suspect's name and address, then responded to her home and found her to be intoxicated. After her footprints were matched to those left at the other homes, and positive identification was provided by the reporting parties, Brun was arrested and charged with breaking and entering. She was later released on a $5,000 bond.

A Friday traffic stop along Garrett Highway in McHenry resulted in the drug arrest of an Ohio man.

Ronald Reagan Ridder, 19, Columbus, was stopped shortly before 1 a.m. just north of Deep Creek Drive for a defective tail light on his 1999 Hyundai sedan. The deputy noted that Ridder appeared to be impaired although no signs were readily apparent to indicate alcohol as a factor.

A vehicle search uncovered a glass smoking pipe that contained suspected burnt marijuana residue, a glass jar containing suspected marijuana, and two plastic sandwich bags. One bag contained suspected marijuana and the other bag was filled with a white substance that Ridder identified as Ketamine, a controlled veterinary anesthetic.

Ridder was subsequently released after posting a $1,000 bond.

A Pennsylvania man was arrested Sunday, Dec. 3, after he allegedly broke into a McHenry business while intoxicated and passed out.

Charles John Danesi, 20, Irwin, was apprehended by Wisp security officers shortly after 3 a.m., when he was located sleeping in an Recreational Industries building along Marsh Hill Road. Deputies charged Danesi with fourth degree burglary, and he was later released on his own recognizance.

Robert Daniel Smith Jr., 32, Oakland, faces charges of second degree assault and child abuse stemming from allegations that he beat a child on Friday, Dec. 1. Marks and bruises were cited in the complainant's statement, which resulted in the issuance of a district court arrest warrant. Further details were not readily available. Smith remains held on a $5,000 bond.

An arrest warrant was served by sheriff's deputies recently that charged Thomas Kendall Miller, 19, Oakland, with second degree assault. He has since been released after posting a $500 bond. Details of the investigation that preceded the apprehension were not readily available.

DWI/DUI Arrests

Several driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) arrests were made by sheriff's deputies this week. Arrested were: Ronald Elroy Lilley Jr., 37, and Jason Ryan Sines, 21, both of Oakland; William Christopher Hogan, 50, Loch Lynn; and Scott Daniel Doolan, 22, Frostburg.

56.8 percent of Grade 3 students achieving the satisfactory level, had the highest composite score for that grade in the state. Accident Elementary was recognized for earning the highest composite in Grade 5, with 60.2 percent of the achieving the satisfactory level, Mullinix noted, while Bloomington School was honored for earning the highest composite score in Grade 8, with 74.6 percent of the students reaching the satisfactory level.

Other honors for MSPAP achievement went to schools in which standards were met by all students in a grade. Standards were met in reading and writing by all Grade 3 students at Crellin Elementary.

At Accident Elementary and Swan Meadow, all Grade 5 students met the standards in language, and at Bloomington all Grade 5 students met the standards in math. The standards were met by all Grade 8 students at Bloomington in writing, language, math, science, and social studies, while Grade 8 students at Swan Meadow met the standards in math.

Several areas for concern were reported by Mullinix, who said that the writing scores dipped for students from Grades 3 to 5. Reading scores for students moving from Grade 5 to 8 do not reflect the same amount of growth as do scores in other subjects for this same group; however, she said, these reading scores still remain above the state average.

FORSYTH LEAVES LEGACY TO GCMH - A sum of $95,000 has been left to Garrett County Memorial Hospital as directed by the will of Wayne W. Forsyth, a native of Accident who died in 1998. Forsyth was born in 1917, a son of Bruce and Emma (Ault) Forsyth. He served with the military police in the United States and Italy, and after being discharged from the military, returned to Garrett County to work in construction. That career led him to relocate to Virginia and later to Delaware, where he retired. "Although he did not return to Garrett County to live, he remembered his family and friends through this generous donation to the hospital," stated Don Battista, GCMH president. "His gift will be used toward the funding of equipment that is vital to patient care at the hospital." Forsyth is survived by a sister, Virginia Kelsa, Accident.

Tests noted that all personnel will persist in helping each student achieve his or her maximum potential. "We are all committed to continuous improvement and higher expectations for our students," Fees noted.

In addition to reporting on the MSPAP results,

Mullinix also highlighted the Garrett County students' results on the Comprehensive Tests of Basic Skills (CTBS) given in Grades 9 and 11. The county's CTBS scores for 2000 remained above the national norm in all areas tested, Mullinix reported.

School attendance records, which also form part of the state report, indicate that Garrett County was the only school system to reach the excellent level for middle school attendance and was among the four systems to meet standards for elementary school attendance.

Christmas Project Begins Tomorrow At Simon Pearce

The annual Oakland Rotary Christmas Project will mark its 19th year this weekend at a new location, the Simon Pearce glass manufacturing plant on the outskirts of Mtn. Lake Park. Over 400 area families were served last Christmas, and this year's total is expected to match that tally.

Preparation of gifts, toys, and food baskets will get under way at 6 p.m. tomorrow evening at the glass plant, which is located in the old Bausch & Lomb facility, and will continue for approximately three hours. All interested persons may participate in the preparation process, which draws dozens of volunteers from throughout the county. Volunteers are also being sought for the delivery runs that criss-cross the county from 8 a.m. to shortly after noon the following day, Saturday, Dec. 16. All deliveries will originate from the Simon Pearce building as well.

Those interested in further information may contact Christmas Project co-chairs Kathy Zimmerman at 301-334-2820 or Doug Riley at 301-334-8798. Persons planning on volunteering need not contact the co-chairs beforehand if they

RUTH ENLOW DEADLINE NOTED — An important deadline is approaching for the "reNEW Grantsville Library" fund drive. The reading room of the new library will be named in honor of the largest corporate or private contribution. To qualify, however, the winning donation, in whole or in part, must be received by December 31, 2000. A business may pay its commitment over multiple years by making its first installment by the end of this year, and paying all remaining monies by the building completion date. Pledge and commitment forms are available at the library. Fund raising will continue in 2001. For a donation of $100, a "recognition brick" with up to three lines of wording can be purchased for installation at the new structure's entrance. Bricks can be engraved as memorials or with the name of the donor, grandchildren, spouse, friend, or family. Above, librarian Gail Broadwater holds a sample brick. Contributors of $500, $1,000, $5,000, and $10,000 will be honored on bronze, silver, gold, and platinum plaques, respectively. All donations are tax-deductible and will be acknowledged through a variety of media. The reNEW Grantsville Library committee will meet with the Garrett County commissioners on Thursday, Dec. 28, at 10 a.m. in the courthouse. The library encourages patrons and supporters to attend. ## Nat'l Group Identifies Promising Health Initiatives for Maryland

by Amy T. Silva
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Expanding a federal health care program to cover low-income parents, not just their children, will be among the top issues for state legislatures nationwide next year, according to the National Conference of State Legislatures.

In Maryland, state lawmakers will be trying to extend the State Children's Health Insurance Program to the parents of eligible children, said Delegate John Adams Hurson, D-Montgomery, at an NCSL news conference Tuesday. Broadening SCHIP is "a way of getting at the insured problem with a big, fat partner who's got some dollars in his pocket," said Hurson, who also is helping to guide NCSL federal policy.

It's a plan with support from Maryland's legislative leaders, including House Speaker Casper R. Taylor Jr., D-Allegany, who spoke about it at a recent Montgomery County delegation meeting. The federal government will match every Maryland dollar with two federal dollars, for a total of $120 million going to

Maryland Legislators Ready For '01 Education Funding Agenda

by Andrei Blakely
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — A blizzard of education issues will hit the Maryland General Assembly when it convenes in mid-January, with school construction, class-size reduction, higher education, and all-day kindergarten programs competing for funding. Already, bills on public charter schools and elementary and secondary school construction have been pre-filed.

And Gov. Parris N. Glendening last week named higher education construction one of his chief goals for the upcoming session. Balancing the competing, yet related, interests will be a difficult task for legislators, who also want the governor to fund some of their initiatives.

The state is in the midst of a "golden age of school construction," said Raquel Guillory, a Glendening spokesperson. "He is the education governor."

Glendening pledged $1.6 billion when he first took office for construction of more than 13,000 classrooms over eight years. The success of other education programs depends on building those classrooms, even though programs and buildings come from separate budgets. For example, to make all-day kindergarten a priority statewide, as the state Department of Education has called for, kindergarten classroom space must nearly double. The state also wants to reduce class sizes, particularly in the lower grades, something that also will require more space.

"We are generally in favor of class-size reduction. There is evidence now that reducing class sizes does make a difference," said Pat Forster, president of the Maryland State Teacher's Association.

With all of the education interests competing for budget money, one needed program could possibly become a priority at the expense of another. A pre-filed bill sponsored by Delegate Robert A. Zirkin, D-Baltimore, seeks to create a pilot program that creates class-size reduction in six to 12 schools throughout the state. Smaller classes have proven to create more teacher satisfaction and better parent-teacher involvement, studies show.

Ideally, there would be a maximum of 18 students per class, Zirkin said. Some jurisdictions have an average of 26 to 27 students.

"I harbor no illusions that getting this bill passed is going to be easy," said

And the Winner Is...??

After listening to the speeches last night by Al Gore and George Bush, and realizing the present state of frustration and anger among so many citizens, one wonders who the real winner of this contest was. The pressure is completely off Vice President Gore now, who will soon be able to enjoy a somewhat "regular" life and possibly begin making plans for the 2004 election. The task that lies before any president-elect is awesome, and for George W. Bush even more so because of these past five weeks of election chaos.

Not only is a large segment of the voting public infuriated right now, but Governor Bush is also facing some major challenges in his dealings with Congress. At first glance one would assume he had an ideal arrangement — a Republican president with a Republican-controlled Congress. However, the need for Bush to act as non-partisan as possible has probably never been greater, given the current level of rancor in the nation and certainly within the Congress. There are a number of staunch conservative Republicans in Congress, however, who see no reason, and no need, to compromise whatsoever with the Democrats. So in a sense Bush has not one, but two, "enemies" in Congress, most of the Democrats and the ultraconservative Republicans.

Throughout the campaign, Bush described himself as a "compassionate conservative," and if he truly lives up to that description, he could have a resoundingly successful presidency. It will be a tightrope walk all the way, however.

Bush must prove to blacks and other minorities in this country that he is indeed sympathetic and supportive of them, by first really listening to them and then acting with some specific, creative solutions to their problems. He must somehow make their lives better than they are now.

He is also going to have to find that "compassionate-conservative," middle ground on issues such as abortion, gun control, tax cuts, and how to address the nation's health care problem so that people on both sides of these concerns can feel like they have made some progress — an extremely difficult task.

He is going to have to prove that he is not really as incredibly insensitive to our environment as his opponents claim, and he can do so only by initiating and endorsing some specific restraints of certain industries, many of which backed his campaign.

He is going to have to prove that he is not a president who is in the hip pocket of big business and the wealthy, and numb to the needs of the poor.

He must prove that he can be effective in matters of foreign policy, an area in which he has virtually no experience.

President-elect Bush truly has his work cut out for him, far more clearly than many of his predecessors because of the manner in which he was elected. It truly remains to be seen just who the real winner is.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The 2000 General Election reminds me of watching two heavyweight lighters in the ring, and before the fight is over, one is declared the winner. When we have an election in this country, how can the media declare a winner before all the votes are counted? All votes should be counted, including absentee, and no winner should be named until all votes are in and counted. Let's wait for the final results before we declare a winner.

AN ADVENTURE IN SHOPPING

by Mary Sincell McEwen

Women are supposed to love shopping. We're supposed to like to do that more than just about anything else, save having our nails done. Well, the year is 2000, and I think those two things are going by the wayside, at least for some of us XX chromosomal types. I actually dislike clothes shopping. It depresses me, chiefly because my beehind is about the size of Iowa. I sort of forget about that until I do something like shop. Those irritating long mirrors that show everything are always showing right up my nose in the fitting room, and I am reminded of how unlike a fabulous babe I am. But, hey, there are other things to life. The other part about shopping that I hate is the time it takes. When I wake up in the morning, there are a number of things I could do. "Fold clothes" is always on the list, in line with "clean the cat box," "floss teeth," "dig that hair tie out from behind the couch" and other mundane functions of life. But what I generally have to do is pry three boys out of bed and find three sets of underwear, socks, warm shirts, and jeans that can pass for clean, and then coax the young men to get dressed. "Coax" means to first gently wake them, cheerfully urge them out of bed, remind them of good things that will happen this day, tell them to get up, come on, hurry up, let's move, why do I have to get nasty every morning, we're going to be late, get the heck out of bed before I scream my head clear off, etc. My days begin with a crescendo and don't diminish much until those same three boys are snoring again, sometime around 9 p.m.

So to me, time is darned precious. And shopping takes up a lot of it. I'm all for getting stuff locally, too, but last week, for a change of pace, my mom strong-armed me in to going with her to my sister Kathryn's home in Clear Spring for an entire day of power shopping in Hagerstown. I was at first hesitant, but she bribed me with the idea that we would stay overnight at Kath's and I could sleep in without having three squat males demanding clean boxer shorts at 7 a.m. I fell for it.

The Hagerstown area has a veritable plethora of stores. I felt like Ellie May Clampett, staring with my mouth hanging open, lured into store after store to see one thing or another. We first went to a discount clothing store called Marshall's. We were grabbing stuff off the rack for each other — "Hey, this is your color, isn't it?" "Try this — it's perfect!" We made a beeline to the fitting room, where the real performance began. There was a six-item limit, so Mom and I both got six and went in. As we discarded stuff, Kathryn would take the too small, too baggy, too Martha Stewart stuff out and give us something else instead. She was sprinting out to the racks and bringing back stuff that I would never pick out for myself. But being in a perpetual state of undress, I was a hostage.

To the Editor:

What a wonderful gift the Garrett Choral Society gave to our community this past weekend. It was great to see many, different, talented people come together to give such a marvelous performance of The Messiah. Thank you all!

To the Editor:

I'm writing because a drunk driver killed my niece, Brandy Talbot. Is there a law in Garrett County that states if you "know" someone you will get away with murder? I received a telephone call from my sister, who said that the person responsible for my niece's death didn't get much of a sentence for what she was charged with. I know of a few people in Garrett County who went to jail for charges that were far less serious. They got 18 months. What is 30 days in the county jail going to do for her? Is she better than Brandy? Is that the reason she doesn't have to pay for her crime?

If I were a parent I would like to know if my children would have to give up their lives for another person's negligence or if the law would protect them.

To the Editor:

I'm the grandmother of Brandy Talbot, who was killed in a motor vehicle accident by a drunk driver July 29, 2000. I was in shock when I heard that the young lady that was responsible for her death went to court and just got a slap on the wrist. I see no reason why she shouldn't have paid for her crime.

When you read in the newspaper about people going to court and getting a stiffer penalty for just one DWI, there is nothing worse than causing someone's death. If you choose to let my granddaughter's killer go free, at least have her go to all the schools in Garrett County and stand up in front of everybody

"Just try it," she coached. Kathryn is artistic — a quilty person. She loves colors and textures, and knows instinctively what goes with what. So she plied that talent with all speed, and we became a frenzied trio. Mom would toss something out and Kath would throw it to me, taking another item in return so as to keep us within the six-piece margin. "Good god, this makes my butt look even bigger," I would gripe. "Then try this one," Kath would reply, "and gimme that back. Here, Mom, you try it. It's gorgeous." After all the pulling on and off, static plastered my hair against my face, and my white socks rolled down. Very attractive with the formal skirts I was trying on. "The socks really make it work," Kath said dryly.

The woman at the fitting room check-in desk watched us for quite a while. She finally told us that she was supposed to have gone on break, but she didn't want to leave. "I wish I had a video camera," she said. "If I taped you three, I could make some money." We left that joint with 23 pieces of clothing, popping out of the store like three people getting off a roller coaster. "Wow," Mom said. "We're going to have to come back here some day."

Then we were off to Sam's, where I bought copious piles of Christmas paper and bows, as well as some impromptu gifts that might very well go over like lead balloons. When I couldn't decide what to do with one gift, Kathryn produced her toy of a cell phone and told me to call John to see what he thought. "Hi, I'm in Sam's," I said into the tiny receiver. "You're where?" he asked. So, there amid the giant aisles of industrial sized non-perishables, we had a confab to help me make a decision. It's a remarkable world.

Next was Toys R Us, an amazing experience as always, and then to an outlet mall. Wow. Just about every brand name company you could think of has a store there, it seems, all arranged on faux streets in a faux southwestern motif. We were standing amidst the overstimulating metropolis when Kathryn noted, wistfully, that the whole area was a farm just a few years ago. I wonder how many shopping centers our planet needs? But I digress.

We then launched into a search for a new coat for Mom. It was brisk in Hagerstown Friday, and Mom was only wearing a dress jacket. "Are you warm enough?" I asked her. "No," she replied simply. "That's why I need a new coat." However, we were met with obstacles. The stores had everything from lace shin guards to rhinestone earmuffs, but no coats. "Oh, no, we don't sell coats," they kept saying, like coat-wearing is an oddity or something. Finally we found a few at London Fog, which sent Mom and Kathryn into that trying-on, taking-off furor again. I wandered about, looking at little boy stuff, wondering how they were doing at home with their dad, and marveling at being free of responsibility for a short time. How unusual to be walking around without constantly training my eyes on the boys, keeping them from running into the street or punching each other in the stomach. I felt refreshed and unencumbered, and a tad guilty.

We pressed on, finally stopping for dinner at Garfield's. After the feed, we went even further, exploring two or three more places until at last finding a nice coat for Mom. Although the assortments of interesting booty continued to beckon us at every turn, we knew the time had come to throw in the towel and go home. What a day. And I didn't hate it. Not at all. It's certainly not something I want to do every week or even every month, but once in a blue moon is great.

ADVENT REFLECTIONS

We have our annual Advent event when we stay at church all day. At the morning service the only sign of the season is the color purple on the pulpit and communion table, and the Advent wreath service. After morning worship we have dinner together, and then through the afternoon we decorate the sanctuary, bake cookies, and make crafts.

At four o'clock we return to the sanctuary for the Hanging of the Green, which consists of decorating the Christmas tree in the sanctuary while we sing Advent and Christmas hymns. A table is set up with the stable of the nativity scene, but on the first Lord's Day of Advent, it is left empty.

One of the hardest things to accomplish is the proper observance of Advent. That is the season when Christ is on the way, but has not yet arrived. The empty nativity scene reminds us of that. The second Lord's Day we put in the animals because, after all, they were in the stable before anyone else.

On the third Lord's Day, the figures of St. Mary and St. Joseph are put into their places. During the Christmas Eve candlelight service, we place the Christchild at the center of the scene, but the Nativity remains unfinished. The next week we add the shepherds. Only on Epiphany Lord's Day do we complete the tableaux with the wise-men.

The Nativity scene unfolds gradually, and it unfolds from emptiness, just as a child unfolds from the emptiness of the womb before conception. Advent properly observed ought to have a quality of sparseness, of almost Lenten restraint. The commercial interests, which drive most of how we celebrate Christmas, need Christmas to be over before Christmas, because on Christmas we are finished buying their stuff.

Restraint is not a common virtue in our society at any time. During the weeks leading up to Christmas, exercising restraint is like the shad swimming upstream, but alone.

I have an exercise to propose to help us develop an appropriate Lenten restraint, though not, probably, without some cost in terms of popularity.

Have you ever noticed how some questions are perfectly acceptable while others are not? For example, it is socially acceptable to ask a near stranger, "Do you have your Christmas tree up yet?" It really isn't any of the other fellow's business whether I have a Christmas tree, let alone whether it is up yet.

When asked a socially-acceptable, but impertinent, question about our Christmas practices, I propose that in response we ask an equally impertinent, but socially unacceptable, question, like, "How is your prayer life this Advent?"

Someone may object that the theoretical conversation partner may not be a Christian. So, let us limit such impertinences to those whom we meet at church — those of us who go. When asked about shopping lists, baking, trees, and all the rest, let us reply by asking about prayer, devotional practices, and worship attendance.

I have noticed that even as a pastor my congregants will ask me all kinds of questions about how I do my job (e.g. why I haven't visited someone, why meetings have to be so long or even have to take place at all, why my sermons aren't more entertaining, why the hymns aren't the ones they like to sing, why I haven't moved a box of stuff from one place to another). No one asks me, "How is your prayer life?"

My conclusion is that, as long as I shift the boxes and do all the rest, no one really cares whether I pray, whether my life is being nourished in Christ.

"Jesus is the reason for the season," says the slogan. Yes, indeed, he is, but saying so isn't enough. He needs an emptiness to fill. Advent, properly observed, is a careful creation of emptiness, the pushing back of all that the world pushes upon us, so that when Jesus comes to us, he has a place in which to take shelter. If the stable too is full, where is Jesus to be born?

people aware of said law? I've seen this quite a lot during the winter and thought perhaps people just aren't aware that they may be breaking the law.

I realize that it is an inconvenience to keep the snow from your driveway in your own yard, but it could save someone's life. Even though you plan to clean it all off the road by the time you're finished, it is very dangerous if someone comes along before you can accomplish that task.

Sincerely,
Sandy Irving

"This site will provide the community with an upgraded, modern facility that offers a safe working environment for employees and the level of service expected by customers," said J. Joseph O'Connor, real estate specialist with the Postal Service, in a letter addressed to Shockey on November 16.

This information about the decision was presented at the November 29 Mtn. Lake Park town meeting. Both the council and the 32 citizens in attendance were unanimous in their disappointment and concern about the selected site.

"The residents of Mtn. Lake Park have enjoyed the benefit and convenience of a local, nearby post office for the past 40 or more years. To remove this facility from the corporate limits, in light of the fact that sites are available, will be to the detriment of our residents and our community as a whole," Shockey said.

Committee Advises County To Avoid Bi-Co. Tourism

The Garrett County commissioners met on Tuesday with the members of the study committee who have been working with Allegany County individuals on the bi-county tourism legislation proposed by Speaker of the House Casper Taylor Jr. As was reported in last week's issue of The Republican, the five local members are advising against the county's joining in the legislation for the 2001 General Assembly.

"While there are some very worthwhile aspects to the legislation, it would be premature to subject ourselves to all the aspects of the bill," said Ruth Seib, member of the study group. Member Bob Browning concurred, noting that the meetings with the neighboring county's study group have been "very positive" and have been helpful in "opening the lines of communication" between Garrett and Allegany, but that Garrett County is not ready to jump into the legislation this year. "We need to ease into something like this," Browning said.

The proposed legislation would join Garrett County to Allegany County's Heritage Area, already established during this past year's General Assembly. The legislation would create a bi-county "Mountain Maryland Tourism Promotion Council," bringing state and federal money to the western Maryland region for tourism. This council would fall under the proposed Canal Place "Gateways" Preservation and Development Authority, a modified version of the present Canal Place Preservation and

Other early learning proposals have the backing of a group of Democratic legislators from all over the state. The legislators want increased funding for Judith P. Hoyer Centers, the implementation of all-day kindergarten and early childhood accreditation programs.

The legislators also want to establish a statewide credential system for early learning and to develop a public information campaign to reach families and child-care providers.

The governor is still evaluating such programs and their effects on children before he makes a decision, said Guillory. However, Glendening is working to improve teacher salaries, a key issue in a state where a teacher shortage continues to worsen. And he is devoting considerable political capital to higher education this session out of a belief that all public education should be free.

"I believe as a society, we must move toward the day when the word (college) tuition becomes an anachronism," said Glendening. "I think higher education ought to be free. I know we are not going to get tuition-free overnight."

cover almost 60,000 Marylanders without health insurance, Taylor said.

Today, the Medicaid program in Maryland only covers those who make up to 50 percent of the federal poverty level, or $125 a week, said Taylor. This measure would raise that to 150 percent of the federal poverty level.

At the NCSL news conference, Hurson, who is Maryland House majority leader, said "This is something the federal government is already giving us."

However, Hurson said, the state should wait to see what federal action is taken on other health care programs before crafting new solutions.

State governments also will look at cost and access issues for prescription medication, according to the NCSL state legislative forecast and state health priorities survey released Tuesday. Drug cost and access for seniors was one of the dominant themes of the presidential election this year. The need for such drug coverage is particularly acute in Maryland, where only one health maintenance organization will provide prescription drug coverage for Medicare in the new year.

One solution to the medications problem — teaming up with other states to buy drugs in bulk — was not an initiative that Hurson thought would work well, although he was supportive of expanding pharmacy benefits through a waiver program, as is done in at least one other state.

Medical record confidentiality, nursing home staff wage increases, nurse staffing ratios, rural health, and tobacco prevention efforts also turned up as significant issues on the NCSL survey.

Development Authority (minus "Gateways"). Allegany County is ready to introduce the new legislation, although Garrett County will not be included if the local officials opt out.

Because local residents were concerned about various ramifications of the legislation, the commissioners appointed the five-member committee to study the legislation and to work with the Allegany individuals on the issue.

Rol Palmer, a member of the group, said there are a number of opportunities for the two counties to work together on tourism, and that it is his understanding that even if Garrett County stays out of the legislation this year, the door to join later will remain open.

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel expressed his concern that by rejecting Taylor's proposal, the county could be perceived as "throwing a bucket of water" on the idea. He referred to Taylor as "a very powerful friend to western Maryland" and noted that he may not always be the Speaker of the House. "We don't want to lose out on opportunities now," Beitzel said.

Commissioner Fred Holliday, who has been named the chairman of the board for 2001, said he agreed with the study committee that the county ought to avoid rushing into the plan. "I think we already have all our ducks in a row here regarding tourism," Holliday said.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg asked if the bill could be written as enabling legislation, providing a written opportunity for Garrett County to join later, only if desired. The committee members said they would investigate the idea.

"There are three components to the bill," Seib said. "Expanding heritage areas, redefining heritage areas, and funding the project. We appreciate the offer, but I think we need to say 'thank you very much, but we need to pass at this point.' We should, however, absolutely keep the lines of communication open between the two counties."

Funding Agenda

Another education issue gaining support is early learning. While some early learning legislation passed last year, sponsors of the programs will seek more financial support this year. The programs include all-day kindergarten and Judith P. Hoyer Early Child Care and Education Enhancement programs.

Delegate Mark K. Shriver, D-Montgomery, is hoping early learning funding is in the governor's budget. If not, he may propose legislation to put it there, he said. Shriver has stepped up lobbying efforts on early learning proposals, even bringing in Hollywood actor and director Rob Reiner in support on Wednesday.

ELSIE I. ROSENBERGER-WEIMER

Elsie Irene Rosenberger-Weimer, 85, Frostburg, died Monday, Dec. 11, 2000, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland. She had more recently been a resident at the Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville.
 Born Aug. 5, 1915, in Accident, she was the daughter of the late John and Isabelle (Knox) Broadwater. She was also preceded in death by two husbands, Thomas Rosenberger and Vincent Weimer. She was the last surviving member of her immediate family.

She was retired from the Meyersdale (Pa.) Manufacturing Company. She attended St. John's Episcopal Church and was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles #1273 Ladies Auxiliary, Frostburg.

Surviving are three sons, Harold Rosenberger, Lonaconing, Paul Rosenberger, Meyersdale, and Bernard Rosenberger, Finzel; one daughter, Darlene Bittinger, Salisbury, Pa.; four stepchildren; six grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Frostburg, where a service was conducted Wednesday, Dec. 13, with Pastor David Fettes officiating. Interment was in the Finzel Cemetery.

Members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles Ladies Auxiliary conducted a memorial service Tuesday evening at the funeral home.

Adorable Adoptables

FRED, the gray short-hair domestic cat shown above, is available for adoption at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. The adult male is described as "very friendly and cuddly," adjectives not ordinarily used when referring to adult males named Fred. The pair of 8-week-old mixed-breed puppies pictured below are part of a litter of nine little brothers and sisters looking for homes. Not pictured are a trio of 3-month-old mixed terrier pups, one female and two males, also available for adoption. The animal shelter is located along Oakland Sang Run Road, and may be reached by calling 301-334-3553.

WILARLIE HOUSER
 Wilmarie Houser, 76, Middletown, Ohio, died Tuesday, Dec. 5, 2000, at her home.

Born Sept. 13, 1924, in Ardmore, Tenn., she was a daughter of the late Charles Whitfield DeWitt and Mary Anita (Gillespie) DeWitt. She was also preceded in death by one daughter, Terri Lynn Houser, and two brothers, Charles H. DeWitt and Harold G. DeWitt.

She was reared in the Hoyes community and graduated from Accident High School. She worked as a secretary in Columbus, Ohio, and lived in Middletown since 1950.

She was a homemaker and attended the University Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband of 51 years, John W. Houser; three sons, Greg Houser and John Houser, both of Middletown, and Tom Houser, Virginia Beach, Va.; two daughters, Jenni Beckner, Middletown, and Laurie Brown, Perkinsville, Vt.; one sister, Anita Brobst, McHenry; and seven grandchildren.

A memorial service was conducted in Middletown on Thursday, Dec. 7, and interment was in Woodside Cemetery.

The family suggests memorial contributions be directed to Hospice of Middletown, 4414 Lewis St., Middletown, OH 45044; The Salvation Army, 106 Clinton St., Middletown, OH 45042; or a charity of the donor's choice.

Crellin Church Youth Schedule Holiday Program

Rock Solid Youth and the children's choir of Crellin Assembly of God will present Christmas programs titled "Thoughts" and "All You Need is a Willing Heart" this Sunday, Dec. 17, beginning at 6 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

"Thoughts" will consist of monologues by "a brand new Christian who is re-examining her old ways of seeing things, an average guy who is comparing choices that we make today with choices that changed the past, and a young Christian who makes a breakthrough with his emotions and with his dad," according to a church spokesperson. He added that the monologues are designed to "encourage a person to think about family and loved ones, his or her life, and God's place in it."

"All You Need is a Willing Heart" will center on the character Little One, a young angel who is selected to tell the news of Christ's birth. Other characters include Gabby (angel), Sarah, Moses, and David.

Iannucci Named Secretary Of Maryland DBED

Governor Parris Glendening's administration announced this week that David S. Iannucci has been appointed as the secretary of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, or DBED. Iannucci, currently the deputy secretary of DBED, succeeds Richard C. Mike Lewin, who resigned in October.

The new secretary, a resident of Prince George's County, was a key negotiator in a number of deals to attract and retain business in Maryland, including the recent procurement of ClosetMaid in Grantsville.

"David Iannucci recognizes that in the new knowledge-based economy, Maryland is uniquely positioned to attract and retain businesses," said Glendening. "[Since Iannucci is] highly regarded by both the business community and legislators, I am confident he will effectively lead the administration's efforts to continue the state's extraordinary growth and prosperity through Smart Growth, work force development, and expansion of the state's technology sector."

Oakland Rotary Club

75th Anniversary

"Service Above Self" — Oakland Rotary Club Marks Its First 75 Years Of Service To County

The Oakland Rotary Club marked the 75th anniversary of the club's founding as a number of members, guests, and dignitaries gathered for a banquet recently at the Will O' the Wisp. Several guest speakers outlined the history, current undertakings, and some of the future directions for the local, national, and international civic organization.

The Oakland Rotary Club was chartered Dec. 7, 1925, with 23 members and Dr. Henry McComas as its first president. The Rotary concept itself was only two decades old at the time of the founding of the local club, as the very first Rotary meeting had taken place in 1905 when Chicago lawyer Paul Harris and several other professionals and businessmen gathered in friendship and fellowship. Harris named the new club "Rotary" because the members met in rotation at their various places of business. Five years later, 16 Rotary clubs met to form the National Association of Rotary Clubs, and just two years after that the organization extended its reach to international status.

Last month's Oakland Rotary Club's 75th anniversary banquet featured a look into the local organization's past, focusing on projects that have and continue to benefit the entire community. Pictures of projects, notebooks of past bulletins, and visiting members' flags were displayed in the gathering room.

Current Oakland Rotary president Ken Perrin opened the banquet with a welcome, and Rev. Russell McConnell led both the invocation and the closing benediction. Steve Lantz, who served as the evening's master of ceremonies, introduced guest speakers Dr. Frank Custer, Dave Moe, and Doug Riley. Each speaker is a Rotary member, and each presentation was punctuated by a short quiz on Rotary information by Lantz. Bob Ulino led a round of group singing.

Custer's presentation featured a short history of the Oakland Rotary. For the first 22 years of the club's existence, members gathered for their Friday evening meetings at the old William James Hotel, which was located along Second Street. Well-known speakers often accepted invitations to travel to Oakland to address the club on a wide variety of topics. The first district meeting hosted by the Oakland Rotary took place at the Deer Park Hotel in August 1927, as approximately 250 Rotarians from 14 Rotary clubs and three district governors gathered for three days of planning, fellowship, and celebration.

Following the 1962 razing of the James Hotel the club met for three years at Hinebaugh's Restaurant, which itself was later torn down. For the next three decades thereafter, club meetings took place at the American Legion and several local restaurants. In 1998 members decided upon the Community Services building of Garrett County Memorial Hospital as the club's permanent meeting site.

Custer also highlighted the work of the Rotary International Foundation. One of that group's major efforts currently under way is the targeted worldwide eradication of polio within the next five years. To date, Rotary International has donated over $300 million to buy polio vaccine for use around the world in conjunction with the World Health Organization and

OBJECT OF ROTARY

The object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

First. The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

Second. High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society;

Third. The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business, and community life;

Fourth. The advancement of international understanding, good will, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

THE ROTARY CHRISTMAS PROJECT has delighted many hundreds of Garrett County children and their families, as well as the numerous volunteers who have helped make it happen, since it began in 1981. The process of preparing toys, clothing, and food initially took place in the home of the project's founder, Dr. David Bollinger, and has expanded through several larger locations until arriving at the Simon Pearce glass factory for the first time beginning tomorrow, Dec. 15. Bollinger is pictured below at a project preparation event, flanked by fellow Rotarians Robert Ulino, left, and Joseph DiSimone. Persons interested in volunteering for this year's Rotary Christmas Project by preparing items can either report to the Simon Pearce building tomorrow at 6 p.m. or shortly afterward, or deliver items throughout the county the following day beginning at 8 a.m. Persons may call current project co-chairs Doug Riley at 301-334-8798 or Kathy Zimmerman at 301-334-2820.

FOUR-WAY TEST

1. Is it the TRUTH?
2. Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3. Will it build GOODWILL and better FRIENDSHIPS?
4. Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

SERVING ENOUGH FRIES TO GO TO THE MOON AND BACK, at least so it seems, Oakland Rotary members have provided the "famous" Oakland Rotary french fries for hungry masses at the Garrett County Fair (above), the Autumn Glory Festival (below), and numerous other public events over the years. French fry sales account for the club's biggest source of funds, which the Oakland Rotary distributes throughout the community. Dave Moe serves as the current chair of the french fry project.

Melinda Frazee, Joshua Grove United In August Ceremony

Melinda Dawn Frazee and Joshua Jeremy Grove were married August 26 at Deep Creek Lake Baptist Church, McHenry, with the Rev. Donald Wilson officiating. The bride is the daughter of Terrell C. and Betty F. Frazee, Friendsville. The groom is the son of Terry R. and Donna J. Grove, Friendsville.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, Jamie Grove, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor, and Daniel Fabbri, Frostburg, served as best man. Among those serving as ushers were the brother of the bride, Rodney Frazee, Martinsburg, W.Va., and a cousin of the groom, Adam Clymer, Uniontown, Pa.

Mary Frazee, sister-in-law of the bride, arranged the music for the ceremony. Staff of Green Acres of Oakland arranged flowers for the occasion, and family members Sandra Savage and Julie Frazee photographed the event. The reception was held at Will O' the Wisp, with music provided by disc jockey Jonny Rock.

The couple reside in Frostburg, and are planning a late December honeymoon trip to the Poconos.

Wiles Couple To Mark 50th

Anna Mae (Bateman) and Charles F. Wiles of Westernport marked their 50th wedding anniversary recently. The couple were married in Swanton on Nov. 20, 1950, in a ceremony officiated by Rev. Daniel Hare.

To celebrate the occasion, a buffet dinner has been set for Saturday, Dec. 30, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Family Life Center of the First Assembly of God Church in Lonaconing. The church is located at 17222 Assembly Lane, just off Route 36 on the south side of Lonaconing.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the anniversary celebration, which is being hosted by the couple's daughter Linda and her husband, Rev. Donald Webb, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church.

Mrs. Wiles is a homemaker, and Mr. Wiles is retired from Westvaco Corporation.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Fourteen couples applied for their marriage licenses over the past two weeks, according to David Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court. Three couples requested that their names not be published.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

LIVING CHRISTMAS TREE DISPLAY

A living Christmas tree, featuring a display of over 3,000 lights, and a cantata sung by the Maple Grove Assembly choir, are set for Dec. 16, 7 p.m., Dec. 17 at 6 p.m., and Dec. 24 at 10:30 a.m.

The Maple Grove Assembly of God Church is located at Horse Shoe Run, on the Accident Road. A gift will be presented to each in attendance.

MUSICAL DRAMA PRESENTATION SET

A musical drama, "Nathan and the Neon Night Light," will be presented at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren on Sunday evening, Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m. All are welcome.

SCHOOL CONCERT

The public is invited to attend the winter concert band and chorus program on Dec. 21 at 2 p.m. at the Aurora School.

CEOS CELEBRATE

Twenty-seven members and guests of the Aurora CEOS met for a Christmas dinner on Saturday evening, Dec. 9, at the Union Ambulance squad hall. Following the baked steak dinner, a time for recreation and fellowship followed.

Those in attendance were Opal and Ben Myers, Rennie and Bill Conrad, Delores and Keith Douglas, Janice Shillingburg and Joe Collins, Virginia Martin, Sue Mayne, April and Melinda Mayne; Dorothy Spaid, Martha Bolyard, Alice Penzo, Thelma Stemple, Wilda Wilt, Dale Harsh, Nina and Sheridan Layman, Kathy Hardesty, Mildred and Dale Stemple, Gail Rose and friend Henry, and Deloris and James Slawter.

FORMAN RETURNS FROM EUROPE

Lora Foreman, a student at Alderson-Broadus College, returned last Thursday from a semester of study in Salzburg, Austria. With a minor in foreign studies, this semester enhanced her field of study and included visits in 11 other countries, including Spain, Italy, Germany, Holland, and France. She was one of a group of 20 American college students and is the daughter of Arthur D. and Janice Forman of Amboy.

VFD BREAKFAST

This Sunday, Dec. 17, is the date set for an all-you-can-eat breakfast at the Aurora fire hall. Hot cakes (both buckwheat and pancakes), biscuits, sausage and gravy, eggs, juice, milk, and coffee are some of the menu items from which to choose. Serving is from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m., and adult donations are $6, with children eating for $3.

MORE AURORA BEARS

Two names have been added to the second grade list of "All Star Bears" from Aurora School. They are Aaron Ward and Melissa Snyder.

DEATHS NOTED

Virginia Mosser Roth, 85, died Dec. 6, at the Cortland Acres Nursing Home, Thomas. She is survived by a daughter, Mary Jane Gnegy, Gnegy Church, and two sons, Earl E. Renick and Donald, both of Horse Shoe Run.

Dorothy Fike Carr, 56, of Las Vegas, Nev., died in a nursing center there on Dec. 7. She was a daughter of Louella Fike of Aurora and the late Arlie Fike, and is survived by her husband, James Carr, of Las Vegas.

PERSONAL MENTION

Leo Stemple of Aurora was admitted last week to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he remains hospitalized.

Visiting this weekend in Dover, Del., were Melvin, Melissa, and Dakota Frantz, and Don, Neva, and Missy Frantz, Egdon. The Donnie Frantz family hosted them and all went Sunday to Norfolk, where the Melvin Frantz family departed on the first leg of their flight to Japan, where Melvin will be stationed for the next three years.

Michelle Moure has returned to Aurora to continue her recuperation from recent surgery at Ruby Memorial Hospital.

Steve Stemple was a surgical patient at Davis Memorial, rather than Ruby Memorial as stated, and he has returned to his Elkins home.

A trip to Europe encompassing the dates of Nov. 17 to 27 was the highlight of the year for an Aurora family. Dean Sisler, her daughters Donetta Nice, Jana Freeman, Tamara Fauber, Cara Radford, and Shauna Perrine, and grandchildren Dane Nice, Skylar, Mariah, and Jasmine Freeman, and Cody Fauber, traveled by rail and other public transportation to France, Germany, and Belgium and the cities of Paris, Munich, Dachau, Cologne, and Brussels, and to Little Cressingham, Lakin-Heath AFB, Holt, Holcomb Beach, and the city of London in England. At Little Cressingham they visited with Kim Kelly, their cousin, who is stationed at Lakin-Heath AFB. They stayed in hostels and went to museums, and other places of interest.

TERRA ALTA

LIBRARY NEWS

Two memorials have recently been presented to the Terra Alta Public Library. A copy of Handcrafted Cabinetry by Robert A. Yoder was presented in memory of Don Messenger by June Frazee, and New Illustrated Guide to Gardening by Reader's Digest was presented in memory of Chleo Wilhelm by the Cranesville Homemakers Club.

The library has adopted a new Internet Use Policy. Parents with children under the age of 18 need to come in with them to go over the policy and sign it in front of a staff member before the children will be allowed to use the computer.

The library will be closed December 25 - January 1 for the Christmas holiday.

Patrons donating books, magazines, or puzzles recently have been DeWitt Wyatt, Mary Spahr, Ruth Sines, Jim McConnell, Paul Sisler, Penny Kelly, Roberta Hollis, Pan Hinton, Sara Mersing, Mary McLaughlin, and Cindy Myers.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Winters Completes Boot Camp

Ryan Keith Winters, son of Richard and Tina Winters, Horse Shoe Run, has successfully completed boot camp with the United States Air Force at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Winters graduated with honors on Nov. 9, and is now classified as Airman E-2. He is currently living in Biloxi, Miss., at Kessler AFB, and will be there for the next nine months during his technical training.

He is the grandson of Patricia and Donald Rolt, Red House, Keith Winters, Horse Shoe Run, and Beatrice Winters, Oakland.

Attending the graduation ceremonies in Texas were his parents, his sister, Shari Winters, and his aunt, Pam Mooney of Baltimore.

While in San Antonio, Winters and his family had the opportunity to visit the Alamo and other historical sites.

Preston High Band Concert Date Changed

The Preston High School Band Department will present its annual Christmas concert next Thursday, Dec. 21, at 7:30 p.m. The original date for the program was today, but it was postponed for one week.

The concert will feature the wind ensemble, symphonic band, Jazz Knights, and the percussion ensemble. Admission is one non-perishable food item per person.

Marks 75 Years

The french fry operation has evolved a great deal since its beginning, when the potatoes were peeled and cooked in home kitchen deep fryers. Up to seven tons of potatoes have been prepared and served during each of the last several years. During his term Moe helped oversee members who constructed the new french fry booth at the fairgrounds in order to more efficiently accommodate fair customers.

Doug Riley, current co-chair of the Oakland Rotary Christmas Project, outlined how the annual gift and food distribution event was founded by fellow Rotarian Dr. David Bolinger. Nineteen years ago the club was exploring ideas for a community project, and Bolinger suggested that the club purchase and deliver food to needy families in the community at Christmas time. The board allocated $500, and 10 families were served. The items were assembled at Bollinger's home, put in boxes, and with the help of a few members were delivered to the needy.

The Christmas Project has grown to become a countywide project that serves up to 400 families with food, clothing, and toys. The county's various Rotary and Lions clubs, the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, many church groups, and dozens of individual volunteers combine their efforts to make the project a success. Riley and Kathy Zimmerman were co-chairs of the project last year, and are repeating their co-chair service again this year.

The Oakland Rotary Club currently has 38 members and meets each Thursday at 12:15 p.m. at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Community Services building.

In Memory of Rick Reckner

who was taken from us Dec. 20, 1985

When our family gets together
There's one we fail to see.
It fills our hearts with sadness

Thinking how it used to be.
But just beyond the hill
We know Rick waits for us
In God's eternal light.

In Loving Memory Of Norma Louise Madigan

Dec. 17, 1930

God looked around His garden
And found an empty place.
He then looked down upon the earth
And saw your tired face.
He put His arms around you
And lifted you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful,
He always takes the best.
He knew that you were suffering.
He knew you were in pain.
He knew that you would never Get well on earth again.
He saw the road was getting rough,
And the hills were hard to climb;
So he closed your weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace Be Thine."
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone.
For part of us went with you
The day God called you home.

Happy Birthday, Mom
Love, Sharon, Mike, and Kelly

NORTHERN BOYS' BASKETBALL TEAM — The varsity unit of Northern High School's basketball program has some of the bigger post players in the area, and is banking on a strong inside game to physically dominate opponents. Kneeling from the left are Mike Fletcher, Denny Thorp, Jeremy Frazee, Greg Speicher, and A.J. Thomas. Standing are assistant coaches Harv Speicher and Chris Opal, and Aaron Mitchell, Collen DuBoise, Rob Dozier, Jensen Long, Josh Swandol, and second-year head coach Paul Edwards.

three games. The Huskies' 63-51 road victory over Hyndman marks their first victory of the year, and came on the heels of a 67-58 loss at Beall Tuesday and a 68-47 defeat at the hands of host Allegany Friday.

NHIS fell behind early Friday as the Campers jumped out from the opening tipoff to roll up a 15-0 lead before the visiting Huskies sank their first basket at the 5:39 mark. Northern then embarked on a 23-13 run over the remainder of the first half, even though their two biggest players, 6-6 Jensen Long and 6-5 Rob Dozier, were each whistled with a pair of quick fouls and spent much of the first quarter seated on the bench.

"Obviously, when your best player gets into foul trouble early it hurts," NHIS head coach Paul Edwards commented after the contest. "Allegany did a nice job of kicking it inside after Dozier, and Long, got into foul trouble. That definitely hurt our game plan."

Despite the foul trouble, by the end of the opening stanza the Huskies had clawed back to make the score 17-8. Northern continued chipping away at Alco's lead incremental throughout the second quarter, and by the half Allegany held a comparatively slim five-point lead, 28-23.

A five-point margin, 34-29, still separated the two squads with 2:35 remaining in the third quarter before the hosts began to pull away by clamping down on defense and crashing the boards. The Campers outscored Northern 34-18 from then to the final buzzer, and over the course of the entire second half outrebounded Northern by a 23-16 margin en route to the 21-point victory.

NHIS helped hand the momentum to Alco by turning the ball over 10 times in the second half. "I'll say it a thousand times, unless our guards handle the ball, we're not going to beat anybody," stated Edwards. "We got it to five and almost got all the way back, but their defense was key. They pressured our guards and we didn't respond well, which was the difference in the game." A fortuitous side product of Alco's aggressive defense was that NHIS was forced to launch a number of three-point attempts out of near-desperation, and for the night connected on only one of 15 attempts from long range.

Dozier, who missed the entire fourth quarter, scored 12 points by hitting five of eight field goal attempts and sinking both of his free throws during his limited playing time. Guard Greg Speicher shared team-high honors with 12 points of his own, garnered on three successful field goals out of 11 attempts, and a 6-for-8 effort from the foul line. No other Husky cracked double figures in the scoring column.

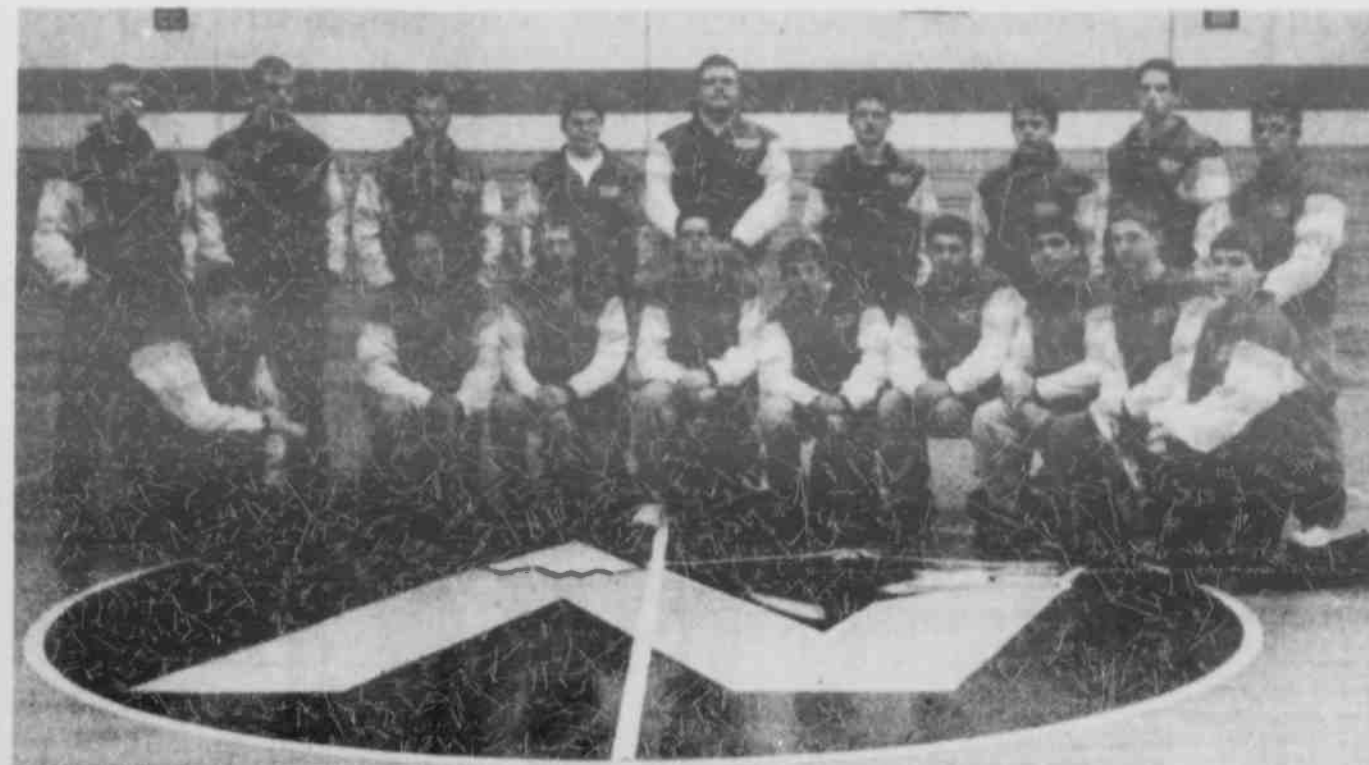

Although Alco won the war under the boards by snagging 38 rebounds to NHIS's 32, Dozier snagged the most rebounds of the contest with nine. Long, the

HUSKIES CONTINUE WINNING - Victory is almost a foregone conclusion for the members of the Northern High School wrestling team, who opened their season just one week ago and are already 5-0. The Huskies are the defending Maryland State 1A/2A champions, and return four individual state title holders this season — Pete and Brandon Stein, Mark Wolf, and Brandon Kamp. The Huskies, who are coached by Scott Stough, will compete in the Berkeley Springs Tournament this weekend, and travel to Beall next

The Northern High School girls' basketball team faced off with Allegany during its season opener last Thursday night in Accident, and the Huskies were saddled with a 63-26 loss at the hands of the defending state champs.

NHS held tough during the early going and was down by just an 11-8 margin after one quarter of play. Also opened the gap to 23-11 by the half, and went on a 21-5 flurry in the third quarter to take a 44-16 lead as the final quarter got underway. A 19-10 fourth quarter Camper run left Northern down by 40 points at the final buzzer. Forward Bridget Frazee scored nine points to lead the Huskies, while Alco's Teandra Smith hit for 18 points to lead all scorers.

Northern's bags will be packed throughout the coming week, as the Huskies travel to Westmar tonight, Southern on Monday, and Fort Hill on Wednesday.

Rams Cage Wildcats By 25, But Clawed By Lions 71-52

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team saw two very different faces when it looked in the mirror this week, as the Rams demolished Westmar 50-25 Friday night, but in turn were dominated from start to finish during a 71-52 loss last night at Tucker County. SHS's record goes to 2-1 on the season.

SHS shook off a slow start in Oakland Friday after taking a 16-10 first-quarter lead over Westmar. The Rams began to hit their stride in the second quarter and went up by a 29-14 margin at the half, and went on to increase their lead to a 42-21 tally after three quarters of play.

"We were rather untidy as we opened, but turned it on in the second quarter," Southern coach Don Stemple commented. "It took us a while to get going, but when we did we took the game. Our defense controlled the floor after the first quarter."

Junior Jennifer Bosley paced all scorers with 17 points for the Rams, Ashley Liller tallied 11 points, and Autumn Liller put in a fine all-around performance with 11 points, nine assists, and five steals. Robbin Gregg hauled down six rebounds, and Charlena Reeves nabbed five steals. Westmar's Angie Johnson led her squad with seven points.

The Rams' junior varsity team rolled over its Westmar counterpart with a 52-10 victory. Justine Pagenhardt scored 20 points and Sabrina Scheffell contributed 14 points for Southern, while Westmar's Kristen Davis tallied six points.

Last night the host Mountain Lions came out with claws sharpened and bared, and the Rams were no match for Tucker's intensity. The Lions took a 24-10 first-quarter lead, went up 42-21 at the half, and a mind-boggling 56-28 after three quarters of play.

It was not Southern's night, and "Tucker came out to play," Stemple said. "They outplayed us in every aspect of the game. For some reason we weren't geared for what they had to give us."

Liller had a fine game, scoring 21 points, six of which came from three-point range, to lead the Rams. Teammate Gina Reeves sank a pair of three-pointers on her way to a nine-point tally, and Charlena Reeves contributed seven points. Rachel Campbell's 20 points paced the Lions.

Southern travels to Lonaconing for a Saturday afternoon match-up, then returns home to take on Northern Monday evening in a 7:30 p.m. varsity battle that will follow a 6 p.m. junior varsity contest.

Panther Cousins Lead Rams To Season-Opening Victory At BW

Double-figure performances by the Panther cousins — Bryan and Chad — led the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball to a 55-37 victory over host Bishop Walsh in the Rams' season opener on Tuesday. Bryan Panther hit eight field goals and a foul shot for 18 points, while Chad Panther finished with 12 points.

Strong defense continued to be a trademark of Coach Tom Bosley's game plan, as the Rams allowed just 12 goals by the 2-3 Spartans. Kevin Orndorf was the only BW player to finish in double figures, as he netted 12 points.

The Rams led the entire game, building a 13-7 advantage by the end of the first quarter, leading 27-16 at intermission, and taking a 43-25 lead into the final stanza.

The Southern junior varsity team coasted to a 60-30 victory in the preliminary game behind a 20-point effort by Dennis Tressler. Jay Sulek led the Spartan jay-

New Southern Gym Lobby To Be Dedicated

A special pre-game ceremony will be held in the Southern High School gymnasium this Friday, Dec. 15, just prior to the varsity basketball game between the Southern Rams and the Beall Mountaineers. The purpose of the ceremony is to dedicate the newly renovated gymnasium lobby.

Persons invited to make brief remarks during the event are Garrett County commissioners Ernie Gregg, Wendell Beitzel, and Fred Durst, president of the Garrett County Board of Education. Assistant athletic director Dave Mayfield will be the master of ceremonies.

All are invited to attend the ceremony.

Mountain Top League Game Scores Noted

Condoerr defeated Deep Creek Ready-Mix, 76-63. Beckman's stopped Mt. Top Glass, 59-49, and Smiley's topped Long Branch, 69-53, in Mountain Top Basketball League games played Sunday at Southern High School.

Poke Winters netted 18 points to pace unbeaten Condoerr to a come-from-behind win over DC Ready-Mix, as Condoerr trailed by one, 33-32, at halftime on the strength of a 22-point effort by C.J. Getson. Condoerr outscored Ready-Mix in the third quarter by a 24-11 margin to take the lead for good. Also reaching double figures for the winners were Tom Stem and Tony Doerr with 16 and 14 points, respectively. Joe Di-Simone netted 19 for Ready-Mix.

Mt. Top Glass could also not hold onto a slim, three-point halftime lead against Beckman's in the second game. Jared Beckman, 6-7 center for Beckman's, poured in a dozen second-half points and finished with a game-high 18. Stan Skiles hit four three-point buckets for Beckman's and concluded with 14 points, while Jeremy Keller and Mike Fazenbaker scored 12 and 11 points, respectively, to lead Mt. Top Glass.

Doug Copeland ripped the nets for 27 points, which included 18 from three-point range, for Long Branch in game three, but 6-7 Joe Refosco matched that 27-point effort to power Smiley's to victory. Mike Harvey hit 18 points and Chris Iwing finished with 14 for Smiley's, while Jason Shank also reached double figures for Long Branch with 15.

The schedule for games this Sunday at Southern High School is as follows: Condoerr vs. Long Branch at 1 p.m., DC Ready-Mix vs. Beckman's at 2 p.m., and Smiley's vs. 84 Lumber at 3 p.m. Respective scorekeepers are: DC Ready-Mix, Smiley's, and Beckman's.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF
JOHN L. LEE
APRIL 22, 1932 - DEC. 18, 1999

They say memories are golden,
Well, maybe that is true.
We never wanted memories,
We only wanted you.

A million times we needed you,
A million times we've cried.
If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have died.

If tears could build a stairway,
And heartaches make a lane,
We would walk the path to heaven,
And bring you back again.

Our family chain is broken,
And nothing seems the same,
But as God calls us one by one,
The chain will link again.

Sadly missed and deeply loved Wife, Freda and Family

This Christmas, we open our doors and welcome you!

Just what is an Evangelical Free Church?

Evangelical: We seek to know Jesus Christ personally and to make Him known through evangelism both locally and around the world.

Free: It's a term that goes back to our European roots, when our founders sought to be free from state church control. ("Free" does not mean out-of-control worship!)

Church: We're a body of biblical, evangelical Christians who follow Jesus Christ and desire to grow in our walks with Him. Our services are a blend of contemporary and traditional worship.

The Evangelical Free Church of America is one of the fastest growing Protestant denominations with over 1200 U.S. churches. It extends to some 30 other nations, encompassing nearly 1,000 additional churches.

GCC Stomps Howard, Chesapeake To Take 3-2 Mark Into Holidays

It was "take no prisoners" wherever the Garrett Community College women's basketball team set foot on the court this week, as the Lakers left Columbia in ruins last Thursday after a 62-29 win over Howard Community College, and shredded the nets for a 76-35 win over Chesapeake Community College Saturday afternoon at Keyser. The wins come on the heels of a pair of Laker losses last week, and put GCC on the sunny side of .500 with a 3-2 record heading into the Christmas break.

Saturday's contest was more of the same — but even more so. Garrett led Chesapeake from buzzer to buzzer, including the half's 43-20 point difference.

Crystal Kimble scored 18 points for the Lakers, and Baker notched 16 points, 12 of which came from three-point range. Kitt added 12 points, eight assists, and five steals. Donna Lyles scored eight points and snagged 14 rebounds, while Kimble pulled down 12 rebounds. Chesapeake's Shawndra Hadrick paced her squad with 21 points and 10 rebounds.

The keys to victory included GCC's outstanding work under the basket, as the Lakers racked up a 60-31 rebounding advantage, and Garrett's passing, which resulted in 19 assists to Chesapeake's three.

Garrett is idle through the holiday season, and the next outing for the Lakers will be Saturday, Jan. 6, when they travel to Cambridge County Community College.

52, last Thursday evening in Uniontown. However, the run came to an abrupt end Saturday when Coach Dennis Gibson's squad was edged by host College of Southern Maryland, 88-85, in LaPlata.

The Lakers are now on a four-week break for the holidays, and will return to action on January 6 when they travel to Takoma Park.

Kortaa Hall hit five three-point buckets and finished with a game-high 26 points in Thursday's easy win over Penn State - Fayette to lead four Lakers who finished in double figures. Jontae Harrington scored 18 points and grabbed eight rebounds, Zeke Ramos netted 13 points, and Lee Parris finished with 10 points. Rob Hall hit double figures in assists with 12.

The outcome of the game was in no doubt after just a few minutes of play, as the Lakers quickly took control and held a commanding 73-22 advantage at halftime. They out-rebounded Fayette by a lopsided 50-29 margin.

Tim Poloski was the leading scorer and the only one to reach double figures, for Fayette, as he finished with 20 points. Rob Puskas grabbed seven rebounds. It was the ninth loss in 10 outings for Fayette.

The win broke GCC's record of 8-0, which was recorded in the 1985-86 season.

Kortaa Hall also had an outstanding game against the College of Southern Maryland on Saturday, as he ripped the nets for 28 points, with 24 of those being recorded on eight three-pointers. But the bigger Southern Maryland team controlled the activity under both boards, where they out-rebounded the Lakers by a 54-29 margin.

The Lakers trailed by six at halftime, 45-39, and stayed within just a few points throughout the second half, but couldn't quite assume the lead.

Lappegard had a double-double night, as he recorded 13 points and 10 rebounds. Harrington finished with 14 points, and Robert Hall dishied out 17 assists and had four steals. Lee Parris blocked three shots.

Quincy Tarpley paced Southern Maryland's scoring with 16 points, and also had six assists, while Jerry Parker and Hugh Jones each netted 13 points, and

VERTICAL LIMIT

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:05 - Released 12/8/00
John Kennedy once said, "Why climb the highest mountain?" The popular response to such a question is "because it is there," and any number of climbers could probably give as many different answers. But in Martin Campbell's Vertical Limit, the reason is mainly the superinflated ego of the expedition's leader. Written by Robert King (Red Corner) and Terry Hayes (Payback), the movie delivers thrills and chills (both the good kind and the bad), while stretching credibility within a hair's breadth of the breaking point and barely rising above the average performances of most of its cast members.

Elliot Vaughn (Bill Paxton) is an experienced climber and billionaire business tycoon about to open his new airline, Majestic Air. As a promotional scheme, he intends to head up an expedition to the top of K2, the world's second highest and most difficult mountain, and be there to wave on the airline's inaugural flight over the summit. Although he is an egotistical jerk, he has the money to hire the world's best climbers to go along, including Tom McLaren (Nicholas Lea), who has scaled Everest several times, and the up-and-coming Annie Garrett (Robin Tunney), who has gone on to greatness after surviving a harrowing climbing accident that claimed the life of her father and caused her brother Peter (Chris O'Donnell) to give up the sport. As the expedition is about to be launched, Peter goes to the base camp, high in the Pakistani wilderness, to visit his estranged sister and take some pictures for National Geographic.

In one of many predictable turns of events in this story, Elliot's haste in reaching the summit results in disaster. Although he designates McLaren as the team's leader, he refuses to back down when bad weather prompts McLaren to call off the climb. An ensuing avalanche kills most of the climbing party and traps Elliot, Annie, and Tom in a crevasse, prompting a rescue mission by Peter and several others.

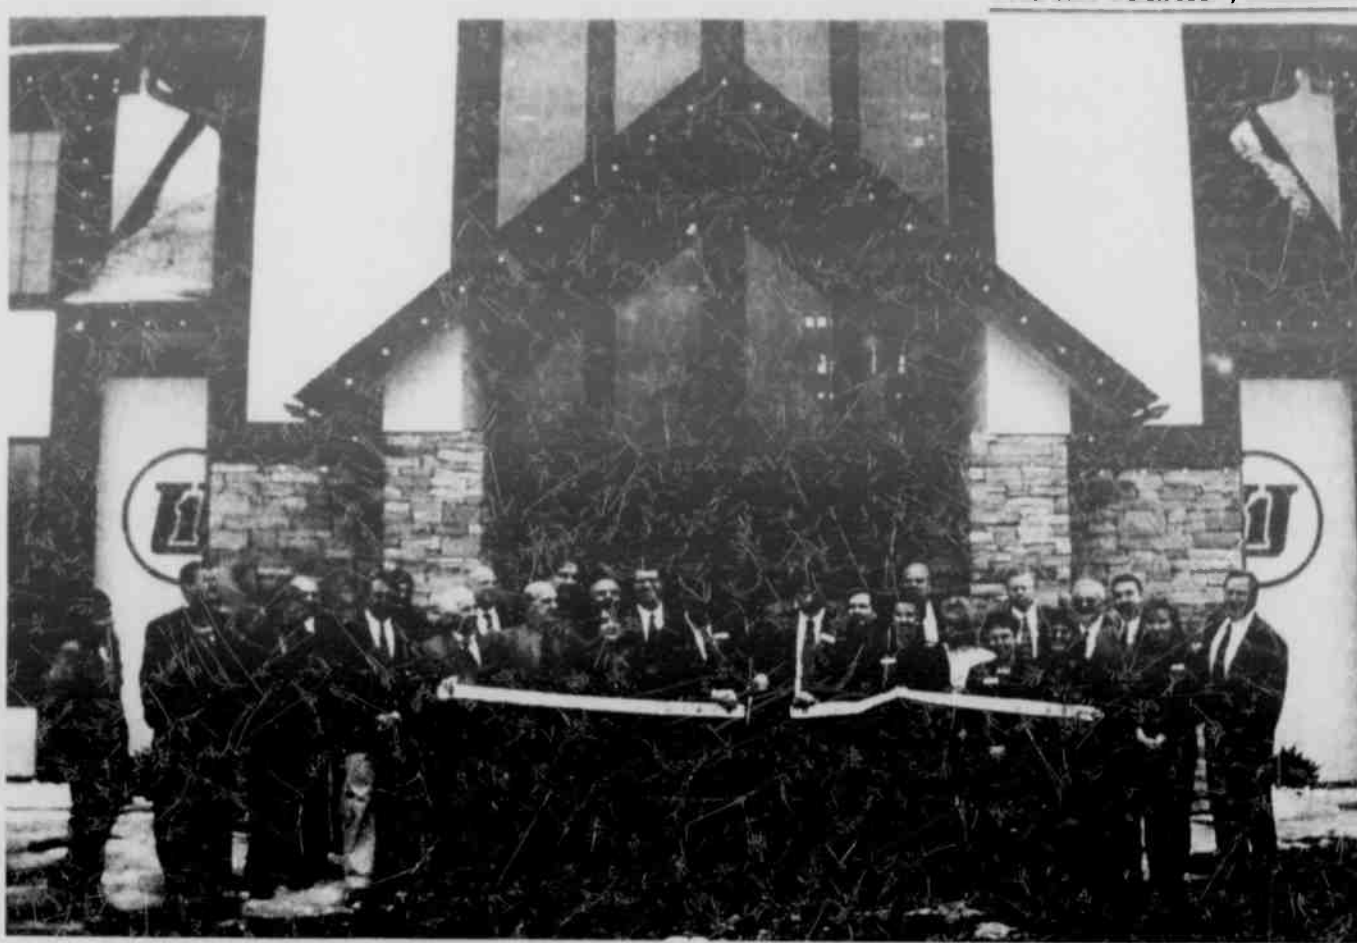

This movie is by no means unpredictable, but it is thrilling. Its many action scenes are well framed by Campbell and supported by convincing effects (even though most of them go on too long), and the actors do a reasonably credible job. The script fails to flesh out some of the less major characters on the rescue expedition, resulting in an ease of predicting who's going to survive and who's not, but some of the red shirts are more convincing in their doomed roles than the film's headliners. A notable performance is given by Scott Glenn as a wizened old climber who, after having lost his wife in an expedition headed by Elliot, has a score to settle. Paxton is passable as Elliot; it's the best performance I've seen him do since Apollo 13, which isn't saying much.

All in all, Vertical Limit is passable entertainment; it is formulaic at times, but its sweeping visuals and action-packed adventure are thrilling enough to divert our attention from its less-than-plausible plot details. ★★½

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:45 - Released 12/8/00
Although I am of the right age group to have participated in the Dungeons & Dragons craze during the late '70s and early '80s, I never actually played it myself. At first I thought this would hamper my ability to enjoy the film, but I was wrong. The reason I hated the film is because of bad acting, bad scriptwriting, bad effects, a stupid story, bad directing, and the fact that I never played the game. With formerly distinguished actors giving the worst performances of their lives to date and cheesy effects like the kind you'd see on Power Rangers, the movie is much more stupid than you could possibly imagine, and unless you are a former (or current) D&D junkie, director Courtney Solomon's debut will make you wish you had chosen to see any other film currently playing at your local cineplex. But at least Solomon can look on the bright side: his first film provides him with the happy prognosis that there's no way to go but up.

Written by Topper Lilien and Carroll Cartwright, based on the game by E. Gary Gygax, Dungeons & Dragons is set in the mythical land of Ismere, where the pert young Empress Savina, played with spectacular woodenness by American Beauty's Thora Birch, worries about the inequity between the empire's two social classes. It seems the mages, made up of upper-class folks like herself, enjoy a rich, pampered lifestyle unknown among the commoners (ruffians, elves, dwarves, and regular smelly peasants). Though she wants to dissolve the barriers between the two and declare equal justice for all, her councilmen, led by the openly evil Profion (Jeremy Irons), plan to maintain superiority by usurping her all-powerful scepter. But she doesn't want to give it up, so Profion sends his henchman Damodar (a blue-lipped Bruce Payne, very self-conscious about his blue lips) to find the legendary Rod of Saville, purported to be even more powerful than the scepter.

Enter the young, hunky Ridley (Justin Whalin) and his friend Snails (Marlon Wayans), two common thieves who, while attempting a burglary of the magic school, meet up with mage Marina (Zoe McLellan) and hear about the Rod. Joined by a dwarf (Lee Arenberg) and an elf (Kristen Wilson), they decide to forget their class differences and work together to find the Rod before Damodar, thus saving the empress, restoring order to the land, and possibly making a little scratch on the side.

Most of the acting is howlingly bad in this film, especially that of Birch, who, despite all her gold spray-painted costume accessories, can't look royal to save her soul. She is unable to deliver a line effectively, and the fact that she doesn't have that much screen time does not affect her standing as the owner of the film's worst performance. Irons, however, tries valiantly to top her for sheer putrescence; his evil villain is so over the top it's laughable, and ditto for Payne. The performances of Whalin, McLellan, and Wayans are dully standard, with Wayans regularly spouting hip, contemporary street talk that clashes violently with the 11th-century European-looking settings. There is one scene that is slightly interesting to watch, when Ridley attempts to navigate his way through the booby-trapped maze of crime lord Nilus (Richard O'Brien). Each room of the maze offers a different challenge, and O'Brien's crazed performance adds sorely needed energy to the proceedings. Of course, there are a few interesting visuals involving flying dragons and the magical, medieval countryside. But for the most part, Dungeons & Dragons will have you craving a potion that will transport you back in time to before you bought your ticket. ★½

PROOF OF LIFE

Rated R - Running Time: 2:12 - Released 12/8/00
Russell Crowe, having appeared in 1997's best picture nominee L.A. Confidential, vaulted to prominence early this year after his nomination for best actor in The Insider and then his appearance as the title role in one of 2000's major summer blockbusters, Gladiator. Crowe finds himself once again in good position with a notable turn in another excellent film, Taylor Hackford's Proof of Life. Hackford, having directed movies like An Officer and A Gentleman, Dolores Claiborne, and The Devil's Advocate, turns out another richly textured film, gripping, suspenseful, and brimming with good performances not only by Crowe, but by Meg Ryan, David Morse, and David Caruso, among others.

In a story written by Tony Gilroy, inspired by the article "Adventures in the Ransom Trade" by William Prochnau and the book The Long March To Freedom by Thomas Hargrove, Crowe plays an Australian-born former special forces soldier named Terry Thorne who works for a British company that specializes in hostage negotiations. Terry is assigned to the case of Peter Bowman (Morse), a building contractor working on a dam in Tecala, South America, who is taken prisoner by a group of Marxist revolutionaries when he happens to be in the wrong place at the wrong time. Although he has no ties to the government they are trying to overthrow, the terrorists take him to a camp deep in the mountains and hold him there, claiming they will release him for the tidy sum of $600,000. His wife Alice (Ryan) and sister Janice (Pamela Reed) must try to raise the money while Terry negotiates over radio and telephone with the mysterious voice of the man speaking for the terrorists. As time goes on and weeks turn to months, Peter's health declines, a failed escape causes him some major injuries, and the hope for his survival seems to dim. As if this were not difficult enough, Terry begins to develop feelings for Alice — feelings which, if the rescue effort succeeds, cannot ever be fulfilled.

While this type of love triangle is not exactly a new idea, Hackford and his actors bring it to life in a way that is believable and thrilling. Cutting back and forth between Peter's experiences at the prison camp and the ever-more-frantic situation back home, he keeps the tension high while showing how the time drags on and the situation worsens on both sides. The film culminates with a gripping action sequence that combines the beauty of the lush Ecuadoran jungle (where the prison camp scenes were filmed) with tense, violent combat like we've seen in Saving Private Ryan and Platoon. Ryan, taking time out from lightweight roles (You've Got Mail, Hanging Up), shows she can create an understated, believable character with real depth. She and Crowe are able to convince us of the romantic tension growing between them without overdoing it, and Gilroy's script leaves just enough to the imagination. The theme of hostage negotiation being reduced to a game with certain rules is coldly effective, yet Crowe's characterization of Terry shows that he is sensitive enough to relate in a human way. Caruso and Reed give quality performances in their supporting parts, and Danny Elfman's tense musical score is an equally important presence. ★★★★★

Healthy Living

in Garrett County

HEALTH CAREERS FORUM HELD - A workshop for high school students in a health careers study pathway was offered recently at Garrett Community College. Among those participating in the event were Leslie Galtner (center), a Northern High School student interested in becoming a nurse practitioner, and her mother, Renate Galtner, a nursing student. Jennifer Blatchley of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (WMAHEC) (left) discussed enrichment opportunities, health careers, and scholarships and financial aid information with Leslie, her mother, and others attending the workshop. Funding for the program was provided by the Western Maryland Career Connections Employer Involvement Fund. For information about the workshop or to learn about health professionals work-based learning experiences available for high school students, persons may call WMAHEC at 301-777-9150, ext 103.

KEEPING FAMILIES HEALTHY is the goal of the Healthy Families staff of the Garrett County Health Department. These visiting workers travel across the county to homes, offices, and to meetings of interested organizations, sharing knowledge of and suggestions for healthy living. Healthy Families staff recently attended an in-service presented by GCHD outreach worker Michael Gibbons on fire, smoke, and carbon monoxide safety (topics of heightened interest with the onset of the winter home heating season), and radon home safety. "You can reduce risk of serious injury or death by over 50 percent just by installing a working smoke detector in your home," Gibbons told the group. "[and] a carbon monoxide detector may also prevent a tragedy. Carbon monoxide poisoning is the Number 1 cause of poisoning deaths in this country. CO is odorless, colorless, and tasteless gas that comes from broken or poorly ventilated stoves, heaters, cars, and furnaces. Its early symptoms may mimic the flu, but in higher concentration, confusion, weakness, and death can occur within minutes." Shown at the program, from the left, are Healthy Families staffers Kendra Thayer, R.N., Karen Lucas, R.N., and Karen Keeler, family support worker, along with Gibbons. Healthy Families staff are eager to spread home safety knowledge throughout the county, and for further information persons may call their office at 301-533-0001 or 301-895-5017.

Laser Procedure May Alleviate Pain Of Angina

In one of the largest studies to date, researchers have shown that laser surgery to drill holes in the heart can reduce or alleviate angina (chest pain) in a majority of individuals for at least five years. The procedure — transmyocardial revascularization, or TMR — and its results were discussed recently at the American Heart Association's Scientific Sessions 2000.

Meanwhile, another study presented recently may open the door to a non-surgical form of the laser procedure.

TMR uses a carbon dioxide laser to make multiple channels in the heart for blood to flow through. Although no one is sure exactly why or how the procedure helps to reduce chest pain, it has proven to be effective over the short-term. Now the results of a new study indicate that 60 percent of the patients in their study who have undergone TMR have had chest pain relief for at least five years.

"We have a significant number of patients who have experienced pain relief for as long as eight to nine years following their TMR surgery," said Keith Horvath, M.D., lead researcher of the TMR study and assistant professor of cardiovascular surgery, Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago.

There are several theories as to why TMR is effective in curbing chest pain. It may be that the laser channels provide a new source of blood to the heart. Another theory is that TMR triggers angiogenesis, the stimulation of new blood vessel growth. Yet another theory is that nerves in the affective area of the heart are destroyed, numbing the heart and thus relieving chest pain.

Horvath and his colleagues studied 65 patients whose average age was 63. All of them had severe chest pain that was not alleviated through other methods. Sixty-three percent had unstable angina, 75 percent had suffered at least one heart attack, 93 percent had undergone one bypass surgery, 36 percent had undergone at least one angioplasty, 67 percent had angina class IV and 33 percent had class III. The higher the angina class, the more severe the chest pain. The laser was used to create an average of 25 tiny holes in various locations of the heart muscle.

Postoperatively, 66 percent of the patients were in either class I or II and an additional 12 percent of the patients had no chest pain five years after TMR. A decrease of at least two angina classes was considered significant, so by this criterion, 60 percent of the patients had successful long-term angina relief, Horvath says.

"These patients were seriously ill," he says. "They were having chest pain with only minor exertion several times a day and were taking 10 to 20 nitroglycerin tablets per week."

Meantime, a non-surgical form of TMR, which uses a different type of laser than surgical TMR, may be available to patients in about six months, according to another study presented to the AHA. Scientists analyzed 142 patients at 17 medical centers in the United States. Half of the patients received medication to control chest pain, and the other underwent percutaneous TMR (PTMR), in which a catheter is placed under the skin and then threaded up the aorta (the heart's main blood vessel) to the inner lining of the heart wall. A holmium YAG laser is placed on the tip of the catheter. Cardiologists use an imaging technique called fluoroscopy to get an up-close, detailed view of the heart and to help guide the laser during the procedure.

"PTMR is much simpler and less invasive than surgery. It's an outpatient procedure that does not involve the use of general anesthesia or open heart surgery. This is a significant advance," said Gregg Stone, M.D., director of cardiovascular research and education, Cardiovascular Research Foundation, Lenox Hill Hospital, New York.

Group Begins Dialogue On Human-Animal Abuse Link

by Peggy Santamaria

"Animal abuse by any member of the family, whether parent or child, often means child abuse is going on, too." — Randall Lockwood, psychologist, the Humane Society of the United States.

The relationship between animal abuse and violence against human beings has long been recognized by authorities dealing with the aftermath of violent crimes. The link between mistreatment of domestic pets and mistreatment of family members has received much attention recently, and notably so in Garrett County, where concerned residents came together last month to discuss these issues.

Meeting in Oakland at Our Town Theatre, the group of 25 or so was a mix of human service and health care providers, law enforcement officers and officers of the courts, leaders of faith communities, and animal shelter volunteers.

Co-facilitators for the group were Peggy Nelson, coordinator of the Family Violence Coalition, and Annette Robinson, a volunteer with the Garrett County Humane Society. "We sat in an informal circle, and Peggy Nelson began by asking us to consider why we were there and what issues we needed to discuss. What we all concluded was that animal abuse as an indicator of human violence is a problem that needs to be addressed in Garrett County," Robinson said.

Capt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, who has frequently assisted Humane Society volunteers in responding to complaints about animal abuse, said he has attended several seminars concerning the link between abuse of animals and violence against people. "There is no doubt in my mind that these behaviors are connected," Gnegy said. He also said there are many statistics supporting the theory that children who abuse animals will also go on to act violently or abusively toward people.

Gnegy said he was pleased to see the number of people taking part in this dialogue and that he would definitely continue to be involved in further efforts by such a group. "I think it is extremely important that law enforcement be involved with these issues," he said.

Polly Ramsay, a teacher at Southern Middle School, pointed out the importance of public education about the serious problems that may underlie a youngster's callous treatment of pets or wildlife. "We all agreed that education would be the key tool in trying to bring about change," Robinson stated.

Brenda Arnold, a counselor at the Dove Center, told people at the meeting that there are women in Garrett County in abusive relationships who are afraid to come to the Dove Center to seek shelter or assistance because their male partners have threatened to kill or harm a family pet.

Ramsay also spoke about hearing young people talking in a callous and casual manner about violence against women. "This could be an indication something is going on at home. There must be a concern for the child's safety," Robinson said.

Robert Ulino of the Office of Parole and Probation said that in his work he has seen the relationship of these behaviors in people. I don't doubt that there is a correlation between abuse of animals and abuse of people. It is a piece of the picture, a factor that definitely needs to be looked at. I think the important word here is "awareness," Ulino said.

Gloria Salazar of Burlington Family Services said she has witnessed cases of animal neglect and abuse in the families with which she has worked. "I wish there were more time to teach young people to nurture and value life by caring for animals," she said.

Salazar said she felt very positive about the meeting and noted the diversity of people who attended. "The group was a good representation of individuals in the community who work with people in a domestic violence setting. I would certainly hope it would be an ongoing forum," she said.

The need for education was the common thread in the response from participants — Education to increase awareness of the link between animal abuse and violent behavior toward human beings.

"One of the most dangerous things that can happen to a child is to kill or torture an animal and get away with it." — Margaret Mead, anthropologist.

Cycle Ride To Benefit Breast Cancer Effort

The Ride Across Maryland Foundation has announced that the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation—Maryland has been selected as the beneficiary for its 2001 two-day, charity motorcycle ride. The event will take place June 2-3, 2001, leaving from the mall in Columbia, traveling through the western part of the state, and ending at the Wisp Hotel Resort at Deep Creek Lake.

The annual event, which each year will travel to a different part of Maryland, is led by Channel 13's Dick Gelfman, who is an avid motorcyclist. "The idea for the event grew out of a de-

NATIONAL DRUNK AND DRUGGED DRIVING PREVENTION MONTH

COUNTY SUPPORTS IMPAIRED DRIVING PREVENTION - With the holiday season at hand, there is an increased risk of injuries or fatalities resulting from motor vehicle accidents. Law enforcement officials agree that a contributing factor to this prevalent danger is drivers taking to the roads while impaired by alcohol or drugs. To curb this threat, the National Drunk and Drugged Driving Prevention Month Coalition formed. Law officers, health care professionals, and public officials are some of the members of this public-private 3D coalition working to raise awareness of the national impaired driving problem. A National 3D Prevention Month web site may be accessed at www.3dmonth.org. sire to see that others benefit from something that we enjoy so much," Gelfman said. "Motorcyclists today come from every walk of life. But the one thing they all have in common is the desire to help others in worthwhile events such as the ride for the Komen Foundation. Not only will it be a terrific two-day ride, but we'll get to put some money to work where it is desperately needed."

The ride is open to all motorcycles and will depart on June 2, rain or shine. Rest stops are planned along the way, as are side trips to places like Fort Frederick. Upon arrival at the host resort, there will be dinner, entertainment (including Bobby Nyk of Harmonic Sounds), and the presentation of awards and prizes. The grand prize this year is a one-week stay at a two-bedroom, oceanfront, Ocean City condominium, valued at over $1,300.

After a pre-registration fee of $25, riders need to raise a minimum of $75 in pledges to qualify for the ride. Those wishing to register for the event may call 443-629-8300 or write to Ride Across Maryland Foundation, 9123 Route 108, Columbia, MD 21045. They will be mailed a pre-registration form and pledge kit.

two buildings, totaling approximately 600,000 square feet, are to be completed by December 2004. The company is to eventually hire about 800 people.

"We looked at many locations within three different states and found Maryland to offer a comprehensive package, which included land, incentives, and — most importantly — the people we will need to make this factory successful," said Robert Clements, president of ClosetMaid. "We could tell by the genuine enthusiasm for this project that we would get all the support we will need in the next few years to make this factory a world-class center and a great place for the people of western Maryland to work. Many thanks to the businesses, the state of Maryland's Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED) for attracting this project to Maryland, and to the many key people who helped in making this decision."

Speaker of the House Casper Taylor Jr. said the One Maryland program was the main reason for the

ENJOYING THE FRUITS OF LABOR — In appreciation of the partnership between Appalachian Crossroads and Mountain Lake Vacation Rentals, the rental company delivered a luncheon to the Appalachian workers this week. Appalachian Crossroads staff members mailed 32,320 brochures for Mtn. Lake Rentals this year. The task provided work for Garrett County citizens with disabilities, and helped the rental company spread the word about its business. Owners of Mtn. Lake Vacation Rentals are Nancy Ralley and Zack and Linda Taylor. Pictured above, from left, are Scott Hollingsworth, director of day programs at Appalachian Crossroads; Steve Pagenhardt and Cheryl Frantz, mailroom employees; Sherry Helbig, instructor; Laurie Blittinger, mailroom employee; Gloria Beltzel of the rental company; Randy Harvey and Jeff Michaels, mailroom employees; Nancy Ralley; Eric Friend and Mike Lewis, mailroom employees; Doris Blittinger, manager of employment services at Appalachian Crossroads; and Wayne Lewis, mailroom employee.

Garrett County and the town of Grantsville are offering financial incentives totaling approximately $2.7 million in direct savings, the officials said.

"ClosetMaid is a great company and we are very fortunate that Garrett County was selected as the site for the facility," said

Delegate George Edwards. "Bringing ClosetMaid to western Maryland was a real team effort between local and state officials, one that allowed us to win the intense competition for this project."

In addition to the conditional grant, DBED will provide a workforce training grant of $1 million from the department's Maryland Industrial Training Program (MITP). ClosetMaid will also be eligible for an estimated $8.6 million in tax credits from the state's Job Creation, One Maryland, and Enterprise Zone programs.

"By selecting western Maryland as the ideal location for its new manufacturing facility, ClosetMaid is expressing its confidence in Maryland as an excellent business location," said David S. Iannucci, secretary of DBED. "Thanks to the support of the Glendening/Townsend Administration and the General Assembly, we have been able to use the Sunny Day Fund to help outstanding companies like ClosetMaid grow and prosper in Maryland."

The Sunny Day Fund, also known as the Economic Development Opportunities Fund, was created in 1988 and is administered by DBED. The fund provides financial assistance to companies that have the potential to create extraordinary economic development opportunities.

evening has hampered the round-the-clock power restoration efforts somewhat. Rain began falling at about 8:30 p.m., although the temperature was in the low 20s. This immediately resulted in icy road conditions, sending Garrett County Roads Department crews out to treat as many routes as possible. The rain continued for several hours, with the temperature rising into the 30s.

Because of extensive icy conditions this morning, the Garrett County school system was first delayed two hours, but then was canceled for the day. The school day on Tuesday was delayed two hours because of the high winds. So far this year, school has been canceled three days because of weather.

While most reports of the past two days have been mostly those of inconveniences caused by the weather, there was a car wreck this morning in Terra Alta, W. Va., that reportedly involved a fatality, although no further information was available by press time.

DEER PARK

The town meeting was held on Monday, Dec. 11. The Christmas social for town residents will be held this Saturday, Dec. 16, from 6 to 8 p.m. at Town Hall. Santa will arrive to distribute treats to the children. Refreshments will be served and prizes will be given.

The mayor and council said they hope all residents have a happy and safe holiday season.

The next town meeting will be Monday, 8.

FRIENDSVILLE

The town requested correction of information that appeared in the last edition of The Republican. The Town Hall report should have said that the members of the current Friendsville town council who are eligible to seek reelection in the February municipal elections are Wayne Friend, Shirley Metheny, and Jess Whittemore. Hold-over council members are Frances King, Terry Spear, and James Lininger, as well as Mayor Spencer R. Schlosnagle. Petitions for Office forms are available in the office of the town clerk-treasurer and must be filed prior to noon on January 1, 2001.

KITZMILLER

The town meeting was held on Monday, Nov. 27.

The new refrigerator has been delivered and installed in the community building.

The council accepted the bid submitted by Devine and Sheffield to do the town's audit for the next two years.

The council heard this year's audit report submitted by Devine and Sheffield.

December 6 was the night designated for the town Christmas tree lighting and caroling.

The council voted to buy each school child a book as a Christmas gift.

Permission has been granted for POS funds to be put toward the purchase of a marquee sign for the school. The sign has been ordered.

The flood wall has been inspected, and all is well.

The town has received a donation in memory of Clark Walker. Consideration is being given to use of the funds.

There will be no official town meeting in December because of the holidays. However, the council will meet on an as-needed basis.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, Jan. 22.

St. Mark's Wins Grant To Support Learning Center

St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, has received $10,470 to develop a Christian early childhood learning center as an outreach to the community.

The grant was provided by Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) to the West Virginia Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) through AAL's Openings program. Openings is designed to help congregations reach out to those in the community who do not have a church home.

The learning center is located at the former Loch Lynn School, which had been used by the Garrett County Board of Education as an elementary school until 1998. "The facility offers us the opportunity to have a presence in two locations in our community," said the Rev. Mike Robinson, St. Mark's pastor.

"Our mission is to teach young children the Gospel of Jesus Christ and assist parents in fulfilling their baptismal vows," said W. Thomas Myers Jr., project director and outreach chairman for St. Mark's.

AAL, a Fortune 500 organization based in Appleton, Wis., is a fraternal benefit society of more than 1.8 million members who join together for insurance, educational, and volunteer opportunities. AAL supports the work of Lutheran church bodies, educational institutions, and Lutheran organizations.

ST. MARK'S AWARDED GRANT - St. Mark's Lutheran Church was recently awarded a grant of $10,470 by Aid Association for Lutherans to support the church's early learning center, which was opened this past fall at the former Loch Lynn school. Making the presentation to Tom Myers, chairman of St. Mark's ELC board of directors, pictured left, was John Strider, local representative of AAL. Pictured at right is Rev. Mike Robinson, pastor of St. Mark's. See story for details.

Projects selected for Openings grants are intended to provide "openings" for the more than 75 million people in the United States without a church home. The program provides funding opportunities for motivated congregations that have potential for significant growth and are in a position to realize that potential. "We look for innovative and creative projects that will help increase worship attendance," said Jim Yagow, AAL director of church grants. Projects may include leadership training, congregation assessment, public relations strategies, development of new entry points to invite people into congregations, and cross-cultural and ethnic outreach. Openings also offers opportunities for growing congregations to network and share learnings and insights with other growing congregations.

Making the check presentation to St. Mark's congregation was John Strider, local AAL representative.

Eastern Star Chapter Meets

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, met Tuesday, Dec. 5, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple. Worthy Matron Dottie Csamer and Worthy Patron Richard Csamer presided.

ALUMNI CONTRIBUTIONS MAKE BIG IMPACT - Frostburg State University Foundation president Joe Cunningham recently presented a check for $300,000 to FSU president Dr. Catherine Gira to be used for student scholarships and financial aid. The grant was the result of unrestricted contributions to the Annual Fund Campaign and Centennial Campaign, and to restricted student aid programs administered by the FSU Foundation.

The Worthy Matron's opening thought was "Oh, God, Help Us Remember," by Robert Louis Stevenson. The Worthy Patron's closing thought was "Santa's Prayer on Christmas Eve," by Warren D. Jennings. A Christmas program was presented, and refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Dr. Lambert Is Presenter At Nat'l Convention

H. Stanley Lambert III, M.D., was among the speakers at the Convention of Radiological Scientists of North America, held at the McCormick Center in Chicago November 26 - December 1. Approximately 60,000 people were in attendance.

Dr. Lambert presented the results of his research in two different areas dealing with magnetic resonance imaging (MRI). One study determined the incidence of radial tears found at arthroscopy and assessed the ability of MRIs to detect radial tears. Radial tears are a specific type of torn meniscus of the knee. The other study assessed the incidence and appearance at the time of MRI of meniscal cysts.

A third-year resident in diagnostic radiology at the Duke University Medical Center in Durham, N.C., Lambert received his M.D. degree from the University of North Carolina School of Medicine in Chapel Hill, N.C., in 1997. He obtained a B.S. degree in physiology and neurobiology from the University of Maryland at College Park in 1992.

Before beginning his residency at the Duke University Medical Center, Dr. Lambert completed a one-year internship in internal medicine at the University of Virginia Roanoke-Salem, where the students of the University of Virginia

School of Medicine named him Intern Teacher of the Year.

While in medical school at the University of North Carolina, he received an Academic Merit Award and was inducted into the John B. Graham Research Society. The University of North Carolina Student Medical Journal published his research "Is Profound Hypercarbia Cardioplegic?" Dr. Lambert conducted his first research while at the University of Maryland, where he received the Research Experience for Undergraduates Award and was inducted into the Maryland chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

After completing his residency in diagnostic radiology in 2002, Lambert will serve a fellowship year in musculoskeletal radiology at the Duke University Medical Center.

A 1988 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, Dr. Lambert is the son of Herbert and Joan Lambert and the grandson of Mary Lambert of Oakland.

We don't have to be on ice skates to experience that sinking sensation known as "skating on thin ice."

Possibly your emotional situation is upsetting, or perhaps it is that common phenomenon known as "living from paycheck to paycheck." In any event, when we live from day to day feeling sure that our future is becoming increasingly uncertain we must act. We can move in the direction of dependable support as we cry for help.

In Psalm 28:6, David praises God as he proclaims, "Blessed be the Lord, for He hath heard the voice of my supplications."

We are also assured in I Tim. 4:4, "Every creature of the Lord is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving."

When you feel you are "skating on thin ice," call upon the Lord. Start by worshipping Him each Sabbath with faith and thanksgiving. God will help with what lies ahead.

GOD'S STRONG ARM

December 17, 2000

Background Scripture:
Luke 1:39-56
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 14:1-3

Although Mary had overcome her doubts and committed herself to God's purpose—"I am the Lord's servant, as you have spoken, so be it" (NEB)—she doubtless was confused and wanted help in understanding what this was all about. Told by the angel Gabriel that her "kinswoman Elizabeth in her old age has also conceived a son" and was in her sixth month of pregnancy, Mary immediately makes a journey to see her kinswoman, no doubt hopeful that she can help her understand what Gabriel told her.

Arriving in Ein Karem (the traditional home of John the Baptist's parents), she no sooner entered the house and greeted her kinswoman than Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit and proclaimed to Mary: "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! And why is this granted me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me?" (1:41-43).

Luke does not tell us that Elizabeth knew anything about Mary's visit from Gabriel, but her pronouncement and the sensation of the unborn John leaping in her womb comes to her by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit. Elizabeth was able to salute Mary and her unborn son because she was open to the leading of God's Spirit. Sometimes, I have found, when we are attuned to God's presence, we can "know" something that we do not know. There is another factor that may have opened Elizabeth to the Spirit: she was humble. "And why is this granted me that the mother of my Lord should come to me?"

Magnificat! Mary's response to Elizabeth is also probably an inspiration from the Holy Spirit. This is not the kind of utterance one might expect from a humble, young country girl. "My soul magnifies the Lord, and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior" (1:46, 47).

SCOUTS LEARN DRUG PREVENTION — Den 6 and 7 of first-year Webelos Pack 70 attended an alcohol, tobacco, and other drug prevention program presented by outreach workers of the Garrett County Health Department recently. A variety of participatory educational activities were underscored with games and prizes. "The Scouts really enjoyed our tobacco prevention Jeopardy game and seemed to gather some knowledge that may help them make good, healthy decisions in the future," said GCHD's Michael Gibbons, who facilitated the presentation. "We hope that by making kids aware of all the health dangers and cost that tobacco use can incur, [they] will make smart, healthy choices." Pictured in the front row, from the left, are Royce Wernick, Bradley Masters, Jordan Skipper, and Derek Taylor. In the second row are Parker Monn, Mike Kozler, Adam Fitzwater, Aaron Mullenex, Nick Crabtree, and Gibbons. Not pictured are den leaders Debbie Crabtree and Jeanette Fitzwater. According to published data most tobacco users begin using and are subsequently addicted to tobacco prior to their 18th birthday. Today more than 75 percent of these adult smokers say they wish they could quit smoking. tagging and record book responsibilities.

Small gifts were given by Linda Rush on the club's behalf to Susan Mayfield and Angie Beckman, both of whom are in their final year of 4-H membership. Angie then shared her plans for next year after she graduates from school.

New officers elected for the coming year: Erica Green, president; Nick Rush, vice president; Emily Cosner, secretary; Jenna Rush, treasurer; Sarah Cosner, reporter; and Cody Ferguson, Jennifer Cosner, and Travis Sines, song leaders.

The new officers were installed at the conclusion of the meeting.

Crellin Group Sets Christmas Party Tonight

United Community Services of Crellin, in conjunction with several Crellin area churches, has slated a Christmas party for tonight, Dec. 14, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Crellin Community Building. The family-oriented party is free, and all residents of the Crellin area and their guests may attend.

This evening's event is divided into three one-hour segments: Christmas caroling will take place over the first hour; food and refreshments will be served during the second hour; and Santa Claus will make an appearance for the children during the third hour.

The Crellin Community Building is located at 97 Crellin Road. Interested persons may call 301-334-1456 or 301-334-4495 for further information.

He was born June 15, 1916, in Kitzmiller.

He was appointed to the Washington, D.C., Fire Department on June 16, 1942,

GOP WOMEN DONATE - Members of the Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club recently donated books to local branches of the Ruth Enlow Library. As part of the Mamie Eisenhower/Barbara Bush Literacy Project, the club members selected and presented copies of To The Best Of My Ability to the Accident and Grantsville branches of the library. In the photo above, present for the donation in Grantsville were Sen. John Hefer (left) and Del. George Edwards, plus club president Carolyn Gano, member Clea Baker, and librarian Kim Ushia. The Grantsville donation was made in memory of Bonnie Bowman. Below, at the Accident branch for the presentation were (in back) Edwards, Gano, library branch manager Janet Otto, and staff members Eva Lou Harman and Ruth Miller. In front are Baker and club member Orpha Miller. The Accident donation was made in memory of Cora Bowser.

and retired from that organization on Feb. 28, 1969. He moved to Hobe Sound in 1980.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Mildred (Boss) Bender, whom he married Nov. 23, 1934.

Surviving are one son, Mark Bender, Hobe Sound; four grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

A memorial service was conducted at the Aycock Funeral Home.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to a charity of the donor's choice.

FSU Wins First Higher Education Award For Leadership In Service

The Corporation for National Service presented Frostburg State University with the Higher Education Award for Leadership in National Service, the first time the honor has been bestowed. Harris Wofford, chief executive officer of the Corporation for National Service, made the announcement Monday at the FSU campus during a "Salute to Service" ceremony recognizing the service programs at Frostburg as national models.

"Aristotle said, 'To learn to play the harp, you have to play the harp. To learn to build buildings, you have to build buildings. To learn to do justice, you have to do justice.' You are active duty citizens on 100 fronts," Wofford said in a salute to the assembled members of FSU's various branches of service organizations.

Chosen from among 30 higher education applicants, FSU's programs were judged to have high quality or were unique in a variety of criteria for the award, which include the following:

- FSU used national service in a significant way to support the institution's mission to be of service to the country and to the community in which it resides.

- The university has adopted or expanded service-learning as part of the mission or fundamental goals of the institution.

- It has engaged students on a substantial scale in volunteer service, including tutoring in the American Reads Challenge.

- It has promoted or organized service activities for national days of service, particularly Martin Luther King Jr. Day and National Youth Service Day.

"Institutions of education in this country, and especially in higher education, must take the lead. Frostburg State University has been doing, is doing, and will be doing this," said Wofford, a former U.S. senator from Pennsylvania, about FSU's programs and the way they work together to serve the greater community. "Frostburg State University leads the way," he said.

FSU is a hub of service activities in the western Maryland community. The Center for Service, Leadership and AmeriCorps is the umbrella for a consortium of national and student service and leadership programs, such as the following:

- The Allen HallSTARS! Education Award Only AmeriCorps Program. There are 90 HallSTARS! members, all of whom are FSU freshmen and part-time AmeriCorps members living in Allen Hall.

- The Western Maryland READS Alliance AmeriCorps *VISTA Program. There are seven *VISTA volunteers who coordinate programs around the region.

- The A STAR! in Western Maryland AmeriCorps Program, which includes 40 community members from Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties providing service at 17 sites.

- The Institute for Service-Learning, a Learn and Serve Program.

- The VOICE (Volunteer Opportunities in the Community Environment) Volunteer Clearinghouse and student service and leadership programming.

- The Center for Service and Leadership.

Participants in these programs, along with FSU students, have provided over 111,150 hours of service engaging 3,000 community volunteers in 1999-2000 alone. Service was provided in the areas of education, the environment, unmet human needs, and public safety.

"We're thrilled to be the first recipient of this national honor. I thank our AmeriCorps members who are part of this legacy that began many decades ago and continues to grow," said FSU president Dr. Catherine R. Gira.

Garrett I-Tech Course Schedule Set For Spring

Garrett Community College will continue to offer the I-Tech computer courses in the spring 2001 semester, according to Dr. Terry Norris, director of the Career Institute for Business and Information Technologies. An informational session about each of these courses will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 9, at 7 p.m. in Room 305 of the Continuing Education Building. All are invited to attend.

The A+ Computer Repair Technician courses will be given on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 10 p.m. beginning Jan. 23, and two Saturdays, Feb. 10 and March 17, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Courses in this program include Intro to PC Hardware, PC Operating Systems, and PC Repair/Troubleshooting.

Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer courses will be given on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 10 p.m. starting Feb. 6, and five Saturdays, Feb. 10, March 10 and 31, April 14, and May 19, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Courses in this program include Networking Fundamentals, Implementing Administrative Directory, Support Network Infrastructure, MS Professional and Server, and MS Network Operating Systems.

Students who complete these I-Tech programs will be prepared to take the certification exams that qualify them for jobs in the fast-growing information technology industry, according to a college spokesperson. To register for these courses interested persons may contact call Norris at 301-387-3043.

SHS Students In SkillsUSA-VICA Attend Forum

Five Southern High School students attended a SkillsUSA-VICA leadership conference at the Sheraton Fontainebleau Hotel in Ocean City last month. Attending the forum were club members Jessica Peck, Melissa Sines, Scott Bolyard, Aaron Gregg, and Jeremiah Ervin.

During the two-day conference, the students attended an opening session, where they heard national SkillsUSA-VICA officers speak, along with keynote speaker Tim Lawrence, director of business and industry partnerships.

Each participant then went to seven mini-sessions on topics such as developing portfolios, participating in job interviews, proper communication, trustworthiness, and stress management.

The students also had to complete a check-off sheet, including questions about state legislators, SkillsUSA-VICA pledges, mottos, creeds, and club procedures.

The culminating activity of the two-day conference was awarding the students with statesman pins and participation certificates.

New Emissions Criteria Designed To Curb Pollution

Taking what have been described as aggressive steps to provide cleaner air for Maryland residents, Governor Parris Glendening recently announced that the state is moving forward with an initiative, similar to those currently proposed in California, to adopt stricter emissions requirements for diesel trucks.

The new provisions will require manufacturers of diesel trucks sold in Maryland to produce cleaner burning engines beginning with the 2005 model year. Thirteen other states have also committed to adopting the proposed California standards.

Currently, the six firms that manufacture 90 percent of the diesel trucks sold in the nation are operating under a 1998 consent decree with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) requiring them to build low-polluting diesel trucks through 2004. The EPA has adopted stricter requirements, which, by law, cannot go into effect until the 2007 model year.

CHRISTMAS PUPPET PROGRAM PLANNED - Puppeteers from Christ Lutheran Church will perform in two local churches this holiday season. The group will present a special Christmas program on Sunday, Dec. 17, at 4:30 p.m. at Christ Lutheran Church in Grantville and on Monday, Dec. 18, at Jennings United Methodist Church at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend these performances. In the photo above, the puppeteers in the front row, left to right, are Denise Blocher, Karen Clevenger, Beth Bicker, and Donovan Bicker. In the back row are Pam Cutler, Mary Jane Robertson, Judy Sebald, and Nancy Resh, director.

"This action is necessary to close a loophole in federal law that would allow diesel truck manufacturers to build higher polluting engines in 2005 and 2006 than in previous years," Glendening said. "Maryland cannot afford to give up the gains we have made in reducing the amount of pollution from diesel trucks over the past several years. Our citizens deserve no less."

Diesel trucks are a significant source of air pollution, according to the Maryland Department of the Environment, and contribute significantly to the emissions of nitrogen oxides into the air. Nitrogen oxide is a major factor in the creation of ground level ozone. MDE secretary Jane Nishida stated that "ground level ozone can cause chest pain, coughing, nausea, throat irritation, and congestion. It may also worsen bronchitis, heart disease, emphysema, and asthma. We must take these steps to protect the health of Maryland residents."

The Ozone Transport Commission (OTC), composed of states in the Northeast and mid-Atlantic regions (including Maryland) is considering a memorandum of understanding calling for a commitment to adopt the stricter regulations for diesel trucks among its member states. Created by Congress as a part of the Clean Air Act, the OTC coordinates ground level ozone control planning.

This new initiative is consistent with Maryland's plan to reduce pollution from diesel vehicles. Last year Glendening signed legislation designed to control diesel vehicle smoke emissions. This program, jointly operated by the Maryland Departments of the Environment, Transportation, and the State Police, began testing diesel vehicles this past August.

COUNTRY KIDS
by club reporter
Elections were held at the most recent meeting of the Country Kids 4-H Club, and the officers for the coming year are: Andrew Harvey, president; Bobby Barnard, vice president; Sarah Pysell, secretary; Brooke Bowers, treasurer; Bret DeWitt, photographer; and Amanda Bowers, reporter.

Adam Rexroad presented a report on the trip to the Simon Pearce glass company. Members are asked to meet at the Deer Park Community Building at 1 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 17, to make and deliver fruit baskets to elderly residents of the area. Adam and Sarah Rexroad, Josh Harris, and Bret DeWitt each presented a demonstration. Members worked on summary sheets for their record books, which are to be turned in at the January meeting.

The next meeting of the Country Kids 4-H Club is set for 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 19. The activities will include a pizza party, gift exchange, project exhibits, and a Christmas craft project. Members are reminded that all 4-H market steers are to be tagged by Sunday, Dec. 31.

Area, Baltimore Lawsuit Abuse Groups Merge

Two legal watchdog groups have joined forces in their fight against rising consumer prices and lost jobs because of frivolous lawsuits filed in Maryland.

The Baltimore Regional and Western Maryland Citizens Against Lawsuit Abuse groups merged into a statewide organization. With 10,000 supporters across the state, the new group, Maryland Citizens Against Lawsuit Abuse (MDCALA), will carry on the mission of the two regional groups working to educate the public about the costs of lawsuit abuse and ensuring that the legal system is used for justice, rather than greed.

"The bottom line is that lawsuit abuse is costing Maryland consumers and businesses big money every year," said MDCALA chairman Phillip D. Bissett, a former member of the Maryland House of Delegates Judiciary Committee. Bissett also served as the chair of the Baltimore group.

Bissett cautions that, even though Maryland is enjoying a strong economy today, job growth is stunted and businesses expand more slowly because resources that could be devoted to expansion are instead used to protect against the increasing threat of potential lawsuits.

"In order for Maryland's economy to keep pace with the national boom, we must create an environment that encourages growth," Bissett said. "Small business owners feel the constant threat of being sued, and it only takes one frivolous lawsuit to force a business to close its doors."

MDCALA strongly believes that, while every legitimate claim deserves a day in court, too many people have begun to view the legal system as a "lawsuit lottery" system.

"Lawsuits should not be used as get-rich-quick schemes by individuals who have been convinced by their lawyers that they can hit the jackpot," Bissett cautioned. "Legal awards should make injured parties whole, not rich."

MDCALA will sponsor educational outreach across the state, encouraging citizens to practice personal responsibility, serve on juries, and become active in the fight against lawsuit abuse. MDCALA's office is located at 214 Duke of Gloucester Street in Annapolis. Persons may call 410-280-3800 or 800-210-8222 for more information.

Church Slates Special Program Sunday Afternoon

The Underwood United Brethren Church has slated a lunch and music program for this Sunday, Dec. 17, beginning at 1 p.m. at the church. The event is free to all interested persons, and a free will offering will be taken during the afternoon.

A soup and salad lunch will be served beginning at 1 p.m., and a program of Christmas gospel music will follow at 2 p.m. Two West Virginia gospel groups will be featured. Fairmont's Gospel Express and Morgantown's Granny Blosser and Butch.

The church is located five miles south of Oakland along Underwood Road. For further information persons may contact Rev. David Kisamore at 301-334-2950.

Discovery Center Slates Christmas Open House Event

The Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park has set its second annual Christmas open house for Saturday, Dec. 23, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A variety of activities will be taking place throughout the day, including a dulcimer concert of Christmas music, winter horse-drawn hayrides or sleighrides (depending on the amount of snow), nature hikes, bird-watching, children's crafts, and face painting. Santa Claus and Mrs. Claus will be on hand from 1 to 2 p.m.

The state park will be offering a 10 percent discount on items at the Discovery Center's nature shop, and cookies, cocoa, coffee, and other refreshments will be available. All proceeds and donations will go to the Deep Creek Lake State Park volunteer group. For information persons may call 301-387-7067.

Today, a hostess setting a very special holiday dinner table might include napkin rings at each place. Napkin rings, especially the elaborate, silver-plated, figural rings, were also popular in the 19th century. They were not used by the rich, because the wealthy used fresh napkins at each meal, showing that they could afford a laundress to do the linens. Napkin rings were used by middle-class families. Each member of the family had a different ring, so it was easy to identify who had used the napkin before. The napkin was rolled and put in the napkin ring at the end of the meal, to be used all week. The figural rings were made in hundreds of shapes. Dogs, cats, squirrels, rabbits, cupids, Kate Greenaway children, wild animals, birds and other figures were popular. Some very elaborate examples were in the form of wheeled carts that held not only the ring but also salt and pepper shakers and perhaps vinegar bottles or a butter pat. Prices today for unusual, figural napkin rings range from hundreds to thousands of dollars each.

Q. When my husband was a boy, his grandfather gave him a small, cast-iron hatchet that appears to be a joke of some kind. The blade is shaped like a woman's head, and the words on the handle read, "All Nations Welcome But Carry."

A. You have an anti-temperance collectible. It refers to the saloon-smashing activities of Carry Nation (1846-1911), one of America's most famous advocates of the temperance movement. She was known for using a hatchet to smash saloons in her home state of Kansas. She was often jailed for her activities, and she paid her fines from speaking fees and sales of souvenir lapel pins shaped like hatchets. Your grandfather's iron hatchet was a protest against Mrs. Nation and her anti-saloon activities.

A cold night, a good book, and thee...

December's hectic pace leaves most folks yearning for some quiet time. And since your pet may be equally stressed by all the bustle, these few days before Christmas are the perfect time for both of you to curl up before the fire and spend a cozy evening together.

Perhaps the perfect book to read on a quiet night is "Travels with Our Fellow Creatures," edited by Phyllis Hobe. This collection of short stories, excerpts and poems is dedicated to animals great and small, wild and tame. Tales by Hemingway, Steinbeck and Chekhov mingle with stories by contemporary authors like Cleveland Amory and Diane Ackerman, making for some compelling and entertaining reading. My favorite is Rudyard Kipling's "Garm — A Hostage," his tale of an officer who's given a remarkable bull-terrier by a grateful soldier. But then, I've always been partial to Kipling.

This is a great collection, with enough classic material to charm you through several chilly nights. My copy is already dog-eared!

The paperback edition is available at bookstores for $13.00.

• On Dec. 24, 1851, a fire at the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., destroys about two-thirds of its 55,000 volumes, including two-thirds of Thomas Jefferson's personal library, sold to the institution in 1815.

• On Dec. 20, 1860, in response to the victory of Republican Abraham Lincoln in the presidential election six weeks before, South Carolina becomes the first Southern state to secede from the United States.

• On Dec. 18, 1865, following its ratification by the requisite three-quarters of the states earlier in the month, the 13th Amendment to the Constitution takes effect, ensuring that "neither slavery nor involuntary servitude... shall exist within the United States."

• On Dec. 24, 1919, John D. Rockefeller, the world's richest man, gives away $100 million. The donation is the largest single philanthropic gift to that day. Half of the money is set to increase teachers' salaries, while the Rockefeller Foundation would distribute the rest.

• On Dec. 23, 1948, in Tokyo, Hideki Tojo, former Japanese prime minister and chief of the Kwantung Army, is executed along with six other top Japanese leaders for their war crimes during World War II.

• On Dec. 21, 1972, survivors of an October plane crash are rescued from a remote location high in the Andes Mountains of South America after managing to stay alive in the inhospitable conditions by creating a makeshift shelter out of the wreckage of the plane and cannibalizing the dead passengers to keep from starving to death.

• Rearrange the letters of "mother-in-law" and you get "Hitler woman."

• Before he became the infamous figure we know today, Jesse James disguised himself as a woman to scout out Federal positions for the Confederate army during the Civil War.

• It's not terribly uncommon for a snake to be born with two heads. They don't usually live very long, though; the two heads often fight each other for food.

• John Donne, the famous British poet and churchman, was ailing and near death in 1681. Knowing that he would soon be in his grave, he commissioned an artist to create a life-sized monument of him in his death shroud. To make sure the monument would be accurate, he stripped and had himself wrapped in the actual shroud to be used for his burial, knotted at head and foot, with only his face showing.

Foundation Has Grants For Local Fire Departments

Firefighters Charitable Foundation (FCF) has announced the availability of 10 individual $500 grants (one per department) to Maryland-based volunteer fire departments to be used for new equipment, repairs and maintenance, training, or community-based outreach programs.

"Volunteer firefighters are the unsung heroes," said Lou Pelico, president of FCF and retired firefighter-paramedic. "They provide life-saving services to communities that can't afford full-time paid fire departments, where funding isn't always available for equipment, training, and outreach programs."

Volunteer fire department chiefs are asked to send letters requesting grants for any of the above listed purposes to: Firefighters Charitable Foundation, P.O. Box 2264, Boca Raton, FL 33427, or visit our web site at www.fcf.org. Grants are issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Chiefs are asked to describe the specifics on how the funds are to be spent.

The organization provides assistance in the form of emergency funds, temporary living expenses, specialized medical equipment, supplies, and other worthwhile charitable outreaches.

Firefighters Charitable Foundation is a 501(c)3 charitable organization founded by Pelico. The organization is not affiliated with a union and does not represent individual firefighters or their departments.

Juli Savage Is Among Scholars At Susquehanna

Juli Savage of McHenry was one of more than 180 students honored at the annual Susquehanna University's Scholars Dinner in October. She is a senior marketing major at Susquehanna.

The dinner was held to recognize and congratulate Susquehanna's most successful student scholars. In order to be named a University Scholar, students must have earned a cumulative grade point average of 3.6 in full-time study for the past two semesters or equivalent credit hours of part-time study.

Savage, a 1997 graduate of Northern Garrett High School, is vice president of Beta Gamma Sigma business honor society, and a member of the Marketing Club, Study Buddy, and Alpha Lambda Delta freshman honor society at Susquehanna. She is the daughter of Michael and Terry Savage.

Jamison Noted By Who's Who

Anissa Jamison, a senior at Southern High School, has been selected for inclusion in the 1999-2000 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students. Only 5 percent of all high school students receive the annual award.

Jamison is a distinguished honor roll student at SHS, where she currently serves as vice president of the senior class. She was co-captain of this fall's girls' varsity cross country team, and will be a member of the track and field team this spring. She has been employed for approximately two years at the Regional Eye Care Center in Oakland. After graduating from Southern this coming spring, Jamison intends to attend Frostburg State University and major in English.

Jamison is the daughter of Kenneth and Sandy Jamison of Oakland.

Local Impact Of National Guard Over $700,000

Federal support of the Maryland National Guard in Garrett County in fiscal year 2000 amounted to more than $700,000, according to a release from the guard.

The Maryland National Guard's 2000 total expenditure in Garrett County was $746,995 in support of the Brigadier General Otto Holland Williams Armory in Oakland, which is home to Detachment 2, 243rd Engineer Company, Command Support Equipment (CSE).

Most of the financial impact is in the form of payrolls, as $564,664 was paid to the full- and part-time soldiers of the 243rd unit. A total of $182,331 was allocated for the unit training operations and maintenance.

Maryland's adjutant general, Lt. Gen. (MD) James F. Fretter, said, "The Maryland National Guard plays a key role in the economic viability of Maryland,

LOCAL PHYSICIANS FEATURED IN MAGAZINE — Doctors Thomas Johnson and Robert Goralaki of Garrett Medical Group, Oakland, were featured in the fall edition of The Maryland Family Doctor. The article, titled "Critical Care... Garrett County Style," gave Johnson and Goralaki the opportunity to describe the level of critical care they provide and what type of training prepared them for this, as well as how the care they provide affects their relationship with their patients. "By providing critical care when needed, I have established long-term bonds with countless patients, but it would have been impossible without a good hospital team and collegial physician back-up," commented Johnson. Since there are no cardiologists, pulmonologists, or any other "intensivists" in Garrett County, family physicians and their surgical colleagues provide the bulk of the emergency critical care services in the county. Goralaki stated in the article, "Most patients would prefer to be treated at their hometown hospital if at all possible. Because my training and experience allow me to provide quality, high-level care at home, patients are happier and my practice is certainly more interesting."

bringing in more than 136 million federal dollars to Maryland in 2000. More than $101 million of this federal appropriation is in the form of payroll, which significantly adds to the tax base of nearly every local jurisdiction in Maryland."

GCCAC Awarded Federal Funds To Expand Services

Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. was recently awarded federal funds to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in the area. The selection of recipients in areas of need was made by a national board chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

The board consists of representatives from the Salvation Army, American Red Cross, Council of Jewish Federations, Catholic Charities USA, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and United Way of America, which will provide the administrative staff and function as fiscal agent. The board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress for use in high need areas around the country.

A local board made up of representatives from the county commissioners, Mt. Top Ministerial Association, Catholic Charities, Department of Social Services, and American Red Cross, as well as a former homeless person, will assist in determining how the funds awarded to Garrett County will be allocated.

Under the terms of the grant from the national board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must be non-profit, have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit, practice nondiscrimination, have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and if private voluntary, have a voluntary board.

Further information on the program may be obtained by contacting Linda Green, director of Community and Emergency Services, at 301-334-9431 no later than January 12, 2001.

Garrett Faculty Members Noted By Who's Who

Eight faculty members of Garrett Community College have been selected for inclusion in the sixth edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers 2000. "This is an honor reserved for teachers selected by one or more of their former students who themselves have been distinguished by being listed in either Who's Who Among American College Students or the National Dean's List," wrote Who's Who publisher Paul C. Krause in the notification letter he sent to GCC president Dr. Steve Herman. "[These] students represent the best high school and college students in America today."

Faculty members who are being honored this year are: Virginia Broadus, associate professor of English and director of arts and sciences; Carolyn Deniker, associate professor of biology; Pramod Kapoor, professor of business; Thomas Kierstead, adjunct professor of psychology and program director of Continuing Education; Beth Luers, professor of social sciences; Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of Academic and Student Affairs; Ann Wellham, athletic director and professor of physical education, health, and outdoor recreation; and Stephen Tomb, associate professor of Adventure Sports.

This list represents the largest number of GCC faculty members to receive the honor in one year. Several of these members have been selected by former students for the second or third time. Other current GCC faculty who have been selected for Who's Who recognition in previous years are Ron Skidmore, professor of art, and Joan Crawford, professor of English.

GCC Professor Attends White House Program

Beth Luers, Garrett Community College professor of social sciences, attended the symposium commemorating the 200th anniversary of the White House in Washington, D.C., recently. The event was sponsored by the White House Historical Association and the National Park Service.

Titled "Two Hundred Years at the White House: Actors and Observers," the symposium consisted of sessions with speakers who presented a chronological view of the historical periods of the White House, panel discussions, and tours of areas of the White House not usually open to the public, such as the Lincoln Bedroom and Sitting Room, and the Queen's Bedroom.

Symposium speakers presented two views of the White House, according to Luers. "One view examined the White House as a home, an office, and a stage from the perspective of those who lived and worked there — the presidents, first ladies, family members and staff. This view was balanced against the views of the 'observers' — the media, citizens, and foreign visitors."

"We were introduced to the first White House of 1800 and John and Abigail Adams by William Seale and Edith Gelles of Stanford University," Luers said. The group saw photographs of the early White House and first families and heard about the lives of Presidents Madison, Jackson, Polk, Lincoln, and Theodore and Franklin Roosevelt.

One panel discussion featured former White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater, former Senator Howard Baker, social secretaries, and the chief usher. Another panel focused on the media and featured former Time magazine editor Hugh Sidey, former New York Times editor Max Frankel, and historian Douglas Brinkley.

HOSPICE RAFFLE WINNERS ANNOUNCED — The winners of the Hospice of Garrett County raffles of five halves of beef, six lambs, and one hog were announced recently. The livestock had been purchased through auction at this summer's Garrett County Agriculture Fair and donated to Hospice. The baby beef was provided by Mettli Coal, Dan and Cheryl Miller, Grizzly Logging, and Ed Wilburn Construction in memory of Ken Blaser. The lambs were donated by Sheriff Dick Sanders, Gonder Insurance, Richard Simms, and Lakefront Lawn and Garden Maintenance. The hog was donated by Terra Alta Bank of Oakland. The raffle winners, donor representatives, and some of those selling winning tickets are pictured above. From the left in the front row are seller Mary Giotfally, winners Fern Beachy of Blittinger and Jenny Garner of McHenry, sellers Ruth DiPaolo and Beverly Beard, and winner Paula Redinger of Oakland. In the back row are donors Bret Winegardner of Lakefront Lawn and Garden Maintenance, Denise Skeweris of the Oakland office of the Terra Alta Bank, Sheriff Sanders, Dr. Dan Miller, and winners Cliff DeWitt of Oakland, Dawn King of Friendsville, and Helen Mayfield of Swanton. Not available for photo were sellers Sheryl MacLane and Sharon King, and winners Brenda McIntyre and Liz Gilbert of Min. Lake Park, Jason Johnson of Oakland, Kay Feigley of Grantville, Rusty Viney of Cumberland, and Martha Layton of Terra Alta, W.Va.

Special events included a surprise reception at the White House and a buffet dinner in the State Dining Room. "It was one of the most rewarding and interesting conferences I have ever attended," Luers commented afterward.

Solos will be performed by adults and children, whose voices will also blend in chorus. Featured soloists will be Moebs, Roger Sines, Dan Manges, Sherry Fike, Dave Thomas, and Carol Frazee. The children who will perform are Raina Sines, Hannah Fike, Emily Manges, and Megan Sines. Other members of the Friendsville Community Choir who will contribute to the cantata are Jane Fox, Geni Sines, Sarah Pletcher, Robin Sines, Nancy Thomas, Fred Fox, Tomi Sines, OTT DONATES TO HUMANE SOCIETY — Max the wonder dog, mascot of Our Town Theatre and canine ambassador of good will, was on hand (or on paw?) to present a donation from OTT to the Garrett County Humane Society. The $600 check represented a portion of ticket sales for Sylvia and donations gathered from audience members during the play's November run. Max, herself a shelter rescue who is owned by OTT director Jane Avery, was particularly pleased to be able to assist the theatre in supporting the Humane Society with its spay/neuter, adoption, and education programs. Max is pictured above flanked by Humane Society members Chris Csonka, left, and Nancy Helbig.

Jim Fox, Bill Emory, and Buddy Umbel.

Pleasant View Annual Puppet Program Slated

The Pleasant View Baptist Church Puppeteers will present their fifth annual holiday program seven times this week at the church, located along U.S. Rt. 219 two miles south of Oakland. Titled Three Wise Men and a Baby, the play tells the biblical Christmas story, and includes the characters of the wise men, shepherds, angels, King Herod, and the baby born in a manger. The Christmas story is told "in an off-beat, entertaining, and sometimes humorous style," according to directors Scott Weeks and Alex Flanigan.

The play, which is about one hour in length, features more than 30 puppets on a 50-foot, multi-tier stage, with special lighting and effects. It is designed for the enjoyment of all ages, including adults. Last year a total of over 1,600 persons attended the performances.

The schedule of performances is as follows: Friday, Dec. 15, 6 and 8 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 16, 4, 6, and 8 p.m.; and Sunday, Dec. 17, 6 and 8 p.m. In order to obtain tickets, which are free of charge, persons should telephone 301-334-8515.

COVE

The Cove Kids 4-11 Club held its annual Christmas dinner on Tuesday evening at the St. John's Lutheran Church fellowship hall. Leader Alice Long presented a 4-11 necklace and T-shirt to Mrs. Anita Funk, who will take over as new leader of the club beginning in January. Each child was presented a certificate of achievement for all his/her hard work and community involvement. Douglas and Julia Bender and children Keith, Tony, Michelle, Michael, and Jeremy were presented a gift as "family of the year." Rachel Margroff was presented a gift for being named the "most outstanding member for the year." Mrs. Long commended each family and member for all the hard work in helping her as organizational leader for the last six years. Mrs. Long presented Mrs. Carla Swearman with an appreciation gift for her help over the years.

Attending the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Gary Long and daughter Beth, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Swearman and daughter Lindsay, Mrs. Peggy Biser and daughters Leah and Jesse, Mrs. Jill Evans and sons Ryan, Jordan, and Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Margroff and children Matthew and Megan, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bender and children Keith, Michelle, Michael, and Jeremy, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Margroff and daughters Rachel and Haley, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Funk and sons Steven, Chris, and Craig, Linda Thomas and son Keaton, Keith Harman and son Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Grove and sons Toby, Colton, and Jordan, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Margroff.

The club presented Alice Long with a slate painting, angel, and center piece as well as several other gifts for her six years of leadership with the club. Matthew Margroff, with help from his grandparents, presented each family with angel centerpieces.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Weaver moved last week into their new home, the former Oren and Fannie Bender home.

A Sunday afternoon visitor of Mrs. Freda Reichenbecher and Joe was Junior Wiley.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bender and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brenneman.

Wednesday evening visitors of Mrs. Myrtle Hanft were Mrs. Ted Higson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Higson and daughter, Cumberland. A Saturday visitor of Mrs. Hanft was Katie Williams. Sunday visitors were Carroll Hanft and daughter Amanda, Addison, Pa.

Linda Thomas and son Keaton were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Dred Lowdermilk and sons, Friendsville, Mrs. Joyce Paugh, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Harman and daughters in the week. Linda and Keaton were among the members of the Church of His Marvellous Light, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., who attended the Christmas dinner on Friday evening at the Mill Place Restaurant, Bruceton Mills, W.Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon (Tom) Reichenbecher attended the Festival of Music Christmas program at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident on Saturday evening, where Tom sang with the Community in Harmony Chorus. The Reichenbechers attended the Christmas Christian music concert at the St. John's Lutheran Church, ELCA, Sunday evening, where Scott Monroe, Tennessee, presented a saxophone concert. A light supper followed the concert.

A Monday visitor of Mrs. Allreda Friend was Mrs. George Fint, Aurora, W.Va.

YODER CARVING IN SILENT AUCTION - World class woodcarver Gary Yoder, who practices his renowned art in his workshop in Spruce Forest, Grantsville, has donated an exquisite piece of his work (pictured below) for silent auction, to raise money for the reNEW Grantsville Library building fund. A minutely detailed flank feather from a Wood Duck is the centerpiece of the mixed media work depicting a natural setting of rocks and grasses. Yoder used Louisiana Tupelo wood for the feather and for the rocks. The grasses were formed from soldered metal. Many hours of work and a number of steps are involved in the process of creating such a piece. The wood is cut, sanded, detailed with a scalpel, burned to create texture, dipped in water, and put in a mold to steam. This Wood Duck feather sculpture, a signed original piece, is one of only four in a natural setting that Yoder has carved. A five-time winner of the World Championship in wood-carving, Yoder has been carving for 31 years — since he was 11 years old. His artist accomplishments have earned him worldwide exhibits. The Smithsonian Institution and the National Geographic Society have featured Yoder's work. This piece is currently on display at the Grantsville branch of First United Bank and Trust, where bids are being accepted through December 23.

Maryland Leads East Coast In Safety Belt Use

Maryland motorists are buckling up in record numbers, giving the state the highest safety belt compliance rate on the East Coast, according to Governor Parris Glendening and Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend. Eighty-five percent of Maryland motorists are wearing safety belts, representing a two-percentage point increase from 1999.

"Make no mistake about it, wearing safety belts saves lives," Glendening said. "Our aggressive effort to get this message across to every driver and passenger traveling on Maryland roads is clearly paying dividends."

Maryland strengthened its crackdown on safety belt violators when primary enforcement of the seat belt law took effect in October 1997. This law allows police officers to stop a vehicle if the driver or a front seat passenger is not wearing a safety belt. Maryland is one of 16 states with this type of seat belt law, the governor noted.

William Smith, a Carroll County sheriff's deputy lieutenant, was answering a call for service when he was involved in a severe crash. Smith said that using his safety belt was instrumental in saving his life.

"Using a safety belt can mean the difference between life and death," said Townsend. "Adults and children alike must remember to take that simple step of buckling up before traveling. By following this simple rule, we can avoid the heartache and suffering that follows any crash in which a loved one is seriously injured."

The record-high compliance with Maryland's safety belt laws was established following results obtained from surveys conducted in more than 100 sites across the state. The survey indicated that passenger car occupants buckle up 87% of the time, while pickup truck drivers and passengers buckle up less frequently at 73% of the time. Maryland's annual statewide survey is conducted under the auspices of the Maryland Highway Safety Office.

Caring for Your Poinsettia
 Poinsettias at the holiday season add color and beauty to the home. Poinsettias last longer today than ever before since the introduction of new hybrid varieties. These newer varieties include not only the traditional red, but also white, pink and marbled colors. Plants that are properly cared for will give colorful displays up to 6 to 8 weeks.

In the home, proper care helps poinsettias maintain their appearance and increase their longevity. The following procedures will help you get the most from your displays:

- Plants will last longer at room temperatures between 65 to 75 degrees. Leaf and flower drop may occur if plants are placed in areas prone to drafts such as near heat vents or doors and windows.
- To prevent yellowing and flower drop, place plants in an area with bright natural light, but avoid direct sunlight.
- For best color display under artificial light use cool white fluorescent bulbs. The light intensity should be a minimum of 100-foot candles.
- Check the soil moisture daily and water plants only when the potting media becomes dry.

Can Dairy Families Maintain a Decent Standard of Living?
 The Ohio State University Excel Team published the following article. I thought the information was timely and probably correct in many situations.

Families usually wish to maintain or increase their standard of living over time. Because of inflation, farm income must increase or standard of living falls. Above average dairy farmers who have improved management, adopted technology, and increased production per cow have only maintained or slightly increased income per dairy cow over time. Thus, the primary way-of increasing dairy farm income is to increase the number of cows on the farm.

The importance of expanding herd size:
 Based on the experience of the last 40 years, a dairy farm family with better than average management must increase the number of dairy cows on the farm by approximately 60 percent every 10 years to maintain their standard of living. Families should increase herd size more rapidly if increasing their standard of living is a high priority. If current trends continue, a dairy farm family with 100 cows in 1996 will need 160 cows by the year 2006 to enjoy an equivalent standard of living.

Many dairy producers have neither the desire nor the resources to grow 60 percent every 10 years. Even when they have the desire, limited resources make a 60 percent growth rate every 10 years difficult for an average dairy producer to achieve. Producers who will not or cannot

USDA Soon To Release National Organic Standards

National standards for organic foods will be released soon, says Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman. Glickman has indicated the standards will be issued as one of his last acts in office.

The National Food Processors Association wants any labeling of organic foods to include disclaimers that the foods are not necessarily safer or more nutritious than conventional foods.

Glickman has not indicated exactly how those concerns might be met, but said achieve a 60 percent growth rate may operate as dairy producers and support a family for many years. However, because of inflation, they should expect a declining standard of living over time.

Other options:
 Farm families who have neither the desire nor resources to expand their herds have several alternatives. The family may retire existing debt and/or invest in financial assets, such as stocks, bonds, and mutual funds. Retiring debt will reduce the interest expenses of the farm in the future. Investments in financial assets will provide returns, which can provide money for family living in future years.

Another alternative is to seek off-farm employment. Cash flow projections will indicate whether or not these options will provide enough funds for family living.

NFU Asks Justice Department To Reject Tyson Buyout Of IBP

National Farmers Union (NFU) has renewed its demand for heightened scrutiny over mergers in the already highly concentrated meat processing industry by calling for the rejection of the latest proposed takeover of IBP Inc. by Tyson Foods Inc. In a letter to the U.S. Department of Justice, Farmers Union demanded a halt to this merger between the meat processing industry giants—a proposal that continues the chain of offers that would decrease competition and compromise the markets in which livestock producers try to negotiate a fair price.

"From a producer standpoint, the choice between a Smithfield acquisition versus a Tyson acquisition of IBP is similar to a choice between death by hanging versus a firing squad," said NFU president Leland Swenson. "Either way, the independent producer is gone at the end of the day."

Farmers Union continues its opposition to this and other business combinations that decrease competitiveness in the markets that serve family farmers and ranchers. The organization calls for the enforcement of antitrust laws against these anti-competitive practices. The latest offer from Tyson Foods is a $4.2 billion buyout that tops previous offers from pork processing giant Smithfield Inc., and another from an investment group that includes agribusiness feed giant Archer Daniels Midland Inc. The deal would make Tyson the largest marketer of beef, pork and chicken.

"The only competition going on in this deal is being waged on Wall Street," said Swenson. "But no matter how many people bid to consolidate the meat processing a year ago. There were 952,000 workers hired directly by farm operators. Agricultural service employees on farms and ranches made up the remaining 285,000 workers. Migrant workers accounted for 11.9% of the October hired workforce compared to 12.3% last year.

Farm operators paid their hired workers an average wage of $8.29 per hour during the October 2000 survey week, up 46 cents from a year earlier. Field workers received an average of $7.74 per hour, up 43 cents from last October. Livestock workers earned $7.84 per hour compared with $7.43 a year earlier. The field and livestock worker combined wage rate was up 43 cents from last year.

Agricultural Survey
 How many acres will be planted to winter wheat? What will happen to the cattle inventory number this year? What will be the 2000 crop production? To gather reliable, objective information, the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service (MASS) will be surveying farmers for the December Agricultural Survey.

MASS Reports Md. Agri-Facts

Crop Production
 Based on conditions Nov. 1, corn and soybean production in Maryland is expected to be up significantly from 1999, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Corn production is forecast at 62 million bushels, up 85% from last year and 42% from 1998. Yield is projected at 155 bushels per acre, up 62 bushels from last year's estimate of 93. If realized, this year's Maryland corn yield will be the highest on record. According to the Crop Progress and Condition Report for Nov. 6, corn harvesting stood at 84% complete.

Soybean production is forecast at 20.1 million bushels, up 31% from last year and 41% from 1998. Yield is forecast at 41 bushels per acre, up 9 bushels from 1999's final estimate of 32 bushels per acre. If realized, this will be a record yield for Maryland soybeans. As evidenced by the Crop Progress and Condition Report for Nov. 6, soybean harvesting has passed the halfway mark and was reported at 61% complete.

U.S. corn for grain production is forecast at 10.1 billion bushels, down 1% from last month, but up 7% from 1999. Based on Nov. 1 conditions, yields are expected to average 137.7 bushels per acre, down 1.9 bushels from last month, but up 3.9 bushels from a year ago. If realized, this would be the largest production and second largest yield on record. Acreage for harvest is estimated at 73 million acres, unchanged from last month. Overall yield declines in the Corn Belt more than offset increases in the mid-Atlantic states and Missouri. Yield declines in the Corn Belt were mainly due to lower ear weights.

Soybean production across the U.S. is forecast at record high 2.8 billion bushels, down 2% from Oct. 1, but 5% above 1999. The yield forecast, at 38 bushels per acre, decreased 0.7 bushel from last month, but is 1.4 bushels above the 1999 final yield. Acreage for harvest is estimated at a record 73 million acres, unchanged from Oct. 1, but up 1% from 1999. Yield decreases in the western Corn Belt and Great Plains regions more than offset yield increases in the mid-Atlantic states and Ohio. Reduced yields in the Corn Belt were a result of lower pod counts.

Farm Labor
 There were 1.24 million hired workers on the nation's farms and ranches the week of Oct. 8 - 14, down 3% from

DOJ Should Reject Smithfield's Takeover Of IBP, Says NFU

In a recent letter to the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), the National Farmers Union (NFU) urged the department to reject the proposed stock buyout by Smithfield Foods Inc. of IBP Inc. These corporations are two of the nation's largest meat processors. NFU repeated its call to monitor the rampant trend toward concentration and business combinations that threaten agriculture industry markets.

"This deal may provide windfalls for corporate stock holders, but it does nothing for farmers and ranchers who need fair, open and competitive markets," said NFU president Leland Swenson.

"The main principle that drives our markets is competition, and the proposed buyout of IBP by Smithfield will reduce competition."

Farmers Union is at the forefront in support of legislation that will provide the resources and authority to

DOJ and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to respond to the increasingly concentrated market power in the agriculture industry and resulting diminished marketing opportunities for farmers and ranchers. The family-farmer-and-rancher organization is also pushing for a congressional review of antitrust laws intended to preserve competitive environments.

"The independence of family farmers and ranchers is being eroded," said Swenson. "This latest proposal will reduce competitive marketing opportunities for independent producers who already face few choices when trying to market their products."

Smithfield is the largest producer of pork, while IBP is the largest processor of beef as well as a substantial player in the pork processing industry.

Notes from Bittering

by Joan Sussman

On Saturday afternoon some of the youth of Emmanuel Lutheran Church participated in a child care workshop at the educational building. Those who participated were Torrey Poholsky, Robbie and Blakely Glotfelty, Megan and Amy Shaffer, Claire and Caitlin Sussman, and David Vagnetti. These will increase the pool of babysitters in Bittering. They took on a gang of little rugrats, including Mere Sussman, Maddy Whittemore, Abby and Brody Collins, and Ashley and Josh Bietzel. They were supervised by Meredith Vagnetti, Sally Poholsky, and Cindy Stanton. The big kids kept the little kids occupied with videos and crafts that included some Christmas bells made of styrofoam cups with a clapper made of foil wrapped chocolates. According to my girls, the boys were somewhat worthless, but that is only the opinion of a couple of pre-teen girls.

Another big event for a small fry was Maddy Whittemore's 6-year birthday party. About a dozen of Maddy's cronies from school, joined by aides Blakely Glotfelty, Caitlin and Meredith Sussman, and Emma Bass, frolicked in the gym playing limbo and Twister, and dancing. Then they stuffed themselves with pizzas, cake, and ice cream. Then they spent some quiet time watching "Little Mermaid II" to settle down before it was time for a sleep-over. Maddy's mother told me it was the best kid birthday she ever held.

Then, of course, it was a busy Sunday for the kids of Emmanuel, which concluded with the big holiday

Christmas party at the Bittering fire hall. Besides much to eat at the covered dish finger food buffet, everybody singing favorite carols and, sure enough, Santa Claus appeared as the group sang "Here Comes Santa Claus." Our favorite Santa Claus handed out gifts to all the little ones. Jeff Beitzel sang a couple of his renditions and accompanied himself on the guitar.

The snow lovers in Bittering are disappointed, as our nice thick covering of the white stuff was ruined on Sunday and Monday by rain! But I imagine we will get a fresh coating before Christmas. I know Caitlin hopes so, since she just got her new cross-country ski boots last week. She outgrew her previous pair, so she has not had a chance to ski yet this year, but her sisters Claire and Mere already had several days of skiing at the Wisp this year.

I wonder how many other little girls in the area have the same bug as my Mere, as she and her cousin, Emma Bass, are experiencing, which features a light rash. Hope most everyone avoids it.

Mike Hall, McHenry, joined by me, took a trip to New Germany in search of ski boots, but you never know whether the cross-country ski store will be open. Saturday afternoon it was closed, so Mike and I just did some sightseeing and gathered some supplies for my little dolls. We found some beautiful, dark seed pods and lots of nice leaves. Mike even got wet and cold as he was collecting a few small flat river rocks from Savage River that I use for the bases. We met up with a friend of my brother Barry, Jeff Griffith, who happened to go to Frostburg with Mike a few years ago (20 or some maybe). We were amused by a group of city slickers who were camped along the river and asked as to how they could get out of there, since they were worried about the steep up-hill road that was covered by snow.

CLAUSES HELP WITH TREE LIGHTING - The Grantsville town Christmas tree was lighted recently with the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, who arrived by horse-drawn carriage and also handed out candy to children of all ages. Nancy Kauffman of the Print Shoppe, coordinator of the event, spoke to the crowd, as did Mayor Gerry Beachy, who extended his appreciation to all of the businesses who made donations to support the event. Free carriage rides were provided, the singing of carols followed the lighting ceremony, and cookies and hot chocolate were served by the youth of St. John's United Church of Christ.

Today, which is December 11th, Pittsburgh sports fans are trying to forget about the dismal loss by the Steelers yesterday, but they are waiting in anticipation for the announcement that Mario Lemieux will return to the ice. He is a new owner of the Penguins, and I know hockey fan, Torrey Poholsky, will hope to get the chance to see Mario start on February 10. He saw Mario play when he was too young to really appreciate his play. Everyone seems under the assumption that Mario will put on his skates soon after New Year's.

As usual, my household is way behind most of my neighbors in getting up their Christmas lights. But the only ones who have the Christmas spirit are our girls. Next door, Rodney and Marci Glotfelty, have a lovely display, especially viewed from our house, but which is not as good from the road. As you know, if you read my column, my mother has had some of her lights up since Thanksgiving. We do have our Christmas tree out on our front porch and soaking up all this rain. It should stay fresh until past New Year's.

Mere Sussman attended a birthday party for her school buddy and distant cousin, Chelsa Glotfelty, at the Double G Ranch on Sunday. I misread the invitation and thought they would go on a sleigh ride, but actually they went sled riding down those steep hills behind the barn. Chelsa's dad, Warren, kindly hauled them back up the mountain in his pickup. If they had to drag their sleds back up those hills, they would not go down so many times.

At Emmanuel Lutheran Church's annual congregational meeting following last Sunday morning worship service a new group of council members was elected:

Jenny Marple, Jacki Warne, and Cindy Stanton. Jacki recently returned to Emmanuel from a long absence, but now she is very active, singing in the choir and now serving on the council.

As I worked on these notes, I chatted with Fern Beachy, and she related that several out-of-town friends enjoy reading my "Notes from Bittering." However, she added that lots of people wish it would include more family news. I can't or will not call every family in the Bittering area in case someone might have some exciting news. When I call anymore, most of the time they will say, "Oh no, we do not do much these days." But if anyone does have something notable to report, please call me before noon on Mondays. My phone number is 301-245-4841. If you should get our machine, just leave your name and phone number, and I will call you back.

Jim and Donna Glotfelty accompanied their son Tom, captain for Spirit Airlines, on his flight to Las Vegas for a brief vacation and sightseeing trip last week. Besides touring the sights of the city, among other tourist attractions they visited were Hoover Dam, Valley of Fire, Country Christmas, and the site of the World Championship Rodeo finals.

Zion's ELCA Women Convene

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting on December 6.

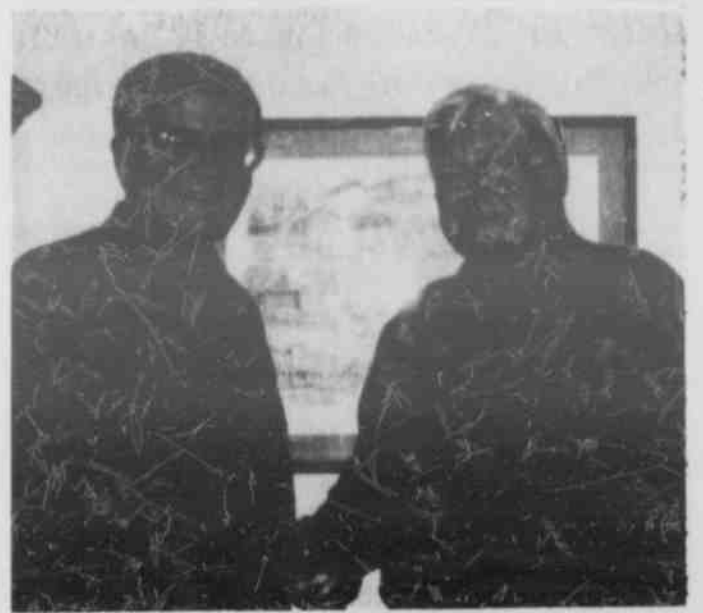

The study, "Be Born In Us," was led by Leota Baker. Taken from the Gospel of Luke and the book of Acts, the lesson was a study of Mary, Paul, Ananias, and Cornelius, and their experiences of being born into new understandings of God's plans.

Devotions closed with reading stanzas of the hymn "From Heaven Above."

The business meeting was conducted by Judy Stanton.

A thank-you letter was received from Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Box Elder, Mont., upon receipt of a package of 14 sweaters for their Christmas clothing drive-away to the Rocky Boy Indians.

A gift offering was received from Viola Meyers, a former member of Zion's unit.

BOARD MEMBER WELCOMED - Samuel E. Reckley was welcomed recently as a new member on the board of directors at the Maryland Salem Children's Trust. Retired from the Kelly Springfield Tire Company as manager of advanced engineering, Reckley also worked for the Maryland State Road Commission's Department of Highway Construction, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Hercules Inc., and Parish Pressed Steel Division. He served in the U.S. Army Ordnance as a machinist from 1958 to 1960, and again during the Berlin Crisis Recall in 1961. Reckley holds a B.S.M.E. degree from West Virginia University, and is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and a senior member of the American Society for Quality Control. "We welcome Mr. Reckley's experience and enthusiasm as he serves on our board in our endeavor to bring hope and healing to children in need," said a spokesperson from Salem. Pictured above is Reckley (left), with Salem board president, Hal Forsyth.

Plans were completed to prepare Christmas baskets for shut-ins. A monetary gift was given to Darlene House, a local cancer patient.

Serving projects are being done for various church homes and social ministry to the Rocky Boy Indians. Shirley Yommer and Judy Stanton presented each person with gifts.

Definite plans were not made for meetings during the winter months.

Governor To Renew State Funds For Private, Parochial School Textbooks

by Lori Silverstein
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - Gov. Parris Glendening said he will increase funding for private school textbooks in his next budget request, enraging opponents who thought that $6 million for that purpose this year was a "one-time deal."

Critics have already begun a lobbying effort that one opponent said "is gonna get nasty," as they fight to end what they see as unconstitutional funding.

"We have a constitution in the state of Maryland that guarantees an adequate, free, thorough public education for all students. The key word is public," said Wanda Hurt, vice president of legislation for the Maryland Parent-Teacher Association. "We do not have an adequate public education in Maryland at this time. Until we provide an adequate, free, thorough education for all public students, we should not be thinking about giving anything to private schools," she said, specifically highlighting a lack of funds for Baltimore City schools.

Glendening, in a meeting with Capital News Service reporters this week, confirmed that he will include state funding for private and parochial school textbooks in his budget requests for the next two years. He could not say how much he will ask for in the fiscal 2002 budget he will present to the General Assembly in January, except to say that it would "increase slightly" from the current level.

The governor said it was never his intention to drop funding after one year.

"We agreed to have a three-year program which would have a slight expansion of funding each year for the textbook program," Glendening said. But Sen. Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore, said the only reason the funding passed by a slim margin this year was because legislators, including herself, thought it was for one year only. Hoffman, who is chairwoman of the Budget and Taxation Committee, said she doubts the funding will make it very far in the legislature next year.

"I think it was meant to be a one-time infusion. I was willing to (vote for it) because I thought public schools would be adequately funded and in fact in Baltimore City, they were not," Hoffman said. "I personally could not vote for it again until public funding is fixed."

While the state has long provided support to private colleges, this year was the first time it has ever funded textbook purchases by private schools. The proposal drew strong opposition from a coalition of groups, including the ACLU of Maryland, the state teachers' union, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the PTA, and religious organizations from Jews to Presbyterians.

But other religious groups backed the funding, and applauded Glendening's plan to renew it. Rabbi Herman Neuberger, who led the fight for money for Orthodox Jewish day schools, said the governor is "fulfilling a desperate need."

The executive director of the Maryland Catholic Conference, which has long sought state help for parochial schools, said the aid is an "investment in the future" that will not hurt the public school system.

"We are very pleased that the governor had seen it fit for a second year," said Dick Dowling of the Catholic Conference. "Any money dedicated to non-public school purposes will not, in any way, diminish the state's public schools."

"We want to ensure public schools receive full

LOOKING FOR LUNCH BUDDIES - A toybox filled with games and toys awaits the Big Brothers Big Sisters Lunch Buddies to visit at Accident Elementary School. funding," said Dowling, who noted that many Catholic students attend public schools.

The governor and supporters justified the spending this year by emphasizing that it was not coming from taxpayers' money, but from the 1998 tobacco settlement.

But Delegate James Hubbard, D-Prince George's County, said it "doesn't make a difference where the money comes from."

"If it comes from the cigarette restitution fund, it ought to go to cigarette cessation and education,"

Hubbard said. "It's all tax dollars."

Dowling conceded that this year would be more of an "uphill fight" because many legislators promised to vote for textbook funding only one time.

"We will do everything we can to convince legislators they will be making a sound investment when they support close to 130,000 children in non-public schools," Dowling said.

Legislators like Hubbard, who voted against the measure this year, are not likely to change their minds, however. Hubbard said he is concerned the governor has started a wave of "bad policy."

"He started a trend last year that he will never be able to stop," said Hubbard.

Report Says Child-Care Assistance Not Reaching State's Working Poor

by Riyad Mathew
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - Federal child care assistance for low-income families is reaching only a fraction of the eligible children in Maryland, according to a report from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. The report, released last week, said that only 8 percent of Maryland low-income children who were eligible for federal child care assistance in 1999 were getting it, well below the national average of 12 percent.

Those numbers are figured on the relatively generous federal eligibility criteria, which qualifies any family earning up to 85 percent of the median income in the state. But even under the much-stricter Maryland criteria of 46 percent of the state's median income, only about 24 percent of eligible families are getting assistance they qualify for, federal officials said.

Maryland's median annual income in 1999 was $49,000, officials said. State human services officials declined comment on the figures, which were released Thursday as part of an HHS effort to push Congress to increase funding for the child care program. "Working families still do not have adequate access to safe and affordable child care for their children -- something that is crucial if they are to keep their jobs," said HHS Secretary Donna Shalala in a prepared statement.

She urged Congress to approve the agency's fiscal 2001 budget, which includes an $817 million increase in child care assistance funds. The HHS report said that of the 259,000 Maryland children eligible for child care under the federal rate in 1999, only 22,070 children received federal child-care subsidies. Officials said about 91,000 children would have been eligible for aid under the state criteria in 1999, and that 68,930 potentially eligible children remained without any assistance.

Officials in the Maryland Department of Human Resources said they would have to study the federal report and did not expect to be able to respond until Monday.

One child-care provider, however, said the report is "an accurate reflection of the total child care negligence in the state."

"Maryland does little for child care," said Lenora Porzillo, director of Cloverleaf Child Development Center in Millersville. "Many of the children who are eligible for child care are often confined to a waiting list or not enrolled at all. The state takes absolutely no urgency when addressing the issue. They just don't care," she said.

Porzillo said that indifference stretches to more than just funding. She said that a hairdresser needs at least 1,500 hours of training to be qualified to practice in Maryland, but that a child-care worker "requires only a minimum of 90 hours of training. That's a clear sign of the state's interest."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING JENNINGS SANITARY DISTRICT

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing of the County Commissioners of Garrett County is scheduled for Tuesday, December 26, 2000, at 9:10 a.m. in the Garrett County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, located at the Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland, to consider amending boundaries for the service area of the Jennings Sanitary District in Garrett County.

In a Resolution adopted on December 11, 2000, the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, pursuant to Title 9, Subtitle 648, of the Environment Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1996 Volume), proposed to amend the boundaries for the purpose of providing sewer facilities to serve the area described in that Resolution and shown on the plat attached thereto. A copy of the Resolution of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission adopted on December 11, 2000, and the plat showing the boundaries of the proposed service area are on file in the offices of the Garrett County Sanitary District, 313 East Alder Street, Old Courthouse, Room 200, Oakland, Maryland, and are available for public inspection during regular business hours.

Interested persons will be heard at the public hearing on December 26, 2000, to determine if amended boundaries of the Jennings Sanitary District are necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of the proposed service area and if feasible financially and from an engineering standpoint.

By Order of the County Commissioners of Garrett County
R. Lamont Pagenhardt
County Administrator

TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE IMPROVED FEE SIMPLE PROPERTY

SALE AT THE MAIN ENTRANCE OF THE CIRCUIT COURT HOUSE FOR GARRETT COUNTY IN OAKLAND AT 203 SOUTH 4TH STREET

NO. 714 N STREET, MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD 21550

Under and by virtue of the power and authority contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Rodney T. Pike III, to James T. Casey and Richard G. Reese, Jr., Trustee(s), dated November 12, 1998, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, in Liber 756, Folio 0013 (R. Douglas Jones and/or Mary Jane Fischer, having been appointed as Substituted Trustees therein by Countrywide Home Loans, Inc., the present holder of the Note secured thereby), the insurer thereof being THE SECRETARY OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT, default having occurred in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the main entrance of the Circuit Courthouse for Garrett County in Oakland at 203 South 4th Street, on all that land and premises described in said Deed of Trust as follows:

Friday, December 29, 2000
At 4:05 PM

All those pieces or parcels of land situate, lying and being on "N" Street in Mountain Lake Park, in Election District No. 16, Garrett County, Maryland, described as follows: Lots Nos. 1371 and 1369 (corrected from past deed which showed lot no. 1769) on the plat of Mountain Lake Park.

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition, subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record, if any.

The property is improved by a DWELLING.

TERMS OF SALE: $6,000.00 cash or by certified check will be required of the purchaser (other than the above named Note holder or THE SECRETARY OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT) at the time and place of sale, balance of the purchase money in cash upon final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County and to bear interest at 10% per annum from the day of sale to the day of settlement. In the event the above named Note holder purchases the property no deposit will be required and the requirement of interest on the balance of the purchase price shall be waived. All charges for conveyancing, recording, stamp taxes, transfer taxes, certificate of title, etc., to be at the cost of the purchaser. All other expenses, water rent, and real estate taxes and all other assessments and public charges, payable on annual basis including special paving tax, if any, to be adjusted to the date of sale, and assumed thereafter by purchaser.

Time is of the essence and terms of sale are to be complied with within ten days after final ratification thereof by the Court, otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. This sale is subject to Ratification by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If the sale is not ratified, or if for any reason the Substituted Trustees are unable to convey clear, marketable title, the sale shall be void and the purchaser's sole remedy shall be the return of the deposit.

NHS Names November Students Of The Month

The Northern High School Student Council and M&T Bank recently announced the Students of the Month for November. They are Andrew Frantz, Landon Southerly, Josh Swandol, and Toby Gilpin. Each one was presented a trophy from the Accident Branch of M&T and the student council.

Andrew Frantz, a freshman at Northern High School, is the son of Darrell and Betty Frantz. He is on the basketball and football teams and is a member of the Blooming Rose United Methodist Church. Andrew said he enjoys hunting, playing sports, and riding dirt bikes.

Sophomore Landon Southerly is the son of William and Sheila Southerly. He is a member of the basketball, and baseball teams and is also active in the church youth group and community projects. Landon said he enjoys collecting baseball cards, playing video games, watching TV, and reading.

Landon has been recognized as a Hugh O'Brian Youth (HOBY) conference representative, a DAR essay award winner, a distinguished honor roll student, and the winner in the behavioral and social sciences category at the regional science fair.

Josh Swandol, a junior, is the son of Jim and Cathi Swandol. He is on the football and basketball teams, and attends church at World Lighthouse Center. Josh said he enjoys working at McDonald's, playing sports, and lifting weights in his spare time. Josh has been selected for Minds in Motion, the Algebra One award, and Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Toby Gilpin, a senior at Northern High School, is the son of Ken and Donna Gilpin. A member of the football, wrestling, and track and field teams, Toby is also a member of the Lettermen's Club. He attends Jennings United Methodist Church and belongs to the Sons of the American Legion.

Toby said he enjoys hunting and camping, but he still manages to maintain a GPA of 3.4, as well as being included in Who's Who Among American High School Students and named the NHS student athlete of the month. Toby plans to attend college and major in physical education.

All students selected for this award are eligible for the Student of the Year Award, and will also be honored at the Northern High School honors banquet.

New Bill Taps Leftover Lottery Funds For School Construction

by Andrei Blakely
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - Leftover lottery proceeds could go toward badly needed public school construction and renovation under a new bill prefiled for the 2001 General Assembly session by an Anne Arundel County Republican.

School building space statewide is at a premium as enrollments rise and new proposed programs, such as all-day kindergarten, require improved or more facilities.

Gov. Parris N. Glendening is devoting $1 billion over four years toward school construction, but that's not enough to cover current needs. The state's 24 school jurisdictions have requested about $360 million for construction projects this year. Only $250 million is available, said Yale Stenzler, Interagency Committee on School Construction's executive director.

In fiscal year 2000, the Maryland State Lottery grossed $1.75 billion. The $377 million in the lottery's general fund went toward education, public health, human resources, and public safety, among other programs. The Maryland Stadium Authority received $23.3 million from lottery revenue. And, a $10 million unanticipated surplus was applied to the state's horse racing industry.

The bill, pre-filed by Delegate David G. Boschert, R-Anne Arundel, divides one-third of the lottery surplus equally among school jurisdictions. The other two-thirds would remain in the general fund.

"(I am) finding ways to help children get an education. How can you get a quality education when you have an inferior building? I am trying to remedy that," said Boschert.

Maryland State Lottery revenues have steadily increased since fiscal year 1997. The state requires jurisdictions to match construction funding on a sliding scale with wealthier jurisdictions paying more. In some cases jurisdictions have had to increase property taxes, Boschert said.

Parents in Montgomery County offered to pay for an entire elementary school in Potomac, said Neil Greenberger, spokesperson for the State Department of Education. Carroll County recently funded construction of a new middle school the state believed was unnecessary. The county now must pay the entire cost.

Money from the proposed bill could assist in such a situation, said Kathleen Sanner, director of school support services for Carroll County Public schools, because now jurisdictions compete for the same state funds. The governor has added school construction money to his budget, but jurisdictions still need more, she said.

"You can only take so many supply closets and make them into classrooms," said Greenberger.

Other states use lottery money for education programs, including Georgia's Hope Scholarship, which pays tuition for students who maintain a "B" average and attend college in-state.

"Scholarships are for the mind — this is for the bricks and mortar," Boschert said.

The new bill would set money aside specifically for building construction. If the money were not available, the jurisdictions would not receive any money, he said.

State officials realize the need for such funding, but are not certain it would gain support in the General Assembly's upcoming session.

"I think the bill is designed to help local jurisdictions," said Stenzler. "I think it is something that should be looked at."

Oakland Man Dies In Terra Alta Accident

An Oakland man died last Thursday morning, Dec. 14, as a result of a single-vehicle accident just outside of Terra Alta, W.Va. Icy road conditions contributed to the mishap, according to the West Virginia State Police.

Zendil A. Bittinger Jr., 22, was traveling on Freeport Stoney Creek Road, just off Route 7, when the accident occurred shortly before 8 a.m. as he was turning into the driveway leading to Delano's Furniture. Bittinger reportedly lost control of his 2000 Geo Metro 1.5i when the subcompact sedan hit a patch of ice during a sharp turn. The car left the roadway and overturned, coming to rest on its top in a three-foot deep pool of rainwater and trapping Bittinger inside.

After being removed from the car, Bittinger was pronounced dead at the scene. His body was transported to Preston Memorial Hospital by the Terra Alta Ambulance. The Terra Alta and Aurora volunteer fire departments assisted at the scene, and the accident was investigated by the West Virginia State Police with assistance from the Preston County Sheriff's Office.

Born Dec. 4, 1978, in Oakland, he was the son of Zendil A. Bittinger Sr., Oakland, and Cheryl A. (Kittmiller) Bittinger, Mtn. Lake Park.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, E. Nicole (Bray) Bittinger, one son, Zendil A. Bittinger III, at home; one sister, Jessica L. Bittinger, Oakland; his paternal grandmother, Genevieve (Bittinger) Bittinger.

GARRETT'S MOST BEAUTIFUL RECOGNIZED — Jane Avery, Garrett County's 2000 Most Beautiful Person, was honored in Annapolis for her achievement at the Maryland's Most Beautiful People Annual Volunteer Awards Ceremony, held last month. Avery, a high school teacher and the president/producer of Our Town Theatre, was nominated for the award by Chris Nielsen, who lauded Jane's positive effect on the county's youth and her continuing efforts at the theatre that bolster the community. Pictured from left are Annapolis mayor Dean L. Johnson, State Comptroller William Donald Schaefer, Avery, MMBP local coordinator Pat Light, Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, and Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. Miss Maryland 2000 Sonia Amiri is pictured in the background. Avery joined the 23 statewide recipients at the ceremony, which included the presentations of each award, music by the Chorus of Dorchester, and brief speeches by the officials pictured above.

Wal-Mart Lights Causing Unrest In Neighborhood

As the opening date draws near for the newly constructed Super Wal-Mart in Oakland, residents in the nearby neighborhood of Mitchell Manor have registered complaints about the brightness of the lights at the store and the possible noise pollution that could be caused by the outdoor speaker system. Both Wal-Mart representatives and Oakland mayor Asa McCain are looking into the problems and have reported some remedies to the situation.

Shannon Moon, the new store's manager, was present at the weekly public session of the Garrett County commissioners Tuesday to introduce himself and to answer questions about the establishment. In addition to some complaints, other questions were fielded by Moon concerning the hiring process, the pay rate, and the opening date for the store.

Three residents of Mitchell Manor reported that the lights, which were turned on Monday night for the first time, are too bright, and that they are shining into the homes on the hillside. The residents also mentioned the loudness of the speaker system in the "garden center" of the store, and the barren landscape behind the parking lot. Moon was asked if the speakers could be turned down or off, and if tall pines could possibly be planted near the parking lot.

Of the three problems, Moon said he could immediately alleviate only one, which was the outdoor speaker system. He said he would have authority over how loud the speaker is and when it is used.

"We want to be good neighbors," Moon said, stressing that the "rumors out there about Wal-Mart" actually arise from city stores rather than those located in rural areas. "We run our businesses differently."

The Gilpins Share Their Story Of A Special Christmas Gift Of Love

KEN & DONNA GILPIN

by Peggy Santamaría

It was exactly one year ago today that Donna Gilpin gave her husband Ken an early Christmas gift. It is one that he has cherished each day since, and one that has added an extraordinary dimension to the bond between husband and wife. On December 21, 1999, Donna underwent surgery to give Ken one of her kidneys and a chance to continue living a healthy life.

Ken, the proverbial outdoorsman who always enjoyed fishing and hunting, first began getting sick in September 1998. He experienced headaches and fatigue, which persisted and increased. Within two months, not only had his condition been diagnosed, but he was on dialysis. "Ken had an autoimmune disease, and his kidneys were affected. They were both damaged," Donna said.

The Grantsville couple began to make regular trips to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where Ken was given hemo-dialysis treatments. "With a background in nursing, Donna was aware that there were options to the dialysis," Ken recalled, and after conferring with the physicians he and Donna decided to pursue one.

In January 1999, they headed off to Johns Hopkins University Hospital in Baltimore, where physicians would evaluate Ken for a kidney transplant. The outcome showed Ken to be a good candidate for the organ transplant program, but because his blood type was common, he would join a long list of people waiting for an organ.

"They told us it would be a 3-5-year wait. Meanwhile, Ken continued with the dialysis but did not always respond well to the treatments. His blood pressure would at times 'bottom out.' And there was always the chance that other body systems would be damaged in

NOAA Weather Radio Coming To Western Md.

A partnership among the National Weather Service, Maryland Emergency Management Agency, Frostburg State University, and Verizon will bring potentially life-saving warnings to residents of western Maryland as soon as January.

More than a year ago, the National Weather Service and Maryland Emergency Management Agency teamed up to bring National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Weather Radio to western Maryland. Frostburg State University offered WJWM's building to house the transmitter and a tower adjacent

Trustees Discuss GCC's Role In Preparing For ClosetMaid Arrival

The recent announcement that ClosetMaid has selected the county as the site for its new assembly plant will lead to new opportunities for Garrett County residents to participate in the training of area residents for secure employment, college president Dr. Steve Herman said at the most recent meeting of the GCC board of trustees.

ClosetMaid The pending construction and staffing of ClosetMaid's assembly plant it intends to build at the Grantsville Industrial Park could mean as many as 750 new jobs for the county. The company has secured a workforce training grant of $1 million from the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development in state funding through the department's Maryland Industrial Training Program to help meet its training needs.

Herman said that the company will take over GCC's Grantsville Center on a short-term basis for training purposes, and that the college hopes to assist it with training its new workforce. The Grantsville Center is scheduled to open in February or March, but the college is at this point uncertain when classes will get under way.

Herman also indicated that the coming of the new company could hurt GCC's enrollment, for as a general rule community college enrollment tends to decrease when the economy in the area it serves is good. GCC will be proactive in trying to

GCC Garners Bid For Incubator Building Project

Garrett Community College completed its initial review of most recent bids for construction of the proposed Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC), a 20,000 square foot McHenry campus building designed to house start-up high-tech, information-based businesses. With a submitted bid of $1,856,000, Harbel Inc. of Cumberland was the lowest responsible bidder that conformed to project specifications.

"We are delighted to have a bid within budget," GCC president Steve Herman said.

Momentum Gaining For Garrett County Adventure Sports Complex

The plan for a multi-sports adventure complex is coming closer to reality, as officials secure partial funding for the project and achieve state and federal endorsements. The project was discussed at a meeting Monday of the Garrett County Western Maryland Economic Development Task Force, held at Frostburg State University.

Senator Barbara Mikulski further discussed the project Wednesday in her meeting with the Garrett County commissioners, offering her support, as well as that of her colleagues in Washington, D.C.

A presentation of the entire project was given Monday by Karen Myers, a member of DC Development LLC (limited liability corporation), which has already donated 550 acres for the proposed project; and Jim Hinchbaugh, president of the Adventure Sports Center Inc. (ASCI), a non-profit organization that is spearheading the public/private effort to plan and construct the center.

The concept involves the construction of Olympic level training and performance enhancement facilities in five primary structures, to be located in the vicinity of Wisp, DC Development, a four-member group, is currently engaged in the purchase of the Wisp Resort from the Heise family, and is committing substantial funding for the project, along with the aforementioned land donation. The key components of the complex include an adventure sports center and climbing tower, the proposed International Adventure Sports Hall of Fame and Museum, an ice skating/in-line skating rink, a natatorium, an indoor, regulation-size pool, and a sports field house.

GBI Seeks Leads In Englander's Burglary Tuesday

A Tuesday morning burglary of Englander's soda fountain and antique mall is under investigation by detectives with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. A reward is offered for information that leads to the arrest of the suspected perpetrators.

In the early morning hours prior to the store's opening, unknown persons entered the store at the corner of Alder and Second streets in downtown Oakland and stole an undetermined amount of cash and merchandise. The individuals fled the scene before law enforcement officers arrived, although police were able to follow a series of tracks in the snow until they were obscured by the arrival of a heavy snowstorm.

Persons with information regarding the burglary are asked to call either the Garrett County Crime Solvers number at 301-334-1975 or the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911. Anonymity is guaranteed.

ELKS BIG BAND GALA BENEFITS UNITED WAY — Oakland Elks Lodge #2481 hosted its eighth annual Big Band Christmas Gala recently. The event featured the sounds of the Graham Grubb Orchestra of the Pittsburgh area, and fine food catered by McClive's Restaurant of McHenry. The $2,000 in proceeds, which included a donation by the Oakland Elks Lodge, from this year's gala were presented to the United Way of Garrett County for distribution among 15 local charities. Shown above enjoying the evening are, from the left, Oakland Elks' steward Shellee Knotts, treasurer Robert Stockelager, gala chairman Mark Grimm, United Way representatives Dave Thomas and Tom Myers, and Elks' Exalted Ruler James Stewart. The next Oakland Elks Lodge Big Band Christmas Gala is set for Saturday, Dec. 1, 2001.

Law Enforcement, Educators In County Earn Safe School Award

The Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention has recognized Garrett County's Safe School Initiative as an "exemplary" effort to prevent and control crime in Maryland. The program coordinated efforts by the Maryland State Police of the McHenry barracks under Lt. Bill Lucas, administrators and teachers of Garrett County Schools under Superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office under Sheriff Richard Sanders, and the Oakland Police under Chief John Sines.

"We have always had excellent cooperation between the school personnel and all the local law enforcement officers. We would meet about once a month to discuss any problems," Teets said.

The Safe Schools Initiative developed from this series of informal but regular meetings between local law officers and the board of education. Lucas suggested formalizing the alliance, which led to the creation of the initiative.

Health Dept. Notes Twelfth Rabies Case

The 12th rabies case of the year has been reported by Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department. All 12 positive cases this year have been in raccoons.

This most recent case involved a raccoon that was found dead next to a stream and residence located north of Friendsville along Mill Run Road. The carcass was tested because of possible exposure to the homeowner's dog, and the dead raccoon was confirmed positive for rabies by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. Although it was determined that contact between the raccoon and dog was unlikely, the currently vaccinated dog will receive an anti-rabies booster shot as a precaution and will be observed for 45 days.

Rabies is a deadly disease caused by a virus transmitted through the saliva of the infected animal by a bite or scratch. The species most likely to get the virus are raccoons, skunks, foxes, bats, dogs, and cats, as well as some farm animals.

All owners of dogs, cats, or ferrets are required to have their pet adequately vaccinated against rabies from the age of 4 months and up. Failure to comply with the Maryland law requiring current rabies vaccination is a misdemeanor offense punishable by a fine of up to $500.

Maryland With Pride

"What made our program unique was its proactive approach to ensuring and maintaining the safe environment of our schools and students," Lucas explained.

Through an ongoing dialogue, representatives from the schools and law enforcement set an agenda for creating emergency plans and guidelines. Educational forums were scheduled for the beginning of the 1999-2000 school year. "Presenters and educators met for seminars on various topics to increase awareness of school safety. These sessions were interactive, and everyone was able to voice opinions," Lucas said.

Principals and teachers from all school grade levels took part. "We had great input from all administrators and some very good staff development trainings through this program," Teets noted.

Lucas pointed out that the school superintendent was key to the positive results of the initiative. "It's a new program and I attribute a lot of its success to

Local Woman Injured When Car Overturns

Oakland resident Margaret J. Crawford, 46, was hospitalized Sunday, Dec. 17, following an accident on Sand Flat Road in which the vehicle she was driving overturned.

Crawford was operating a 1996 Chevrolet Blazer southbound on Sand Flat near Paradise Point Road at 1:05 p.m. when she apparently lost control of her vehicle on a curve, according to Maryland State Police from the McHenry barracks. The police also said that the road surface on which Crawford was traveling was snow covered at the time, and that high winds were reported.

Southern Rescue Squad transported Crawford to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted for treatment. Deer Park Fire Department was also on the scene. No charges have been filed by police.

DWI
James Lee Glover, 28, Addison, Pa., was arrested for driving while intoxicated on December 19.

In Memory of Joseph J. Connors

January 17, 1920 - December 21, 1999

It's been a year since you've been gone,
We know that you were ready to go home.
God has now heard your prayer,
But in our hearts you're always there.
We miss your smiling face, and heart of gold,
You're the best the world could ever hold.
Always loving, caring and kind,
You've left such precious memories behind.
We loved you then, we love you still,
But forget you, we never will.

Sadly missed and loved by,

*We sadly miss and forever love you;
so, we dedicate this to you.*

TO OUR DAD:

Of all the people in our lives, from beginning to the end, You've been a special blessing. Our dear and faithful Dad. You've filled our lives with laughter, shared sorrows, joys and tears. You've stood by us and held our hands and walked with us through the years. When we needed someone to listen, we knew you would always be there. When we weathered the storms of life, you were always the one who cared. So in this circle we call life, from the beginning to the end, we were blessed to have you as our Dad and also as a dear and faithful friend.

A Warm Feeling...

For the ninth year in a row, an anonymous donor in Friendsville purchased the food for 120 gift baskets at Thanksgiving for families in need.

The Oakland Rotary Project served a record 350 families this year, providing a total of over 20 tons of food and hundreds of gifts, most of which were donated or purchased with money that was donated.

Lou Stouffer, the area's "real" Santa Claus, is currently making his annual rounds, delivering hundreds of gifts that have been donated to him.

Over $19,000 was donated this year to the Warm Children project, allowing that effort to provide 230 children with needed clothing.

Those same Warm Children recipients were treated to a free movie, soft drinks, and popcorn by Garrett 8 Cinemas, and an anonymous donor bought the movie tickets for 40 adults who accompanied the children.

Children at Rt. 40 Elementary School donated a number of toys to the Dove Center this past week.

Another local kindergarten class responded to an article in this newspaper by "adopting" a lonely resident at Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home for the holidays, and probably for months to come.

First graders at Accident Elementary School made cards and angels for patients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Church congregations all over the county have been busy preparing food baskets and gifts for those known as "shut-ins."

There are many, many other examples of giving that could be shared.

Garrett County, like all communities, has its share of problems. But the never-ending outpouring of care and concern for the poor, the lonely, the abused, the sick, the disillusioned, and the distressed, from people of all ages and all walks of life, in a county that is labeled "economically depressed," is nothing short of astounding. So it is with an overwhelming, warm sense of pride that we wish our fellow Garrett Countians, and all of our readers, a blessed holiday and a healthy, prosperous new year.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I guess the best way to spread the word about a program dealing with letters to the editor of The Republican is to write a letter to The Republican. On December 29 and 30 at 8:00, January 5 and 6 at 8:00, and January 7 at 2:00, Our Town Theatre will present The Letters of Garrett County.

For several months now, given very busy people have been combing 130 years of former issues of our local paper in order to cull letters for the production. The letters the seven gleaners have chosen deal with all sorts of issues — humorous and serious — and they tend to define the people of Garrett County. The authors of the production are hundreds of people from the past; and the topics vary from the ridiculous to the sublime, as do the writing styles.

In this production, audiences will discover that the past was very different and yet very much like the present. They will find that the people of Garrett County are unique, yet they are very similar to all people everywhere. In a time of political upheaval and worldwide unrest, it is refreshing to touch base and, by doing so, to reaffirm our roots and their importance in the growth of our society and ourselves.

We at OTT suggest that this presentation is best suited to older teens as well as adults, and we strongly encourage reservations, which can be made by calling 301-334-5640. All tickets are $5. We hope to see you at the production.

Sincerely yours,

To the Editor:

Well, apparently it is over. Finally! The Supreme Court has ruled and we now have a new president. The sad truth is that candidate Bush, with his brother and Florida's attorney general, rallied around the state flag and proclaimed that the Florida recount was a state issue — until they lost in the state's supreme court. Then it was a federal issue. Now the court that is supposed to be "above" politics shows that it is made up of the same political hacks as the other branches of government. A sad day indeed. The integrity of our Supreme Court has always been something of an enigma in world courts, and now it is just another group of out-of-touch politicians putting forth their own agenda.

It does point out how divided our country has become. With more votes cast for Gore, more states won by Bush, a narrow Republican lead in the House of Representatives, and a Democratic Senate, we now add a 5/4 Supreme Court. The country is one of "haves" vs. "have-nots"; polluters vs. environmentalists; pro-life vs. pro-choice; big business vs. middle- and low-income families; gun insanity vs. gun control; elite education vs. public education; tax cuts vs. reduction of national debt; exclusivity vs. acceptance of cultural diversity. What this represents is a wide divergence of ideals and even solit. A very serious time in American history and one that must be delicately handled by the new administration. I hope the newly elected president is up to that challenge.

To the Editor:

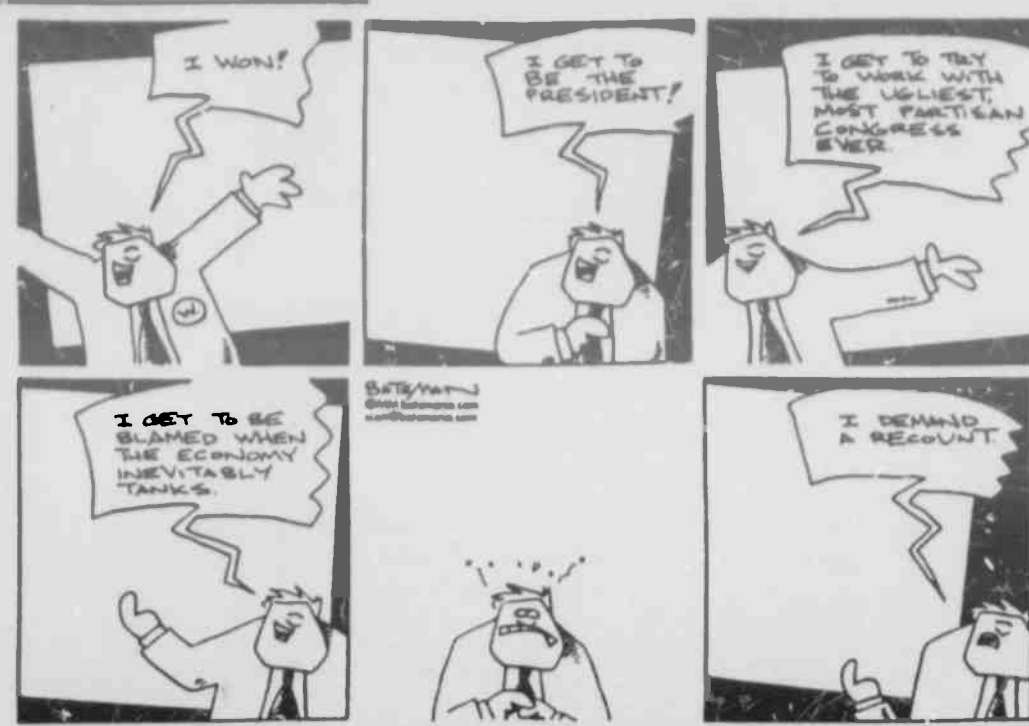

Since the end of November the Disney movie 102 Dalmatians has been playing in movie theaters nationwide. I write this letter as a plea to area parents who have taken or will be taking their youngsters to see this film. Please, if your children start nagging you about getting a dalmatian puppy this holiday season, do the wise thing and get them a plush toy dalmatian instead. Chances are you'll be doing everyone, especially the dalmatian, a big favor.

Over the past 10 months I have been involved in rescuing a number of great dogs, both pure- and mixed-breed from the Garrett County Animal Shelter for adoption through the Humane Society. When pure bred dogs are in jeopardy, I seek the assistance and expertise of specific breed rescues. By far, the rescues I have been in contact with the most have been the dalmatian rescues.

I transported my latest dalmatian rescue to Greensboro, N.C., via Fairfax, Va., this past Monday. She was a very sweet, very lucky dog. By Monday evening I found that yet another dalmatian had been dropped off at the shelter over the weekend. Like most of the others, he is about 2-3 years old — fallout from the last Disney movie-propelled dalmatian frenzy. I don't know that I can do anything for this dog, as rescuers are swamped with dogs in his same situation.

The decision to get a pet, any pet, is one I wish people would take more seriously. Animal shelters are full of people's sad, senseless, selfish, and irresponsible mistakes. All could be avoided if people realized that it takes time, money, effort, and commitment to successfully weave an animal into the fabric of a family. If that fabric is already stressed in any way, chances are that adding an animal to the mix will only make matters worse, especially for the animal.

A dalmatian, while a good breed for some households, is not the one that fits in well with all. These dogs are high-energy animals that require lots of companionship, training, and exercise — time-consuming stuff that all dogs require some degree of. Dalmatians are strong and active dogs, which may not be appropriate for households with young children (precisely the ones targeted through the media). They are a short-haired breed, best suited for life indoors during cold weather, and not chained outdoors to inadequately insulated doghouses, as so many tend to be. If shedding is a problem for some people, they should know these dogs leave little white hairs everywhere. Health problems to which dalmatians are prone include deafness, kidney stones, and skin disorders.

If, after thoughtful consideration, a dalmatian is definitely the breed of choice for a family, I urge them to think about acquiring a dog through a dalmatian rescue. These dogs, available in all ages, will come already spayed or neutered, with all their shots and most usually housebroken. They are thoroughly evaluated for pre-existing health problems, if any, and are checked for temperament or behavioral problems. Shelters where staff have the opportunity to evaluate their dogs can also be a good source. Reputable breeders should be sought out if a puppy is needed. Again, take time to check out the situation. Veterinarians, the Internet, and kennel clubs can be a big help.

Puppy mills, which crank out the "breeds du jour" for pet stores all over the country, abound in our area, unfortunately, and should be avoided at all cost. These breeders are notorious for keeping their animals in substandard, inhumane conditions, where disease and physical problems flourish. Beware of the breeder who refuses to allow you to see one or both of the parents. Chances are they are hiding something. Finally, stay away from back yard breeders, who are trying to recoup some of the money they spent on their dog by breeding it. They know as much about breeding as you know about luteifex.

To the Editor:

This is in reply to Letter to the Editor dtd. 12/14 by Sandy Irving of Oakland. Yes, there is a law ref. putting snow into the street. See: Maryland Transportation Article Sec. 21-1111 — Putting glass, injurious substances, or refuse on highway or bridge or in waters prohibited.

Sub Section (b) states: Any person who drops, throws, or places or permits to be dropped, thrown, or placed on a highway any destructive, hazardous, or injurious material immediately shall remove it or cause it to be removed.

This is considered a "moving violation," and any person who violates this section can be issued a citation (driving or not) by any local police officer. You would be summoned into court to testify against the violator if the officer did not witness the violation himself.

So, there is a law. In the future you should call your local police trooper station/hqts. for an answer to your traffic law related question(s).

committed to building the white-water course for use as a training facility and for Olympic competition should the Washington-Baltimore 2012 Olympic bid be successful. This commitment was contained in the state's Olympic Bid Committee's submission to the United States Olympic Committee.

With the possibility of the construction of this facility that will bring international attention to Maryland, state officials, including Governor Parris Glendening and Speaker of the House Casper Taylor, are thus far supporting the plan, which involves the financial participation of both the public and private sector. Delegate George Edwards reported this week that $6 million of the required $18 million has been secured.

As was previously reported, the county commissioners have pledged an amount of $250,000 per year for five years in capital funds, and $100,000 per year in operational money, also for five years. Edwards said Program Open Space funds are expected to be provided for the project in the amount of $500,000 per year for four to five years, and DC Development LLC has agreed to provide what will amount to about $1 per user of the complex, or $150,000-$200,000 per year, for an undetermined number of years.

There is a federal funding opportunity that, if supported by D.C. officials, will afford another $1.5 million to the project. Mikulski has already publicly stated that she will endorse the federal allotment, and said Wednesday at the commissioners' meeting that she will pen her letter of support within 72 hours of the arrival of ASCI's application for the money.

Edwards, Hinebaugh, Myers, and several other involved officials traveled to Annapolis on Dec. 7 and pitched the entire plan to

by Jeffrey Wilson

A WONDROUS SIGHT

On Christmas Day there will be a partial solar eclipse which, where the sky is clear, will be visible in the entire lower 48. Here in the East the eclipse will be at its deepest in the hour after noon, about 60 percent. The new moon will occur at 12:22 p.m.

In the ancient and middle ages such an occurrence would have been regarded as a supernatural sign. Since the days of Copernicus, the movements of heavenly bodies have increasingly become understood as natural and not supernatural events.

One very positive result is that astrology has come to be understood for the superstition that it is. At the same time, astronomy and cosmology have become highly sophisticated natural sciences. Whatever can be said against the Church in relation to Galileo, once it figured out that astronomy and astrology are two different things, the Church has affirmed the former and repudiated the latter.

I suspect that more than one preacher will stand in the pulpit this coming Lord's Day, which is also Christmas Eve, and comment upon the impending eclipse in relation to that star which appeared in the East and which led the magi to Bethlehem in their search for a new king. I shall be among that number.

Once we have affirmed astronomy, repudiated astrology, and reflected upon the magi, what is there to say then? One of my favorite psalms (19) begins, "The heavens declare the glory of God."

I read that psalm in the context of Christmas. The Psalmist calls the sun, "...a bridegroom coming out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a strong man to run a race." The early church fathers often likened Christ to the sun. In the English-speaking world, poets and theologians alike have long played with the homonyms "sun" and "son."

It is, then, not just the star of Bethlehem that gives this preacher pause, but a consistent witness throughout scripture that what we now regard as the mechanism of the universe preaches the gospel of Christ.

At one level there is meaning simply through association. If we have a clear viewing of the eclipse, then, no doubt, for the rest of our lives, we shall remember Christmas 2000 as the eclipse Christmas.

In his Namias Chronicles, C.S. Lewis has the children meet an old man who informs them that he is a star. One of the children — a well-educated modern child — explains his surprise, because where he comes from, a star is a great fiery mass of gas. The old man replies, "Even in your world a star is more than that."

A star is more than just a great, fiery mass of gas, but just what it is I find difficult, and perhaps impossible, to say. "The world is not stranger than you think," one physicist observed, "it is stranger than you can think."

There are occasional people to whom is given the gift of understanding the significance of mechanical events in the natural world. The magi were among them. What is clear is that such understanding is a gift, and is not subject to being summoned.

Someone may rightly point out that the magi were certainly astrologers. The proof that their finding Jesus was a gift of divine illumination and not the subject of their astrologizing is that they were apparently the only astrologers out of all the many, many astrologers of that day who went looking for Jesus, let alone who found him.

The Psalmist tells us that "There is no speech nor language, where their voice," the voice of heavenly bodies, "is not heard." He does not say, however, that we understand the language of celestial mechanics. Later in the same psalm, he prays, "Keep back thy servant from presumptuous sins." The sin of presumption is thinking that we understand what we do not and perhaps cannot.

We shall have a Christmas eclipse. Such an event on Christmas in the year of grace 2000 may mean something, but we do well to beware of those who tell us with certainty what that something is. A safer, humbler course is to behold the wonder, and to permit it to fix in our minds the happy events of this year's celebration of our Saviour's birth.

the governor, asking him to allot the remaining $12 million for the project, either in one lump sum, or $4 million for the next three years, "or however he wants to provide it," Edwards said.

"Our strategic plan and financial outlook shows that the state will recoup that money in a short time through the increased tax base," Edwards said. "We think the complex will be self-sustaining in just five years, and the investment is going to prove very valuable to everyone."

While Edwards expects some residents to voice complaints about the proposed expenditure of public funds on the project, he stressed that the bulk of it is being fueled by private resources, with over 95% of the development costs to be raised by the private sector. He also stated that the benefits of such a complex will be immense for Garrett Countians, coming in the form of an expanded tax base that will provide more county money for schools and roads, job opportunities, and greatly enhanced recreational/arts activities for young residents.

"Yes, we want to attract the tourists here, but we chiefly want to provide something for our own population," Edwards said, pointing out that a number of jobs will be created at the complex, and that local athletic groups, such as ski clubs, arsenal soccer, and swim teams, will be charged reduced rates to use the facilities. In separate interviews, Myers and Hinebaugh both echoed that sentiment.

"I have children, too, who live here in the county, and it's extremely important to me that we gear most of this toward our own people," Hinebaugh said. "We do want to increase our tourism, but it's more important to almost all the players in this project that we focus on our own county's needs."

Edwards also pointed out that the center will be a hub for information about local businesses. "For example, if someone comes to train on the white-water course, that person will then be directed to the local white-water businesses," he said.

In addition to the sports aspect of the complex, the plan includes a "village" development to support commercial, cultural, and arts-related activities. A performing arts center and an outdoor amphitheater, suitable for summer concerts and performances, are planned, as well as a hotel/conference center and a new ski lodge.

The construction of the amphitheater has long been planned for Deep Creek Lake State Park, but has been delayed year after year. This is the same amphitheater now to be built in the proposed complex, Edwards said.

At the task force meeting, the project was given a boost by the findings of the Western Maryland Strategic Plan for Tourism, a report compiled by Cary Summers, chairman and chief executive of the hired consulting group Adventure Legacy and Legends. Summers said that the western Maryland region currently "has what is hot in the country today," which is adventure sports opportunities and cultural heritage. The further development and promotion of adventure sports is supported by Summers in his 161-page report. Summers was hired by the task force for $75,000 to study the area's tourism amenities and to explore ways of enhancing the promotion of western Maryland.

Causing Unrest

ently in rural areas," he said.

Sharon Schwalm, another resident, said she could have easily read a book by the bright light shining into her kitchen. The question was raised about the height of the lights, which Buck Trautwein and Frank Knight asserted was possibly in violation of the town zoning ordinance. Moon said he didn't know if the lights were in violation, but that he would be surprised if the contractor had overlooked any zoning rule.

Because Wal-Mart is within the Oakland town limits, the enforcement of the zoning ordinance is the responsibility of the mayor and town council. McCain reported yesterday that he was looking into the height regulations, and later reported that while buildings are restricted to 35 feet in height, adjoining structures such as chimneys, spires, and other objects "not devoted to human occupancy" are not height-regulated. He said he assumes that the light poles would fall into that category.

McCain said he drove out to the site Monday night after receiving calls of complaint.

"I was actually pleasantly surprised by the lights," McCain said. "I thought they were providing a very pleasant light over the whole area." He said the lights at the site are the type that the town council asked Wal-Mart to use. "They point directly down," he said.

However, the lights that are apparently causing the problem are those that shine on the Wal-Mart sign. These are more horizontal.

"I did see how they were shining into Frankie's [Knight] house, and it really was unbearable," McCain said. "There is a regulation in the zoning ordinance that disallows lights to shine onto adjoining property. But the mayor said he drove around the area of the Trautwein and Schwalm homes and felt the light was not obtrusive."

"There's going to be a change, for sure, but there's a difference between lighting an area and shining into an area," McCain said. "It's just going to be lighter now at night on that hillside."

McCain said he spoke with Jack Demshire, the contractor, who told him the sign lights have not been properly angled, and that it is too cold and windy for anyone to climb up to do it yet. "They [Wal-Mart] have been extremely cooperative with the town," McCain said. "I don't believe in panicking until you can see what can be done about things. I think people are reacting too soon, and over-reacting, too."

In the meeting Tuesday, Trautwein noted that he had written to the Wal-Mart corporation months ago to express his concern over various problems with the Oakland store, but he had received no response.

In another development yesterday, Moon contacted the commissioners to report that shields are being installed on the lights that were concerning the residents, and that the speaker noise can be eliminated without difficulty. He also noted, however, that the area where residents requested the pine trees be planted is not conducive to planting, as it is mostly rock.

Over 1,100 persons have applied for work at the new store, which is slated to open by the end of February, Moon reported. About 300 people will be hired, with starting wages ranging from $5.40 "all the way up to $7 or $8," he said. The screening process for hiring can involve up to four or even five interviews, Moon noted. "But people shouldn't think they automatically aren't going to be hired if they're only interviewed."

THE EMPEROR'S NEW GROOVE

Rated G - Running Time: 1:19 - Released 12/15/00
 Disney can never seem to miss these days when it comes to animated features, and Mark Dindal's The Emperor's New Groove is the latest in the chain of Mouse House productions to prove this point. It's cute, it's funny, it teaches a lesson, and it features well-realized characterizations by well-known actors. This time, the lead role is played by the ultra-sarcastic David Spade, nicely counterpointed by the always reliable John Goodman, and the script by Dindal, Roger Allers, and several others is programmed to exploit the talents of these two actors as well as that of Eartha Kitt and Seinfeld's Patrick Warburton as the diabolical but clumsy villainess and her thick-necked, common sense challanged assistant. Like Tarzan, the film has none of the traditional Disney musical numbers, but features the music of one of rock's most well-known songwriters. In that film it was Phil Collins, this time, it's Sting.

Kuzco (voice of Spade) is the young emperor of some Mezzo-American country several hundred years ago (as with most kids' movies, the period setting is a tad muddled). Apparently with no parents and no authority figures around him to squelch his style, Kuzco relishes his kingly hfe, even planning to build a fabulous summer home called "Kuzcotopia" on a beautiful hilltop near the palace. This is unfortunate for Pacha (Goodman), a poor villager and herder of llamas, because his house sits precisely on the site of the future royal playground. When Pacha goes to the emperor to ask where he and his neighbors are supposed to live, Kuzco answers characteristically: "Um...don't know, don't care."

What Kuzco also does not know is that his lead advisor Yzma (Kitt) has plans to take over the kingdom by poisoning the young ruler and assuming power herself. But because of a mixup with the potion prepared by her trusty sidekick Kronk (Warburton), the emperor doesn't die when he drinks the stuff, instead, he turns into a llama. However, he escapes the palace and disappears into the countryside, where he again meets up with Pacha. Now, despite their initial disagreement, the two must work together to return the emperor to his rightful throne and save the kingdom from Yzma's evil clutches.

This is a classic buddy movie, and each actor is staying strictly close to his established range of character. The scriptwriters obviously tailored the text to Spade's ascerbic style, and he is right at home playing a spoiled twentysomething. Goodman is also very comfy playing the straight man with the heart of gold, and Warburton occasionally steals the scene as the nonchalant but devoted Kronk. The script doesn't exactly sparkle the way many recent Disney cartoons have, however, and the animation, while perfectly serviceable, is not particularly dazzling, either. For some reason, this film feels rushed through, like the conventional animation pictures are becoming a kind of filler between the computer-animated Pixar releases. This film doesn't hold a candle to A Bug's Life or the Toy Story movies, of course, but even up against older films like Aladdin and Beauty And The Beast it seems a bit lacking, even from the standpoint of screenplay or characterization. It's not bad, it's just not astounding. This is perhaps the curse of producing the kind of top-notch films Disney has become associated with: once that level is reached, it becomes expected, and while New Groove would have been a groundbreaking masterpiece 10 years ago, by today's standards it seems somewhat...pedestrian. ****

DUDE, WHERE'S MY CAR?

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:24 - Released 12/15/00
 For Ashton Kutcher, the 21-year-old former Iowa University biochem student who landed the part of Michael Kelso on the popular TV sitcom That '70s Show, one could almost say that his career prospects are so bright, he has nowhere to go but up. And yet, surprisingly, his first starring film role is in one of the stupidest movies of 2000. The only thing more stupid than Danny Leiner's Dude, Where's My Car? was the idea to release it in December, up against all the Oscar contenders, instead of a month later with the rest of the cinema filler. This is a January release if I ever saw one.

Written by '70s Show story editor Philip Stark, Dude, Where's My Car? plays like a lamer version of an old Cheech & Chong movie. I would think the only market sector who would find this funny would be pot smokers currently in the process of smoking pot. It is, in fact, about pot smokers, although during the entire duration of the film, they do not imbibe. The action takes place the morning after a huge party where Jesse (Kutcher) and Chester (Seann William Scott, American Pie) got so wasted, they don't remember a thing. Including the location of Jesse's car.

As the boys set out to find the vehicle, which, they think, contains the awesome anniversary presents they were going to give their virginal twin girlfriends (Jennifer Garner, Marla Sokoloff), they find themselves pursued by aliens, thugs, would-be alien abductees, a cross-dressing stripper, and a group of "hot chicks" similar to those found in Robert Palmer videos, most of whom are seeking a device called the "continuum transfunctioner," which apparently could destroy or save the universe depending on whose hands it falls into. Although this huge group of pursuers forces Jesse & Chester into many misadventures, all they really want is to find Jesse's car and deliver the presents, so they may receive their girlfriends' "special treats," which, they think, is sex.

This movie tries to be funny. It succeeds about 15 percent of the time. The other 85 percent is filled with repetitive jokes that go on too long (in one scene, the title is repeated for what seems like about 5 minutes non-stop), lame sight gags, and idiotic characterizations. Despite cameo appearances by people like Fabio, Andy Dick, Star Trek's Brent Spiner, and "Stuttering" John Melendez (of the Howard Stern show), Dude is akin to Next Friday in its marijuana-inspired humor. I guess everything is funny when you're high. So remember that, all you stoners out there, when it comes out on video. ★½

WHAT WOMEN WANT

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:06 - Released 12/15/00
 The premise for What Women Want sounds like, and is, the dumbest thing going. Picture it: a playboy who treats women like servants and sex objects receives an electrical shock that suddenly enables him to hear what the women around him are thinking. Sounds like an episode of The Flintstones. But the actual film, by chick-flick writer/producer Nancy Meyers, whose only directing credit before this is 1998's The Parent Trap, is, I must admit, better than the sum of its parts. Oh, don't get me wrong — the premise is still absurd to the point of insulting the intelligence. But the relationship work between hunk cutout Mel Gibson and leading lady cutout Helen Hunt is surprisingly engaging given their respective handicaps from an acting standpoint.

What's surprising is that in a women's film, directed

Garners Bid

man commented, noting that several past bid reviews had proven unsuccessful. "We're looking forward to construction of this state-of-the-art facility in Garrett County, which will further the development of an information technology sector of our local economy."

Invisioned as an "incubator" center, the GIEC will be able to house as many as 17 small information intensive companies which could provide as many as 85 new high-tech jobs in the county. It will draw on support services from the college, the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative, and the Small Business Development Center, among other local sources.

A business that locates at the center will be subject to an automatic rent structure that will keep space costs very low for the first two years as the company grows, then in the third year the rent will be increased to match the local marketplace rent value. The escalating rent structure is designed to ensure that start-up businesses can devote more of their profits to ensure their own survival and growth over the first two years, then encourage them to relocate into the general marketplace after two years. At that time another start-up business would be able to apply for that vacated GIEC space.

The final GIEC contract award is subject to the approval of the Economic Development Administration, the Maryland Board of Public Works, and the GCC board of trustees. If approved, construction is expected to start early this coming spring and conclude in early 2002.

Safely Home

"I am home in heaven, dear ones;
Oh, so happy and so bright!
There is perfect joy and beauty
In this everlasting light.
All the pain and grief is over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in heaven at last."

There is working still waiting for you,
So you must not idly stand;
Do it now, while life remaineth...
You shall rest in God's own land.
When that work is all completed,
He will gently call you "Home";
Oh, the rapture of that meeting,
Oh, the joy to see you come!

We miss her very much. The Family

Healthy Living

in Garrett County

S.T.E.A.M. PROGRAM COMMENDS MERCHANTS — Members of the Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors (S.T.E.A.M.) program, along with outreach staff of the Garrett County Health Department, visited stores across the county recently to provide merchants with information and education on how their employees can avoid mistakenly selling tobacco products to minors. The group also worked to ensure that cashiers always request customer IDs to check on ages. "We were impressed by what a good job merchants and their employees do to keep tobacco out of the hands of youth," stated Garrett County Health Department outreach worker Michael Gibbons. "Most of the businesses supported the efforts of the S.T.E.A.M. students, and they should be praised. One of the businesses was the Arrowhead Market, where the above photo was taken. From the left are S.T.E.A.M. members Amanda Frantz and Courtney Reash, Arrowhead cashier Diane Alexander, Gibbons, and Arrowhead manager Karen Clapper.

Protecting Health, Welfare Of Garrett County's Older Citizens

by June Heselbach,
Ombudsman, Area Agency on Aging

The holidays are a time of high stress and anxiety in many people. Some of the most vulnerable during this time are the elderly. It is for this reason that the Area Agency on Aging feels the need to share again with our community some facts about elder abuse/mistreatment.

While the term "elder abuse and neglect" is commonly used to describe the commission or omission of acts that result in harm or threatened harm to the health or welfare of an older adult, many authorities prefer to use the term "elder mistreatment." Mistreatment of an elderly person may include physical, psychological, or financial abuse or neglect, and it may be intentional or unintentional. Intentional mistreatment involves a conscious and deliberate attempt to inflict harm or injury, such as verbal abuse or battering. Unintentional mistreatment occurs when an action inadvertently results in harm to the elderly person. Unintentional mistreatment usually results from ignorance, inexperience, or a lack of ability or desire of the caretaker to provide proper care.

It is difficult to obtain accurate information on the extent of elder abuse because many cases are unreported. Often, victims may be embarrassed, intimidated, or overwhelmed by the situation. They may be fearful of reprisals or unaware of the availability of help. In some cases, victims may not realize that they are being mistreated.

Family violence, usually a behavior learned by an individual as a repercussion of witnessing or being a victim of abuse, is often repeated as that individual deals with stress in a like manner.

Many elderly have functional or cognitive disabilities, thus increasing their dependency, vulnerability, and risk for abuse or neglect. In many instances the caretaker may be dependent, especially economically, on the older person. This dependency may lead to resentment and, when combined with other factors, may predispose one to mistreatment. Although the caregiver's role is inherently stressful, outside situations such as economic pressures, lack of community support, or increasing care needs may heighten tension and produce frustrations that lead to abusive behavior.

There are many other factors to be considered in cases of elder abuse. These issues will be discussed in subsequent articles.

For information on this or other issues concerning the elderly, persons may call Community Action Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8408.

"Sock It To Me" Project To Warm The Frail Elderly

To help keep Garrett County's frail elderly citizens warmer and healthier this winter, Community Action Area Agency on Aging is coordinating the "Sock It To Me" project to collect socks to be given to residents of nursing homes and senior citizens who receive home-delivered meals and home care services.

Boxes have been placed in several locations, where donations of new socks for these elderly people may be placed. They need not be gift-wrapped because the staff at the Area Agency on Aging will wrap them.

Collection boxes with signs saying "Sock It To Me" may be found in the following Oakland businesses: Rudy's Clothing Store, Marvin's Men's Wear, Family Dollar, and Dollar General. In addition, boxes have been placed at the senior centers in Oakland, Accident, Friendsville, and Grantsville.

GCMH SCHOOL TO CAREER PARTICIPANTS — Three Southern High School seniors, Cara Stayer, left, and Chelsea Stuck, have been participating in the "School To Career" Program at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The students, both of whom are interested in pursuing careers in the health industry, gained valuable experience by volunteering a portion of their school day in the hospital's sub-acute care unit. "It's an excellent experience and has opened my mind to many possibilities in the industry," commented Stuck, who aspires to be a pediatrician. Stayer, who would like to become a physical therapist, added, "It has been a great experience that will ultimately help me reach my future goals." While the hospital has maintained a role in several local educational efforts such as the Student Health Careers program and the College and Me program, and by offering tours to first graders through the Children's Hospital Orientation Program, Stayer and Stuck are the first students to volunteer at the hospital through the School to Career program.

Increase In Rate Of Diabetes In State Seen As "Wake-Up Call"

by Barbara Burnham
Capital News Service

A startling increase in diabetes cases in Maryland should serve as a "wake-up call" to younger Marylanders that they need to change unhealthy habits now, state health officials recently said.

Obesity and unhealthy lifestyles contributed to a 70 percent increase in diabetes cases among individuals 30-39 years old across the country, according to health experts, who said they are most troubled by the increase in those diabetes cases among adults also called Type II diabetes.

Diabetes cases overall rose by more than 30 percent in the United States from 1990 to 1998, according to the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and by more than 35 percent in Maryland.

Earl Schurman of Maryland Division of Diabetes Control called the increase in Type II cases "very disconcerting." In 1997, diabetes cost the state about $2.7 billion, and the state now faces the possibility of spending even more money on an ailment that could be prevented by proper diet and exercise. "It is going to create a huge overload on the healthcare system," said Schurman.

In 1997, more than 210,000 adults in Maryland were diagnosed with diabetes, about 5.5 percent of the population, according to CDC statistics. The CDC study also reported an apparent link between the prevalence of diabetes and the number of obese people in a given area. Health officials blame some of the increase on lifestyle changes over the past few years. "I think clearly this is a mandate to take a look at the correlation between lifestyle and diabetes," Schurman said.

"Day-to-day activities just aren't as physical anymore. We can do things on-line now that we weren't able to do before," said Mary Kay Sones, health communication specialist for the CDC, noting that people can even avoid the light exertion of pushing a shopping cart by buying their groceries on-line.

Another contributing factor is that many school lunches are high in fat, Schurman said. Physicians and healthcare practitioners expect to see the most common form of diabetes, Type II, in individuals past age 40. Diabetes often leads to additional complications such as heart disease and non-healing leg or foot ulcers.

Healthcare officials have said that all they can do is expand their teaching efforts and hope the message "kicks in." Maryland officials expect to begin focusing on the benefits of proper diet and exercise, as well as the correlation between obesity and diabetes for all age groups in the future. "We're kind of being told by CDC to expand our focus," said Schurman.

Even though they said the CDC report will have the benefit of spurring renewed action against diabetes, officials indicated the study had some faults. "It could be a situation where, in the past, the numbers may have been under-reported," said Marty Schaefer of the American Diabetes Association, Maryland chapter.

Another reason for the state's relatively high increase may be the fact that the state has a disproportionately higher number of African-Americans than the rest of the country, Schurman said. African-Americans, who tend to be more predisposed to diabetes, make up 25 percent of Maryland's population compared to about 13 percent of the U.S. population. On the other hand, both the authors of the study and some officials believe the numbers could actually be higher.

The survey, published in September, was based on phone interviews. But officials note that individuals without telephones tend to be of lower socioeconomic status, which is also mostly associated with diabetes and obesity. Ten states were not included in the study because of insufficient data.

In memory of my husband,
Harold Lipscomb
at Christmas.

A million times I needed you.
A million times I have cried.
A million times I hear you say,
Don't cry ... Everything will be OK.
A million times I hear you say,
Keep God in your life and pray,
And he will see you through all the bad times.
And some day we will be together again.
Until then, just remember all the good yesterday's we have had.
Merry Christmas.

by a woman and written by a team with a two-to-one woman majority (Josh Goldsmith, Cathy Yuspa, Diane Drake), about the issue of seeing things from the woman's perspective, has such pathetically stupid parts for women. All the females in the cast except Hunt are as two-dimensional as can be; it's as if Meyers is challenging us to respect these people. Talented actresses like Bette Midler, Ana Gasteyer, and Marisa Tomei (whose high point is faking an orgasm) are cast in utterly disposable, depth-challenged roles, and the "thoughts" we hear from them (and this includes Hunt) are so shallow and insipid that I would think women would be outraged. This is what they're supposed to be thinking? But I digress.

In the opening minutes, Nick Marshall (Gibson) is described as a "man's man" (on behalf of men everywhere, thanks a lot). He's a deadbeat dad and a sexist who orders coffee from his co-workers, cons his cleaning lady into making him breakfast, and slaps the butt of any female within butt-slapping distance. But for some reason, they all act like they love him, presumably because he's so gorgeous and also the best salesman in his Chicago advertising firm, Sloane/Curtis. Although he thinks he's up for the promotion to creative director, it goes instead to a transfer from a competing company, Darcy Maguire (Hunt), who is known as a "man-eating bitch." Darcy and Nick don't exactly see eye to eye, but she is hired by Nick's panicked boss (Alan Alda) to help the company get inside "the woman's psyche" and revive its slumping sales figures. Next, Nick has his electrical, instant-psychic, Hanna-Barbera-esque experience, and suddenly can read the mind of anyone who owns a uterus. So he uses this talent to steal Darcy's ideas, causing her to think they're just on the same wavelength all the time and fall in love with him.

As stupid as all this sounds, and is, once the film moves from Gibson hearing women's thoughts about him ("he's such a jerk, but what a sweet ass") to the developing relationship between him and Hunt, it is really not so terrible. It's almost like two separate films. The first half includes tons of supposed female-pleasing shlock, like a time-wasting musical number with Gibson dancing to a Frank Sinatra tune, and him getting the woman's perspective by trying everything from bikini wax to a Wonder Bra. But later, when he actually begins relating to Hunt (and to his teenage daughter), it can be intelligent, touching, and heartwarming. ★★★ to its WFWM tower on Dan's Mountain. Verizon, which owns the property, also gave permission for the use of the site.

Radio Coming

The Frostburg transmitter is being installed and should begin broadcasting weather warnings in January. The broadcast will serve Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties in Maryland; Somerset, Bedford, and Fulton counties in Pennsylvania; and Mineral, Hampshire, Grant, Harford, and northeastern Tucker counties in West Virginia.

Western Maryland has seen its share of hazardous weather in recent years, from floods to landslides to a violent tornado. These events clearly indicated a need for NOAA Weather Radio coverage in the region," stated an NOAA spokesperson.

NOAA Weather Radio is a 24-hour, 7-day-a-week weather information broadcast. Its most important feature is a special alert — a tone and a digital burst — that tells listeners that a hazard warning is about to be broadcast. This digital burst alert is sent to television and radio broadcasters to activate their Emergency Alert System (EAS).

Weather radios, which are special receivers for NOAA broadcasts, can be purchased at electronics stores or through catalogs. "Weather radios can wake you up at night if a flood or tornado is coming. Receivers programmed to use the digital burst can be set to alert you only when warnings are issued for your county," stated the spokesperson.

For more information on NOAA Weather Radio, persons may visit the web site at <http://www.nws.noaa.gov/nwr/> or contact Barbara Watson at the National Weather Service at 703-260-0107, ext. 223.

GRANTSVILLE

The town meeting was held Monday, Dec. 18.

- The mayor presented the Maryland Municipal League book Incorporated Cities and Towns in Maryland to the Ruth Enlow library in Grantsville.

- The new water line from Negro Mountain will be in operation by the first of the year.

- Christmas tree recycling will be on January 6. Trees can be dropped off in back of the town building.

The next town meeting will be Monday, Jan. 15.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Wednesday, Dec. 13.

- The council members agreed to ask the county for a tax differential this year, in lieu of a trade in services.

- There was some discussion among the council members on the subject of installing a sign to identify the veterans park. The council decided to explore sources for funding, and to work with several veterans' organizations to determine what type of sign would be appropriate.

- Glenn Tolbert will work with the owners of the C.P. Martin store to achieve compliance with the Mtn. Lake Park sign ordinance.

- A resident suggested the establishment of a historic district within the town. This concept will be studied further.

The next town meeting will be Wednesday, Jan. 10.

Two Traffic Stops Result In Drug Busts

Garrett County sheriff's deputies on routine patrol made two separate traffic stops this week that resulted in the arrests of five individuals on drug charges when suspected marijuana was located in the respective vehicles.

Last night at approximately 10:57 p.m. a marked sheriff's cruiser was traveling north on Garrett Highway in the McHenry area. Near Pysell Road the deputy's cruiser and another northbound vehicle were forced off the roadway by a recklessly operated southbound vehicle.

Upon stopping the southbound vehicle the deputy detected the odor of suspected burnt marijuana emanating from its passenger compartment. A search of the vehicle and its occupants, a 17-year-old Westernport juvenile who had been driving and two passengers, a 16-year-old Barton juvenile and 18-year-old Mark Kevin Hitt II of Westernport, uncovered suspected marijuana and drug paraphernalia. A quantity of U.S. currency was also seized.

Each of the men were arrested: the juvenile driver faces charges of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession, driving while intoxicated (DWI), reckless driving, failure to drive right of center, and violating a license restriction, while Hitt and the other passenger face charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Hitt was subsequently released from the Garrett County Detention Center following his appearance before a district court commissioner. The two juveniles are being processed by the Department of Juvenile Justice.

A deputy patrolling Spring Glade Road Saturday morning stopped a vehicle driving on the wrong side of the roadway near Pergin Farm Road shortly after 2:30 a.m. Under questioning, the driver, Tony Lynn Hebb, 19, Terra Alta, W.Va., admitted to having a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe in the car.

When the items were retrieved Hebb and his passenger, Rodney Lee Moreland, 19, Deer Park, were each charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. An additional driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs charge was filed against Hebb, who failed sobriety testing.

Hebb was later released from jail when he posted a $500 bond, while Moreland was released on his own recognizance.

In other sheriff's news, an Oakland man was arrested for refusing to turn down the music in his apartment shortly before midnight Monday night. William Harry Madigan, 40, would not comply with several requests made by deputies, who had visited his apartment twice during the course of the night. Madigan was released on his own recognizance after his arrest.

DWI/DUIs

In addition to the arrests cited above, several other individuals were charged with DWI or DUI by sheriff's deputies this week. They were: Joseph Junior DeWitt Jr., 61, Terry Lenn Lantz, 40, and Richard Bevan Orr II, 22, all of Oakland; and Steven Gene Weaver, 40, Mtn. Lake Park.

Gilpins Share

the process," Donna explained. One of the physicians suggested that the Gilpins begin looking for a donor among relatives. Blood tests are used to screen for possible donors by comparing six blood antigens of the donor and recipient, Donna said.

When Ken's family members learned of his search to find a kidney donor, several of his siblings agreed to begin the testing program for organ compatibility. And the initial results were exciting for the Gilpins. "My brother Grady was the one. Six out of six antigens matched," Ken said.

Following the initial tests, Grady submitted to several other forms of health assessments during the ensuing months. The final battery of screenings took place at Johns Hopkins University Hospital in August 1999. "That is when they discovered that Grady had an aortic aneurism," Ken recalled.

This discovery may well have saved Grady's life. However, he could no longer be considered a kidney donor for his brother Ken. "We were talking about this situation and I just casually said, 'Well, you can have one of mine,'" Donna said. Blood tests had already shown Donna to have a 3 out of 6 antigen match with Ken, and further tests would show it was actually 4 of 6.

"Ken was concerned about this. But I told him it was really my decision to make," Donna said. The children, Kara, a college freshman, and Toby, a high school student, were also rather apprehensive about both of their parents being in surgery at the same time.

"I remember the day of the surgery last year, December 21. I was the first one in the house awake. I thought, 'This is the day the Lord hath made, let us rejoice and be glad,'" Donna recalled. She knew that family, friends, and church members were praying for them, and she felt very calm.

Surgery went smoothly. Laproscopically, Donna's kidney was removed and taken to Ken's operating room. It was transplanted and soon began to function.

By Christmas Eve, Donna and Ken Gilpin were at home with their family.

This year, Ken suggested they go out to dinner and celebrate the anniversary of the very successful surgery. "At first I hesitated. Everything is so busy at this time of year. But then I said 'Yes. Let's celebrate.' So that's what we're going to do."

Donna now always wears her organ donor green ribbon pin. "People come up to me all the time and ask what the pin means. I tell them it is a reminder that 50,000 people are awaiting organ transplants. People need to sign that donor card. But maybe more importantly, they need to tell family members that they want to donate their organs," Donna said.

This Christmas, a healthy Ken and Donna will join their children in celebrating a season of giving and receiving with love.

We should be sharing this day together,
Like all the Christmases before.
Holding each other close,
Cherishing every word.
With cards that said, "I Love You."
Memories of our life together,
Still unleash a million tears.
Our favorite song on the radio,
A load of logs, your special flowers.
The mention of your name,
The dreams I awake from each morning,
All take me down memory lane.
One day soon, we will meet again.
No more tears will cloud my eyes,
And we'll spend eternity together

one, or that they are definitely going to be hired if they're interviewed three times," he said.

Moon said numerous local residents currently work at area Wal-Mart stores, and now will be able to work closer to home. He also asserted that while owners of established businesses in Garrett County worry about being hurt by the store, they should consider that a large number of residents currently travel out of town to shop. He said the store records at nearby Wal-Marts, such as in Keyser, W.Va., and La-Vale, show that about 20% of the shoppers have a 21550 zip code.

"So now these people can shop at home," he said. "And they'll be more likely to eat at local restaurants and patronize other local businesses."

Moon is from Missouri, not far from Wal-Mart's national headquarters. He and his family resided in Grafton, W.Va., for one year, where he helped start a Wal-Mart, and plan now to stay in Garrett County, he said.

GARRETT 8 CINEMAS OPENS DOORS TO CHILDREN — All children who received the benefits of Warm the Children this year received another treat from some generous local people, Garrett 8 Cinemas, and Smiley's Pizzeria. Linda Thomas, a volunteer for Warm the Children, decided in the fall that she would like to take all the Warm the Children kids to a movie. When she talked with owner Greig Johnson about the idea, he offered to give a special showing of two holiday movies and allow the children in for free. The idea blossomed over the weeks, and finally, on Saturday, Dec. 16, over 140 children and 40 adults came to a 10 a.m. showing of How the Grinch Stole Christmas and The Emperor's New Groove. Initially, the parents were asked to pay just $3 each for their tickets, but an anonymous donor came forward and paid the entire entry fee for the grown-ups as well. The staff, some of whom are pictured above, volunteered their time without pay Saturday morning to help distribute free popcorn and soda to all the children. Pictured from left are Zachary Shay, the "boss"; Louis Newcomb, projectionist; Thomas, coordinator of the event; Elaine Jamison; Brenda Hackett, cinema manager; and Bea Shaw. Not present for the photo were Debbie Feinstein and Johnson. Jonathan "Smiley" Kesler also took part in the event by handing out tokens for free games of Lazer Tag and half-off coupons for kids' meals at Smiley's Fun Zone. Thomas, who gave candy canes to the children as they left the theatre, said the day "made" her Christmas. "I enjoyed this so much — I think this meant more to me than giving presents to my own family. The children were so excited and so well-behaved, and Greig was very, very gracious. I hope everyone had as much fun as I did." The staff of The Republican says thanks and Merry Christmas to Linda, an invaluable Warm the Children volunteer, and to Greig, Smiley, and the Garrett 8 Cinemas crew for their kindness and generosity.

WORTH A THOUSAND WORDS — Not much can be said to make these handsome animals any more attractive to readers considering a visit to the Garrett County Animal Shelter. The 4-month-old male cat shown above was the answer to one of this morning's WKHJ trivia questions — "What do you call a gray short-hair cat?" (The answer was "Matinee" — we knew that.) The shaggy white dog pictured below is an adult male who sports a Beatles haircut. These and other animals may be viewed every day but Sundays and holidays, and persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553 for directions and hours of operation.

Not a day goes by that I don't thank God above,
For giving me the chance to be touched by your love.
I've been told that memories are golden and maybe that is true
But I never wanted memories.
I only wanted you.
All I have now are the beautiful memories we made together,
Peace of mind, that you died knowing I would always love you,
And the comfort of knowing that one day soon we'll be together again.

Merry Christmas, Honey
I will always love you.

IT WAS A PHYSICAL BATTLE Friday night as the Northern High boys' basketball team fell to Fort Hill by a 79-41 margin in Accident. Shown to the left, Husky guard Danny Thorp (#10) takes advantage of a pick provided by teammate Mike Fletcher (#12) to escape his Sentinel defender. A battle of the boards is pictured at the right, as NHS can-tar Josh Swandol (#34) goes up for two after fighting for an offensive rebound underneath the Huskies' hoop. Fellow Huskies Thorp (second from left) and forward Collen DuBoise (#52) jockey for position in crowded paint. NHS is slated to host the annual Northern Christmas Classic on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 29-30.

NHS Stumbles With Losses To Fort Hill, Salisbury Elks

Northern High School's boys' varsity basketball unit took it on the chin this week, as the Huskies were downed by Fort Hill Friday by a 79-41 margin, and again last night as Salisbury took a 56-36 win. The 1-5 Huskies will have a full week off to lick their wounds and regroup, as NHS will be idle until it plays host to Beall, Westminster, and Turkeyfoot in the Northern Christmas Classic, slated for Friday and Saturday, Dec. 29-30.

Friday's home match-up with the Sentinels began with NHS trailing behind after one quarter of play, 23-7. The guests took a 36-23 lead into the halftime locker room, and were up by a 54-30 margin as the final period got under way.

Guard Greg Speicher led the Huskies with 12 points, while forward A.J. Thomas added seven points. Guards Denny Thorp and Jeremy Frazee each pocketed five points. Fort Hill's Jeremy Snyder led all scorers with 28 points.

The Huskies' junior varsity squad fell to the Sentinels by a 33-23 margin. Andrew Fratz scored eight points for NHS to share game-high honors with Fort Hill's Patrick Grove.

Last night at Salisbury was a replay of Friday's loss, as Northern fell behind early by a 16-7 first-quarter margin and trailed throughout. The Elks held a 34-17 lead at the half and a 44-25 advantage after three quarters of play.

Center Josh Swandol took the reins of Northern's inside game by scoring eight points, while teammates Frazee and Speicher contributed six and five points, respectively. High scoring honors went to Jesse Hoover, who netted 22 points for the Elks in addition to pulling down 10 rebounds.

Northern triumphed in the junior varsity contest by a 37-29 margin. (Individual statistics not available.)

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Looks like we won't have to dream about a white Christmas here in Garrett County; we're going to have one for real. The Christmas season tends to be a nostalgic time for most folks... a good time to reflect on the good times had this past year in Garrett County outdoors.

It is also a good time to think about the regrets. Regrets like not taking the time to thank a friend for a grand day fishing or not thanking a landowner for the permission to hunt on private property. Other folks we might want to thank are the wildlife and fish field personnel who help make sure that the outdoor sports are protected. Also, we might want to thank the retailers who provide the goods we all need to pursue outdoor sports, as well as a wealth of information on how-to and where-to-go.

The New Year is the time we turn these regrets into resolutions. I have a few, and am sure you do, too.

In 2001, I plan to renew memberships in organizations that propagate and protect the sports I value. Few of us can afford to join all of the groups that are worthy of support, so we have to pick and choose. But, without our support these groups couldn't continue their work, and we would be worse off for it.

In the New Year I also plan to get the fishing boat ready for early-season forays. And, plan to take advantage of invitations to hunt and fish from friends that I missed last year. I also plan to maximize the use of time available for both hunting and fishing. Particularly, I plan to do some wintertime fly-fishing on our Garrett County streams. I plan to make a trek to the Great Lakes for some winter and spring steelhead action, and I plan to join good friends for our annual trip to Abaco and its excellent opportunity for salt-water flats fishing.

What are your resolutions regarding the outdoors for 2001? Let us know and we will pass your thoughts along.

MARYLAND FIREARM DEER HARVEST UP FIVE PERCENT

Preliminary DNR data show that this year Maryland's firearm deer hunters increased the two-week firearm harvest by five percent over last year. Firearm hunters bagged 42,850 deer, compared with 40,706 deer taken last year's firearm season.

"The increase in this year's preliminary firearms harvest is a result of a combination of factors, including the increasing size of the deer population, the recent liberalization of bag limits, and the quality of the effort of Maryland hunters," said Paul Peditto, Deer Project manager for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Wildlife and Heritage Division.

The leading 10 counties are: Allegany (4,492); Washington (3,990); Garrett (3,529); Frederick (3,279); Dorchester (3,156); Carroll (2,709); Kent (2,030); Worcester (1,894); Queen Anne's (1,696); and Wicomico (1,693). Since hunters may register deer at check stations in adjoining counties, final harvest by county is likely to change.

During this two-week firearm deer season, Maryland deer hunters spent about 69,400 days hunting white-tailed deer and approximately 7,300 days hunting sika deer.

Maryland hunters reflect national trends, ranking deer population control, recreation, and food as the three primary reasons for deer hunting. Deer hunting remains the primary method of deer management in Maryland and across the nation.

FALL TURKEY HARVEST OFF SIGNIFICANTLY

Fall turkey hunters harvested only 188 wild turkeys in the three western Maryland counties during the one-week fall season this year. This is a 44 percent decline from the harvest in 1999, and is the lowest fall harvest since the mid 1980s.

"Department of Natural Resources' (DNR) field staff reported poor reproduction for wild turkeys in western Maryland during the summer of 2000," said Mike Slattery, director of DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Division. "Production indices indicated that summer poult production was at the lowest level in western Maryland since the department started keeping continuous records in the early 1990s. Fall populations and the corresponding hunting harvest is directly related to turkey poult production during the summer months. Weather conditions were not good for poult survival in western Maryland, with many rain events occurring during the critical brood rearing time in late May and early June. Turkey populations probably decreased somewhat in these areas as a result, and hunters had reduced chances of taking a bird. Also, the woods were extremely dry during the fall season, making it more difficult for hunters to walk quietly in the woods, thereby decreasing hunter success."

Allegany County reported the highest harvest, with 81 turkeys harvested, followed by Garrett County with 76 turkeys, and Washington County with 31 turkeys. Hunting pressure for wild turkeys was light during the week-long season, but those venturing afield experienced greater solitude, and enjoyed a rewarding opportunity to harvest one of America's greatest game birds.

Husky Matmen Second In Horz Tourney; Rams Eighth

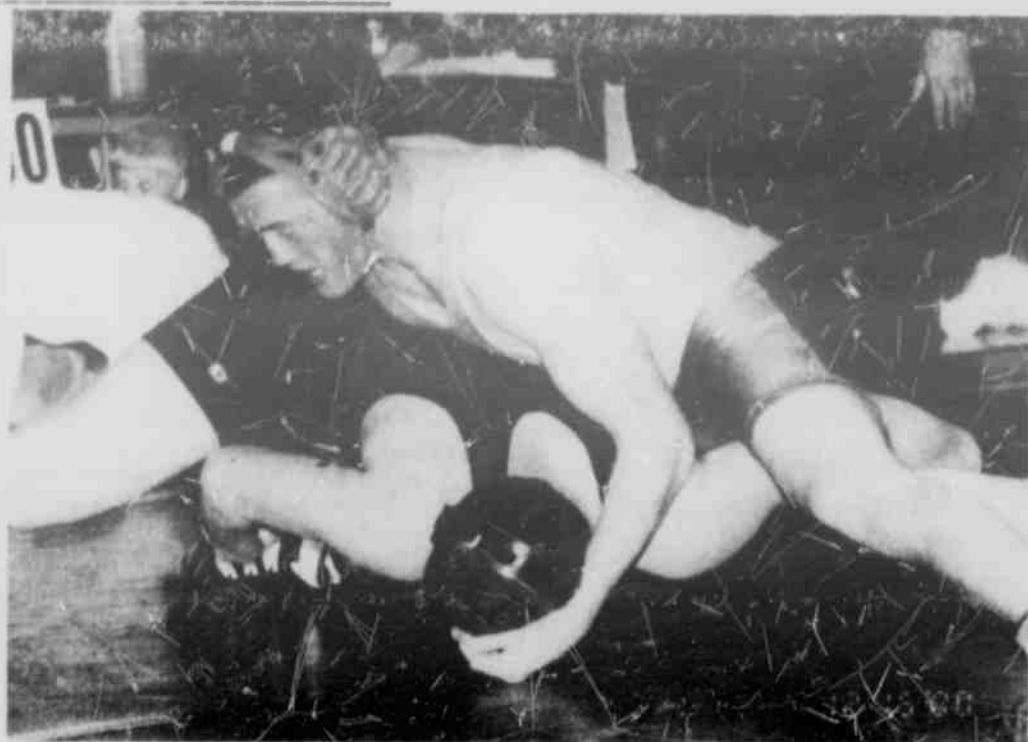

The Northern High School wrestling team just missed defending its Max Horz Junior Holiday Tournament title this past weekend, as the Huskies placed a close second to Sherando in the 16-team tourney at Berkeley Springs, W.Va. The Southern Rams placed eighth.

The Huskies finished with 183 points and four individual championships, while Sherando recorded 92 team points. Southern had 96 points.

Individual champions for the Huskies included Blake Huber, who won the 112-pound division; Pete Stein, who captured the 119-pound title; Mark Wolf, who won in the 171-pound class; and Trey Brenneman, who was the champion in the 215-pound division.

Huber won his title with an incredible rally over Kevin Ballam of Hedgesville in the final 20 seconds of his match, when he scored eight points to rally from a 5-1 deficit for a 9-5 decision win. Stein pinned Brian Scott of James Wood in his title match, Wolf pinned Hedgesville's John Dunham, and Brenneman recorded a pin over Nick

HUSKIES SECOND, RAMS EIGHTH - Garrett County's two high school wrestling teams were among 16 teams that competed in the annual Max Horz Memorial Tournament in Berkeley Springs, W.Va. The Northern Huskies, defending champions of the tournament, were edged out of first place by Sherando, while the Southern Rams, whose team was somewhat depleted for disciplinary reasons, finished eighth. The Huskies had four individual champions and the Rams had one, all of whom are pictured here. At far left is Northern's Pete Stein, who won the 119-pound division. Above center, Trey Brenneman of Northern works his way to the individual title in the 215-

Southern's John Hayhurst, also a defending state champion, pinned Josh Moyer of Independence to capture the 189-pound division title. Earning a runner-up trophy was his teammate and cousin, Chris Hayhurst, in the 103-pound division.

Placing third for the Huskies was Darric Kamp in the 130-pound division, when he recorded a major decision (9-1) over Casey Hughes of Cameron, while Jeremiah Guard (140) placed fourth.

Placing fifth for the Huskies was Brandon Kamp (145), while Nick Sines (135) and James Preston (275) each finished fifth for the Rams. Finishing sixth were Dan Ganoe (125) and Bill Rodeheaver (189) of Northern, and Keith Bennett (152) of Southern.

Final point totals and standings for the 16 teams are as follows: Sherando, 192; Northern, 183; Hedgesville, 177; Independence, 164; Cameron, 152; James Wood, 124; Wirt County, 113; Southern, 96; Strasburg, 95.5; Berkeley Springs, 86; Demathia Catholic, 83; Musselman, 78; Frankfort, 76.5; Loudon County, 34; R.C. Byrd, 15; and St. Albans, 14.

The Huskies wrestled again last night and defeated Beall at Frostburg (see separate story). The Rams were supposed to have wrestled at Hyndman Tuesday, but that match was postponed because of weather conditions. Southern is scheduled to host Martinsburg and North Hagerstown this Saturday.

NHS Matmen Crush Beall; Record 6-0

After placing second among 16 teams in the annual Max Horz Memorial Tournament in Berkeley Springs, W.Va., this past weekend (see separate story), the Northern High School wrestling team upped its dual meet record to 6-0 last night by rolling over host Beall, 54-14. The Huskies won 10 of 13 matches, with eight of those victories coming on pins.

Recording pins for Northern were Blake Huber in the 112-pound division; Pete Stein (119), Dan Ganoe (125), Eric Kamp (130), Jordan Brenneman (135), Brandon Kamp (145), Mark Wolf (171), and Trey Brenneman (275). Adam DeWitt and Jeremiah Guard each earned decision victories in the 103- and 140-pound divisions, respectively.

The only pin garnered by Beall was by Nick Durst in the 160-pound class. Mike Clise (152) and Chuck Whetstone (189) won via decisions.

The Huskies will be off until January 3 when they will travel to Cheat Lake Middle School to compete against Morgantown, University, and Fairmont.

Two Rams, One Husky Earn All-State Football Recognition

Three Local Players Make All-Area First Team

JOSH SHARON

Post-season high school varsity gridiron honors were distributed on a variety of levels this week, and both of Garrett County's high schools were represented throughout the various all-star squads. The top kudos went to Southern High seniors Josh Sharon and Toby Tasker, and Northern High senior Mark Wolf, each of whom received honorable mention recognition on the state's Small School 2000 All-State Football Team.

All-Area honors were bestowed on Northern's Wolf, his senior teammate Toby Gilpin, and SHS junior Brad Palmer, each of whom were named to the first-team unit. The Rams' Tasker, senior Jeremy Hayhurst, and senior John Hayhurst were selected for the All-Area second team.

All-State honorable mention quarterback Sharon (5-8, 161) was the Rams' "team leader in every way," according to SHS head coach Fred Gregg, whose squad recorded a 6-4 season record in the face of an extremely tough schedule.

TOBY TASKER

BRAD PALMER

"Josh played very tough and very intelligent, just what you want out of a quarterback," Sharon's statistics bear out his coach's praise: he led SHS in scoring by netting 60 points on 10 touchdowns, and completed 21 of 53 pass attempts to pick up 282 yards through the air.

Tasker (5-9, 282), who drew an All-State honorable mention recognition for his work at offensive tackle, was "a great drive blocker" in the opinion of the Rams' skipper, helping to spark the squad's balanced offensive attack. "Toby displayed great agility for a big man, and that enabled him to put his size to the most effective use."

Northern linchpin Wolf (5-8, 195), drew an All-State honorable mention nod and an All-Area first team salutation for his manic play at outside linebacker. He led the 8-3 Huskies with 116 tackles on the season and served as the defensive unit's play-caller. "Mark has had a tremendous career as a three-year starter, and was an exciting player on both sides of the ball," stated NHS head coach Phil Carr. "He got the job done at a very high level on the field." Wolf helped spark the Huskies' stunning upset of top-ranked Cambridge-South Dorchester in the opening round of the state playoffs to earn the right to advance to a semi-final contest against eventual state champ Elkton.

In addition to Wolf, All-Area first team honors were garnered by NHS offensive guard Toby Gilpin. The big senior (6-2, 310) "helped mold a young group of offensive linemen into a respectable unit by the season's end," observed Carr. "He was a real force to contend with, and the kind of young man you just enjoy coaching."

Southern defensive end Palmer (6-3, 227) recorded 81 total tackles (33 unassisted/48 assisted) on the year as he earned All-Area first team recognition. "Brad is a relentless pass rusher," Gregg said, expressing delight that the junior will be back next year for another season. "He's very physical, and a very good hitter."

All-Area second team fullback Jeremy Hayhurst (5-5, 175) led the Rams with 818 rushing yards on 153 carries, averaging 81.8 yards per game on the ground. "Jeremy was definitely our 'go-to' back, and paid us back by being our leading rusher," commented Gregg.

Linebacker John Hayhurst (5-9, 218) joins his SHS teammate on the All-Area second team. A "ferocious hitter" for Gregg's defense, Hayhurst recorded a team-high total of 83 tackles (14 unassisted/69 assisted), and was "a very effective run stopper," his coach said.

Tasker rounded out the county's representation on the All-Area second team as he earned recognition at his offensive tackle slot.

Garnering All-Area honorable mention recognition were Husky seniors Bill Rodeheaver (5-10, 200) at fullback and halfback Rob Dozier (6-5, 210), along with junior placekicker Trey Breneman (6-0, 210). Rams noted with honorable mention status were quarterback Sharon, senior Jeremy Hayhurst at kicker, senior Jeremy Lear (5-6, 153) at defensive back, and juniors Steve Skipper (5-5, 159) at tailback and Joel Helbig (6-0, 177) at line-backer.

Next week's issue of The Republican will feature Northern High School football players selected for Mountain Athletic Conference (MAC) honors.

Three Huskies, One Ram Named To All-Area Soccer First Team

Senior goalkeeper Woody Kenner of Northern High School was selected to be among the elite soccer players in the area this past week, as he was named the Joe Rowan Defensive Player of the Year and as a first-team pick on the All-Area squad, chosen by a vote of area coaches.

Joining Kenner on the All-Area first team are fellow Huskies Mike Fletcher and Ronnie Lipscomb, and Southern High School's Bryan Schwalm. Fletcher, a midfielder, was co-captain of Coach Tom Ables' team for the past two seasons; Lipscomb was also a co-captain the past two years and second on the team in scoring this past season; and Schwalm, a junior for Coach Tom Powers, was one of the area's top defenders from his sweeper position.

Coach Ables couldn't say enough about the importance of Kenner the past three seasons. "Defensively, beyond Woody Kenner, we were really not very good," he said. "Basically Woody was our defense. I know he stopped at least five penalty kicks this past season, which is outstanding, and he had numerous unbelievable saves on some very high percentage shots. His instinct is amazing."

In a way, his skills actually caused the rest of our guys to get a little too complacent on defense," he said. "They didn't worry as much as they should have when the ball got by them because they knew Woody would probably stop the shot."

Ables described Fletcher as "an integral part" of both the offense and defense. "Mike was especially effective in knowing where to play and in controlling the ball," he said. "He's aggressive, fundamentally sound, and very unselfish."

Fletcher recorded three goals and two assists this past season, when the Huskies had a 5-0-1 start and finished at 6-6-1.

Ronnie Lipscomb was also a three-year starter for the Huskies, and finished the 2000 season with six goals and two assists.

"Ronnie is also a hard worker and very unselfish as a player," Ables said. "He was very dedicated, and gained valuable experience in the off-season by playing in the Cumberland indoor league and AYSO program."

Speaking of all three of these players, Ables said, "Only about once in every 10 years do you have three guys of this quality on the same team. They are by far the best I've ever coached at Northern. All three of them played with nagging injuries, but they played every minute of every game. The rest of the team really bonded around them and made us better overall."

Bryan Schwalm is following in the footsteps of his older brother Michael, who was named first-team All-Area last season. The younger Schwalm turned away scores of balls and thus rescued the Rams from defeat several times this past season.

"Bryan handled the pressure that comes with that

REBOUNDING RAMS - Southern High School Rams Josh Sharon (#35) and Bryan Panther (#43) are captured above in mid-air, actually competing with each other, as they go up and pull down a rebound against the Beall Mountaineers last Friday night in Oakland. The Rams cruised to a 66-40 victory to up their early-season mark to 2-0. Other Rams in the photo are Jamie Bosley (#33), far left, and Ricky Reams (#11), far right. ## Panther Paces Rams To 66-40 Conquest Of Beall

A 21-point, six-rebound performance by Bryan Panther paved the way for a 66-40 victory for the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team over visiting Beall Friday evening. The win was the second in as many starts this season for the Rams, and their first in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League.

The Rams did not take good care of the ball in the first half, turning it over a dozen times, and they led by just four points, 27-23, at halftime. However, they had just three turnovers in the second half and did a much better job in stopping the Mountaineers from getting rebounds off their own shots.

The Rams were on top 15-9 at the end of the first quarter, and after leading by four at intermission, outscored the Mountaineers in the third stanza by a 17-8 margin to take a 44-31 advantage into the final period. The fourth quarter was the best for Southern, as the Rams scored 22 points and limited Beall to nine.

Panther finished with an outstanding 77% effectiveness in shots, as he made good on 10 of 13 shots from the floor. Also reaching double figures for the Rams was Ricky Reams with 12 points. Chad Panther added eight points, while Josh Sharon recorded seven points and six boards.

Pacing Beall's offensive effort was Brady Greig, who hit three long-range goals and finished with 16 points.

The Southern junior varsity won the preliminary game, 51-28. Brent Niner scored 10 points for the Rams, while Brady Ingle netted 10 for the jayvee Mountaineers.

The Rams will return to WMIL action this Friday evening at Westmar, and play again on Saturday at Petersburg.

Mountain Top League Winners Are Announced

Three games in the Mountain Top Winter Basketball League were played Sunday at Southern High School, with Condoerr, Deep Creek Ready-Mix, and Smiley's emerging with victories.

Condoerr got 16 points apiece from Pete Brosnihan and Dennis Gibson in a 74-54 victory over Long Branch Saloon. Doug Copeland hit a game-high 17 points for Long Branch.

Despite a 35-point effort by Beckman's Jared Beckman, Deep Creek Ready-Mix held on for a hard-earned 65-64 edging of C.J. Getson and Joey DiSimone netted 20 and 19 points, respectively, for the winners.

Skiles had a one-point lead and the ball with less than a minute to play, but missed a wide-open three-point attempt. Ready-Mix responded with a short jumper to take the lead. Skiles turned the ball over on the inbound pass, and time expired.

Smiley's recovered from a 38-36 halftime deficit and cruised to a 73-60 win over winless 84 Lumber. The big quarter for Smiley's players was the third, when they outscored their opponents by a 22-9 margin.

Chris Ewing led five Smiley's players in double figures, as he finished with 18 points. Mike Harvey scored 16, Aaron Newcomb hit 11, and Joe Refosco and Scott Shahan each added 10. Scott Winters and Greg Mortimer each scored 16 for 84 Lumber.

The schedule for this Sunday, Dec. 24, is as follows: Condoerr vs. Smiley's at 1 p.m., 219 Motors vs. Long Branch at 2 p.m. and 84 Lumber vs. Skiles at 3 p.m. Respective scorekeepers are: 219 Motors, Smiley's, and Long Branch.

Mountain Top League Results Are Announced

Winners in the Mountain Top "Old Timers" League games played Sunday included Bosley Construction, the Barracudas, and Gonder Insurance.

Danny Bosley scored 16 points to pace Bosley Construction to a 62-48 victory over Quality Machine. Jeremy Skiles netted 14 points to pace Quality.

Kris Upole and Doug Copeland scored 23 and 22 points, respectively, to power the Barracudas to a 65-53 win over Patterson Boat Company, which was led by Bill Franklin with 14 points.

Pacing Gonder Insurance to an easy 99-60 victory over Mettiki Coal Company was Justin Liller, who ripped the nets for 35 points, while Jason Shank recorded 22 and Billy Braithwaite netted 21. Stan Skiles scored 17 points and Gary Newcomb hit 16 to lead Mettiki.

The league will take a holiday break and resume games on January 7, with Mettiki vs. the Barracudas in the 6 p.m. game, Gonder vs. Quality Machine in the 7 p.m. contest, and Patterson Boat Company vs. Bosley Construction at 8 p.m.

Various elected officials, including the Garrett County commissioner and Delegate George Edwards, plus school board members and various board of education administration personnel, were all on hand for the event. Just outside the gym lobby doors is another new Ram emblem stamped into the pavement by Mountaintop Paving. The design was based on the image on the gymnasium floor by Barry Domenick. The image was first put on paper and then transferred to the asphalt. The asphalt was then heated, and the design was pounded out by hand and then painted. Mike Stephens of Mountaintop Paving said that, as far as he knows, this is the only custom imprint of its kind in the world. Pictured in behind the emblem below are art and masonry students who assisted with the project, along with teachers and administrative personnel.

Rams Split With Loss To Linganore, Win Over NHS

The Southern girls' varsity basketball team split a pair this week, opening with a hard-fought 54-47 loss at Linganore Saturday before bouncing back to take a 71-36 homecourt victory over Northern Monday. The Rams' record stands at 3-2 overall, but their WMIL mark is a very healthy 2-0.

It was a pitched battle throughout Saturday's match-up at Linganore, as, after stumbling early, the Rams put up a valiant effort in the final period that brought them to the brink of triumph late in the contest. Southern was down 18-7 after one quarter of play, 30-23 at the half, and 38-33 as the fourth quarter opened.

The Rams finally hit their groove in the final eight minutes. Southern fought back from the period-opening five-point deficit to tie the score at 43-all with two minutes left on the clock; however, Linganore went to its top scorer, Katherine Langham, to cinch the victory. Langham sank her squad's only three-pointer of the night, then broke away for a layup shortly afterward to pull Linganore into the victory lane.

Langham's 21 points led the hosts, while junior Southern forward Jennifer Bosley notched 14 points before fouling out. Senior center Charlena Reeves contributed seven points and 10 rebounds, and freshman Becca Flanagan snagged a game-high 11 rebounds while scoring four points. Junior guard Ashley Liller scored six points.

Linganore took the junior varsity contest as well, downing SHS by a 45-32 margin. Justine Pagenhardt led the Rams with 12 points, another fine performance that came on the heels of Southern's Dec. 13 junior varsity win over Tucker. (That result was not available as of last Thursday.) Pagenhardt's 20 points led SHS to a 32-25 win, the first victory ever for a Rams' JV unit over the perennial West Virginia powerhouse.

Monday night in Oakland, SHS hosted arch-rival Northern in a match-up that began in the fashion of most cross-county meetings across the sports spectrum. The two squads battled through the first quarter, and the Rams held a slim 18-14 lead over the Huskies as the second period opened.

The contest took a radical turn as Southern exploded over the final three quarters with a 53-22 run, which included a 26-5 flurry in the third period that made the score 51-27 at that point.

Liller had a big night, scoring 18 points, dishing out six assists, and hounding the Huskies' ballhandlers to record nine steals. Bosley scored 12 points, Reeves hit for 10 points, and Flanagan contributed nine points.

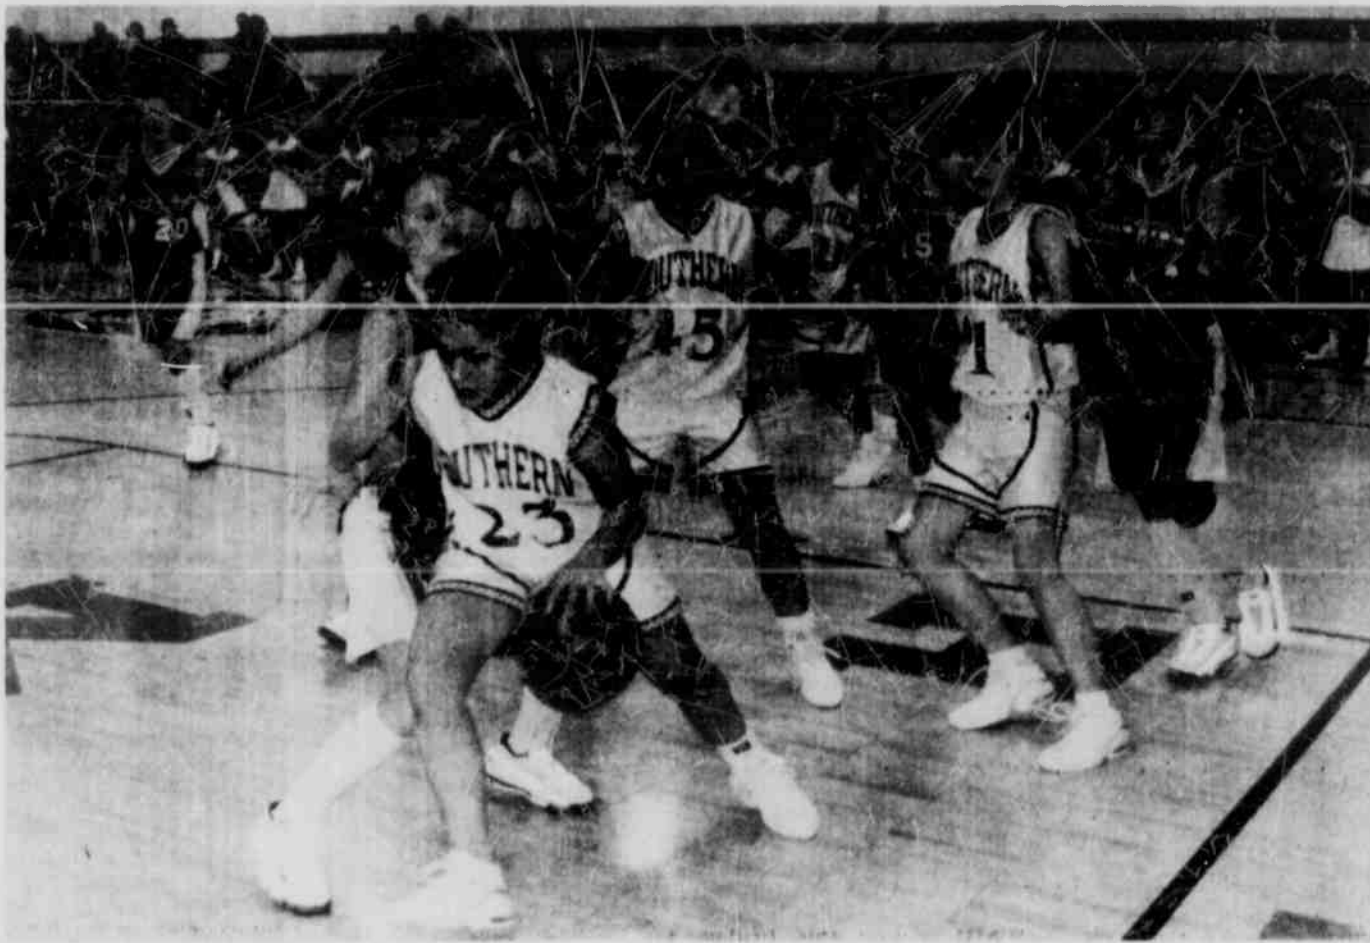

Northern's Bridget Frazee and Amanda Frantz scored 10 points apiece, and Christie Flockhart added seven points.

SHS took the JV contest by a 30-19 margin behind Pagenhardt's game-high 14 points. Lyndsi Butler led NHS with seven points.

A LOPSIDED SCORE does not reflect the intensity of Monday's battle between the girls' varsity basketball squads of Southern and Northern high schools. A fine performance was turned in by Husky sophomore Amanda Frantz, who led both squads with 13 points and 11 rebounds, dishing out three assists to boot. ## Northern Downed In Road Outings At SHS, Fort Hill

The girls' varsity basketball team at Northern High School is having some rough going early this season, but a glance at the tough schedule the Huskies have been faced with so far provides a big clue to the young squad's troubles.

After last week's season-opening loss to defending state champ Allegany, NHS squared off against arch-rival Southern Monday night in Oakland, but came up on the short end of a 71-36 score. (See SHS account for details.) Last night against the powerful Sentinels of Fort Hill the Huskies fell by a 47-32 margin, a road loss that leaves NHS with a 0-3 record heading into the Christmas break.

Northern got off to a good start last night in Cumberland, and took an 8-6 lead after one quarter of play. Fort Hill then went on a 16-4 second quarter run that left the Sentinels in the

The Candles of Christmas

It's the evening of Christmas Day. Discarded wrappings and delightful presents share space beneath the tree. On the dinner table the turkey has shrunk as waistlines have expanded and everyone vows to "never eat another bite."

Upon the mantle, candles have magically melted into unique creations as they burned through several special occasions throughout the holidays... reminders of warm memories of those times when family and friends gathered to celebrate the birth of Christ.

Though the holidays shall end, let us carry a candle for the Christ-Child in each of our hearts throughout the coming year; and may the warmth of His spirit mold each of us into that unique creation that will give joy to everyone we meet.

Worship God each week at your local house of worship.

DO YOU HEAR THE ANGELS? December 24, 2000

Background Scripture: Luke 2:1-20
Devotional Reading: Matthew 16:13-16

On a summer afternoon in 1933, in a band of traveling evangelists in Murphy, North Carolina, one Annie Morgan sang a striking folk melody that captured the heart of John Jacob Niles. Asking Ms. Morgan to repeat the words so that he could copy them, Niles wrote out the text to a carol that today is sung and heard by millions every Christmas.

I wonder as I wander, out under the sky,
How Jesus the Savior did come for to die
For poor on 'ry people like you and like I,
I wonder as I wander, out under the sky

Poor On 'ry People

Niles later tried to locate

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Wicker has been woven into comfortable furniture since the early 1800s. Makers created copies of solid wooden furniture by cleverly weaving the wicker into similar shapes.

The elaborate, curved furniture of the 1890s created a special problem for manufacturers. Heywood Brothers and Wakefield Co. of Garner, Mass., a company formed by a merger of two large wicker manufacturers, made Victorian-style wicker marked with that name from 1897 to 1918. By the time the company name became Heywood-Wakefield in 1918, styles had changed and curves were out of style. Victorian wicker furniture often used spiral or "spit curl" wooden trim, spiderweb cane work, and plain cane seats and backs.

The most outrageous of these chairs is a type now nicknamed the "photographer's chair." It was usually asymmetrical, with a triangular back, splayed legs and a cane seat with a curved front. Wooden bead trim as well as spit-curl trim gave a lacy look to the chair. A study of Victorian photographs will show versions of this chair in many portrait pictures — hence the name. It was an uncomfortable, impractical, fanciful chair, but it did look good in a picture. Few of these chairs have remained in good condition because they were totally out of style by 1910.

When I was at a flea market a few months ago, I bought an old wooden milk crate with metal grids to separate bottles. It's marked "American Box & Crate Co., Louisville, Ky." How old is it?

Milk crates like your old one were used by dairies at least as early as the 1920s. The crates were made of galvanized iron or steel, sometimes with a wooden frame, and had separate compartments to hold round, glass milk bottles. Many different manufacturers, most of them in Midwest dairy states like Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio, made milk crates.

A happy holiday for you and your pet

With Christmas here, and a new year just around the corner, your home is probably filled with guests, gifts and treats. But don't forget Fido in all the excitement.

Dogs are notoriously curious, and most will take any opportunity to explore interesting packages, decorations and new foods. So keep your pet safe, and your house in good shape, through all of the holiday's gatherings.

Supervise your dog around the tree and presents. Hang ornaments and trim, like tinsel, out of his or her reach. Place cookies and candy in the refrigerator or a high cabinet, and don't allow the dog (or any pet) to eat chocolate.

Since dogs love to be part of exciting events (like unwrapping presents), don't shut him or her away from the family. Before the fun starts, take your dog outside for about 15 minutes to work off extra energy. Then, bring a few favorite chew toys into the room. Your dog will still romp a bit, but he will eventually settle down and gnaw away happily (occasionally coming over to check out what you're up to).

If you can't supervise your dog during a gathering (such as a large New Year's Eve party), arrange to have the pet stay at a friend's house or at a kennel for the evening. This way, you'll know your dog is safe.

A final note: Keep the number of a 24-hour emergency vet handy. If your dog does eat something harmful, like tinsel, wrapping paper, toys, or a large amount of chocolate, call right away.

Send your pet tips and questions to Paw's Corner, c/o King Features Syndicate, 628 Virginia Drive, Orlando, Fla. 32803.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

On Dec. 25, ca. 5 B.C., Christ is born. Although Christians celebrate Dec. 25 as the birthday of Christ, no one in the first two Christian centuries claimed any knowledge of the exact day or year in which he was born. However, early in the fourth century, Church fathers designated Dec. 25th, the birthday of the popular pagan god Mithras, as Jesus' official birth date.

On Dec. 29, 1170, archbishop Thomas Becket is brutally murdered in Canterbury Cathedral by four knights of King Henry II of England, apparently under orders of the king. The Christian world was shocked by Becket's death, and in 1173, he was canonized as a Catholic saint.

On Dec. 28, 1832, John C. Calhoun, citing political differences with President Andrew Jackson and a desire to fill a vacant senate seat in South Carolina, becomes the first vice president in U.S. history to resign from his office.

On Dec. 31, 1890, New York's Ellis Island opens its doors, and millions of immigrants will pass through its halls to find a better life in the United States.

On Dec. 31, 1911, Marie Sklodowska Curie receives the Nobel Prize in Chemistry for her isolation of the element of metallic radium and other earlier discoveries in the field of chemistry. She is the first person to be awarded a second Nobel Prize, eight years after she became the first woman ever to be honored with a Nobel Prize.

On Dec. 30, 1922, in post-revolutionary Russia, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (U.S.S.R.) is established, comprising a confederation of Russia, Byelorussia, the Ukraine, and the Transcaucasian Federation.

On Dec. 27, 1932, massive crowds forget the woes of the Great Depression and attend the opening of Radio City Music Hall in New York City. Tourists still flock to the world's largest movie theater to see the annual Christmas spectacular and the high-kicking Rockettes.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

Everyone knows that the colonists came to the new world for religious freedom, right? What everyone doesn't know is that these same colonists banned Christmas celebrations from 1659 to 1681.

More rules for wives, 1845: "When a husband is out of temper, behave obligingly to him; if he is abusive, never retort; and never prevail over him, to humble him"; "When a man gives wrong counsel, never make him feel that he has done so, but lead him on by degrees to what is rational, with mildness and gentleness; when he is convinced, leave him all the merit of having found out what was just and reasonable."

Laughing is great exercise.
The Russian president earns more in U.S. dollars than the American president does — for a few more days, anyway. In January, the U.S. president's salary increases to $400,000 per year.

A company in Korea is now marketing a hand-held lie detector, which measures the amount of stress in a person's voice. Touted as being able to identify cheating lovers, dishonest politicians and scam artists, there has been speculation that this device will mean the end of casual lying. Do you know how many lies you tell in the course of a day? Me, either. I don't think I want to find out that way, though.

Until the invention of printing, words in manuscripts and scrolls didn't have spaces between them. It looks strange to us now, but there are those who contest that, with practice, wordsruntogether aren't hard to read.

Half of all American homes serve turkey on Christmas.

SARAH E. KENNEDY

Sarah Edith "Nell" Kennedy, 87, Frostburg, died Wednesday, Dec. 13, 2000, at the Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville, where she had resided for the past six years.

Born June 25, 1913, in Maestown, W. Va., she was a daughter of the late Albert and Victoria (Molisee) Menear. She was also preceded in death by 12 brothers and sisters, and was thought to be the last surviving member of her immediate family. She was also preceded in death by her husband, George Garland Kennedy, in August 1978.

She was a charter member of Frostburg Eagles Auxiliary and served as secretary for more than 20 years. She also served as the Eastern Regional State Secretary for the Eagles for many years, and worked for Muscular Dystrophy and for the Salem Trust in Grantsville in her years of service with that organization. She was voted Eagle "Mother of the Year" in 1976. She was a member of the Frostburg United Methodist Church.

Survivors include one son, William George Kennedy, Frostburg; one daughter, Vicki Kennedy Linn, Frostburg; three grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Frostburg, where a service was conducted Sunday, Dec.

17, with the Rev. Darryl Gill officiating, assisted by the Rev. T. William Preston. Interment was in Frostburg Memorial Park.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to the Goodwill Mennonite Home.

THE SIGN OF AN EXCEPTIONAL SALES ASSOCIATE.

SOLD

To Whom It May Concern:

Across the last forty-five years I have been involved in many real estate transactions. Among all the sales representatives with whom I have dealt, Esther Friend is without question the very best. She was unfailingly sensitive to our real estate needs, always prompt with the exchange of information regarding the property, attentive to detail insuring that nothing had been overlooked in the preparation for closing, accommodating of our time constraints and most important of all a firm advocate of our concerns as the purchaser.

Anyone preparing to invest a major amount of money in a real estate transaction would be served in a superlative way by the thoughtfulness and caring of Esther Friend.

I want you to know of our abiding appreciation for her extraordinary service throughout the transaction.

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Wicker has been woven into comfortable furniture since the early 1800s. Makers created copies of solid wooden furniture by cleverly weaving the wicker into similar shapes.

The elaborate, curved furniture of the 1890s created a special problem for manufacturers. Heywood Brothers and Wakefield Co. of Gartner, Mass., a company formed by a merger of two large wicker manufacturers, made Victorian-style wicker marked with that name from 1897 to 1918. By the time the company name became Heywood-Wakefield in 1918, styles had changed and curves were out of style. Victorian wicker furniture often used spiral or "spit curl" wooden trim, spiderweb cane work, and plain cane seats and backs.

The most outrageous of these chairs is a type now nicknamed the "photographer's chair." It was usually asymmetrical, with a triangular back, splayed legs and a cane seat with a curved front. Wooden-bead trim as well as spit-curl trim gave a lacy look to the chair. A snidly of Victorian photographs will show versions of this chair in many portrait pictures — hence the name. It was an uncomfortable, impractical, fanciful chair, but it did look good in a picture. Few of these chairs have remained in good condition because they were totally out of style by 1910.

Q. When I was at a flea market a few months ago, I bought an old wooden milk crate with metal grids to separate bottles. It's marked "American Box & Crate Co., Louisville, Ky." How old is it?

A. Milk crates like your old one were used by dairies at least as early as the 1920s. The crates were made of galvanized iron or steel, sometimes with a wooden frame, and had separate compartments to hold round, glass milk bottles. Many different manufacturers, most of them in Midwest dairy states like Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio, made milk crates.

A happy holiday for you and your pet

With Christmas here, and a new year just around the corner, your home is probably filled with guests, gifts and treats. But don't forget Fido in all the excitement.

Dogs are notoriously curious, and most will take any opportunity to explore interesting packages, decorations and new foods. So keep your pet safe, and your house in good shape, through all of the holiday's gatherings.

Supervise your dog around the tree and presents. Hang ornaments and trim, like tinsel, out of his or her reach. Place cookies and candy in the refrigerator or a high cabinet, and don't allow the dog (or any pet) to eat chocolate.

Since dogs love to be part of exciting events (like unwrapping presents), don't shut him or her away from the family. Before the fun starts, take your dog outside for about 15 minutes to work off extra energy. Then, bring a few favorite chew toys into the room. Your dog will still romp a bit, but he will eventually settle down and gnaw away happily (occasionally coming over to check out what you're up to).

If you can't supervise your dog during a gathering (such as a large New Year's Eve party), arrange to have the pet stay at a friend's house or at a kennel for the evening. This way, you'll know your dog is safe.

A final note: Keep the number of a 24-hour emergency vet handy. If your dog does eat something harmful, like tinsel, wrapping paper, toys, or a large amount of chocolate, call right away.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Dec. 25, ca. 5 B.C., Christ is born. Although Christians celebrate Dec. 25 as the birthday of Christ, no one in the first two Christian centuries claimed any knowledge of the exact day or year in which he was born. However, early in the fourth century, Church fathers designated Dec. 25th, the birthday of the popular pagan god Mithras, as Jesus' official birth date.

• On Dec. 29, 1170, archbishop Thomas Becket is brutally murdered in Canterbury Cathedral by four knights of King Henry II of England, apparently under orders of the king. The Christian world was shocked by Becket's death, and in 1173, he was canonized as a Catholic saint.

• On Dec. 28, 1832, John C. Calhoun, citing political differences with President Andrew Jackson and a desire to fill a vacant senate seat in South Carolina, becomes the first vice president in U.S. history to resign from his office.

• On Dec. 31, 1890, New York's Ellis Island opens its doors, and millions of immigrants will pass through its halls to find a better life in the United States.

• On Dec. 31, 1911, Marie Sklodowska Curie receives the Nobel Prize in Chemistry for her isolation of the element of metallic radium and other earlier discoveries in the field of chemistry. She is the first person to be awarded a second Nobel Prize, eight years after she became the first woman ever to be honored with a Nobel Prize.

• On Dec. 30, 1922, in post-revolutionary Russia, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (U.S.S.R.) is established, comprising a confederation of Russia, Byelorussia, the Ukraine, and the Transcaucasian Federation.

• On Dec. 27, 1932, massive crowds forget the woes of the Great Depression and attend the opening of Radio City Music Hall in New York City. Tourists still flock to the world's largest movie theater to see the annual Christmas spectacular and the high-kicking Rockettes.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Everyone knows that the colonists came to the new world for religious freedom, right? What everyone doesn't know is that these same colonists banned Christmas celebrations from 1659 to 1681.

• More rules for wives, 1845: "When a husband is out of temper, behave obligingly to him; if he is abusive, never retort; and never prevail over him, to humble him"; "When a man gives wrong counsel, never make him feel that he has done so, but lead him on by degrees to what is rational, with mildness and gentleness; when he is convinced, leave him all the merit of having found out what was just and reasonable."

• Laughing is great exercise.
• The Russian president earns more in U.S. dollars than the American president does — for a few more days, anyway. In January, the U.S. president's salary increases to $400,000 per year.

• A company in Korea is now marketing a hand-held lie detector, which measures the amount of stress in a person's voice. Touted as being able to identify cheating lovers, dishonest politicians and scam artists, there has been speculation that this device will mean the end of casual lying. Do you know how many lies you tell in the course of a day? Me, either. I don't think I want to find out that way, though.

• Until the invention of printing, words in manuscripts and scrolls didn't have spaces between them. It looks strange to us now, but there are those who contest that, with practice, wordsruntogether aren't hard to read.

• Half of all American homes serve turkey on Christmas.

SOLD

To Whom It May Concern:

Across the last forty-five years I have been involved in many real estate transactions. Among all the sales representatives with whom I have dealt, Esther Friend is without question the very best. She was unfailingly sensitive to our real estate needs, always prompt with the exchange of information regarding the property, attentive to detail insuring that nothing had been overlooked in the preparation for closing, accommodating of our time constraints and most important of all a firm advocate of our concerns as the purchaser. Anyone preparing to invest a major amount of money in a real estate transaction would be served in a superlative way by the thoughtfulness and caring of Esther Friend.

I want you to know of our abiding appreciation for her extraordinary service throughout the transaction.

Glendening's '01 Priorities To Be Universities, Trans., Smart Growth

by Sean Musenden
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - A "major" higher education construction program will be the focal point of Maryland Gov. Parris N. Glendening's agenda in the 2001 General Assembly that begins next month, he said Thursday. In an interview with Capital News Service reporters, Glendening also said he will push for a major expansion of his Smart Growth anti-urban sprawl program in the session that convenes mid-January.

"The need for new buildings and expanded buildings for campuses all across the state is immense," he said.

Though the university construction program will be the "biggest winner by far," when his budget is introduced Jan. 17, Glendening noted that operating funds for the state's university system also will increase.

When he entered office in 1994, Glendening pledged to spend $1.6 billion over eight years to modernize and construct 13,500 new K-12 classrooms. The program, in its sixth year, spent $261 million on classroom construction. In the 2000 General Assembly, Glendening backed several programs to address Maryland's worsening teacher shortage. This included grants to raise teacher salaries, and a scholarship that offered near-full tuition to students at state colleges and universities who committed to teaching in Maryland after graduation.

The governor said that he prioritized higher education for one reason: increased access.

"There used to be signs up in this country for job applications that said 'whites only,'" he said. "Fortunately those signs are gone today. But increasingly just about every single job requires some post-high school education. Unless we open those doors to higher education to everyone, it's just as if we had those signs up there."

STUDENTS OF MONTH NAMED - Bloomington School recently announced the names of those selected as the September Students of the Month. They were chosen by their peers for exhibiting outstanding qualities of citizenship, good behavior, putting forth an honest effort, completing required assignments, and setting a proper example for others to follow. The Students of the Month are, in the first row from left, Sierra Wassell, Grade 3; Christin Feaster, Grade 2; Kayla Davis, Grade K; and Brooke McClintock, Grade 1. In the second row are Adam Gallagher, Grade 7; Mark Bittlinger, Grade 8; Garrett Wilson, Grade 5; and Thomas Holtschneider, Grade 4. Missing from the photo is Courtney McGregor, Grade 8.

Increased state funding of Maryland's higher education institutions would help unlock those doors by reducing tuition, he said.

"That's why we have (had) such an extraordinary increase in higher education funding in the last two budgets and this budget," Glendening said. "Ultimately, the goal is to make higher education as free as secondary school. I think by the end of this decade you will start to see states offering free tuition."

Glendening also announced a "major expansion" in funding for Smart Growth, specifically for Program Open Space. Open Space uses state funds to purchase large tracts of farm or park land, protecting them from future development.

Earlier Thursday, the governor named mass transit as another top spending and legislative priority.

At a press conference in Silver Spring, he unveiled a six-year, $750 million proposal to expand and improve bus services and commuter rail systems, including the Washington-area Metro.

During the interview, Glendening said that his spending priorities might prove attractive to high-tech companies looking to set up shop in the state, because he believes they will help produce an educated workforce, a quality higher education system, and improve the overall quality of life.

But, he said, he did not prioritize transportation, higher education, and Smart Growth only to attract new high-tech employers.

"I believe that education ought not be another tool of economic development," he said. "An enlightened, educated citizenry is important all by itself."

But, "as a practical consideration, economics of the future will be knowledge based," he said.

"Whichever country or state or community does best in preparing a well-educated population will do best in that economy," Glendening said. His spending packages in recent years have been buoyed by large budget surpluses — $1 billion just last year. But some forecasts are predicting those surpluses will end by next year. In late November, the Department of Legislative Services Office of Policy Analysis predicted a $201 million operating budget deficit by 2002 if spending stays at current levels.

Glendening's second term ends in January 2003, and he is constitutionally barred from seeking a third term.

The projected deficit concerned members of the joint Spending Affordability Committee at a November meeting. The committee will meet on Dec. 19 to set a cap on the amount of spending the legislature will allow Glendening to push through in the coming session.

"We will give a prudent (spending increase), something that allows the governor to spend on his top priorities," said Nancy K. Kopp, D-Montgomery, the committee's House chairperson.

During Thursday's interview, Glendening called Legislative Services' numbers, "pessimistic." He said that his administration's figures currently show a total budget surplus of $300 million for the coming year, and that his spending will reflect those figures.

"It will not be the $1 billion surplus we had last time, but we'll be very, very strong," he said. "We've have set aside $500 million as a rainy day reserve fund in case there is a downturn in the economy."

And, finally, Glendening said the state requires a balanced budget and he will do what it takes to see that it remains balanced.

Trustees Discuss

develop a relationship with ClosetMaid for training and other support purposes, he said.

The trustees also discussed the possibility of inviting ClosetMaid officials to tour the college and meet the board.

Financial Report
GCC's financial report was presented by Dean Michael Kilgus.

The FY2001 budget, expenditures, and encumbrances report showed the college in good standing. Overall spending as of October 31 was 32.2 percent, just below the even spending figure of 33.3 percent, and instructional costs remained below even spending. Scholarships and fellowships exceeded even spending as a result of Estonia, athletic, and out-of-state/regional awards.

The factors of academic support, institutional support, and plant operations remain above even spending because of full-year encumbrances.

The operating cash forecast shows the college's cash flow as very positive, according to Kilgus. By the time of this writing Kilgus had planned to invest $500,000 for a 45-day period, to be followed by another $500,000 investment again in April. No short-term borrowing is anticipated for the remainder of the fiscal year, and the college is ahead of investment projections.

GIEC Project

Bid opening for the Garrett Information Enterprise Center, the college's "incubator center" for start-up high-tech businesses took place last week. Efforts to provide a greater likelihood that bids would come in within budget appeared to have been met with success, as sources said that several bids did come in at or under the target figure.

Fee Structure

The trustees discussed a proposal to standardize GCC's fee structure, which has come under criticism recently. Kilgus explained that fees had proliferated over the years, and, as a result, many students' bills showed a tuition amount and then several additional costs from a battery of fees. Some students have expressed the opinion that the college was "nickel and diming" them with too many individual fees.

A committee was appointed to review the matter, and its members unanimously endorsed a change that would result in an aggregated $11 per credit hour general fee to be assigned to students. This fee would then be allocated to departmental budgets on a pro rata basis in accordance with GCC's experience over the preceding two fiscal years. This proposal has gained the additional endorsements of the GCC administrative council, cabinet, and student government association.

Kilgus went on to tell the trustees that without any change in the existing policy the fees would amount to $10 per credit hour on average, and that the additional $1 per credit hour would serve as a cushion because the allocation formula of the fees to departmental budgets is still being finalized.

The board voted to implement the general fee of $11 per credit hour for the academic year 2001-2002, and the new fee structure will be subject to annual review.

Herman noted that the cost of a GCC education, including the new general fee, stands at $1,275 per semester for a full-time student carrying 15 credit hours.

Stock Donation

GCC has received a gift of stock from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Finan Jr., which the college would like to trade in for cash. Herman noted that the proceeds from the gift are subject to a three-year restriction to support the development of an adventure sports hall of fame in the county. GCC will work with the Adventure Sports Center International to identify the best use of these funds. If any money remains unspent after those three years, the college will have the discretion to use the funds as it sees fit.

The board approved (minus one abstention) the execution of the corporate resolution, corporate account agreement, and application in regard to this donation and sale of stock.

NRWT Faculty

Professor Peter Skystad is the new assistant academic program director for GCC's Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology Program. Skystad joined the college faculty last spring, and has already been involved in several projects that touch upon a variety of topics in his field, including a power plant research project, an acid mine monitoring and restoration project, and advanced studies in the use of Global Information Systems (GIS), a high-tech venture that uses satellites to render geophysical data.

Skystad said he hopes to help the college develop a GIS degree program of its own. His experience in that subject includes a National Science Foundation GIS conference that he attended in Oregon last summer, and as of this writing he and fellow GCC staff member Jim Allen are in Mexico mapping the new technology to local forest preserves.

Board Reappointment

Trustees president Doug Sites reported that during the evening's closed session, Charles "Bus" Bender had been sworn in for another term on the GCC board of trustees. Bender has served on the board since 1982, "and has contributed a great deal to the college in many ways," Sites said.

Next Meeting

The trustees voted to forego the regular December meeting, and set Tuesday, Jan. 16, as their next meeting date. The open session of the meeting will begin at approximately 7:30 p.m. in Room 315 of the Continuing Education building.

National Guard Sets Program For Dropouts

The Maryland National Guard has slated Freestate Challenge, a free alternative education program for high school dropouts between the ages of 16 and 18. Coordinated through the Maryland Guard and the state of Maryland's Partners in Prevention program, Freestate Challenge is a 22-week military-oriented residential program that takes place at the Aberdeen Proving Ground. The next session begins Jan. 20 and concludes June 23.

"Freestate Challenge places a strong emphasis on commitment, concentration, and concerted effort," a Guard spokesman said. A primary program objective is to prepare participants for the GED examination.

To qualify for Freestate Challenge, participants must be drug free, a high school dropout, able to pass a ninth grade aptitude test, and not be in the juvenile justice system. The resident portion of the program is followed by an intensive yearlong mentoring phase to adjust to the world of work and follow-on education.

For more information on Freestate Challenge, interested persons may contact Chaplain (Maj.) Ron Martin-Minnich, program director, or Charles Rooks, recruiter, at 1-800-820-6692. Information can also be obtained through the Oakland National Guard Armory at 301-334-9794.

Christmas Mass Schedule Slated At St. Peter's

The special Christmas weekend mass schedule of the Catholic community located throughout southern Garrett County has been announced by Father Don Parson. Masses will be celebrated at St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church in Oakland, Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Kitzmiller, and at the McHenry United Methodist Church site in McHenry.

The mass schedule is as follows:

Saturday, Dec. 23 — McHenry United Methodist Church, 4 p.m.; St. Peter's Church, 5:30 p.m.

Sunday, Dec. 24 — St. Peter's Church, 4 p.m. (children's mass); St. Peter's Church, 6 p.m.; Immaculate Conception Church, 8 p.m.; and St. Peter's Church, midnight (Christmas carol singing begins at 11:30 p.m.)

Monday, Dec. 25 — St. Peter's Church, 9 a.m.

For further information interested persons may call the St. Peter's church office at 301-334-2202.

Southern High School Students Of The Month Selected

Brandon Bowman, a freshman, is the son of Doug Tasker and Marsha Bowman. He enjoys dirt bike racing and constructing projects with wood. In the future, he would like to go into a carpentry business.

Clement Chauzat, a senior, is the son of Pierre and Brigitte Chauzat, but resides with his host parents, Terry and Kathy Helbig. Clement is a foreign exchange student from France, and while attending Southern, has been a member of the boys' varsity soccer team. In the future, he would like to attend San Jose State University to study radio, television, and film.

John Hauser, also a senior, is the son of John and Carolyn Hauser. For the community, he volunteers his time to help out with the Mt. Top Food Pantry. John is unsure what college he will attend after graduation.

Bryan Panther, also a senior, is the son of Tom and Darla Panther. In school, he is involved with the National Honor Society, and has received awards for Minds in Motion and as a Student of the Month. He also is actively involved in the Crellin United Brethren Church. Bryan would like to either attend West Virginia University or the University of Maryland to major in environmental engineering. Natalie Dominick, a freshman, is the daughter of Dr. Mark and Teresa Dominick. This past fall, Natalie received All-State honors in cross country and received the Top Rookie Award. She has also received several other awards, such as a Success in School Award, a Woodmen of the World Award, a National Science Merit Award, a National English Merit Award, and a National Math Merit Award. Natalie is also actively involved in the Loch Lynn Church of God youth group and puppet ministry. At this time, she is unsure which college she will attend in the future, but wants to continue to compete in cross country on the college level.

Adam Schoch, a senior, is the son of Dale and Debra Schoch. Adam has received many awards, such as Who's Who Among American High School Students, a National Science Merit Award, Student of the Month, and a nomination to be involved with the Presidential Classroom program. He is also involved in the Loch Lynn Church of God youth group "The Rock." Upon graduating, he plans to attend Garrett Community College and then transfer to Frostburg State University to major in early childhood education.

by Chad Harvey, reporter
The members of the Shepherds 4-H Club met at Par-Matt Lanes recently for their Christmas bowling outing, then traveled to Doug and Vickie Bernard's home for a pizza dinner and gift exchange. Members decided to set a date of Monday, Jan. 8, for their next meeting, which will take place at the 4-H building.

SNOWY CREEK

by Stacey Glover, reporter
The Snowy Creek 4-H Club held its annual Christmas dinner/meeting on December 10. Mitchell Guard gave a report on the decorating of the Friendsville Library. The theme this year was "Walking In A Winter Wonderland." Those involved were: Michael Guard, Stephanie Evans, Will Gallagher, Drew Glover, Hannah Sines, Jennifer and Lincoln Lowdermilk, and Molly Wolf.

Wanda Guard collected the re-enrollment forms for the next year. All record books are due by January 15. All members with beef need to have them tagged by January 1.

January's meeting is canceled. An executive meeting for the new officers will be announced at a later time. Anyone wanting to participate in the Big Brothers Big Sisters program may contact Ann Sherrard.

We also had the installation of new officers and members. Perfect Attendance ribbons were also handed out. There are two graduating members, who will be leaving our club. They are Keith Artice and Stephanie Evans. Good luck to them!

Our next meeting will be on February 8 at 7 p.m. Brenda Frazee will be speaking on the GCID Outreach Program.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

TEETS-MOWERY WEDDINGS

Amanda Beth Teets and Jason Allen Mowery were united in marriage on Dec. 15 at the Garrett County Courthouse. Present for the ceremony were the bride's parents, Paul and Karen Teets of Horse Shoe Run, and the groom's parents, Chester and Patty Mowery of Parkersburg. Also attending were the bride's grandparents, Bill and Henrietta Thomas of Hundred, David and Wilma Mae Teets, Horse Shoe Run, and the groom's siblings, Angela, Matt, and Rachel Mowery, all of Parkersburg.

Both the bride and groom are employed in the managerial trainee program at McHenry Burger King. Amanda completed her requirements for a degree from Garrett Community College in the field of behavioral science on December 14.

The wedding party shared in a celebratory meal at the Encore restaurant following the ceremony. The couple will be residing in the Oakland area.

SENIORS BUSY

The Preston County Senior Citizens held their Christmas party at the Bruceton Mills Senior Center on Dec. 13. Attending from the Aurora area were Nina and Sheridan Layman, Lorain and Mary Jane Hanline, Janice Tackett, Martha Bolyard, and Keith and DeLores Douglas.

The Union District Senior Citizens met for their Christmas dinner on Thursday, Dec. 14, at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. Mary Radford provided Christmas devotions using a reading and prayer. There was a short business meeting, drawing for door prizes, and an ornament exchange, and Bingo concluded the day's entertainment for those 24 in attendance.

MOUNTAINEERS MEET

The Eglog Mountaineer 4-H Club met at the Eglog Memorial Building on Dec. 11. Kari Harsh and Caitlin Roth, members of the Activity Committee, presented the Christmas theme devotions. The music leaders, Ashley Bachtel and Katelyn Harsh, led the group in singing "Jingle Bells" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Pledges were led by Tyler Harsh.

A first-year members' workshop is set for Dec. 28 at 12:30 p.m. All first-year members of the club are asked to attend with their project books. Then at 1:15 p.m. on that same Thursday, the club plans to go to Cortland Acres Nursing Home for an annual birthday party. Mountaineer members are reminded to take cards for their patients, or mail them prior to this date.

The club has made donations to the Preston County 4-H Foundation and to the IFYE program. Materials for the county photo and poster contests were made available. These will be due at the county office by Feb. 2, 2001.

At the next regular meeting on Jan. 8, 2001, the club will concentrate the projects.

PERSONAL MENTION

Martha Slawter of Aurora fell and fractured her ankle last week. She was a patient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, but returned home on Sunday.

Alan and Mary Teets of Middletown, Del., were weekend guests of her parents, Homer and Marguerite Myers, Aurora.

Bernard Arnold of Aurora was a patient for a few days in Garrett Memorial Hospital. He returned to his home on Sunday.

Darrell Roth of Morgantown has been a patient in Monongalia General Hospital as a result of a heart attack. He reportedly is slowly improving.

Mrs. Naomi Teets, former Aurora resident, is in Fahney-Keedy Home at Boonesboro, Md., receiving rehabilitation therapy as a result of an apparent stroke.

Despite a recent stormy night, "Nathan and the Neon Night Light" was presented at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, and another presentation of "The Living Christmas Tree" is set for 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, Dec. 24.

Hazel Blamble of Stemple Ridge remains a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital's sub-acute unit.

Jane and Jim Maye of Daleville, Va., made a Dec. 11 visit to their parents, John and Rebecca Teets, at the Goodwill Nursing Home in Grantsville.

Gary Lewis of Oakland and his brother, Tom Lewis of Iglog, made a visit to Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 8 to 11, to see their sisters, Charlene (and Lynn) Woodall and Beverly (and Larry) Mahle, plus their brothers, Stanley "Pete" and Fred Lewis, and their families.

Richard Norwisch of Eglog was accompanied by his ant, Shirley Carr of Hendricks, on a Dec. 16 Christmas visit to Staunton, Va., with Richard's mother, Peggy Norwisch, and his sisters, Louise Norwisch and Janet Melvin, the latter of whom joined them from Fayetteville, N.C.

Willard Feather is recuperating at his Aurora home after undergoing surgery last Thursday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

For those of you who have contacted me concerning news and announcements, I wish to express a special "thank you," and to all of you, may your holiday be a blessed one. In this tiny life we celebrate the "Light of Life" for all!

OUR FIRST CHRISTMAS IN HEAVEN

We see the countless Christmas trees around the world below
With tiny lights like Heaven's stars reflecting on the snow
The sight is so spectacular, please wipe away the tear
For we are spending Christmas with Jesus Christ this year.

We hear the many Christmas songs that people hold so dear
but the sounds of music can't compare with the Christmas choir up here.

We have no words to tell you the joy their voices bring
For it is beyond description, to hear the angels sing.

We know how much you miss us.
We see the pain inside your heart.
But we are not so far away.
We really aren't apart.

So be happy for us, dear ones.
You know we hold you dear.
And be glad we're spending Christmas with Jesus Christ this year.

We send you each a special gift, from our heavenly home above.
We send you each a memory of our undying love.

After all, love is a gift more precious than pure gold.
It was always more important in the stories Jesus told.

Please love and keep each other as our father taught us to do.
For we can't count the blessings of love
He has for each of you.

So have a merry Christmas and wipe away that tear
Remember we are spending Christmas with Jesus Christ this year.

Sadly missed by
Cherie & all the family members

Rate Change Postal Stamps Now Available

The U.S. Postal Service is now offering postage stamps good for the new 34-cent first-class letter rate that goes into effect Jan. 7, 2001.

The postal service is making available three non-denominated first-class stamps (good for the recently approved 34-cent rate) to enable customers to purchase stamps before the new rates are in effect.

The new stamp designs feature the Statue of Liberty, flowers, and the farm flag, and will be offered in several formats. Stamps bearing a letter of the alphabet designating the postage rate are no longer produced.

In anticipation of increased demand by customers who wish to use 34-cent stamps they already have on hand, the postal service is offering 1-cent stamps. Three separate, automatic shipments of 1-cent stamps have been made to the nation's post offices. These stamps are available in the self-adhesive format.

To see the new non-denominated stamp designs, persons may visit the postal service web site at www.usps.com, click on Postal Service News, then Philatelic News, and finally on the Dec. 21 news release titled "Postal Service Announces 2001 'Rate Change' Postage Stamps."

The new rate change stamps are also available by calling (toll free) 1-800-STAMP-24 and on-line at the newly introduced Postal Store at www.usps.com.

Warm Christmas Wishes

ACCIDENT STUDENTS SHARED THE SPIRIT of Christmas with a number of patients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently, as 44 first graders provided hand-made cards and angels. Teachers Cynthia Kolbe and Cindy Stanton assisted the first graders in this "Character Education" project, giving the students the opportunity to show that they care for others' well-being. In the photo above GCMH VIVA volunteer Patsy O'Brien presents GCMH sub-acute care unit patient Betty DeWitt with gifts from the students.

SWANTON NEWS

Betty Harvey of New Martinsville, W.Va., visited Mary June Harvey last week. She returned to her home Thursday.

Maxine and Meredith Ball attended birthday parties for their son Mike and grandson Michael at his home in Gettysburg, Pa., last Friday and Saturday.

Community Fund Slated To Assist With Energy Bills

For the 10th consecutive year, Allegheny Power electric utility customers have the opportunity to contribute to the Community Energy Fund, which provides assistance to local households that need help in paying higher winter energy bills. The fund is a joint project of the electric utility and the Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC).

Allegheny Power customers are currently receiving mailers for the fund with their electric bills. The utility's shareholders will match, up to the program limits, 50 cents for each dollar contributed to help pay household electric bills. Community Action identifies residential customers in Garrett County who are in need and qualify for the program. To contribute, interested utility customers may make donation checks payable to the "Community Energy Fund" and mail to Community Action in the envelope provided.

During the 1999-2000 winter heating season, more than $168,000 was credited to the electric bills of more than 1,000 customers in Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia. Since the program's inception in 1991, Allegheny Power and its customers have contributed more than $1 million and helped to pay more than 7,500 energy bills over the past decade.

For more information about the Community Energy Fund, interested persons may call Allegheny Power's toll-free customer service center at 1-800-255-3443, or write to: Garrett County Community Action Committee, 104 E. Center St., Oakland, MD 21550.

TOWN NEWS

Any resident of the town of Friendsville who wishes to file to run for the position of town council member in the Feb. 2001 municipal election must submit a Petition for Office form to the clerk-treasurer prior to noon on Monday, Jan. 1, 2001.

SANTA PAYS A VISIT - Friendsville residents gave Santa a warm reception on a chilly evening when the jolly old fellow arrived in town recently to help spread the joys of the holiday season. With his magic sled in the shop being readied for Christmas Eve deliveries, Santa arrived in the Friendsville town truck to visit with the children and hear their Christmas wishes. He also brought all the children of the town treats of oranges, apples, and chocolates. With Christmas lights brightening the streets and homes of Friendsville, residents sang traditional carols as the mayor lit the community Christmas tree. In the photo above, Mayor Spencer R. Schlosnagle greets St. Nick in his fur-trimmed red suit, and helps him down from the truck. In the photo at right, Dylan Humberson shares his Christmas hopes with Santa.

Ralph T. and Faye Humberson recently visited Helen Ruth Kayle at Lions Manor Nursing Home. Cards can be sent to her in care of the nursing home at Seton Drive Exit, Cumberland, MD 21502.

SCHOOL NEWS
The school is collecting "Pepsi Notes" for free musical instruments and supplies for the classroom. Points can be found on 24-oz., 2-liter, and 3-liter bottles, as well as cartons of 12- and 24-pack cans. Points can also be found on Frito Lay products. Pepsi points will be collected through the first of February 2001 and may be dropped off at the school in care of Ms. Sweitzer, the music teacher. They must collect a minimum of 500 points to be eligible for a prize, but their goal is for 1,000 points to get a snare drum for the school. All help will be "greatly appreciated."

School will dismiss at noon this Friday, Dec. 22, for the Christmas holidays. Students will return to school on Tuesday, Jan. 2.

PERSONALS
A birthday party was recently held to celebrate the first birthday of Lexi Marie Friend, daughter of Steve and Christa Friend at the Eastern Garrett County fire hall in Finzel. Approximately 90 people were in attendance. The party was given by her parents. Lexi Marie is the granddaughter of Dale and Jessie Friend of Sebring, Fla., and Don and Lois Filsinger of LaVale.

SENIOR CITIZEN NEWS
Birthdays celebrated for the month of December were those of Art Schnattlesley and Sue Wellington.

Members of the current town council who are eligible to seek re-election are Wayne Friend, Shirley Metheny, and Jess Whittemore. Hold-over council members are Frances King, Terry Spear, and James Lininger, as well as Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle.

For more information, persons may call 301-746-5847.

State Park Programs
DEEP CREEK LAKE
The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park for this coming week, Saturday, Dec. 23, through Monday, Jan. 1. (The park's Discovery Center will be closed Sunday and Monday, Dec. 24 and 25.) All programs will take place at or depart from the Discovery Center, and further information on all activities and the park's snowshoe rental service can be obtained by calling the center at 301-387-7067.

Among the special events taking place this week will be the second annual Christmas Open House at the Discovery Center, set for Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Activities will include nature hikes, bird-watching, children's nature crafts, face painting, and ongoing nature movies. Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus will be on hand from 1 to 2 p.m. A 10 percent discount on sales at the center's nature shop will be offered, and refreshments will be provided by the DCL State Park volunteer group.

Thirty minute horse-drawn hay/sleigh rides (depending on snow conditions) will be offered during the open house event each hour on the hour beginning at 11 a.m. and concluding with the 4 p.m. outing. The rides will be offered each hour beginning at 11 a.m.

and concluding with a 3 p.m. ride on Tuesday and Friday through Monday, Dec. 29-Jan. 1.

Scholarship Program Targets Future Ag Professionals

Monsanto Company and the American Farm Bureau Foundation for Agriculture have announced the details behind the third annual Commitment to Agriculture Scholarship program.

Open to high school seniors from all 50 states, the competitive scholarship program is offered by Monsanto in association with the American Farm Bureau Foundation for Agriculture. To be eligible, the students must come from farm families and plan to pursue careers in agriculture.

One-time awards of $1,500 will be made to 100 high school seniors chosen by an impartial selection committee of agricultural educators and industry leaders.

"We are pleased to partner with Monsanto to give students an opportunity to further their education in agriculture," said Marsha Purcell, managing director of the American Farm Bureau Foundation for Agriculture. "These scholarships will help prepare the next generation of farm producers and leaders."

The Commitment to Agriculture program awarded 50 scholarships to students in 28 states in 1999, the year of the scholarship's inception. The 2000 program was expanded to 100 scholarships for students in all 50 states. The scholarship program is supported by funds received through settlements involving the Howardship viola-

"Monsanto is pleased to support individuals who are pursuing a career in agriculture," said Brett Begemann, vice president of U.S. branded products for Monsanto. "We are proud to contribute funds received from seed settlements and invest them in the future of these young men and women."

To qualify, a high school senior must have an average to above-average academic record, plan to enroll as a full-time student in an agriculture-related academic major in an accredited school, and be committed to pursuing a career in agriculture.

Applicants will be evaluated on their high school records, standardized test results, extracurricular activities and personal essays submitted as a part of the application process. Applications will be available in mid-December from Monsanto dealers, county Farm Bureau offices, and on the following web sites: <http://www.farmsource.com> or <http://www.agfoundation.org>.

Application forms must be completed and postmarked by Feb. 15, 2001. Applicants will be notified of the competition results by May 1, 2001. Monsanto Company, an 85 percent owned subsidiary of Pharmacia Corporation (NYSE:PHA), is a leading global provider of

Editors Ask Who Bush's New Ag Secretary Will Be

The editors of @agriculture On-line are trying to guess who President-elect George W. Bush will choose for his ag secretary cabinet position.

The short list of possible successors for Ag Secretary Dan Glickman, they say, includes Ann Veneman, a lawyer who was a senior ag official during the administration of President George Bush (the senior).

Others on the list include Texas Ag Commissioner Susan Combs, Missouri Farm Bureau president Charles Kruse, and Charlie Stenholm (D-Texas) who is the Democratic leader on the House Ag Committee.

Md. Poultry Industry Now Required To Manage Runoff

Governor Parris N. Glendening announced last week that Maryland will be the first state in the nation to address pollution problems associated with poultry manure. The state is giving public notice that it will issue permits to primary poultry producers establishing shared responsibility between processors and their contract growers to provide adequate facilities and reuse options to manage surplus poultry litter.

Allen Family Foods, Perdue Inc., and Tyson Foods Inc.—all of which have production and processing facilities on Maryland's Eastern Shore—will receive the new five-year permits from the Maryland Department of the Environment. The permits require poultry processors to provide sufficient technology and assistance to their contract growers to ensure that poultry litter—consisting of wood shavings and manure—is properly handled and disposed.

"These new permits strengthen our commitment to protect Maryland's natural resources and will help us meet the ambitious goals of the Chesapeake Bay 2000 agreement," Governor Glendening said. "This new tool will also aid Maryland's poultry farming families by requiring poultry processors to share the responsibility for protecting Maryland's waterways and the Bay. Maryland's vibrant economy and our aggressive environmental protection policies clearly demonstrate that a higher standard of living and a better quality of life are attainable."

These new permits recognize the unique aspects of the integrated poultry industry that place contract growers under the substantial control of poultry companies. Many contract farmers have insufficient cropland to use poultry manure as a fertilizer without resultant runoff and excess pollution, and they depend on facilities made available by poultry companies to meet the requirements of the Maryland Clean Water Act of 1998.

"In issuing these permits the state of Maryland continues to demonstrate a leadership role in efforts to clean up the Chesapeake Bay," said U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) assistant administrator J. Charles Fox. "These permits will be the national model for how many states will address this issue in the future."

"The poultry permit will provide for regulatory equity among all polluters so that industrial discharges, municipal wastewater facilities, storm water, agricultural, and other non-point sources are all required to aggressively protect the environment," said MDE Secretary Jane Nishida.

Maryland's other ongoing nutrient reduction programs such as biological nutrient reduction, the state Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998, and the tributary strategies teams will be furthered by adding the poultry permit as a critical link to these other nationally recognized pro-

Dairy Producers Give The OK To Restraint Systems

Self-locking metal stalls and palpation rails received high ratings from farmers in a University of Maryland Extension survey of dairy farms that have expanded their herds in the past five years.

The two animal restraint systems got high marks for their ease of use, worker comfort and labor efficiency. A high percentage of the larger herds surveyed reported using self-locking metal stalls to sort and restrain animals for treatment and breeding, while fewer producers used palpation rails, according to Roger Palmer, UM-MD Extension.

"Producers selecting both types were equally happy with their decision, but the palpation rails rated higher for initial cost," he said.

Farm Bureau Publishes Guide To Conservation Easements

The American Farm Bureau Federation has teamed up with two respected land management specialists to produce an authoritative guide for landowners considering the sale of conservation easements on their land.

"The Landowner's Guide To Conservation Easements," authored by Dr. Steven Bick and Dr. Harry L. Haney, covers all the issues related to the sale of conservation easements so landowners can be fully informed before making a final decision.

According to AFBF president Bob Stallman, a Texas cattle and rice producer, the book is "a must-read" for landowners considering conservation easements as part of their land management plan.

"This book is unique from all other material published on the topic of conservation easements because it takes an objective look at this complicated issue from the perspective of a landowner," Stallman said. "Other material about conservation easements usually contains a bias—either espousing or deriding the virtues of this relatively new land management tool. This guide draws on research conducted with landowners regarding their actual experiences in granting conservation easements."

An easement is a less-than-full ownership interest in a parcel of land. It is generally a voluntary but binding legal contract that directs land management. Landowners who grant easements give up some of their ownership rights, according to Don Parrish, senior environmental policy specialist for AFBF.

"Many landowners are considering or have willingly sold or donated conservation easements for a wide range of benefits and incentives," Parrish explained. "The agreements behind conservation easements are formally recorded in a deed, which can prohibit some activities entirely, modify existing uses, and/or introduce new ones. Understanding that easements divide ownership interest in property is the first step in determining if a conservation easement is right for you and your land."

According to Parrish, the use of conservation easements is becoming more common across the nation, as landowners "discover their land holds intrinsic values that American society has only lately grown to treasure." Whether landowners accept payment for the preservation of open space, or a number of other conservation functions, there are a number of points that must be considered before any agreement is signed.

One of the authors, Bick, is the principal consultant with Northeast Forests, LLC, of Thendara, N.Y. He serves as adjunct assistant professor of forestry at the State University of New York's College of Environmental Science and Forestry, Syracuse, N.Y. The other author, Haney, serves as a professor of forestry and is an Extension specialist in forest management-economics at Virginia Tech University.

Topics covered in the book include:

- An in-depth explanation of conservation easements and whether they are appropriate for an owner's land.
- Income, estate and property tax aspects.
- Designing easement deeds and reserving rights.
- Results of easement arrangements.
- A process for informed decision making.

For more information about the topic of conservation easements, persons may contact AFBF's Parrish at (847) 685-8742. Credit card orders for the book ($24.95) may be placed by calling Kendall/Hunt Publishing Company at 1-800-228-0810.

Olney Man Nets

Continued from Page C-1 after a traffic stop along I-68. He voluntarily handed over two smoking pipes he had been carrying, each of which bore burnt marijuana residue.

Tammy Sue Shoun, 32, Oakland, was handed a set ruling in connection with a second degree assault charge that stemmed from her October arrest by sheriff's deputies. She had been accused of striking a juvenile at her home in what the charging statement indicated to be a suspected one-time incident.

Alison Anne Haynes, 18, Leesburg, Va., was handed a set ruling in connection with charges of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession. Her July arrest by state troopers came after a traffic stop along I-68, when a bag of suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue were found in a backpack in her car.

James Henry Schmidt, 20, Swanton, was not prosecuted on a marijuana possession charge that stemmed from his August arrest by state troopers who were questioning a group of individuals "loitering" outside Uno Restaurant. Two bags of marijuana were located on the ground in the immediate vicinity of the group, and the officer suspected that one of the bags belonged to Schmidt.

Eric Carlton Sines, 29, Mtn. Lake Park, was not prosecuted on a misdemeanor theft charge that stemmed from an incident when a briefcase was reportedly taken from the property of Larry W. Wagner. State troopers made the June arrest.

Theodore Franklin Sweitzer, 29, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a fugitive from justice charge stemming from his November arrest by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. The local detectives apprehended Sweitzer on behalf of West Virginia authorities, who had been seeking him on a second degree assault charge.

Shawn David Ashley, 20, Carolina, W.Va., was not prosecuted on possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges. His June arrest by state troopers came after his vehicle was searched in the wake of a traffic stop along I-68.

Brian Keith O'Donnell, 27, Washington, Pa., was not prosecuted on charges of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession. He had been arrested following a September traffic stop along I-68 by state troopers.

A consent search located a bag of suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe in his pocket.

Jason Lee Thomas, 29, Friendsville, was deemed not guilty of second degree assault and destruction of property charges.

We're the couple who says, "A floor without a rug is like a kiss without a hug."

There is a list of folks we know all written in a book, and every year at Christmas time we go and take a look. And that is when we realize those names are all a part, not of the book they're written in but deep inside our hearts.

For each name stands for someone who has touched our life sometime, and in that meeting they've become a special friend of ours. We really feel that we're composed of each remembered name, and our life is so much better than it was before they came.

Once you've known that "someone," all the years cannot erase the memory of a pleasant word or of a friendly face. So never think our Christmas wish is just a mere routine of names upon a list that are forgotten in between.

For when we send a Christmas wish that is meant for you, it is because you're on that list of folks we're indebted to. And whether we have known you for many years or few, one of the greatest gifts that God gives is having friends like you.

Merry Christmas & Happy New Year

Finding The Peace That's Deep Within

by Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

As the Christmas season nears its climax, many of us are totally worn out, both physically and mentally. We've been through it all—the shopping, decorating, baking, and wrapping—and we still worry that we've forgotten someone or something. We're frazzled, strung out, and concerned about the big day itself, with the cooking, traveling, and visiting that's involved.

It's time to stop, to be still and to reach deep down inside to find the peace that's hidden in our souls—a peace that will help us through the holidays; that will help sort the important from the unimportant so we can enjoy and appreciate the real meaning of the Christmas season.

To help accomplish this, we need a place to go that's quiet and calm, a mystical place, either real or imagined, where it's OK to stop and meditate or to ponder the real meaning of life.

When I find my mood falling like the temperature on a clear winter night, I find a place to go. For me, that place is a forest. A forest carpeted by a blanket of snow, with a stillness found this time of year and made more intense by the absence of sound.

I've been to real places like this where majestic trees reach symmetrically to the sky; where time stands still, where the snow lacks footprints of any kind; and if there are any little animals about, they're hidden, watching from their dens or their homes in the trees, adding to the intense silence and the peaceful solitude.

These days I visit that forest only in my mind. But in my memory I smell the scent of pine and watch the sun come out from behind a cloud, turning the dark gray forest into a mixture of light and shadows. This exhilarating scenery brings me a feeling of tranquility, and the hush of this secret place helps me find the peace that's hidden in my soul. I can turn and leave the seclusion of this private space strengthened and ready to deal with my life again.

This holiday season, find yourself a forest and let the sunlight brighten your soul, let the falling snow illuminate your life, and let the peace of Christmas find you. Your mind and body will thank you, your friends and family will thank you, and the joy of the season and the new peace you've found just might last throughout the coming year.

I hope we all find peace this season, and to those of you who farm, and to you who are farmers at heart, I wish a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

When it comes to calcium, many soy drinks don't stack up to claims. Calcium-fortified soy beverages have been touted as having as much calcium as milk, without the saturated fat. However, a new study published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition reports that the calcium contained in soy drinks is not as readily absorbed as the calcium in cows' milk.

"Our findings show that calcium fortification of soy beverages usually fails to produce a calcium source comparable to cows' milk in terms of physical properties or absorbability," says co-author Robert P. Heaney, professor of medicine at Creighton University. "Even if a label indicates the two beverages have the same calcium per serving, the bioavailability, or the amount of calcium absorbed, from the soy beverage will be significantly less -- typically 25 percent less -- absorbed compared to cows' milk."

While it is possible for manufacturers to add enough calcium to achieve comparable calcium absorption as from milk, the researchers found that, on average, soy beverages needed 60 percent more calcium (500 milligrams per serving) to be comparable with cows' milk.

HotSpot Team Holds Year-End Wrap-Up Meeting

In its final meeting for 2000, the Grantsville HotSpot team reviewed current committee reports and looked to future projects. Among the issues considered were the after-school program, the community mobilization project, and program funding.

The Grantsville after-school program, co-sponsored by HotSpot and Community Action, has been approved by the Governor's Office of Crime Prevention to receive stop-gap funding in the amount of about $8,530. "We have been told it is approved, but we have not yet received it," said Linda Green, program supervisor.

The approved funding is not for expansion of the existing program but to carry it over until the new funding year, Green explained. The grant periods are currently being adjusted for the HotSpot projects across the state, with future funding to run from December to January.

Kerrie Margroff of the Office of Parole and Probation reported that, while tracking several new cases in the Grantsville area, she continues the community probation efforts along with home visits and "ride-Including a hayride and pizza party at Puzzley Run FolkLife Center, where parents and students enjoyed a petting zoo and taking part in raffles. In October, the group made Halloween treat bags (above right) for the pediatric wards at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland and Garrett Memorial Hospital. The Grantsville after-school program students were the recipients of books donated through the national First Book program (below) to mark Make a Difference Day. Each student received three new books. alongs" with state police officers.

Town council member Jim Wilburn told the group that Grantsville resident Joe Martin will attend a meeting with various state officials on January 5 to discuss the possibility of re-installing a court commissioner in Grantsville. This meeting was called in response to several requests from residents, local officials, and State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center, noted that the winter weather had an impact on a program on sexual assault awareness by a well-known national speaking team. The program slated at Southern High School had to be rescheduled because school was closed. "Fortunately we were able to hold the assembly at Southern the next day," Spassil reported.

The speakers, Katie Koestner and Brett Sokolow, appeared at both Northern and Southern high schools, as well as at Garrett Community College. "These assemblies served their purpose. They got the students thinking. Some of them were very surprised at what they learned about acquaintance rape," Spassil noted.

Bill Ferry of the state's attorney's office reported that the community fly-fishing class continues. He also said he is at Grantsville Town Hall each Thursday afternoon for the convenience of citizens in need of services from the state's attorney's office.

Group members agreed that further community awareness and greater participation in the Crime Watch program are needed.

Christmas Eve Services Set At UM Churches

Notes from Bittering

by Joan Sussman

A few months ago I predicted in this column that our first major snow would come on December 13. That was wrong, as we already had several good snows before that date. But our first bad winter storm did arrive the day before when the ice/sleet/snow/wind storm really hammered us around here. Everyone lost power, so a lot of people without heat, if they do not have a wood stove for emergency, would really suffer. I was luckier than my sister-in-law Marci, who had to go without her morning coffee. At least we could put water on the stove and use instant coffee. It was better than nothing, but not too much.

My two older girls were sick with envy because Accident Elementary School had no power, so there was no school for Meredith, but not so lucky for the teachers. I heard from Cindy Kolbe that it was terribly cold all day and she never took off her coat. I am sure Cindy Stanton, who is the other first grade teacher, and of course principal, Sandy Nesline, were on the job in spite of the very not-so-cozy conditions at the school.

That big ice storm took down two of the big old maple trees in Brenneman's Grove. Ellen Housley said she heard their big crash. It hurts every time one of those magnificent trees go down. They have had so much history. I used to love maple sugar season, as I can still remember when they used horses to pull the sap wagons when I was a young girl. I am so glad I got the chance to experience part of farm life the same as it was in the 1800s.

Just like when I was growing up, a few good city boys came up to try to get a buck in our woods. When I was little, some city cousins of my father and a few of their buddies used to bunk down in our basement. Last year, a couple of friends of a friend tried their luck. But they did not have much luck last weekend. They saw a single buck, so they did not even try out their muzzleloaders. But like the old days, they brought up fresh oysters and some sea trout from the Chesapeake Bay. I think the guys who came up when I was young brought oysters, too. Anyway, I remember in winter we always made oyster stew.

One thing I had right about this winter is that it will be a real Bittering winter. Since that ice storm we have had plenty of snow flurries with icy winds. Everywhere there is a glaze of ice. A lot of people were surprised that Emmanuel Lutheran Church held services last Sunday, because people who had seen the parking lot were thinking of it as an ice skating rink. But apparently the rain on Saturday night melted enough of the ice, which allowed services to be held.

Sally Poholsky and Meredith Vagnetti were out and around Saturday to shop for fruit for the Youth Group Christmas fruit baskets. The Youth Group members delivered their work after church on Sunday. The one they brought to me was just lovely.

There is just one more short week before Christmas. This Monday, Dec. 18, was my sister's (Carol Bass's) birthday. It is easy to remember her birthday since it always is the week before Christmas. She celebrated with our family to night with cake and ice cream. We are almost past the age for another big birthday celebration. Once past 40 you are pleased if you get a few cards, presents, a cake and your family singing "Happy Birthday," and when you can still blow the candles out.

But this birthday gathering ended with high drama. On Sunday, Rodney and Marci Giotfelly and family adopted another little dachshund puppy. He is just a little fellow, not much bigger than an average cat, with a silky coat. He was not dressed for outdoor living. But Monday afternoon little "Frosty" joined "Toby" for their first romp in the snow. They got carried away and Toby lost Frosty. Since they have had Toby since last spring, he kind of knew the way around the area.

When the kids came home from school a big-time search got under way to look for Frosty. The fields and woods between the farm and Rodney's house were filled with a small array of kids calling for Frosty. There was no sign of the little sausage pup, and it was a pretty cold night for a tiny short-haired pup to be lost and alone. I thank goodness Lesa Whittemore was on her way home from Carol's house when she spotted a little puppy lying in the ditch across from "Pappy" Dale's house. She thought maybe he was hit, but no, he was just asleep and scared. Before Lesa could scoop him up, he was gone again.

The full troop of the cousins, aunt, and uncles searched to find any tracks of him. Carol tracked him to the old Metzler house, as I always knew it, which is just down the road from Dale's. Pastor Metzler and his wife often watched me show off my pony, Misty, and would end up giving me a snack, which most of the time was jelly bread. One day, Rodney and I dropped by to pay them a visit, but they were not home. We felt right at home at their house and fixed our own jelly bread. It was the biggest trouble I ever got into. They were wonderful neighbors, and I think they probably pled leniency to our parents.

One summer day when I was alone on the farm, I was caught by a steel trap in our brooder house that was set for a fox or other wild animals that were raiding the baby turkeys. I screamed for help, with not much hope that anyone would hear me. But even though Mr. Metzler was getting up in age, he heard me and rescued me.

It was a good thing that they found that little puppy, because we got another good snow layer last night. It was deep enough to have covered up little Frosty. I know where he is this morning — asleep on Marci's lap.

Most people around here are a little part of the "Steeler land." A lifelong Steeler fan, Leonard Poholsky would never miss this last game in Three Rivers Stadium. He and Torrey enjoyed the win the Steelers pulled out on Saturday against the Redskins. Lenny was at the first game played in that big old stadium. In female. The one I gave Carol for her birthday was a big hit.

Before we got all this snow and during a drive through the Bittering area, I looked for any still-alive colored leaves or weeds that might be useful for my figurines. By the way, anyone who wants to contribute to this new art form, I would appreciate any dead flowers that would be useful to me. I look forward to next spring and summer to get flowers for them. Since I only started making them in late fall, I only have earth colors of dead oak leaves and a few red leaves I happened upon. I also have a few soft, floppy leaves from a common weed that grows on the edge of the road.

I am somewhat limited with the range of effect I can do with dead, dry leaves. But I have stock enough of various supplies to keep me busy until flower season. Maybe when the holiday poinsettia drops its petals and leaves, I can get my hands on them. I destroyed two nice flower arrangements from my birthday. I also use some strands of hair from the tail of my late horse, Joey, and a few from the body of an owl that flew into my hunt-

LOCAL ARTWORK IN 2001 CALENDAR - The artwork of three young Garrett County residents appears in the Maryland Association of Realtors "Being Good Neighbors 2001" calendar. The artwork was designed to be submitted to the 2000 Fair Housing poster contest. The drawings represent the concepts of equal housing opportunity. Earlier this year, the winners were recognized at a ceremony hosted by the Lieutenant Governor for their outstanding artwork, and presented with an award and savings bond. Representing Garrett County's young artists are Angele Nunez, daughter of Cheryl Jordan, Friendsville; Amy Moon, daughter of Jay and Charlene Moon, Finzel; and Roland Fisher, son of Roland and Nancy Fisher, Friendsville. Above left are the contest winners with Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend at the award ceremony.

Kahls Mark 65th Anniversary

Fred and Margaret Kahl of Accident are celebrating 65 years of marriage at home with visits and cards from their friends. The couple were married on New Year's Eve, 1935, at Zion Lutheran Church in Accident, with Rev. Albert W. Gode officiating.

The Kahls were both born in Garrett County.

Mrs. Kahl is the daughter of the late William George Gustave Fratz and Ida Flora Glass. Mr. Kahl is the son of the late John and Laura Fresh Kahl.

As newlyweds the couple lived in Grantsville. Mr. Kahl worked for William Winterberg on his farm and at his funeral home and then from 1941 to 1947 as a mechanic for Harvey Gortner at Motor Service. Mrs. Kahl worked as a housekeeper for Dr. N.R. Davis. In 1947 they moved to Har-nedsville, Pa., where Mr. Kahl was employed at Riverside Motor Sales in Con-fluence, Pa. He retired after 32 years with the company in 1979, and that same year the couple purchased a house in Accident that Mr. Kahl's grandfather, Lewis, and father, John, had lived in as a home.

Mr. Kahl's hobby has been restoring his collection of Frick and 20th century steam traction engines. He renovated old farm tractors such as an Eagle, Fordson, and Silver King. This hobby led to his participation and membership in the New Centerville, Pa., Farmers and Thrashers Jubilee. He continues to be a member of the Accident Concert Band.

Both are lifelong members of Zion Lutheran Church, with Mr. Kahl having served as a trustee and Mrs. Kahl as a member of the choir and Ladies Aid. They continue to be members of the adult Bible class.

The couple have one son, Carl W. Kahl, of Somerset, Pa. They are both described as "active and alert" for their age, as Mr. Kahl will be 90 in June and Mrs. Kahl will be 87 in August.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Four couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to David Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court.

Dale William Wilson, 66, and Lee Anna Dawn Bowman, 29, both of Markleysburg, Pa.

Joseph Geoffrey Gouzd, 39, and Lisa Marie Cordero, 36, both of Fairmont, W.Va.

Terry Lee Duckworth, 46, and Janet Marie Vincent, 52, both of Belmont, W.Va.

William Ronald Ramey, 34, Kitzmiller, and Diann Lynn Parrish, 34, New Creek, W.Va.

Miss Warnick Becomes Bride Of Mr. Oster During July Ceremony

Cathy Ann Warnick and Patrick John Oster were united in marriage Saturday, July 15, 2000, at the home of the bride's parents, Deep Creek Lake. The Rev. Steffen Carr performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Shirley Warnick, Westernport. The groom is the son of Dr. Walter and Florence Oster, Cumberland.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with a highly tailored and gored bodice, with a scalloped off-the-shoulder neckline covered with sequins and pearls. The gown had a full floor-length skirt and a chapel train. The bride carried a silk bouquet with satin ribbons and pearls, accented by fresh yellow roses and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Di-ann Snell, best friend of the bride. Alexandra Kukorowski, niece of the groom, served as the flower girl. The best man was Dr. Oster, the groom's father.

The reception was held at Point View Inn, McHenry.

Following a honeymoon at Bethany Beach, the couple established residence at Deep Creek Lake.

BITTINGER

er friend's truck last year. I kept it in the freezer for a whole year waiting for Kevin Dodge to pick it up. But unfortunately for me, I can't expect a dozen roses for Valentine's Day from my estranged husband, not that he ever did give me roses in our good times.

Derek Buckel, son of Bill and Tina Buckel, caught an unusual wild animal in one of his traps. It was a large member of the weasel family, called a marten or a fisher, in spite of the fact that they do not eat fish. According to Kevin Dodge, they hunt and eat small mammals like squirrel or rabbit. Kevin heard a story that one killed a deer, but he is not sure that story is correct. But they are pretty ferocious and about the size of a beaver or otter. Derek said it was about 38 inches long. They used to be quite common around here before they were trapped out. But several have shown up around the Bittering area

Rhodes-Collins Couple To Wed

Katie Zang, Troy Gasser Share December Nuptials

Robin Lynn Rhodes and Joseph Michael Collins will be married Saturday, Dec. 30, in a 2 p.m. ceremony at the Gorman Church of God. The bride-elect is the daughter of Pamela and Nathan Rhodes of Gorman, and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Wanda L. Marley of Deer Park and Floyd Collins of Aurora, W.Va.

The prospective bridegroom is a member of the U.S. Army, and following his February graduation from advanced training at Aberdeen Proving Ground the couple will take up residence at Fort Benning, Ga.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the wedding ceremony.

Katie Lynn Zang and Troy Allen Gasser were married Thursday, Dec. 14, at the Garrett County Courthouse in Oakland.

The bride is the daughter of Carrie R. and William A.

Zang Jr., and granddaughter of William A. Zang Sr., all of Oakland. The groom is the son of Todd Gasser, and grandson of Shirley and Ted Gasser, all of Litchfield, Ill.

Dec. 29. They plan to sing Christmas carols, etc. The youth are still busy with their special music for the Christmas Eve morning service. It is a Joint Parish Service and will begin at 10 a.m. Christmas Eve service at Emmanuel will begin at 8 p.m. Glade Mennonite middle and high school youth will be offering a Christmas musical on Friday, Dec. 22 at 7 p.m. The community is invited to attend. A reception and activities for youth will follow the musical.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY KNOWN AS

809 K STREET, MTN. LAKE PARK, MARYLAND
By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage dated December 2, 1991, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland ("Land Records"), in Liber 574, folio 651 granted by Abraham Baghobdorian and Mary Baghobdorian, husband and wife, to Garrett National Bank, said Mortgage having been assigned to Michael Scott Cohen for purposes of foreclosure by an Assignment of Mortgage, duly executed and recorded among the Land Records, with all the powers granted to the Mortgagee originally named therein, including a power of sale upon default, and default having occurred in the terms and conditions thereof, the said Assignee will offer for sale at public auction in the first floor of the CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY

AT 203 SOUTH FOURTH STREET, OAKLAND, MARYLAND
ON JANUARY 3, 2001, AT 11:00 A.M.

The property described in the aforesaid Mortgage, being all that real property, together with the improvements thereon and the appurtenances thereto, known as 809 K Street, Mtn. Lake Park, Maryland 21550.
TERMS OF SALE: A certified check or cash deposit of twenty percent (20%) of the purchase price shall be paid at the time and place of sale, balance in cash at settlement which shall be twenty days (20) after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, time being of the essence, with interest on said balance at the rate of 10% per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. Failure of the purchaser to settle as set forth herein will result in resale of the property at the purchaser's risk and expense and/or forfeiture of the deposit at the election of the Assignee, who reserves all legal and equitable remedies available to him. Taxes, water, rent, and all other municipal liens and charges to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis shall be adjusted to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps transfer taxes, document preparation and title insurance shall be borne by purchaser.

The property and the improvements thereon are being sold in an "as is" condition and subject to prior conveyances, restrictions, liens and agreements of record affecting the same. If any Neither the Assignee, the Mortgagee, nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any warranty or representation, either express or implied, with respect to the property including, but not limited to, description, use, recorded or unrecorded leases or other occupancy agreements, if any, improvements, physical conditions, zoning, building codes compliance, merchantability, or title. The purchaser is responsible for and the property and the improvements described above are sold subject to any environmental matter or condition, whether latent or observable, that may exist at or affect or relate to the property and the improvements and to any governmental requirements affecting the same.

The Assignee reserves the unqualified right to reject any and all offers.

A Christmas Story

It was Christmas Eve 1881. I was fifteen years old and feeling like the world had caved in on me because there just hadn't been enough money to buy me the rifle that I'd wanted so bad that year for Christmas. We did the chores early that night for some reason. I just figured Pa wanted a little extra time so we could read in the Bible. So after supper was over I took my boots off and stretched out in front of the fireplace and waited for Pa to get down the old Bible. I was still feeling sorry for myself and, to be honest, I wasn't in much of a mood to read scriptures. But Pa didn't get the Bible. Instead he bundled told me to put them in the sled and wait. When he returned he was carrying a sack of flour over his right shoulder and a smaller sack of something in his left hand. "What's in the little sack?" I asked. "Shoes. They're out of shoes. Little Jakey just had gunnysacks wrapped around his feet when he was out in the woodpile this morning."

"I got the children a little candy too. It just wouldn't be Christmas without a little candy." We rode the two miles to Widow Jensen's pretty much in silence. I tried to think though what Pa was doing. We didn't have much by worldly standards. Of course, we did have a big woodpile, though most of what was left now was still in the form of logs that I would have to saw into blocks and split before we could use it. We also had meat and flour, so we could spare that, but I knew we didn't have any money, so why was Pa buying them shoes and candy?

Widow Jensen had closer neighbors than us. It shouldn't have been our concern. We came in from the blind side of the Jensen house and unloaded the wood as quietly as possible, and then we took the meat have been praying that he would send one of his angels to spare us." In spite of myself, the lump returned to my throat and the tears welled up in my eyes again. I'd never thought of Pa in those exact terms before but after Widow Jensen mentioned it I could see that it was probably true. I was sure that a better man than Pa had never walked the earth. I started remembering all the times he had gone out of his way for Ma and me, and many others. The list seemed endless as I thought on it. Pa insisted that everyone try on the shoes before we left. I was amazed when they all fit and I wondered how he had known what sizes to get. Then I guessed that if he was on an errand for the Lord, the Lord would make sure he got the right sizes. Tears were running down Widow Jensen's face again when we stood up to leave. Pa took each of the kids in his big arms and gave them a hug. They clung to him and didn't want us to go. I could see that they missed their pa, and I was glad that I still had mine.

At the door Pa turned to Widow Jensen and said, "The Mrs. wanted me to invite you and the children over for Christmas dinner tomorrow. The turkey will be more than the three of us can eat, and a man can get cantankerous if he has to eat turkey for too many meals. We'll be by to get you about eleven. It'll be nice to have some little ones around again. Matt, here, hasn't been little for quite a spell." I was the youngest. My two older brothers and two older sisters were all married and had moved away. Widow Jensen nodded and said, "Thank you, Brother Miles. I don't have to say 'May the Lord bless you.' I know for certain that He will."

Out on the sled I felt warmth that came from deep within and I didn't even notice the cold. When we had gone a ways, Pa turned to me and said, "Matt, I want you to know something. Your ma and me have been tucking a little money away here and there all year so we could buy that rifle for you, but we didn't have quite enough. Then yesterday a man who owed me a little money from years back came by to make things square. Your ma and me were real excited, thinking that now we could get you that rifle, and I started into town this morning to do just that. But on the way I saw little Jakey out scratching in the woodpile with his feet wrapped in those gunnysacks and I knew what I had to do. So, Son, I spent the money for shoes and a little candy for those children. I hope you understand."

I and my wet understood, eyes became with tears again. I understood very well, and I was so glad Pa had done it. Just then the rifle seemed very low on my list of priorities. Pa had given me a lot more. He had given me the look on Widow Jensen's face and the radiant smiles of her three children. For the rest of my life, whenever I saw any of the Jensens, or split a block of wood, I remembered, and remembering brought back that same joy I felt riding home beside Pa that night. Pa had given me much more than a rifle that night; he had given me the best Christmas of my life.

Makes you thankful for what we have, doesn't it? Maybe we could share just a little more.

up and went outside. I couldn't figure it out because we had already done all the chores. I didn't worry about it long though; I was too busy wallowing in self-pity. Soon Pa came back in. It was a cold clear night out and there was ice in his beard. "Come on Matt," he said. "Bundle up good, it's cold out tonight."

I was really upset then. Not only wasn't I getting the rifle for Christmas, now Pa was dragging me out in the cold. We'd already done all the chores, and I couldn't think of anything else that needed doing, especially not on a night like this. But I knew Pa was not very patient at one dragging one's feet when he'd told someone to do something, so I got up and put my boots back on and got my cap, coat and mittens. Ma gave me a mysterious smile as I opened the door to leave the house.

Something was up, but I didn't know what. Outside, I became even more dismayed. There in front of the house was the work team, already hitched to the big sled. Whatever it was we were going to do wasn't going to be a short, quick little job. We never hitched up the big sled unless we were going to haul a big load. Pa was already up on the seat, reins in hand. I reluctantly climbed up beside him. The cold was already biting at me. When I was on, Pa pulled the sled around the house and stopped in front of the woodshed. He got off and I followed. "I think we'll put on the high sideboards," he said. "Here, help me." The sideboards! It had been a bigger job than I wanted to do with just the low sideboards on. When we had exchanged the sideboards Pa went into the woodshed and came out with an armload of wood—the wood I'd spent all summer hauling down from the mountain, and then all fall sawing into blocks and splitting. What was he doing? Finally I said something. "Pa," I asked, "what are you doing?" "You been by the Widow Jensen's lately?" he asked. The Widow Jensen lived about two miles down the road. Her husband had died a year or so before and left her with three children, the oldest being eight. "Yeah," I said "why?"

"I rode by just today," Pa said. "Little Jakey was out digging around in the woodpile trying to find a few chips. They're out of wood, Matt." That was all he said and then he turned and went back into the woodshed for another armload of wood. I followed him. We loaded the sled so high that I began to wonder if the horses would be able to pull it. Finally Pa called a halt to our loading, then we went to the smoke house and Pa took down a big ham and a side of bacon. He handed them to me and and flour and shoes to the door. We knocked. The door opened a crack and a timid voice said, "Who is it?" "Lucas Miles, Ma'am, and my son, Matt. Could we come in for a bit?" Widow Jensen opened the door and let us in. She had a blanket wrapped around her shoulders. The children were wrapped in another and were sitting in front of the fireplace by a very small fire that hardly gave off any heat at all. "We brought you a few things, Ma'am," Pa said and set down the sack of flour. I put the meat on the table. Then Pa handed her the sack that had the shoes in it. She opened it hesitantly and took the shoes out one pair at a time. There was a pair for her and one for each of the children—sturdy shoes, the best, shoes that would last. I watched her carefully. She bit her lower lip to keep it from trembling and then tears filled her eyes and started running down her cheeks. She looked up at Pa like she wanted to say something, but it wouldn't come out. "We brought a load of wood too, Ma'am," Pa said, then he turned to me and said, "Matt, go bring enough in to last for awhile. Let's get that fire up to size and heat this place up."

I wasn't the same person when I went back out to bring in the wood. I had a big lump in my throat and, much as I hate to admit it, there were tears in my eyes too. In my mind I kept seeing three kids huddled around the fireplace and their mother standing there with tears running down her cheeks and so much gratitude in her heart that she couldn't speak. My heart swelled within me and a joy filled my soul that I'd never known before. I had given at Christmas many times before, but never when it had made so much difference.

I soon had the fire blazing and everyone's spirits soared. The kids started giggling when Pa handed them each a piece of candy and Widow Jensen looked on with a smile that probably hadn't crossed her face for a long time. She finally turned to us, "God bless you," she said. "I know the Lord himself has sent you. The children and I

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR AT OUR TOWN — An original stage presentation based on letters to the editor of The Republican newspaper will be given at Our Town Theatre on Dec. 28 and 29 at 8 p.m., Jan. 5 and 6 at 8 p.m., and on Jan. 7 at 2 p.m. The program has been under the direction of Jane Avery, who compiled the information provided by six other researchers, who, for several months, have examined past issues of the paper to find the vast variety of letters. The newspaper has been in existence since 1877, and epistles have been penned for that open forum known as "letters to the editor" for as long as the paper has been published. They tell of the life and times of citizens long past, and the problems of those times that often mirror the troubles of today. Seven "readers" will present the letters through interpretive readings. Avery added some dialogue to her script to help with connections and segues, but most of what the audiences will hear will be words published in The Republican at some time during its nearly 124-year history. The program is being presented in part through a grant from Maryland Celebration 2000. Tickets to the show are $5 each. Persons may make ticket reservations by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640 and leaving a message. Pictured are the readers for the show. In the front row, from left, are Liz Rose Gilbert, Don Sincell, Lola White, and Matt Eary. In the back, same order, are John Wilson, Mary McEwen, and Mikey Virts.

Our Town Theatre Presenting Letters To The Editor Program

A project that has been almost a year in the making will come to fruition at Our Town Theatre (OTT) this weekend and next, as Letters of Garrett County: Letters to the Editor is presented. The show is an original OTT production, built around letters written to the editor of The Republican since the paper's inception in 1877.

The research for the project was completed by seven individuals, who pored over the microfilm machine at the Ruth Enlow Library for months, each person assigned at least two decades.

"The idea for this project was not my own," said Jane Avery, director of the show and also the compiler of the information. She was first exposed to the "letters" idea some years ago in Bloomsburg, Pa., where a similar show was being given. The idea cropped up again at another location, and then two or three people suggested to Avery that OTT engage in such a project.

Air Quality Tests Set At Head Start Site In Jennings

Concerned teachers and parents of students at the Jennings Head Start site raised questions at a meeting last Thursday evening about air quality and environmental health in the recently renovated Head Start classrooms in the Jennings Community Center.

The meeting, held in Grantsville, brought together Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action, Head Start personnel, and Head Start parents to discuss complaints of ill health by those using the facility since it reopened in the fall following renovations during the summer. Complaints by staff, volunteers, and children included coughing, sore throats, rashes, itchy eyes,

"I'm so glad we have done it. It has been fascinating," she said. "And I think audiences will find it fascinating, too. The show celebrates who we are. It shows how similar we are to other smaller areas, but also how we have our own unique quirks and problems. Another intriguing aspect is the similarities of the problems 100 years ago to the problems of today. Some things truly never change."

The seven researchers, including Avery, used the microfilm at Ruth Enlow as well as the bound copies of The Republican at the newspaper office to find letters and make copies of them. Avery then took all of the copies and worked to arrange them.

Par-Matt Pool Game Leads To Knife Assault

An argument over a game of pool escalated into a confrontation involving a knife at Par-Matt Lanes Saturday evening, which ended with a juvenile sustaining a slash wound to his hand and the arrest of an 18-year-old Oakland man by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Gregory Thomas Smith was shooting pool with a 15-year-old male shortly before 8 p.m. when he and the juvenile began arguing over whether or not the boy had called his eight-ball shot. The incident came to a head when Smith drew what was reported to be a lockblade knife and brandished it in the juvenile's direction. The boy was slashed across the palm of his hand in what GBI detectives called a "defensive wound" as he attempted to fend off a possible attack. The wound required six stitches at the emergency room of Garrett Memorial

Water Damage To Grantsville Senior Center Temporarily Cancels Programs

Freezing pipes in a sprinkler system last weekend led to the temporary cancellation of programs at the Grantsville Senior Center, the site of congregate senior meals and activities, in addition to the Grantsville after-school program.

The multi-purpose community facility, open less than three years, includes a lobby, office, main dining room, two adjacent rooms, and a commercial kitchen. The sprinkler system pipes which froze were located in the ceilings throughout the building. "The only functional area right now is the kitchen," said Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action, the agency which owns and operates the building.

The kitchen is used for preparation of meals, which are delivered to homebound elderly residents in the Grantsville and Friendsville areas. "These meals will still be prepared and delivered as usual," said Linda Weeks of Community Action Area Agency on Aging.

HAPPY NEW YEAR! That could be the message of this nearly 12-foot-high "snowman" that stands along Underwood Road south of Oakland on the farm of Gene Matthews. The gentle giant was created, using a couple round bales of hay, snow, and appropriate apparel, by Heidi Qualls and Tom Hauser. Although the mountaintop is currently covered in a blanket of several inches of snow, the temperatures have remained well below those needed for good snowman-making. Forecasters say that we could receive a significant snowfall late Friday night and all day Saturday, with several inches expected. The continuous cold temperatures are linked to a rash of structure fires in the county during the past week, the most recent one reported this morning along Trap Run Road. Several local fire departments were summoned to that location at about 9 a.m., with a "working fire" reported, but details were not available at press-time.

Wisp Ownership To Change Hands In March 2001

The ownership of the Wisp Resort is in the process of transition, as the Heise family is reportedly selling the complex to DC Development LLC, a four-member development group. The news of the sale has been reported in several newspapers of late, although the transaction is not yet complete. The sale is expected to be final in March or early April, according to DC Development spokespersons.

The development group includes Karen Myers, Gene Frazee, Bob Rudy, and Gary Daum, who hope to develop a world-class resort area, including a new hotel, golf course, ski lodge, a gondola, and a snow tubing park, according to reports. Rudy said the plans are as yet incomplete and the group is not ready to make formal announcements.

"We'll feel more comfortable when the dotted lines are signed this spring," he said. At that time, a full feature on the history of Wisp, the transaction, and the plans for the area will be published in The Republican.

The project falls in line with the proposed adventure sports complex, a public-private endeavor that is currently gaining momentum toward reality. DC Developers have already donated 350 acres for the proposed project, which has vast support from local and state officials, as well as from Senator Barbara Mikulski, who voiced her interest in the project's development during her visit to Garrett County last week.

Wisp has been owned and operated by Helmut Heise and his family since 1955. It opened with only one or two slopes for the few patrons to use. Now the area boasts 23 slopes and a half-pipe for snowboarders, and is host to thousands of skiers on an almost daily basis.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

FATHER CHRISTMAS VISITS — There is much evidence that Santa Claus paid a visit to homes throughout Garrett County last week. Tiny 2-week-old Glory Lorain Canfield (daughter of Trishia and Arthur Centifield) got a special visit from the jolly old fellow when he made a stop in Grantsville. This picture of Santa holding little Glory also puts us in mind of another visitor on the horizon — Baby New Year, who will be ushered in as the old year, Father Time, makes his exit.

Convicted Burglar To Serve 11-Year Prison Sentence

A Frostburg area man was given an 11-year jail sentence for his role in a number of burglaries in the Grantsville and Accident areas one year ago. Michael Lee Shipley, 26, had entered guilty pleas in the Circuit Court of Garrett County last September to three counts of second degree burglary and one count of property destruction. Shipley faced Judge James Sherbin last week, who handed down the 11-year term.

One burglary and the property destruction charges stemmed from an incident at Yoder's Meat Packers on Dec. 24, 1999. Investigators with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI) determined that Shipley and a co-defendant entered into that business and removed a number of items. They also allegedly caused extensive damage to the interior of the building by spraying many areas with paint. According to the report, vending and coin changing machines, owned by CRH Catering and located inside, were also destroyed.

For the burglary, Sherbin sentenced Shipley to five years at the Department of Corrections. For the destruction of property, the judge imposed an additional one-year incarceration.

The defendant was also determined to have been involved with two others in the illegal entry of the Wildwater Inn on Jan. 29 of this year. During this incident, coins, cigarettes, a muzzle loader, and other items were removed, according to the report. Extensive damage was again done to the vending machines and games at the inn. Another five years was handed down to Shipley for this offense.

A third burglary occurred at the G&W Lumber company in Accident on Jan. 13 of this year. A number of Makita brand power tools, valued over $6,000, were stolen from the business, apparently by Shipley and a co-defendant. The investigation revealed that many of the tools were taken by Ronald and Christopher Wilt to Pennsylvania to be sold. This information was reportedly provided by the Pennsylvania State Police, which in turn executed search and seizure warrants at four locations within its

Blaze Destroys Chestnut Grove House Yesterday

A young mother and her infant daughter escaped injury Wednesday morning after fire broke out in their single-family house located along Rounds Wilson Road off Chestnut Grove Road just west of Bloomington. The cause of the fire remains under investigation, but is not considered suspicious.

Angie Corby told fire investigators that she heard glass breaking and saw smoke and fire just before 7 a.m. She made a quick call to 911, grabbed her daughter, and fled the house in her bare feet. The telephone wires burned during her conversation with the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management.

Corby husband Mark Corby Jr. had left for work just prior to her discovery of the blaze. She went to the home of her parents, Joseph and Karen Rounds, which is located about 100 yards away. She watched as the flames consumed her house.

Responding to the scene were volunteer firefighters from the Bloomington, Deer Park, and Kitzmiller VFDs, along with Tri-Towns, Potomac, Barton, and Midland units from Allegany County. The house was fully involved in flames upon their arrival. The loss was estimated to be $70,000, and the Corbys lost nearly all of their possessions.

Mrs. Corby said that they had purchased the house in August and had recently renovated the living room and the kitchen.

It took approximately an hour and a half to bring the fire under control. There was a rekindling at about 1 p.m. which was quickly extinguished. There were no injuries reported.

The family is currently staying at the Rounds residence and is receiving some assistance from the American Red Cross. Persons who have size 12-month infant clothing and men's and women's medium-size clothing to donate to the family are asked to telephone 301-334-3925 or 301-334-9172.

house rental units at Ski Harbor is under way by the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office. Two members of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company sustained minor injuries fighting the fire and were treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Firefighters from Deep Creek, Accident, Bittering, and Friendsville were initially called to the location at 12:57 p.m. Sunday after fire was discovered around a flue pipe in the attic of unit #13. The flames were quickly extinguished and, according to Deep Creek chief Mike Phillippi, great care was taken to make sure the fire was out the first time.

But when the alarm sounded again at 3:19 a.m. Monday, some 13 hours later, personnel from the same departments arrived on the scene to find unit #13 and two others, #12 and #14, fully involved in flames. Upon investigation it appeared that the fire had originated in the same unit as before.

"We cleaned the pipe and took all of the burned material out the first time," Phillippi said. "A rekindle normally would occur long before 13 hours had passed. I really don't know what happened."

Treated for injuries at the hospital were firefighters Will Taylor, who sustained a twisted knee in falling through the floor, and Jason King, whose hand was lacerated by window glass upon responding to the earlier alarm. The two were transported to the hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad.

Unit #13 was being rented by some skiers at the time, none of whom was in

U.S. Senator B. Mikulski Visits Garrett County

U.S. Senator Barbara Mikulski visited Garrett County last week, meeting with the commissioners, county department leaders, and members of the public for about two hours. Thanks were expressed to the senator for her dedication to home health care issues, her help with the expansion of the Garrett County airport, her continued support of local Community Development Block Grant applications, and other efforts.

Mikulski discussed the continuing struggle for adequate home health programs, noting that Garrett County has the only health department that still offers home health. There were 10 home health programs in the state two years ago, but the local one is the last to survive. The senator pointed out the importance of home health in a rural area, where seniors and ailing individuals often live in remote areas and are unable to obtain adequate transportation for medical assistance.

With a record of dedication to this problem, Mikulski pledged that she will continue to work for Medicare reform, which would include prescription drug benefits.

James Hinebaugh, director of the Garrett County Economic Development Department and also the president of the non-profit Adventure Sports Center Inc., asked for the senator's support of the proposed adventure sports complex (as reported last week). She promised to pen a letter of support within three days of the county's application for federal funds for the project.

The future of the Westvaco corporation was discussed, as Commissioner Wendell Beitzel asked the senator to help the company stay in business. Federal environmental regulations are causing continued problems at the paper factory, which has in the past 20 years inaugurated numerous adjustments to protect the environment but still struggles with regulations. The company is an employer of hundreds of area individuals.

Mikulski said she has already been in contact with Westvaco officials and is working with them on various tax credit projects and more environmentally focused efforts.

Superintendent of Garrett County Schools Wendell Teets asked Mikulski to keep in mind the vast differences between city school systems and rural ones. He asked that the systems be properly funded, but that the federal government remain flexible in its mandates to public schools. "What works in large city schools may not be effective in rural schools," he said.

He also expressed his opposition to any sort of "voucher" system, for which President-elect George Bush has voiced support. Teets said the granting of publicly funded vouchers to support private schools could very well undermine the funding of the public school system.

Mikulski said she would like to see an increase in funding for Title I, which allows for the purchase of a variety of items, such as school supplies and books. Teets said an increase would be much appreciated in Garrett County, where eight of the 11 elementary schools have previously used Title I money, and more could be eligible for it this year.

The senator praised the Garrett school system for its emphasis on technology training, and for its liaison with Garrett Community College that is currently providing advanced technology training for high school seniors. Currently, there are 19 students involved in the program. Upon their graduation this spring, they will possess an "A+" certification, signifying that they are trained in a wide variety of technology areas, including operation, maintenance, repair, and troubleshooting.

A longtime proponent of technology training and work force development, the senator said Garrett County is on the right track with this program. She said she hopes to enhance the offerings of schools and libraries across the state, and to support high school/college partnerships that increase work force readiness.

In other issues brought up last week, the senator offered to pen a letter of DONATING TO LIBRARY FUND - Many individuals, organizations, and businesses have contributed to the reNEW Grantville Library building fund this year. It is not too late to join the ranks of those supporting this effort to build a new library facility in Grantville. Anyone wishing to contribute may do so by stopping by any branch of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County or by mailing a check, designating that it is for the Grantville building fund, to: reNEW Fund, Grantville Branch, Ruth Enlow Library, P.O. support for a federal grant application being prepared by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The money is needed to enhance the policing of Garrett County neighborhoods, such as Mountain Lake Park.

Duane Yoder, president of Community Action, thanked the senator for her support of area block grant applications. Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County, thanked Mikulski for her continued support of funding programs that help prevent domestic violence, and Oakland mayor Asa McCain expressed his thanks for support given in the town's train station restoration project.

Icy Conditions Contribute To Auto Accident

Ice and snow and the roadway contributed to an accident Sunday, Dec. 24, that sent a Frostburg woman to the Memorial Hospital in Cumberland for treatment of injuries.

According to a report filed by Maryland State Police at the McHenry barack, Beverly Spiker, 41, was operating a 2000 Chevrolet Cavalier southbound on Route 495 south of Dung Hill Road at 8:45 a.m. when her vehicle slid on the snow- and ice-covered road. The car subsequently left the roadway, struck an embankment, and overturned. Northern Rescue Squad transported Spiker to Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Bittering Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

Tic. J. LeMay reported that no charges were filed against Spiker.

Strikes Tree
Joyce Smith, 42, Oakland, was treated and released by Garrett Memorial Hospital following an accident Tuesday night. Police said Smith was operating a 2000 Ford Explorer southbound on Cliff Road at 10:44 p.m., when her vehicle left the roadway and struck a tree.

No charges were filed by police.

Strikes Two Parked Cars
Aaron Shumaker, 20, Frostburg, faces multiple charges following a motor vehicle accident last Sunday morning. Tic. J. LeMay said the Shumaker was operating a 1998 Chevrolet Cavalier northbound on Finzel Road, north of Route 546, when he fell asleep, crossed the center line, and struck two parked cars.

Shumaker was taken to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where he refused to submit to a blood test, according to the investigating trooper, who reported noticing a moderate odor of alcohol on Shumaker's breath.

Police also said there were several unopened bottles of beer located at the accident scene.

Shumaker was charged with driving while intoxicated, failure to drive right of center, violating his license restriction, and possession of alcoholic beverages. He was released to his parents at the hospital, LeMay said.

GBI Seeks Leads In Kitzmiller Garage Burglary

A Tuesday night burglary in Kitzmiller is under investigation by detectives with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. Sometime between 9 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. the following morning at least two individuals kicked in a side door of Bob's Garage at 935 Kitzmiller Road to gain entry to the business. Approximately $1,200 worth of merchandise was taken, including $900 worth of cigarettes and additional quantities of beer, soda, and candy. The damage to the door was estimated at $100.

Any persons with information on this crime are asked to call the GBI at 301-334-1909, or the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911. Anonymity is guaranteed.

Ex-Dove Center Worker Faces Theft Charges

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation arrested a former employee of the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault shelter, on a variety of theft charges Tuesday. The woman is accused of depositing center funds directly into her personal checking account, among other allegations.

Mary Ann Durbin, 36, currently of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, faces charges of one count of felony theft, one count of felony theft scheme, and five counts of misdemeanor theft. Durbin had been employed as the shelter's business manager for approximately five weeks stemming from mid-September into late October. She resigned without giving prior notice on Oct. 27 and apparently left the state the same day.

Detective Clark Warnick's investigation uncovered several irregularities in the shelter's financial records stemming from the period of Durbin's employment, and it was determined that the suspect had allegedly taken checks from the center for deposit into her personal checking account.

Warnick also uncovered the unauthorized purchase of a cell phone made on a Dove Center account, and a check of phone company records revealed that 150 or more unauthorized long distance calls had been made on that account to a variety of locations in other states. The GBI has estimated that Durbin may have defrauded the Dove Center of more than $1,500 through misuse of checks and the cell phone.

After several phone conversations between Warnick, Durbin, and her attorney, Durbin turned herself in at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office Tuesday. Following her appearance before a district court commissioner, Durbin was released when she posted a $5,000 bond.

Friday Accident Leads To Charges For Swanton Man

A Swanton man faces several charges after he drove away from a Friday afternoon accident along Maryland Highway at Swanton Hill Road. No one was injured in the two-vehicle collision, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Shortly after 1 p.m. a 1994 GMC Sierra truck operated by William Joseph Harvey, 20, Swanton, skidded on a patch of ice from southbound Swanton Hill Road into Maryland Highway. Harvey's truck struck a westbound 1991 Chevrolet Cavalier operated by Susan Lynn Whitacre, 29, Kitzmiller, then continued on in the direction of Bloomington.

Harvey was stopped on Walnut Bottom Road by DFC Chuck Nolan, who filed charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI), failure to stop after an accident involving damage to an attended vehicle, and driving in violation of a provisional license.

One other alcohol-related traffic arrest took place this week, as deputies charged Sharyn Jane Burch, 31, Mtn. Lake Park, with DWI.

St. Peter's Hall Sustains Damage When Pipe Bursts

The parish hall of St. Peter's Catholic Church sustained major damage Tuesday evening when the interior of the two-floor structure was flooded after a pressurized sprinkler pipe burst in the kitchen. A comprehensive damage estimate is not yet available, according to Chris Comfort, secretary for the Oakland church. All public events scheduled to take place in the hall, including the youth dance slated for tonight, have been canceled.

The broken sprinkler pipe was discovered shortly before 6 p.m. after it had apparently been spewing forth water from the kitchen ceiling for several hours. As much as two inches of standing water covered the floor of the large upper hall, water also seeped under the floor tiles and flowed downward into the basement area through the baseboards along the sides of the walls. Comfort's office and a meeting room sustained what was described as heavy damage, while less severe damage was incurred throughout the lower floor of the building.

"Had the pipe not been discovered when it was, it could have flowed all night," said Comfort. "We're actually lucky the damage wasn't worse."

No specific cause for the pipe burst has been identified at this point. The parish hall, scene of many bloodmobiles, social gatherings, dances, plays, and musical performances attended by a wide spectrum of the community, is less than 10 years old.

MLP Accident Injures Two Friday Morning

A Mtn. Lake Park woman and her juvenile passenger sustained minor injuries Friday morning when their car was struck by another vehicle that skidded out of a turn in Mtn. Lake Park and struck two vehicles that were waiting at a stop sign.

The driver was charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies for failing to reduce speed, and the ice-covered roadway was cited as an additional contributing factor.

Regina Lynn Shaffer, 22, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., was entering B Street from eastbound Maryland Highway as she lost control of her vehicle. Her 1997 Chevrolet Cavalier struck the first vehicle in line at the stop sign, a 1996 Chevrolet van belonging to Garrett County Community Action Committee, which was operated by John Thomas Shahan Sr., 54, Mtn. Lake Park. Shaffer's car bounced off the van and then struck the next vehicle in line, a 1996 Subaru Legacy operated by Shari Jeanette Helbig, 35, Mtn. Lake Park, before coming to a stop.

Helbig and her 15-year-old passenger, Rachelle Jeanette French, Mtn. Lake Park, were both transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where both were treated and released. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Shaffer, who was deemed at fault, was charged with failure to reduce speed in dangerous weather.

Gov. Glendening Taps New Human Resources Chief

Governor Parris N. Glendening announced yesterday the appointment of Enelda Johnson as secretary of the Department of Human Resources (DHHR). Johnson will replace Lynda G. Fox, who is retiring after serving in state and county government for the past 14 years.

Johnson is currently serving as deputy secretary of the Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation (DLLR), managing day-to-day operations for an agency of almost 2,000 employees across the state. Prior to that, she was deputy assistant secretary for single family housing at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. From 1987 to 1994, Johnson held several management positions in Prince George's County as the Department of Housing and Community Development, including deputy director and manager of the Housing Development Division.

Just Another Day?...

At this time last year many folks were quite tense about the impending new year, as the big Y2K scare was about to reach a fevered pitch. Many predicted widespread blackouts, automobile engines coming to an abrupt halt, and passenger jets falling from the skies at the stroke of midnight December 31/January 1. None of that happened. We will probably never know if disaster was averted because of the success of the massive Y2K conversion campaign, or because most of it would not have happened anyway. One thing for sure, those in the computer business made a huge amount of money in the process.

Of course the real beginning of the next millennium was not last January 1, but will be this coming Monday, January 1, 2001. The year 2000 — every second of it — was simply the ending of the last millennium. The final second of the current millennium will be one second before midnight this coming Sunday night. When one counts to 200, for example, the number 100, and the entire split second it takes to say the words "one hundred," is part of the first 100. Only at the first utterance of 101 does the second 100 begin.

But, really, who cares? As we have said in this column in previous New Year editions, our dating system is just that — a system of numbers (hours, days, weeks, months...) that helps us keep track of things. New Year's is just another day, another 24-hour span in which the earth makes one complete revolution on its axis, just as it does on March 5, June 21, and October 17.

But we humans seem to need beginnings and endings, we need bench marks, we need turning points, even if they are only symbolic. We need all the help we can get to try to put the negative things in life behind us, wash our slates clean, and look toward the future with renewed hope. New Year's is such a tool.

So with that in mind, we wish all of our readers a healthy and prosperous new year, and we extend our appreciation for sticking with us yet another year as we work to keep you informed about what's going on in your community.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

To the persons complaining about Wal-Mart's lights — look on the "bright" side! Now there is a store in Oakland where you can purchase window blinds!

Sign me "Can't wait 'til Wal-Mart gets here!"
Linda Lewis
Corinth, W. Va.

To the Editor:

I would like to express my sympathy to the family of Brandy Talbot. Life is something very precious, and it is hard to lose a loved one. It makes it even harder when alcohol is a factor in it.

Where do we put the blame? Do we blame the driver? I think to some degree the driver has to accept the fact that it was wrong.

I think Audrey Lewis, Robert Lewis, Sharon Welch, Gloria Miller, and Mary Skipper have written these letters to the editor from the heart. The concerns they have though don't really mean that much to a lot of the people in Garrett County, but the ones whom it does mean something to are the good and decent people of Garrett County.

Truth is, if this child would have had the "right name" then it would have made a big difference. It doesn't take a New York lawyer to figure out who has the "right name" or the right amount of money in Oakland when fines and prison time are being handed out. All you have to do is read the paper each week.

I have my doubts if the person who did buy the alcohol will ever be charged. If they have not been charged yet, chances are they will not.

Is buying alcohol for a minor against the law in Oakland? Again, I would say it all depends on who you are. It's against the law just about everywhere else.

I would encourage the family of Brandy Talbot to contact the Maryland lawmakers and find out why no charges have been made.

Sometimes in life we don't understand why things happen as they do, and why people do the things that we do not comprehend, but one thing we all know is that it's hard to lose a loved one. As a father I think it would be extra hard to lose a child to death. As a rule, you think of children outliving their parents.

About 19 years ago I lost two children that I loved very much, and love them to this day, but I did not lose them to death. I lost them in the Garrett County courtroom. One of them was the girl driving the car in which Brandy Talbot was killed. If I could sit down and talk face-to-face with Judge Fred Thayer, I would like to ask him if he really thinks he made the right choice. I think not.

So to all who feel justice was not served, you're not alone.

Mark L. Mayle

To the Editor:

Some people recently complained about light and noise pollution at Wal-Mart. These are but two of the many problems that I predicted (at public meetings, by the way) would happen concomitant with the so-called economic development that is being pushed and promoted by your elected and appointed officials. Well folks, you ain't seen nothin' yet! Just wait 'til all of that traffic comes roaring into the county, bringing more of the same, along with crime and grime. Come on now, you don't really believe that Wal-Mart is building this superstore to accommodate 20% of you who shop at one of their other stores, do you? "Build it and they will come"—hoards of them. All of you who complained about traffic congestion and other traffic problems are in for a real shocker. You thought it was tough getting across 219? You thought that truck traffic on 219 was too heavy? How do you suppose Wal-Mart will get its supplies—airlift?

For good paying jobs, right? Let me see, $5.40/hr. comes to $11,232/yr. based on a 40-hour week. That should be sufficient for a family of four to buy candles after their electricity is cut off. Add to all of this the fact that some of your visionaries saw fit to annex the area, thereby supplying Wal-Mart with much needed water and sewer service. And who do you think will be the first to be asked to sacrifice when, not if, the next drought comes along — Wal-Mart or the citizens of Oakland?

By the way, whatever happened to Wilson Run and Cherry Glade Creek, two Class Use Three trout streams that were supposed to have been protected by law (federal law, that is), and the trees that I called the MDE about before they were cut down? Do you think that money may have entered into the decision-making process, i.e., it would have cost money to save them? Good neighbors, right?

The real question is, why didn't the politicians who promised to represent all of the people do something? Because they are too busy distributing "well-fare" to big corporations than being concerned about ordinary people, that's why. I recall that when they ran for office, promises were made that they would focus on helping the young people in the county "because they are the future." However, rarely is money ever found for projects that directly benefit the young.

All of these different programs, such as ARC, Program Open Space, etc., all sound nice, and one would think that they're designed for these very projects, but nothing could be further from the truth. These tax dollars are funneled from the various state and federal government agencies to the Department of Economic Development, thence the Economic Development Corporation (a quasi-public corp.), and finally, in all too many instances, they are given to big business. A few examples include $3 million plus for Simon Pearce, many millions for the Adventure Sports Center (a not-so-public venture), millions in direct and indirect financial aid to ClosetMaid, and lots of "well-fare" for other big businesses in the county.

A couple of years ago Commissioner Wendell Beitzel stated in a public meeting that "free enterprise is alive and well." That may be true, but the average citizens in the county would like to have access to some of that "free money" that some "enterprising corporations" seem to get most of the time.

It occurs to me that an interesting story that someone at The Republican might consider doing one day could be: "Corporate Subsidies vs. Jobs and Wages: are the taxpayers getting their money's worth?" Tax abatements, direct grants, loans converted to grants, and any and all other public financial support given to businesses in the county could be listed next to each business, along with the number of jobs provided, the number occupied by Garrett Countians, and the current wages paid to the employees. Other considerations could include the number of jobs promised/actual number of jobs (think Simon Pearce), the number of jobs provided by a former employer compared to the number of jobs provided by the current employer in that same space (think Simon Pearce). Who knows, many of us might find the information enlightening. At the very least, I believe, it should help some people get their priorities right.

NEW LESSONS ABOUT CHRISTMAS

At some point in life one thinks one knows all there is to know about Christmas. I am not sure when I thought I had crossed that threshold, but the fact that I did think so was implicit in the way I went at Christmas. I would not have been surprised to have received new information about Christmas, but I thought I understood the soul of Christmas.

As you have already guessed, this year Christmas has surprised me. The young people in my life taught me these new lessons. That befits the season since — as a great aunt of mine was fond of saying, "...and a little child shall lead them." In this case, it was bigger children who led me.

My son Nick, now 15, was the first to surprise me when talking about his expectations for Christmas presents. "I know," he said, "that you'll give me a book." While not in the business of hinting at Christmas presents, I wanted to dispel that expectation in order to forestall disappointment.

"I've given up giving you books," I told him. "You never read them." He was silent for a moment, and then said, "I'll be highly disappointed if I don't get a book. That's what you give for Christmas — books." That dumfounded me.

The significance of this exchange will not be fully appreciated by those outside our family circle. Christmas after Christmas my gifts are greeted with dull exclamations, like, "Is this from Uncle Jeffrey (or Papa)? Then I know what it is — a book." The word "book" is spoken with the tone of voice and facial expression that might accompany the receipt of the proverbial bag of coal or bundle of switches. How was I to know that those derisive protestations were, in fact, expressions that "God's in his heaven — All's right with the world?"

A few days later while setting up the Christmas tree, nephew Tanner, age 11, asked me, rhetorically, if I knew what he liked best about Christmas. Playfully I answered, "mincemeat pie and Christmas pudding." I said that because I am unable to dispose of a small Christmas pudding on Christmas Day and only my grandmother eats a piece of mincemeat pie.

"That's part of it," he replied, and shocked me into looking up and giving him my undivided attention. He continued, "...and the yule log, and the Christmas crackers..." and several other things the children complain about every year, "and being with my family."

I had thought all these efforts at tradition on my part went unappreciated year after year, and that I had to be satisfied with doing them for myself. Now I discovered that the children count on those traditions. Perhaps their complaining and derision are but traditions of their own.

The two exchanges with son and nephew led me to reflect more generally on child rearing and how to do it well. The most important thing is to be an adult. The second most important thing is to remember what it is like to be a child. If those two things are gotten really right, then there is not much else to get wrong.

The trick is to listen with the inner ear of the adult for the inner voice of the child. Therein and only therein can a parent, grandparent, uncle, or aunt hope to distinguish between when the child is saying, "I really want life to be different than I have been experiencing it," and when, "Be my Polaris! Be constant so that I can chart the course of my life from you as a fixed point in the heaven."

We had a traditional Christmas Day with all those trappings which give shape to the comfortable constellations which help these children and perhaps a few adults, too, along the pilgrim path of life. Sometimes the experience of beauty is so intense that it hurts, birth pangs perhaps, becoming to the day.

We are proceeding through these 12 days in celebration of our Saviour and that we are his and, in him, each other's. On this, the fourth day of the feast: Merry Christmas!

CAREER DAY

REFLECTIONS

by Peggy Santamaría

The much-heralded year 2000 is winding down. Now it is almost time to replace the calendar on the kitchen wall — to put up the new one which affirms that, indeed, spring will come again. It is a time of transition and reflection, a time to consider the people, the events, the growth, and the stumbling that brought us to where we are today.

Working for The Republican has allowed me to meet so many people who have profoundly touched me. People who have openly shared the experiences and beliefs that have shaped their lives. I have also had the honor of working with the men and women who contribute daily to the quality of life that we so treasure in Garrett County — educators, health care providers, advocates for the elderly and the abused, those who enforce the law, protect our communities, and volunteer their service to fight fires and rescue the sick and injured.

Looking back over this year's adventures and adversities is perhaps more poignant than usual because the new year will find me serving Garrett County in another capacity. As I move on to a new phase, a new place, and new challenges, I am so grateful for the all the memories I will take with me. It has been a wonderful time, a wonderful experience.

I am pretty certain that whoever has the good fortune to assume this post will also thrive on the experience and understand why I say, "Thank you. It has been an honor and a privilege."

range them in some semblance of order, with those of similar themes put together. Seven "readers" (John Wilson, Lois White, Don Sincell, Mike Virts, Liz Rees Gilbert, Matt Fary, and Mary McIwen) will present the letters, or letter excerpts, through interpretive readings.

The "gleaners" of the information were Avery, Beverly Sincell, Mike Virts, Venessa Stacy, Robin Spiker, Mary McIwen, and Melodie Hill. The only way to study the past issues of The Republican is to use the one microfilm machine at Ruth Enlow, which can be tedious after a short while, or handle the aging copies at the newspaper office.

"After this experience, I strongly suggest that some funding be found to transfer all the microfilm copies onto laser disks," Avery said. "These papers are rich with our county's history from 1877 on. This is a precious collection and it should be preserved in a more permanent form. What if, God forbid, the library were destroyed, or the newspaper office? It would be gone. That would be a tragedy."

Avery expressed her appreciation to the staff at Ruth Enlow for their assistance in the project.

The program will be presented Dec. 28 and 29 at 8 p.m., Jan. 5 and 6 at 8 p.m., and on Jan. 7 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $5 each. Persons may make ticket reservations by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640 and leaving a message, including the number of tickets needed for which night, a contact name, and a contact phone number. Confirmation calls will be made.

"I hope lots of people come to this show," Avery said. "I think local people will find it so engaging. Some letters are hilarious, others are deeply touching. It has been a difficult project, but such a joy to do."

the Yoder's Meat Packers burglary.

A Grantsville woman involved in a related case was also sentenced by Judge Sherbin last week. Rebecca Ann Fazenbaker, 20, previously entered a guilty plea to being an accessory after the fact to the G&W Lumber burglary. The defendant was charged after GBI officers determined that she had taken battery packs from the Makita tools stolen from the local business, and then returned them to Lowe's in LaVale in exchange for merchandise credit.

Sherbin sentenced Fazenbaker to two years in jail, and then suspended the sentence and placed her on two years of supervised probation.

Local Man Facing Charges Of DWI

Oakland Police charged Robert Lee Hovermale Jr., 50, Mtn. Lake Park, with driving while intoxicated on Saturday, Dec. 23. Chief John Sines said that Hovermale was stopped while traveling along Third Street at 8:30 p.m.

According to Sgt. Roger Lewis of the Oakland Police, he had to swerve his vehicle to avoid being hit by the vehicle Hovermale was driving. A Breathalyzer test was administered to Hovermale at the Oakland Police Department. He was later released on $500 bond.

of first- and second degree assault and reckless endangerment, was released from the Garrett County Detention Center when he posted a $25,000 bond, as set by a district court commissioner.

In other police news, a Mtn. Lake Park woman was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies late last Thursday night after a domestic altercation with her boyfriend.

Deputies responded to the couple's residence at 410 K Street at approximately 11 p.m. to find the couple, Rhoda Lee Wiles, 74, and Steven Boldman, 35, still fighting. Wiles was reportedly witnessed pushing Boldman up against a wall and striking him twice with her fist.

Wiles was arrested and charged with second degree assault, and was later released from jail on her own recognizance. Both she and Boldman were drinking when the incident occurred, the report stated.

Glaucoma: Maintaining Proper Eye Pressure Is Critical

By definition, glaucoma is an increase in pressure within the eyeball. The goal of glaucoma management is to control this pressure (referred to as intraocular pressure). If the buildup of pressure in the anterior chamber is not relieved, damage to the optic nerve and loss of vision (blindness) can result. Reduction of intraocular pressure is accomplished with:

Eye Drops: Certain medicines decrease the production of fluid in the eye. Prostaglandins and cholinergic-like medicines such as pilocarpine increase the outflow or drainage of fluid of the eye.

Laser Surgery: This procedure may be performed in the doctor's office or eye clinic. A high beam of light is aimed at the lens and reflected into a meshwork within the eye that allows for the flow of fluid from the eye.

Conventional Surgery: If drops and laser surgery are not successful, conventional surgery may be used. Incisions are made in the iris and/or small portions of the meshwork removed, allowing for fluid drainage and a reduction of pressure in the anterior eye chamber.

CAST AWAY

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:23 - Released 12/22/00
Warning: while there are no plot elements revealed here which do not appear in the film's trailer, some readers may wish to wait until after they've seen Cast Away before reading this review. The effectiveness of some of the film's surprises may be compromised.

A man stranded on a desert island has served as the premise for classic literature like Robinson Crusoe and Swiss Family Robinson, and has even figured into the recent fad of wildly popular and intellectually barren TV shows like Survivor. In Robert Zemeckis's Cast Away, it's two-time Oscar winner Tom Hanks learning to crack coconuts and spear fish; he'll doubtless acquire another nomination for this intense work. Hanks has been stranded in outer space, behind enemy lines, and even in an evil toy store owner's office, but this performance, done with no other actors present during the majority of screen time, tops all the others, reaching the emotional level he acquired in his first Oscar-winning role, Philadelphia. If only his supporting cast measured up.

Cast Away, written by William Broyles Jr. (Apollo 13), is presented in three acts. The first section, which takes place in 1995, introduces us to Chuck Noland (Hanks), a Federal Express executive from Memphis whose job is to instill in his trainees his own slavish reverence for being on time. "Never commit the sin of turning your back on time," he preaches. Although he loves his girlfriend Kelly (Helen Hunt) very dearly, he must leave her at Christmas for a business trip halfway around the world. As they quickly exchange gifts, she gives him a family heirloom pocket watch with a picture of herself inside the cover. "I'll be right back," he says, kissing her goodbye. Hours later, his cargo plane crashes in the South Pacific, and Chuck, the only survivor, washes up on the shore of a tiny, uninhabited island with no provisions or supplies except the clothes on his back, his tiny picture of Kelly (in the stopped watch), and the contents of a few FedEx packages he manages to rescue.

The middle portion of the film, following Chuck's adventures from his first day to his rescue four years later, is the longest and most engaging part. With virtually no dialogue except for the occasional comment to himself or to a volleyball he names "Wilson," Hanks pulls off an amazingly real performance. Acting is much more difficult without a script to suggest emotions or the direction of events; Hanks and Zemeckis say with pictures what could not be said with a thousand words.

The final section involves Chuck's return home after having been thought dead by everyone he knows. Kelly, now married with a daughter, has understandably gone through the grieving process and moved on.

It is wise of Zemeckis, who led Hanks to his second Oscar in Forrest Gump, to devote such a large portion of the film to Chuck's solitary exploits in his hellish paradise, because the scenes which feature other actors are noticeably less effective. Hanks and Hunt don't connect well enough before his absence to make their strained relationship afterward appear in stark contrast as it should. It is effective on the part of Broyles's script that the film is presented completely from Chuck's point of view rather than switching back and forth between him and Kelly, so we don't see her for the entire time he's on the island, either. Apparently, filming was halted for a year in order for Hanks to lose 50 pounds and grow his hair and beard; Zemeckis used this time to film What Lies Beneath. The change in Hanks's appearance is surprising, though some will recognize a similar look during one portion of Gump. Don Burgess's cinematography, supplying dazzling views of Chuck's tropical prison, highlight the irony of his situation, and Alan Silvestri's distinctive musical score, although used sparingly, also underscores the sweeping beauty of the surroundings.

If all of Cast Away were as gripping as its long midsection, it would be overwhelming; still, even with its flaws, it marks another milestone performance for Tom Hanks as well as for Robert Zemeckis. ★★★★★

THE FAMILY MAN

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:05 - Released 12/22/00
The Family Man is one of those holiday feel-good romance movies designed to make us all understand the reason for the season, appreciate those around us, and stop whining about selling out our dreams all those years ago. A curious mixture of A Christmas Carol and It's a Wonderful Life, it features a cold millionaire who is shown what his life would be like if he had chucked it all and married his college girlfriend rather than leaving her to pursue the almighty dollar. The film would be much more effective if it had someone in it to inspire the desired sentiment, but Nicolas Cage is hard-pressed to register any real emotion, and Téa Leoni isn't much better. There is no chemistry between the two, and one wonders why their characters would have ever been together in the first place, let alone get back together.

Jack Campbell (Cage) is as cold a mercenary as there ever has been, who runs a Wall Street investment firm called P.K. Lassiter. The fact that tomorrow is Christmas doesn't deter him from closing a major deal, and expecting all his employees to be there, too. "After tomorrow every day will be like Christmas," he says amid the cynical protests of his co-workers. But on the way home, Jack meets a man he takes to be a homeless criminal (Don Cheadle), who tells him that something is about to happen, and that Jack brought it on himself. Jack goes to bed alone, a millionaire with a Ferrari and a huge deluxe apartment in Manhattan, and wakes up Christmas morning a middle class tire salesman in suburban New Jersey with a lovely wife snoring beside him, a crappy minivan parked outside, and a couple of screaming kids jumping on his bed. Basically, he turns into me.

Jack's wife is Kate (Leoni), his former girlfriend whom he deserted at an airport 13 years ago. Although he is mightily confused by the situation, she acts as if they've been married for years, and the children call him "Daddy." Determined to find out what's going on, he runs outside and drives to his office only to find the place closed for Christmas. Rudely rebuffed by his doorman and receptionist, he meets up again with Cheadle's character (driving Jack's Ferrari), who tells him that he has been afforded a glimpse of what his life could have been. As days turn into weeks, Jack learns that while his salary is a pathetic fraction of his former wealth, he is surrounded by family and friends who love him dearly, although Kate is quite confused by his erratic behavior and his preschool daughter Annie (Makenzie Vega) is convinced he's an alien. Just as he is beginning to notice how lovely Kate has become and how precious his children can be, he is approached by the mystery man again and told that he must return to his previous life.

This film is written by David Diamond & David Weissman and directed by Brett Ratner (Rush Hour), a creative team with precious little experience behind them. Perhaps this inexperience is a partial explanation as to why the film is no more engaging than it is. The lack of connection between the two stars is buffered somewhat by the sheer cuteness of the young Vega and the baby boy who plays her little brother, and a notable supporting performance by Jeremy Piven as Jack's supportive friend and bowling buddy. But Cage's delivery of the Big Final Speech is strained and uncomfortable, and the film's ending is unsatisfying, offering a conflicted message and only a meager chance of hope. ★★½

DRACULA 2000

Rated R - Running Time: 2:07 - Released 12/22/00
Attaching famous horror director Wes Craven's name to Dracula 2000, which he did not direct but co-produced, was a wise move on the part of Miramax, since calling it Patrick Lussier's Dracula 2000 doesn't exactly have the same drawing power. Craven, who directed not only Nightmare On Elm Street, but all three Scream movies among many others, is but one of ten producers who put their faith in erstwhile editor Lussier's first feature film, which he also wrote along with Joel Soisson. The film is not bad for a freshman effort (Craven and his nine pals must have had some reason for high expectations), but, like most directors these days, Lussier tends to spend more effort on cool effects and eye-pleasing presentation than more substantive issues, like character interaction.

Most films about Bram Stoker's original bloodsucker take place at least 100 years ago, but as its title suggests, this one is set in the present. We all know vampires never die, but the reason we haven't heard much from the Fab Fang in the last century is because he has been locked away in a vault by his age-old nemesis, wealthy London antiques dealer Abraham Van Helsing (Christopher Plummer). Van Helsing, whom Dracula took a bite of back in the 1800s, has been living a secret life trying to find a way to destroy the seemingly invincible creature. Of course, Van Helsing is a vampire too, but instead of prowling the streets looking to drain other people's life fluid, he simply survives on the blood sucked out of his pony-toothed creator by leeches. No, it ain't pretty, folks. But when thieves rob the vault of its precious casket-clad booty, all heck breaks loose. Dracula (Gerard Butler) descends on New Orleans during Mardi Gras, searching for Van Helsing's estranged daughter Mary (Justine Waddell), thinking that since she is descended from his own blood, she is his to suck. Rather forward, but I guess during Mardi Gras, anything goes. Meanwhile, Van Helsing's assistant (Jonny Lee Miller), who tries to help, finds himself under attack not only by the count but by a bevy of sexy, sucking she-devils, including Colleen Fitzpatrick and Jennifer Esposito. Hubba, hubba.

There are precious few good performances in this movie, and it would be really great if the title character were one of them. As Dracula, Butler looks good, and younger than we are accustomed to (he doesn't resemble Bela Lugosi or Christopher Lee so much as Vinnie Barbarino), but from a character standpoint, he doesn't do much except stride out of various walls of mist and bare his teeth. Waddell shows a bit more life as the virginal Mary, and Plummer is quite effective as her dear old dad. The film culminates with an utterly ridiculous plot contrivance regarding who Dracula really is, and is shamefully peppered with plugs for Virgin Records, who must have put up half the money to fund the thing. In the end, the craftily named "Wes Craven's Dracula 2000" seems more like a work of commerce than art. ★★

in Garrett County

Outreach Team Helping Reduce Indoor Pollution

During winter months when windows remained closed against the cold, the possibilities for poor air quality in the home increase, according to Garrett County Health Department Outreach workers. "Parents need to be aware of indoor pollution and what may cause it," said Michael Gibbons, of the Outreach program.

One of the major causes of indoor air contamination is tobacco smoke, Gibbons pointed out. "Second-hand smoke becomes more of a problem in the winter months. The example I use to explain this to parents is that if someone smokes one cigarette while in a closed car with a child, it's as if the child smoked three cigarettes because of smaller lungs. If someone needs to smoke, it is better to go outside and not pollute the indoor air," he said.

During November, the health department carried the message of the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout to communities around the county. "The theme this year was 'The Great American Smokeout Workout.' We went to different locations and gave out information and tips on smoking cessation," Gibbons explained.

In addition to encouraging people to stop smoking, the health department team emphasizes the importance of installing smoke detectors and carbon monoxide detectors within the home. Gibbons noted that anyone who needs help or information on smoking cessation, smoke detectors, carbon monoxide detectors, or any other health-related issue may call 301-334-8122.

Advocates Day Set In Annapolis By Alzheimer's Assn.

Alzheimer's Advocates Day 2001 will be held in Annapolis on Tuesday, Feb. 20, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Western Maryland, Eastern shore, and Central Maryland chapters of the Alzheimer's Association.

Hosted by St. John's College, the forum will afford family members, caregivers, and other interested Alzheimer's advocates the opportunity to meet with state legislators to discuss issues of importance to those who have Alzheimer's disease and those who care for them. Advocacy training will be provided during the meeting to prepare participants for their legislative visits.

Carpooling to the event may be arranged, and refreshments and lunch will be provided free of charge. For more information on Alzheimer's Advocates Day, persons may call Barbara Pilgram, executive director of the Alzheimer's Association, Western Maryland Chapter at 800-696-6830.

Alzheimer's Assn. Notes "Victories" In Federal Budget

Alzheimer's disease programs and research fared well in the federal budget process, according to the Alzheimer's Association, Western Maryland Chapter, after a review of the budget passed by Congress on December 15.

"We believe the budget is a bipartisan recognition of the significant impact Alzheimer's disease has on families. This legislation will provide important building blocks for the new administration in its ability to tackle the growing threat the disease will cause our nation's health care system," said Barbara Pilgram, executive director of the Western Maryland Chapter.

KEY LEGISLATIVE VICTORIES

• "Homebound" definition to allow for day care. A provision to clarify the Medicare "homebound" definition to allow beneficiaries to attend adult day care was included in the final budget bill. This provision change was one of the Alzheimer's Association's top legislative priorities. Research has found that adult day care is a successful therapeutic treatment for persons with Alzheimer's disease and other dementias.

Previously, Medicare rules stated that to be eligible for home health benefits, a person must require skilled nursing care and be declared "homebound" (i.e., the beneficiary can only leave the home infrequently and with great assistance from another individual.) Under the old rules, a beneficiary with Alzheimer's disease who attended adult day care failed to meet the "homebound" criteria, and was denied the home health benefits which would otherwise be authorized.

• Research, grants increased. The Labor/HHS Appropriations bill included a 14 percent increase in funding for Alzheimer research, bringing the amount to over 500 million in FY 2001. The bill also allows $9 million for the Alzheimer grants at the Administration on Aging — a 50 percent increase which will permit program expansion into additional states. These grants foster the development of services targeting people with Alzheimer's.

• Family caregiver support funded. The Caregiver Support Program, fully funded at $125 million, will provide community-level benefits including respite care, adult day care, counseling services, and caregiver training.

• Safe Return Program funded. The budget contained $900,000 for the Alzheimer's Association's nationwide Safe Return Program, which assists in identification and return of people with Alzheimer's and other dementias who wander and become lost.

The Alzheimer's Association is the premier source of information and support

TREE OFFERS HOPE — Pink and purple ribbons inscribed with names of the contributors decorate the Tree of Hope in the lobby of the Grantsville office of First Peoples Community Federal Credit Union. for the 4 million Americans with Alzheimer's disease. Through its national network of chapters, it offers a broad range of programs and services for patients, families, and caregivers, and represents their interests on Alzheimer's-related issues before federal, state, and local government, as well as with health and long-term care providers.

Senior Rx Plan Now Offered In Garrett County

Garrett County seniors are among those in 17 designated Maryland counties now eligible to purchase coverage that provides up to $1,000 in annual prescription drug benefits.

Individuals who are at least 65 years old and are enrolled in Medicare Part B may qualify for coverage under the Rural Senior Pharmacy Program, administered by CareFirst Blue-

Cross BlueShield. The Maryland General Assembly created the subsidized prescription drug program to address the needs of seniors in Maryland's rural counties who lost pharmacy benefits when their Medicare HMO exited the federal Medicare+Choice program.

Previously, benefits were available only to those who had been enrolled in a Medicare+Choice plan that had terminated coverage in the designated counties. Now, the program is available to all eligible seniors in Garrett County as well as Allegany, Calvert, Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Frederick, Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot, Washington, Wicomico, and Worcester counties.

The $40 monthly premium provides:

- A $1,000 prescription drug maximum benefit for each contract year, after paying a $50 deductible.

• A three-tier prescription drug co-pay program, under which members pay $10 for generic drugs, $20 for preferred brand-name drugs, and $35 for non-preferred brand-name drugs.

Seniors interested in learning more about how they may benefit from the Rural Senior Pharmacy Program may call CareFirst at 1-800-972-4612.

Tree Of Life To Help Sponsor Relay For Life

A special Christmas tree has been set up since mid-December in the Grantsville office of First Peoples Community Credit Union. This tree, dubbed the Tree of Hope, is part of a fundraiser for the American Cancer Society and First Peoples.

Anyone who stops in the office is invited to purchase a ribbon for $1. These ribbons, bearing the name of the contributor, are hung on the tree. The goal of the project is to raise $1,000 that will go to eventually go toward funding the First Peoples team that will take part in the Relay for Life event scheduled at Beall High School in Allegany County, where First Peoples main office is located.

The idea for the Tree of Hope fund-raiser was conceived by Susan Derlan, loan officer and Relay for Life team captain. Derlan also said that a number of other projects are planned to raise the money, including bingo games and dances.

Teams are being formed through First Peoples to take part in the Relay for Life. Anyone who is interested in joining or becoming a corporate sponsor may contact Tenna Taylor at 301-722-2145.

Rams Battle Vikings To Wire, Drop 49-48 Contest In Oakland

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team dropped a nail-biter Friday night, as visiting Petersburg sank a free throw in the final seconds that put the Vikings up by a one-point margin, 49-48. The Vikings' record improved to an impressive 5-1, while the Rams fell to an even 3-3 mark.

It was a hard-fought battle, as the squads were either knotted in a tie or separated by a bucket or less throughout the evening. The Vikings were up by a 13-12 margin after one quarter of play, and took a 23-19 advantage into the halftime locker room. The Rams clawed back into a 34-33 lead by the opening of the final period.

Southern was still on top by a score of 48-46 with less than two minutes to play, but a clutch two-pointer by Petersburg's Janel Hedrick tied the game at 48-48. As the clock ground down, the Rams fouled Krista Crites, who sank one of a pair of free throws to put the Vikings up by one. SHS had one more possession coming its way, but after successfully inbound the ball the Rams turned it over at the foul line as the final buzzer sounded.

Petersburg
Sis Sindedecker 0 0-1 0, Sarah Earle 10-0-2, Erica Kuykendall 8-4-20, Janel Hedrick 5-4-6 14, Krista Crites 4-4-8 12, Ashley Barr 0 1-2 1. Totals 18 13-24 49.

Southern
Jennifer Bosley 1 4-4 6, Robbin Gregg 2-2-2 6, Ashley Liller 5-1-12, Charlene Reeves 1-3-4-5, Becca Flanagan 8-3-5 19. Totals 17 13-17 48.

Three-point goals - Southern 1 (Liller). Total fouls - Petersburg 16, Southern 21 (Gregg) fouled out.

Petersburg 13 23 33 49
Southern 12 19 34 48

Freshman forward Becca Flanagan paced Southern with 19 points and nine rebounds, and junior guard Ashley Liller added 12 points, three of which came from three-point land. Petersburg's Erica Kuykendall led all scorers with 20 points, while Hedrick added 14 points and Crites contributed 12.

Southern's junior varsity unit took its contest by a convincing 35-16 tally. Justine Pagenhardt led the way to the Ram win by sinking 16 points, while Robin Mongold scored a dozen for the Vikings.

Southern's next outing will be tonight as the Maple City Classic gets under way in Meyersdale, Pa., as the Rams square off as part of a four-team field rounded out by Bishop Walsh, Somerset, and the host Red Raiders. SHS will take to the floor at 8 p.m. tonight after the conclusion of the 6:30 p.m. opener (specific pairings have yet to be announced). The Classic concludes Saturday evening with a 6:30 p.m. consolation game and the 8 p.m. championship match-up.

Teams Sought For Maryland Youth Tourney

National Youth Athletic Association Basketball is accepting teams for the 2001 Youth Basketball Maryland State Championship Tournament. The 2001 tournament will be held in March for members of this nonprofit national youth basketball organization. Winners of the state tournament will represent their state in the National Championship Tournament.

RAMS CRACK THE ZONE and get the ball inside for two in Friday night's heartbreaking 49-48 homecourt loss to Petersburg. Freshman Southern guard Robbin Gregg (#15) is shown above working against the Vikings' zone defense, as teammates Charlene Reeves (#45, partially obstructed) and Becca Flanagan (#55) jockey for position in the key. Below, it's evident that Gregg's patience paid off with an assist as she hit Flanagan, who had maneuvered to the far side of the basket, and the freshman post player sinks an easy layup with follow Rem Ashley Liller (#21) swatting a possible rebound. The bucket, part of Flanagan's team-high 19-point output, put the Rams up by one as the third quarter drew to a close. Eight minutes later the two teams were still separated by a single point, although at the final buzzer it was the Vikings who held the advantage. Southern will attempt to get back into the win column this weekend as the 3-3 Rams travel to Meyersdale, Pa., to take part in the annual Maple City Classic, with Bishop Walsh, Somerset, and host Meyersdale slated to round out the field.

Brackets exist for boys and girls ages 11 to 16.

Rams Blow Big Lead In Loss To Wildcats; Defeat Vikings

After building a lead of 33-19 by halftime last Friday evening in Lonaconing, and holding a 44-33 advantage after three quarters, the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball players let their hosts, the Westminster Wildcats, outscore them by an 18-5 margin in the final period, which gave the Wildcats a 51-49 upset victory.

The Rams bounced back the following evening by defeating host Petersburg, 56-47, and upping their overall record to 2-1, which they will put on the line this weekend in their own annual Snowball Classic.

It was a two-point bucket by Westminster's Bobby Alkire with just five seconds left in Friday night's contest that broke a 49-49 tie and gave the Wildcats the win.

The Rams actually led by 17 points late in the third quarter, 42-25, but Josh Glass hit three three-point shots to spearhead a 26-7 run by the Wildcats. Westminster finished with an excellent shooting night from the floor, and actually won the game with a modest 50% effort at the foul line. The Wildcats converted 10 of 20 opportunities, while the Rams connected on just five of 16 attempts from the line. Southern finished with a 22-18 edge in field goals.

The Rams, who were on top 19-14 at the end of the first quarter, had one more opportunity to win or tie the game in the closing seconds after Alkire's shot, but committed a turnover on the inbound pass.

Glass finished with a game-high 19 points, while teammate James Wills

The win was the third in five games for Westminster.

"This was one of the most frustrating losses I've ever had in my career," Coach Tom Bosley said. "But we just weren't hitting our shots and we were terrible at the foul line, while they were hitting some amazing shots that usually just don't connect for anyone."

The Rams also held leads at the end of the first three quarters against Petersburg the next evening, although the home team trailed by just three, 35-32, after three quarters. The Rams were up 12-9 and 23-17 after periods one and two. This time, however, Southern pulled away in the final stanza, outscoring the Vikings by a 21-15 margin.

Reams led the Rams offensively with 18 points, including an 8-for-9 effort from the foul line, while Panther also reached double figures with 15 points.

Leading the Vikings was Simon Buric, who recorded 18 points, five assists, and three steals. Nathan Hinkle added nine points.

The Rams greatly improved their effectiveness from the foul line, from which they converted 24 of 29 shots for an 84% effort. They made good on 15 of 16 free throws in the final quarter.

It was the second loss in three starts for the Vikings.

host Catonsville, Linganore, and Frankfort. Two games will be played Friday evening, with Catonsville meeting Frankfort in the 6:30 p.m. game, and Southern taking on Linganore in the 8:15 p.m. contest. The consolation and championship games will be played at the same times, respectively, on Saturday night.

"Frankfort is off to a great start (2-0) and has the area's top scorer right now in William Ault, who is averaging 29 points in his first two games," Bosley said. "Catonsville and Linganore are both very good 2A schools, which have actually played each other already this season." Catonsville, the defending champion of the Snowball Classic, defeated Linganore by six points, 80-74, back on December 12.

"It's a toss-up between Catonsville and Linganore as to which is probably the best team in the tournament, which is what will make this the premier holiday tournament in the area," Bosley said. "Plus it's a nice economic boost to the Oakland area since the Catonsville and Linganore players will be staying in local motels Friday night."

Preliminary Deer Kill Numbers Up Over Last Year

Preliminary results show that Maryland hunters killed 5 percent more deer during this fall's rifle firearms season as compared with the 1999 tally. Firearm hunters bagged a preliminary total of 42,850 deer compared with last year's tally of 40,706, according to the state's Department of Natural Resources.

Sportsmen and sportswomen in Garrett County killed 3,529 deer, an increase of 724 kills (more than 25 percent) over last year's figure of 2,805 deer.

"The increase is a result of a combination of factors, including the increasing size of the deer population, the recent liberalization of bag limits, and the quality of the effort of Maryland hunters," said Paul Peditto, Deer Project manager for DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Division.

The leading 10 counties in the state were: Allegany — 4,492; Washington — 3,990; Garrett — 3,529; Frederick — 3,279; Dorchester — 3,156; Carroll — 2,709; Kent — 2,030; Worcester — 1,894; Queen Anne's — 1,696; and Wicomico — 1,693. Hunters may register deer at check stations in adjoining counties; therefore, the final harvest by county is likely to change.

Maryland deer hunters spent an aggregate of 69,400 days afield hunting white-tailed deer during the two-week firearms season. The state's hunters rank deer population control, outdoor recreation, and food procurement as the three primary reasons they participate in the sport, mirroring national trends.

The state's muzzleloader deer hunting season reopened Saturday, Dec. 16, and continues through this Saturday, Dec. 30. For complete information regarding Maryland hunting seasons and regulations, interested persons may consult the DNR publication Hunting and Trapping in Maryland, 2000-2001, or the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.md.us.

Wolf Named MAC's Top Defender; Six Huskies Make MAC First Team

Northern High School outside linebacker Mark Wolf has been named the Defensive Player of the Year in the Mountain Athletic Conference for the 2000 varsity football campaign. For a relatively small linebacker (5-8, 195), Wolf distinguished himself on the field this season by accumulating team-high totals of 116 tackles (assisted and unassisted combined) and five fumble recoveries for the 8-3 Huskies, along with one interception.

The award was announced at the conference banquet, held recently at Bishop Walsh High School, where six of Wolf's teammates were singled out for MAC First Team honors: guard Toby Gilpin, fullback Bill Rodeheaver, halfback Rob Dozier, and cornerback Jeremy Frazee, all seniors, and defensive tackle Bryan Lenhart and kicker Trey Brenneman, both juniors.

A three-year starter, Wolf played the game with an intensity rarely matched at the high school level, according to NHS head coach Phil Carr. The NHS skipper attributed the Huskies' seven-game winning streak at the start of the season and upset playoff victory of #1-ranked Cambridge-South Dorchester in large part to Wolf's leadership. The linebacker was one of a trio of Northern team captains along with Gilpin and Rodeheaver.

Ram Grapplers Top Martinsburg, But Fall To North Hagerstown

The wrestling team of Southern High School hosted a tri-match on Saturday, and finished the day with a 39-24 victory over Martinsburg and a 34-25 loss to North Hagerstown. The split left the Rams with a 3-2 mark in dual meet competition.

Earning pins for the Rams against Martinsburg were Chris Hayhurst in the 119-pound division, Jason Weeks at 130, Nick Sines at 135, Keith Bennett at 152, and John Hayhurst at 189. Joe Ashby (125) won by decision, and Justin Gregory (112) was awarded a forfeit. Recording the Bulldogs' only pin was Travis Durst.

MARK WOLF

tains along with Gilpin and Rodeheaver.

Displaying an amazing capacity to play through pain, Wolf played through the later stages of this past season while plagued with a severe hip pointer injury. He also held down his starting linebacker and running back positions throughout the second half of the 1999 season despite a broken wrist. The pain Wolf bore did not compare to the punishment he meted out to his opponents, however, and his ferocious hits caught the attention of fans on a weekly basis.

"Mark was a very exciting player on both sides of the ball," commented Carr, noting that Wolf also led the Huskies in rushing with 1,343 yards for a 7.8-yard average per carry. "He not only did it on the field but in the classroom as well. I am very glad to have had

In the match against North Hagerstown, Gregory, Chris Hayhurst, and John Hayhurst all earned pins, while Weeks and Bennett were point winners. John Hayhurst, a defending state champion, has recorded pins in every one of his matches so far this season.

Gaining pin victories for North Hagerstown were Mike Wagner (103) and Steve Fravel (125).

The Rams, coached by Kurt Lear, will not compete again until the Garrett County Invitational, to be hosted by the Northern Huskies on January 6.

CARR SALUTED BY FSU ALUMNI ORGANIZATION — Northern High School varsity baseball and football head coach Phil Carr was honored at the Jim Anderson Alumni Breakfast, an annual event which recognizes distinguished Frostburg State University baseball program alumni. Carr received the Frostburg State Alumni Baseball Coach of the Year Award for leading the Husky baseball squad to a 13-5 record last spring and the 1999 NHS football team to an undefeated regular season. HALEY FARM B&B RECIPE PUBLISHED — A blueberry soufflé recipe creation of Garrett County resident Kam Gillespie, above, has been selected for inclusion in Refresh My Heart, a newly published book that features the favored recipes of Bed & Breakfast operations from across the country. The book is authored by Marie Jackson, who, after traveling across the country staying in numerous B&Bs, selected one recipe from one B&B in each state for publication. Gillespie and her husband Wayne own and operate Haley Farm Bed & Breakfast and Retreat Center, located on 85 acres just off Garrett Highway between Oakland and Deep Creek Lake. Her blueberry soufflé recipe appears below.

BLUEBERRY SOUFFLÉ

(Serves 10)
1-1/2 loaves of white bread with crusts cut off, cut into 1-inch cubes
1 carton of blueberries
16 oz. of cream cheese cut into small cubes
12 large eggs
1/2 cup maple syrup
2-3 cups milk

Arrange half the bread cubes in a buttered 13x9-inch glass dish. Scatter with cream cheese. Sprinkle blueberries over the cheese.

Arrange the remaining bread cubes over the blueberries. In a large bowl whisk eggs, syrup and milk. Pour this over the bread mixture and chill in refrigerator overnight. Bake the next day covered with foil in the middle of a preheated oven at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Remove the foil and cook 30 more minutes until puffy and golden. Don't let the bottom burn. Just like a soufflé this dish deflates quickly once the oven is turned off, or after you take it out of the oven, so serve immediately. Sprinkle with powdered sugar, and serve with maple syrup.

Grant Program For Low-Income Students Noted

Maryland has a scholarship for students whose families cannot afford to pay for college. Combined with the federal Pell Grant, it pays for the entire cost of attending a public college or university in Maryland, according to the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

The Guaranteed Access Grant helps families with very low incomes — less than $22,165 a year for a family of four, including income earned by student and parents, benefits, and Earned Income Credit.

"If you have the ability, we want you to go to college," said Karen R. Johnson, Maryland secretary of higher education. "We believe that students should not be disqualified simply because they are poor, and the Guaranteed Access Grant reflects Maryland's commitment to its citizens."

Johnson said that students can receive up to $9,000 a year, depending on which college they attend, and the scholarship can be renewed up to three times. The grant can be used at private colleges and universities, but the amount is capped at $9,000 a year.

There are several eligibility requirements —

• The grant is for full-time undergraduates going to college in Maryland, and students must start college within a year of graduation.

• Students must earn a minimum 2.5 grade point average in high school.

Kimberly Crosco Awarded Child Care Credential

Kimberly Crosco of Mtn. Lake Park has been awarded a Child Development Associate (CDA) Credential in recognition of outstanding work with young children.

dren. The credential was awarded by the Council for Professional Recognition in Washington, D.C., which represents the early childhood profession.

CDA is the only major national effort to improve child care by evaluating and recognizing the skills of individuals providing care. The first credential was awarded 25 years ago, and now 46 states plus the District of Columbia include CDA in their child care licensing regulations.

Parents who use child care are especially concerned today about their children's welfare, according to a CDA spokesperson. With this in mind, as part of the CDA assessment process, every candidate for the CDA credential is observed working with young children or families by an early childhood professional. In addition, the candidate must demonstrate the ability to work with families to develop children's physical and intellectual capabilities in a safe and healthy learning environment.

"The CDA credential is having a positive effect on the quality of child care. Its impact is evident in center-based care and home visitor programs as well as family child care, the most common form of care for children under 5 years old," the spokesperson said.

Crosco is presently employed with the GCCAC Head Start Program as a teacher at the Head Start Center located in Friendsville. She resides in Mtn. Lake Park with her husband Roger and their three daughters.

Child care staff and parents wanting information on CDA should write to the Council for Professional Recognition at 2460 16th Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20009-3575, or call 202-265-9090 or 1-800-424-4310.

Library Has New Software For Children

The Ruth Pinlow Library in Oakland has introduced a computer and software collection for children. The new computer station offers popular educational titles, such as Reader Rabbit's Preschool and Kaplan's Score.

Higher on the SAT and ACT.

The new software titles are for children and teenagers to use in the library for homework assistance and to gain computer skills. Youth should sign up at the information desk to use the new computer station.

The software collection is made possible by funding from the Garrett County commissioners and the Junior Woman's Civic Club.

Financial Aid Workshop Set At Southern High

A financial aid workshop will be offered Thursday, Jan. 4, at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria of Southern Garrett High School for seniors and their parents.

Margie Robison, financial aid officer for Frostburg State University, will explain how to complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) form, as well as answer questions about the financial aid process.

"This workshop is specifically aimed toward high school seniors and their parents," stated Beverly Sincell, SGHS guidance counselor, who will also be at the workshop to discuss information on scholarships and how the guidance office can assist families through the process of applying for college and for financial aid and scholarships.

Persons may call Mrs. Sincell at 301-334-1660 for more information.

Address Change Reporting To SS Made Easier

The Selective Service System has added a change-of-address page to its web site that will allow young men to update their registration information on-line. Federal law requires that young men, ages 18 through 25, notify Selective Service within 10 days of an address change. The addition of the new web page will make fulfillment of this legal requirement easier and more convenient.

"This initiative corre-

men the cost of first class postage to mail the change-of-address form.

Any man who is registered and was born after 1959 can update his address information by connecting to the Selective Service web site at www.sss.gov. He can click on a link to the "change of address" page, type his new information, click the Submit button, and be finished. He can also check a box if he wants to receive an updated acknowledgment card by conventional mail.

Federal law requires virtually all men to register with Selective Service within 30 days of turning 18. Each year, about 1.8 million men turn 18. All U.S. male citizens, no matter where they reside, as well as male non-citizens residing in the U.S., are required to register. Although late registrations are accepted, a man cannot register once he reaches age 26. Failure to register is a felony.

Moreover, Selective Service registration is linked to many benefits such as eligibility for federal student loans and grants, training programs under the Workforce Investment Act (WIA), federal jobs in the Executive Branch of the U.S. Government, and jobs with the U.S. Postal Service. More than half of the states have enacted legislation that links benefits such as state tuition assistance and eligibility for state jobs to registration. Also, Delaware and Oklahoma have legislation which connects Selective Service registration with a man's application for a driver's license. Additionally, male immigrants who are in the U.S. when they are 18 through 25 years old may be denied U.S. citizenship if they fail to register.

Although the U.S. relies on an all-volunteer military today, the Selective Service System and the registration program help America remain prepared to reinstate a timely and fair draft in a future crisis, should a draft become necessary, according to Coronado.

THE SUN — Sunlight hours start to slowly increase daily throughout January, starting at 9.4 hours on New Year's and growing to 9.8 hours at month's end. The sun's midday peak height creeps upward from 27 to 33 degrees (30 degrees is a third of the way up). Sunrise times ease slightly backward from 7:38 a.m. at New Year's to 7:26 at the end of January. Sunset times slide forward from 5:03 p.m. on January 1 to 5:36 on January 31.

In early January we are closest to the sun; the coldness at this time is due to the northern hemisphere being tilted away from the sun. On January 4, we will be 91.4 million miles from the sun, compared to our average distance of 93.0 million miles. In January the first view of the bright evening planets and stars will move from 5:40 to 6:15 p.m.

THE MOON — Early January features a half full moon in the evening sky (looks like a "D") that's great for crater spotting for any new telescope owners. The moon will nearly line up with the planet Saturn on the 5th and will appear below and to the left of the bright planet Jupiter on the 6th. The moon grows to full on January 9; this will be an especially bright full moon, owing to the moon being at nearly its minimum distance from the Earth being nearly at its minimum distance from the sun.

By mid January the moon will have shrunk to half full, shining in the early morning sky. A few days later the moon will appear near the planet Mars in the southeastern dawn. A week before January ends, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. Look for the crescent moon near the brilliant planet Venus in the southwestern dusk on January 28. January ends with the moon nearly half full in the southern dusk. The craters will again be easy to view with telescopes or powerful binoculars.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even the planet's light may flicker. Three of the five bright planets can be seen on December evenings. The brilliant planet Venus appears as the first bright point of light low in the southwestern dusk. In the southeast the bright planets Jupiter and Saturn are prominent in the east. Jupiter is the lower and brighter of the twosome.

JANUARY'S BEST SIGHTS — Orion the Hunter, the brightest star group, shines in the southeastern evening sky. Orion's most striking feature is his belt of three stars in a row. The belt points upward to Jupiter and Saturn. Above the belt is the pinkish star Betelgeuse. Below the belt is Rigel, Orion's brightest star. Later in the evening, the Hunter's belt points down and left to Sirius, the night's brightest star.

JANUARY ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES — The FSU Planetarium opens the New Year with "Calendars, Centuries, and the Millennium" on Sunday, Jan. 7, with free public shows at 1:30 and 7 p.m. Our program surveys time keeping, both ancient and modern. Also featured is a live tour of the current evening sky using our planetarium projector. Our programs are each Sunday in January at the above times. The planetarium is just off the front lobby of Tawes with nearby convenient parking.

The next meeting of the Cumberland Astronomy Club is set for 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 19, at the LaVale Public Library. All interested sky gazers are welcome to attend.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the planetarium at Frostburg State University. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask a sky question, call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFSU, Frostburg State's radio station, which transmits at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. Dr. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Oakland Man Nets Jail Term For Forgery

An Oakland man arrested in October in connection with a suspected forgery ring was sentenced to a month in jail during a recent Garrett County District Court hearing.

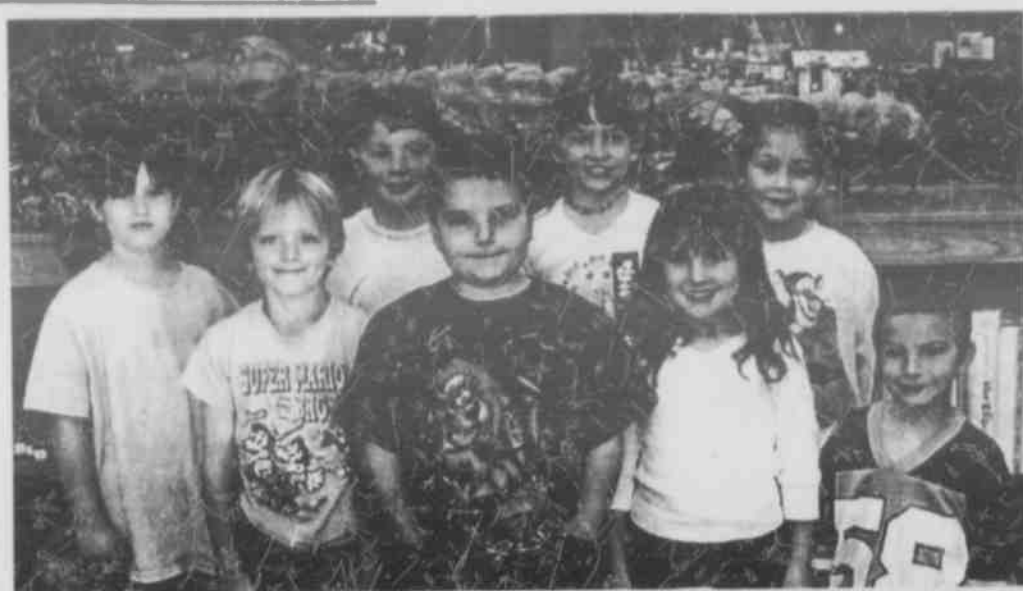

Leslie Allen Bittinger, 35, entered a guilty plea to a charge of uttering forged currency before visiting Judge Timothy Finan. Bittinger's arrest by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation came as he and two other county residents were accused of manufacturing counterfeit bills at World Wide Wireless, located in the Deep Creek Lake area, and using the fake bills to make purchases at several stores in the area. Bittinger initially faced additional charges of uttering forged currency, obtaining goods with forged currency, and conspiring to forge currency that were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

A Grantsville man was handed a suspended sentence after pleading guilty to misdemeanor theft.

Travis Lee Buckel, 21, had been arrested in May in connection with the August 1999 theft of a kayak from a Friendsville residence. Maryland state troopers also accused Buckel of defacing the craft's serial number and subsequently attempting to sell it.

Judge Finan handed Buckel a 10-day suspended sentence, levied a $255 fine, and imposed six months' supervised probation. An additional charge of obliter-

Five West Virginia men stopped by state troopers in a van along Interstate 68 and arrested on drug charges in August were handed varying sentences. The charges were filed after the arresting officer noticed the smell of burning marijuana coming from the van and located two bags of marijuana and several smoking pipes during a subsequent search.

Two of the passengers, Christopher Andrew Wilcox, 23, Gauley Bridge, W.Va., and Fred Lee Justice Jr., 22, Gassaway, W.Va., both pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and were each handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), fined $205, and placed on six months of supervised probation. Both men faced additional charges of possession of drug paraphernalia, which were not prosecuted.

The van's driver, Raymond Douglas Truluck, 23, Gassaway, and two additional passengers, James Robert Stokley, 23, Gassaway, and Harry Bruce Clark, 23, Montgomery, W.Va., were each handed stet rulings in connection with respective possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges. Truluck was also required to complete 30 hours of community service.

A trio of Pennsylvania residents pleaded guilty to drug charges, although all three avoided jail sentencing and fines. Twila J. Altman, 40, and Charles Blair Pfeil, 41, both of Manor, Pa., and Crystal J. Gerschenski, 30, Boynton, Pa., were each arrested by Department of Natural Resources park rangers in September after they were apprehended while smoking marijuana at a New Germany State Park campsite.

Joshua Powell Sherwood, 18, Crawley, W.Va., was handed a stet ruling in connection with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges. His October arrest by state troopers followed a traffic stop along I-68, when a vehicle search uncovered suspected marijuana, a smoking pipe, and a packet of rolling papers in the glove box of his car.

Frederick James Giotfelly, 30, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling on charges of second degree assault and resisting arrest along with a requirement that he complete 50 hours of community service. He had been arrested in March after a fight at Oakland's Aquarium Lounge Bar when a deputy witnessed him striking another subject.

Charges of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession were not prosecuted against Troy Lynn Myer, 25, Martinsburg, W.Va. His August arrest came in the wake of a traffic stop along Crellin Road after a search uncovered a bag of marijuana, a glass pipe, and rolling papers in his vehicle.

Several persons were deemed not guilty of these respective charges by Judge Finan: Harold Wilham Finzel, 33, Grantsville, second degree assault; Crissa Dawn Lahman, 24, Oakland, felony theft; and John William Hinebaugh, 32, Oakland, second degree assault (two counts) and resisting arrest.

DWI/DUI Hearings
A number of driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or DWI and was fined $400, handed a 60-day suspended sentence, and placed on 18 months' supervised probation.

Michael Paul Goodfellow, 60, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $455, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Jason James Bremer, 27, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $455, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Timothy Ray Nuzumi, 30, state of residence not available, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $355 by Judge Burnett, who also imposed a 30-day suspended sentence and one year of supervised probation.

David Ray Schillingburg, 23, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $300, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 60 hours of community service.

New Recruitment Effort Planned By Job Corps

Job Corps has launched a new recruitment campaign to attract more students to the newly enhanced training and education program for young people between the ages of 16 and 24.

According to a release from the Region 11 Office of Job Corps, the recruitment campaign highlights additions made to Job Corps' career training program. The new program elements are designed to better prepare students for the workplace. Students will work with a counselor to develop a personalized career plan to guide them throughout their training. Graduates are encouraged to enter meaningful careers and not just entry-level jobs. Necessary computer skills, resume writing, employability skills, and interview skills are taught in the first few weeks of the program.

In addition, counselors will provide support to graduates for one year after their first job placement as well.

Ram Kills Elderly Couple

(reprinted from the Maryland Sheep News)

A 250-lb. Suffolk ram killed an elderly couple in North Carolina. No one knows why the ram attacked the couple, but the couple's injuries were consistent with an animal attack. The wife, 80, was found dead in the pasture, about 100 feet inside the gate. The husband, 84, was taken to a nearby hospital where he died the following morning. The wife had a broken leg, a bite mark on her arm and several other injuries. She had recently undergone hip replacement surgery, and may have been tripped up when trying to help her husband, who suffered head and internal trauma. The ram had blood on its head, shoulders and back, consistent with butting. Blood was scattered around the pasture. Family members found the couple.

This is a very tragic story. What must be learned from it is that you NEVER turn your back on a mature ram.

While this incident may be very unusual, rams are noted to display very aggressive behavior during breeding season and have been known to attack and injure people. Tame rams may even be more of a threat, because they have no fear at all. It is natural behavior for a ram to want to protect his ewes during the "rutting" season.

Protein Tubs for Beef - Are They Worth It?

As cows come off pasture, they will be fed a variety of feedstuffs. Many times we see protein tubs, energy blocks or lick tanks used as supplements. Are these products cost effective?

If cows are eating a significant amount of hay during the winter, the answer is almost always "no." Most hay will adequately provide all the protein a cow needs. In fact, most self-fed hay diets contain much more protein than a cow can utilize.

Diets of cows being fed corn silage will almost always be protein deficient. Protein blocks, etc., can be utilized here, but soybean meal will almost always be more cost-effective. By-product feeds like soy hulls, corn gluten feed, and brewer's grains can be excellent ingredients in a winter cow ration. These products may be very inexpensive, and when utilized with a roughage source like corn stalks, straw or low quality hay, they can be very economical as well. A sample ration for a 1,200 pound cow in the last one-third gestation would include 6 lbs. mature grass, 3 lbs. cracked corn and 6.5 lbs. soybean hulls. The total cost is about $0.53/cow/day. This compares to a full ted hay diet at about $1.20/cow/day.

The protein blocks, etc., are very convenient, quality products. If this is important to you, they may fit when feeding low protein products like silage, corn stalks or straw. If you feed a balanced ration, the only supplement you need to feed free choice is a good salt-mineral mixture. If you want to become a high-profit, low-cost producer, the first step is to test your primary winter feedstuff (generally hay) and see if you need any supplement at all.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age or national origin.

Publication Lists Causes & Ways To Fight Silo & Haymow Fires

Fires in silos and haymows can be controlled and extinguished before a disastrous loss occurs if they are promptly discovered and the right actions are taken, advises experts from the Natural Resource, Agriculture, and Engineering Service (NRAES). Extinguishing Fires in Silos and Haymows, a completely revised and expanded publication from NRAES, explains the causes of silo and haymow fires, and teaches firefighters how to safely and effectively extinguish them.

The book starts out with a review of silo types. The approach to fighting a silo fire depends on whether the silo is conventional, oxygen-limiting, or modified, oxygen-limiting, so determining silo type is a crucial step. Line drawings are included to clearly illustrate the differences among the three silo types. Discussions about modified oxygen-limiting silos are new in this revision.

Most of the book focuses on the different techniques required to locate and extinguish fires in different silo types. Factors to consider at the fire scene (such as safety, time, exposure hazards, and toxic gases) and other important concerns (such as structural damage, fire-spread, and using industrial gases to extinguish a fire) are addressed as well. Fires in oxygen-limiting silos are particularly hazardous, and the book carefully reviews essential safety precautions required by these structures. Many of the book's 21 figures illustrate methods for locating fires in silos and proper extinguishing techniques.

The final chapter, new in this revision, describes the causes of and procedures for extinguishing fires in haymows and straw mows. The chapter alerts farmers and firefighters to common hazards of haymow fires, including burned-out cavities, sudden flare-ups, and toxic gas exposure. Two appendixes list proper hay- and silage-making methods, which are important in preventing fires in these materials.

The book is a complete revision of Extinguishing Silo Fires, which was first published by NRAES in 1982. The revision is 28 pages longer than the previous edition, includes updated and expanded information, and is better organized. The publication is written for firefighters but is also useful to farm operators, emergency medical personnel, extension educators, and silo manufacturers and dealers, as they may help in making decisions about extinguishing techniques or offer advice regarding fire prevention.

Extinguishing Fires in Silos and Haymows was revised by Dennis J. Murphy, professor in the Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering at Pennsylvania State University, and William C. Arble, P.E., Dr. Murphy consults nationally and internationally on farm safety education program development. Arble is president of APLITECH, a consulting firm in Spring Mills, Pa.

The publication, NRAES-18, can be ordered for $7 per copy plus shipping and handling from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701. Shipping and handling for one or two copies is $3.75 within the continental United States. All major credit cards are accepted, and checks should be made payable to NRAES. For more information or a free copy of a publications catalog, those interested may contact NRAES by phone at 607-255-7654, by fax at 607-254-8770, or by e-mail at nraes@cornell.edu. they adjust to independent living. The support will include additional job placement, if necessary, and guidance to include an array of support services in the community to encourage and help graduates gain independent living.

"Students will receive better jobs because they learned pertinent skills that employers are looking for," said Lynn Intrepid, Job Corps regional director. "By enhancing the program, students will receive jobs with greater long-term potential and a better future."

Job Corps offers students a variety of training opportunities in more than 30 career areas, such as carpentry, culinary arts, and health occupations. Students can also receive their GED or high school diploma. If students qualify, most centers offer advanced training at a local technical school or community college.

A primarily residential program funded by the Department of Labor, Job Corps provides room and board, meals, and medical care at no cost to students. Students enrolled in the program receive a biweekly living allowance. A portion of the allowance, up to $15, can be set aside for dependent support. The amount selected will be matched five times by the Department of Labor.

Job Corps Region II, headquartered in Philadelphia, administers 19 training centers and oversees outreach and career development activities for students in Delaware, the District of Columbia, Kentucky, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. Depending on career interest, Job Corps applicants usually enroll in a center closest to their homes.

For more information about joining Job Corps, persons may call 800-733-JOBS or visit the Job Corps Region II web site at www.jobcorpsregion2.com.

SHS Graduate Pursuing Air Force Career

Senior airman Randolph E. Kitzmiller, a 1997 graduate of Southern High School, has extended his enlistment with the U.S. Air Force after earning three promotions in his first three years of service. One of the youngest certified munitions inspectors in the entire USAF, Kitzmiller is stationed at the 424th Air Base Squadron, RAF Fairford, England, and is currently assigned to the inspection element at RAF Welford. The Oakland native intends to pursue a full military career.

In June 1999, while a crew member with the 36th Air Base Wing at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam, Kitzmiller was awarded the Air Force Achievement Medal for Meritorious Service. Among the accomplishments recognized in that citation were Kitzmiller's "exceptional technical knowledge [that] ensured the complete success of the first-ever overseas deployment of the B-2 stealth bomber," and "his aggressive attitude and dedication to duty were evident in the largest retrograde shipment of obsolete munitions in six years from Andersen AFB. The flawless operation of a 5-ton trailer and commercial forklifts ensured [that] this task was completed two weeks ahead of strict timelines, saving the Air Force $58,000."

In addition to his accomplishments in uniform, Kitzmiller is a certified scuba diver and an avid distance runner. He has been competing in a variety of running events over the past 1½ years, ranging up to 13.1-mile half-marathons. As he told Marauder, a British magazine that recently featured his entry in a half-marathon run for cancer research, he is a latecomer to distance running.

"When I was in high school (at Southern) I ran track," said Kitzmiller. "I was a sprinter and never ran anything but the 100- and 200-meter dashes. I always hated training days when we would run longer distances. While I was stationed at Guam (his first USAF assignment), I met a few distance runners and they talked me into running a 10-kilometer race. I placed fifth and was hooked." He has set a goal for himself of competing in a full 26.2 marathon.

Kitzmiller is the son of Libby and Randy Kitzmiller of Reedsville, W.Va., formerly of Oakland.

MLP Crime Watch Meeting Slated

The upcoming meeting of the Mtn. Lake Park Crime Watch group is set for 6 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 6, at the MLP town hall. The film Crime in the Streets will be shown at the meeting, and Garrett County sheriff's deputy Chris Helbig will be on hand to discuss the film and answer questions afterward.

Crime in the Streets is narrated by a reformed mugger and thief who takes the cameras on a tour of a city through the eyes of a criminal. He explains how viewers can "crime-proof" themselves throughout a variety of locations day and night.

Refreshments will be served at the meeting. The MLP town hall is located at the intersection of Maryland Highway and Alleghe-ny Drive. For further information, interested persons may call Lou DiCarlo at 301-334-8222.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Well, another Christmas has flown by, with all its attendant joys and stresses. It certainly was a white Christmas in Bittinger. If I trust my memory, I think that about 90 percent of my Christmas in Bittinger have been white. This year we will also include it in the white-out column. The wind drove the windchill temperatures way below zero. The winds felt like they were going about 50 miles per hour, and the college weather web site recorded a minus 44 chill one night.

I can remember being a child in weather like this and carrying water to the barn for the animals. The minute a little splashed out on your clothes it was instantly frozen. While it seems cold outside now, I don't think it compares to that type of weather. But it does have moments when it is unpleasant. Route 495 was almost closed to Christmas shoppers several times last week.

I was disappointed that on Christmas Day we had some heavy clouds, so our discussion on how to make a pin-hole viewer to watch the eclipse of the sun was pointless. The Christmas dinner at Pappy Dale's house included Ruth DiPaolo's hoard of kids, who finally got to do their cousin exchange. They handle this differently than we did as kids. Seems they always know who has their name, or have arranged in advance to trade for the name they want. We always kept it an absolute secret. Oh well, times change.

The night before Christmas we had dinner at Rodney and Marci Giotfelty's home. Then it seems we always are in a rush to get out of the house and into the stormy weather to attend the Christmas Eve service in the new church. I always love the candle lighting best, with the singing of "Silent Night." When you look at the refinished stained glass windows in the new church it almost feels like you are back in the old one. Leslie Buckle was sensational, as always, in her solo during the services.

But I get ahead of myself. The Sunday morning service featured the youth group doing a special musical offering for which they accompanied themselves with percussion instruments.

We were glad to see my brother Barry from Frederick, but missed his significant other, Lisa, who was in Frostburg visiting with her mom, Marge Sheirer, and her Uncle Tom Sluss, who was in the hospital for the holidays. I was so sorry to find out today that he died. It is always so hard to suffer losses of loved ones at this time of year.

Steve and Eileen Schlosnagle from Accident paid me a visit on Christmas Eve. Now, on the day after Christmas, I find myself waiting for my Aunt Helen Englar to come up. She is going to bring photos from her trip to Finland and Russia this summer. I hope the weather isn't too bad for her. I know she is eager to check out the progress on her son Courtney's new house in the Cove. He hopes to move in next month. I know he looks forward to birdwatching there in the spring.

Speaking of birdwatching, our winter birds are at the feeder nonstop, and are so fat and sassy. They don't seem to mind the cold or effects of the harsh weather. I especially love the titmouses. Every day my girls squeal, "Look how cute they are."

The whole Whittemore clan is here instead of celebrating the holidays in warm Las Vegas. What could they be thinking?

Today is a quiet day for me. Lloyd took the girls down to Margaret Hershberger Wagner's house to play with Natalie and Colleen McLister, who are up with their mother Ann.

I was glad when the wind blew in an old (or should I say long-time) Oakland friend to see me. Fran Otero Snatter brought Christmas cakes. She also stopped by to see John and Maggie Hockman and family on her way.

Just after Fran left, the wind blew in the most rare visitor, my friend Joe Volonakis, who is just back from Egypt. He and his sister Dorothy are on their way to visit his aunt in the hospital in West Virginia. He didn't stay long, but promises to stop on his way home.

I wish all of you a wonderful and safe new year, and a wonderful beginning to the new millennium.

St. Peter's Youth Dance Canceled

The St. Peter's Church holiday dance for middle school students, originally scheduled for this evening, has been canceled because of a water leak in the church's parish hall. A new date for the dance has not been set.

To Retire From Sheriff's Office

Capt. Donald W. Tucker is retiring from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after 26 years of service. Tucker's retirement marks the first time a sheriff's deputy has been able to retire under a full service retirement in Garrett County.

A 1969 graduate of Southern High School, Tucker joined the sheriff's office in 1974 as a clerk/dispatcher. He joined the ranks of patrol deputies shortly afterward, and earned a promotion to detective in 1985. One year later he was promoted to the rank of sergeant, and in 1991 he was promoted to lieutenant, both supervisory roles in the detective unit. Tucker graduated from the 170th session of the FBI National Academy, located in Quantico, Va., in 1992, and in 1993 he received his final promotion to the rank of captain and was re-assigned to the administration unit.

In addition to his studies at the FBI National Academy, over his career Tucker took classes through the University of Virginia and Garrett Community College.

Tucker resides in Loch Lynn with his wife Janice and stepdaughter, Stephanie Farber. His last day in a sheriff's deputy uniform was Tuesday, and he leaves the GCISO to embark on a second career as a contractual security clearance and background investigator with the U.S. Department of Defense.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

DCL LIONS CLUB ASSISTS SWANTON MAN — The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club obtained a Maxport System for Swanton resident Mike Winter shortly before Christmas. The Maxport System is a device that magnifies print for persons with age-related macular degeneration, a low vision condition which causes loss of vision for detailed seeing for tasks such as reading, writing, driving, and recognizing faces. The system will make everyday aight, which alighted people often take for granted, available to Winter for the first time in several years. pending on snow conditions) will be offered each day, Friday through Monday, every hour on the hour beginning at 11 a.m. and concluding with the 3 p.m. outing.

The daily programming list rounds out as follows:

Guided snowshoe hikes (weather permitting) will get under way at 10 a.m. Friday. A Scales and Tales program leads off Friday's slate at 1 p.m., and will be followed by a winter sun-catcher children's nature craft at 3 p.m.

Saturday's activities get under way with a winter lakeshore hike at 10 a.m. A "Living with Black Bears" program will be presented at 1 p.m., which will be followed at 3 p.m. with a "Reading Ranger" children's program.

The "Revealing Their Presence" winter track identification hike will lead off Sunday's activities. A 1 p.m. Scales and Tales program follows, and a snowy owl children's nature craft activity will be offered at 3 p.m.

The holiday week will conclude Monday with a 10 a.m. showing of the nature film Great Escapes.

Humane Society Seeks Temporary Foster Pet Homes

The Garrett County Humane Society, a local non-profit organization that seeks to provide homes for abandoned pets, is looking for volunteers to assist with its "Foster a Pet" program. The group has several cats and dogs that need temporary housing for a time period of participating homeowners choosing, and it is expected that the need will increase with the passing of the holiday season as pets given as gifts are abandoned by disinterested owners.

Potential foster pet home providers can expect to receive a home visit from current Humane Society volunteers, who will explain the program in detail and inspect the premises to ensure the safety of both the animal and the homeowner. Potential volunteers will be asked what size dog or cat they would be willing to house, and how long they would be willing to take care of the animal.

"The foster pet program will become an important part of our service to animals seeking adoption," Humane Society volunteer

Gayle Miller said. "It will help us with our bills, because we often have to pay out of very limited funds to have homeless animals boarded professionally." For further information interested persons may contact Miller at 301-387-4862.

NHS Names December Students Of The Month

The Northern High School Student Council and M&T Bank, Accident Branch, have recently announced the Students of the Month for December. They are Miriah Fletcher, Molly Wolf, Karla Buckel, and Brandon Hoover. Each student received a trophy from M&T Bank and the student council.

Miriah Fletcher, a freshman at Northern High School, is the daughter of Mel and JoAnn Fletcher of Frostburg. Miriah is a member of the NHS marching band, concert band, and the tennis team. She is involved with the Cornerstone Assembly of God Youth Group, and attends Cumberland's First Church of the Nazarene. Miriah's hobbies include AYSO soccer, playing the flute, singing, and acting. Sophomore Molly Wolf is the daughter of Michael and Linda Wolf of Friendsville. Molly is a member of the volleyball, varsity basketball, and track teams, girls' varsity club, and a Student Council representative. She attends the Asher Glade Church of the Brethren, where she is in the youth group. She is also involved with the Snowy Creek 4-H Club. Her hobbies include horseback riding, playing the piano, swimming, and shopping.

Other awards that Molly has received are Student of the Month, Student of the Year in ninth grade, Minds in Motion, Honor Roll, Rookie of the Year in track, and Most Improved Player in volleyball. Molly plans to attend college and go into the medical field.

Karla Buckel, a junior, is the daughter of William and Tina Buckel, Grantsville. Karla is a member of the volleyball team and mock trial team. She is the Bittinger Jr. Fire Department president and a member of the Bittinger Fire Department women's auxiliary. Her hobbies include playing the flute.

In addition to earning Honor Roll status, Karla has been selected for Who's Who Among American High School Students and has been recognized as Student of the Month. She also won the Minds in Motion award.

Senior Brandon Hoover is the son of Oliver Hoover and Marla Reams. His activities include co-editing the school paper and participating in mock trial and a cappella chorus, and he has been a peer mediator and a member of the tennis team.

Brandon attends the Maranatha Assembly of God, and works as a cook at the Hilltop Inn Restaurant. He said he enjoys hunting and fishing. Brandon has been recognized as a Maryland Distinguished Scholar, received the Principal's Leadership award, and been included in Who's Who Among American High School Students. In addition, Brandon was selected for Minds in Motion, Student of the Month, and as outstanding male of the year in 10th grade.

All students selected for Student of the Month are eligible for the Student of the Year award, and will be honored at the Northern High School honors banquet.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland hereby gives notice, pursuant to Article 23A, Section 2(24) of the Annotated Code of Maryland, of its intention to sell by private sale certain improved real estate located within the Town of Oakland, and known as the "Old Town Hall."

NOTICE IS ALSO GIVEN, that Ordinance No. 02000-02 has been introduced before the Town Council, authorizing the Town to sell the said Old Town Hall, and the real estate upon which it sits, consisting of 0.04 of an acre of ground, more or less, within the Town, more commonly known and designated as 109 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland, to Barry E. Sweitzer and Cristine Kepple-Sweitzer, his wife, under the terms and conditions set forth below, and that the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall hold a public hearing on said Ordinance on the 12th day of January 2001 at 1:00 p.m., at the Town Hall located at 15 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

A fair summary of the Ordinance is as follows:
An Ordinance authorizing the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland to deed to Barry E. Sweitzer and Cristine Kepple-Sweitzer, his wife, certain lands within the Town of Oakland, known as the Old Town Hall, consisting of 0.04 of an acre of ground, more or less, within the Town, more commonly known and designated as 109 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland, in consideration of the payment to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland by Barry E. Sweitzer and Cristine Kepple-Sweitzer, his wife, of a purchase price of Seventy-One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($71,500.00), to be paid in the following manner: (a) the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) to be paid on the date of execution of the Agreement of Sale dated December 20, 2000; and (b) the balance of Seventy Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($70,500.00) to be paid in cash or by certified or cashier's check on the date of closing; and said Ordinance declares said lands within the Town of Oakland to be no longer needed for any public purpose.

On or about May 13, 1992, the Mayor and Town Council adopted Resolution No. R92-08, declaring that said property was held by the Town of Oakland as business property, and not in public trust, and that the property was no longer needed for any public purpose in that the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland purchased new quarters for its Town Hall, and no longer needed the said Old Town Hall.

That this notice is intended to meet the requirements of Article 23A, Section 2(24), of the Annotated Code of Maryland, and to give notice of the public hearing on Ordinance No. 02000-02.

The full text of Ordinance No. 02000-02 is available at the Town Hall, Monday through Friday, during normal business hours.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption from tax sale on the following properties in Garrett County, State of Maryland, sold by Patty L. Glover, Collector of Taxes for the State of Maryland and the County of Garrett, to Plaintiff, Bid Low Inc. The parcels of land are described as follows:

Parcel 1: All that parcel of land assessed to William D. Rossos and Elvira Rossos, husband and wife, situate in Tax District No. 18, known and designated as Condominium Unit No. 43, building 7, Ski Harbor Condominium, and described in deed from Ski Harbor Associates Inc. to William D. Rossos and Elvira Rossos, husband and wife, dated January 26, 1989, and recorded January 31, 1989, in Liber No. 526, folio 422, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Parcel 2: All that parcel of land assessed to Richard L. Elliott, situate in Election District No. 17, containing 0.31 acres, more or less, and described in deed from Debby Lacy to Richard L. Elliott dated September 24, 1992, and recorded September 28, 1992, in Liber No. 591, folio 245, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Parcel 3: All that parcel of land assessed to Stephen S. Young, situate in Election District No. 14, known as and designated as Lot No. 8, Black Bear Forest, containing 14.06 acres, more or less, and described in deed from American Heritage Corporation to Stephen S. Young dated October 2, 1993, and recorded October 14, 1993, in Liber No. 614, folio 697, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The Complaint states among other things that the amount necessary for redemption has not been paid. The sale was on June 16, 2000, and more than six (6) months have passed since that date.

It is thereupon this 19th day of December 2000, that the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland:

ORDERED that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this order in one newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for three consecutive weeks, on or before the 12th day of January 2001, warning all persons interested in the property to appear in this Court by the 20th day of February 2001, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint or thereafter the final judgment will be entered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property and vesting in the Plaintiff to said property in fee simple, title free of all liens and encumbrances.

Columbia Gas Awards Grant For Chautauqua 2001

The Maryland Humanities Council has received a fourth consecutive corporate grant of $10,000 from Columbia Gas of Maryland. The contribution is to fund the annual "Chautauqua Maryland's History and Culture—Alive—Under the Stars" program.

The theme of the 2001 Chautauqua is "Creating a New Nation" and is a free, living history event that will take place July 5-13, 2001, at five community colleges in Maryland, including Garrett Community College.

The Chautauqua will be open to the public and will feature interactive historical characterizations of Abigail Adams, wife of one president and mother to another; Benjamin Banneker, the first African American man of science who was raised by Quaker mill owners in Maryland; George Washington, the nation's first president; and Phyllis Wheatley, a slave in Boston who became an internationally celebrated poet.

The Columbia Gas grant money came from its corporate giving program, which funds initiatives in education in the arts, English/literacy and history, community revitalization/historic preservation, and support of local United Way campaigns.

DNR Unveils Jr. Duck Stamp Design Contest

Maryland students from kindergarten through 12th grade have until March 15 to submit drawings for the Maryland Junior Duck Stamp Contest. The students are asked to create designs which feature any species of North American waterfowl, except mute swans and loons. The competition is sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Patuxent Research Refuge, Prince George's Arts Council and the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

"The Maryland Junior Duck Stamp Contest is a great opportunity for teachers and students alike," said Rich Dolesh, director of DNR's Forest Wildlife Heritage Division. "Public and private school teachers can utilize the Junior Duck Stamp curriculum to conduct classroom activities relating to conservation and wildlife art. Teachers also have the opportunity to combine art appreciation with environmental science and biology, and students can have fun learning about the native and migratory waterfowl while exercising their creativity. The contest makes learning fun, and it gives kids the opportunity to win great prizes."

The entries (only one per student) must be horizontal, no more than 9 inches by 12 inches, and are open to all art mediums. The Prince George's Arts Council will award the "best of show" entry a $100 U.S. Savings Bond, and advance it to the national contest to compete for a free trip for the student, with a parent and art teacher, to Washington and a chance to win a $2,500 cash award.

Judging, by age group, will take place at the National Wildlife Visitor Center at the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Laurel, on March 21. All first, second, and third place winners, as well as honorable mention recipients, will receive show ribbons and participation certificates. All first place winners will receive a $75 U.S. Savings Bond.

Maryland's 2001 winning entries will be exhibited at the Family Wildlife Festival at the Harmony Regional Center in Fort Washington on Saturday, March 24, and at the National Wildlife Visitor Center for the entire month of May. A grand awards ceremony will take place at the National Wildlife Visitor Center in Laurel on Saturday, May 12, and the winning entries will tour the state. The sites include the Ward Museum of Waterfowl Art in Salisbury, Havre de Grace Decoy Museum, and the 2001 Waterfowl Festival in Easton.

For more information and contest materials, interested persons may call 301-454-1461 or TTY 301-454-1472.
